6—In Memoriams

ARMSTRONG— In loving memory of Margaret Armstrong, who passed away November 16, 1943.
Five years have passed and gone
Since one we loved so well
Was taken from our home, on earth,
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The flowers we place upon our grave
May wither and decay,
But the love of her who sleeps beneath
Shall never fade away.
—Always remembered by her husband and family.

HOUGHTON, Arthur J. — In memory of Corp. J. Houghton, who passed away November 15, 1942.
—Remembered by Frank and Norma Jones.

HOCKADAY — In loving memory of Mrs. Mable Hockaday, who passed away, November 15, 1945.
Gone into that light that shines so fair,
Gone from the earth of sorrow and care,
Resting those hands that did their best,
Gone Dear Mable, gone to rest.
—Always remembered by mother, sisters and brothers.

SAGE, Mrs. William Webster— Who passed away Nov. 16, 1945.
Once more we hear death's angel step
Upon the path from Heaven
Swiftly he comes to execute
Jehovah's message given.
He makes the object of his love
And comes with silent tread;
He steps in stillness of the night
Beside the Christian's bed.
"Pilgrim, thy task on earth is o'er,"
He speaks in accent low;
"I'll carry thee to a better land,
—Ever remembered by his loving husband, Roy, Phyllis and Alan Sage.

Say Dec. 9 By-Election Chance To Rap Drew

BRITT, Ont., Nov. 15 (CP) — E. B. Jolliffe said Saturday night the Dec. 9 Parry Sound Ontario by-election will give electors "an opportunity to censure Mr. George Drew's disastrous meddling in Hydro affairs."

The Ontario CCF leader spoke on behalf of Roy Smith, CCF candidate in the by-election called to fill the seat vacated by the death of Charles Cragg, Progressive Conservative member elected in the June 7 election. Progressive Conservative candidate is Alex Johnston, of South River. The Liberals have nominated Dr. M. T. Armstrong who represented Parry Sound in the last legislature and was defeated by Mr. Cragg.

Mr. Jolliffe charged in a prepared address that Mr. Drew refused in 1943 to allow work to be started on the 400,000-horsepower Des Joachims Hydro-Electric generating plant on the Upper Ottawa River and that the present Ontario government had failed to prepare "any constructive plan for meeting this year's emergency."

First Local Hereford Sale Grosses $31,860 For Stuart

First auction sale Saturday of Old Orchard Farm Hereford cattle bred and owned by John Stuart, Jr., grossed $31,860 for 42 head. Eight bulls averaged $891 and 24 females $727.50.

The top price bull was No. 1 in the catalogue, Old Orchard Proud Mixer 2nd, bought at $2,050 for the Etnyre Inc. Ranch, owned by George Etnyre of Oregon, Ill. He was born in April last year. Second in the male group was O.O. Proud Mixer 8th, $1,400, bought by Homer Campbell of Clandonald, Alberta.

The highest price of the sale was paid by W. D. Crawford Frost, Nanton, Alberta, $2,100 for Old Orchard Gertie 2nd.

Second high in the female division was $1,550 by George Rodanze of Stouffville for the O.O. Hazel Girl 2nd.

O.O. Domino Lass went for $1,300 to F. W. Reichold of Jarvis, Ont.; O.O. Bonnie 2nd $1,200 and O.O. Puritan $1,100, to E. E. Downie of Wawanesa, Man.

Probably the most satisfactory feature of the sale to Mr. Stuart apart from its monetary returns, was the wide distribution of these blue blood Herefords in Canada. All but three of the 42 animals listed in the catalogue were purchased by Canadian breeders.

Twenty-five of the Old Orchard progeny remain in Ontario, six go to Alberta, another six to Manitoba and two to Quebec.

Three of them were bought by U.S. breeders, and an added four months old calf, O.O. Peggy 2nd, the baby of the auction, sold for $475 on the orger of Mrs. Margaret Long of Cresco, Pennsylvania.

Outstanding Sale

The sale was rated by visiting representatives of the agricultural press as one of the most successful and important of the year. Mr. Forrest Fenn of Kansas City, an associate editor of the American Hereford Journal, said it was the most outstanding first sale of any breeder he knew, and that opinion was concurred in by others.

Mos tof the cattle were sired by Wyoming Hereford Ranch Proud Mixer 12th or Wd. H. R. Monarch 60th, and represent the enterprise of Mr. Stuart in bringing to this country and particularly to this county some of the finest specimens of the white face breed on the continent.

The catalogue notation of WHR Proud Mixer 12th, born in May, 1942, indicates the quality Mr. Stuart sought when he planned an O.O.F. herd.

"Mixer 12th was sold originally by WHR to Wm. MacKay, Roscoe, Montana, where he left an outstanding calf crop before the herd was dispersed. He was bought back by WHR to be used in their herd from where he was purchased by us."

An accumulation of young cattle recommended the sale. It was held in a new barn which was commodiously and comfortably equipped for the day. Tiers of seats were arranged on two sides, and the sales ring was brightly lighted. Some of the spectators found high and gallery accommodation on piles of baled hay at one end.

Col. Wm. O'Neil of Denfield, Ont. was auctioneer. He is remembered in Peterborough in connection with the O'Neil Herefords that used to be shown here at the Exhibition. Mr. E. V. O'Toole of Peterborough was sales clerk.

Prof. W. G. Knox of the animal husbandry department of Ontario Agricultural College bought a yearling heifer for the College, O.O. Ruby Gem 3rd at $525.

Col. F. E. Birdsall of Asphodel township bought one of the three polled yearlings heifers entered in the sale by Mrs. Stuart. He paid $500 for New Orchard Lula Woodrow 2.

Got A Bargain

John Byrnes, Napanee, RR 7, got a bargain, in Mr. Stuart's estimate, when his $500 bid brought him O.O. Proud Mixer 9th.

Accepted bids for the other males were: S. M. Newcombe, Northwood, Ont., $775; James A. Sibbald, Leith, Ont., $750; Cochrane Bros., Cobourg, $500; Lorne Miller, Sunderland, $500; and George Kennedy of Lucknow, Ont., $650.

Sales in the female division included: O.O. Miss Mixer, in calf to O.O. Monarch, a son of W.H.R. Monarch 60th, to Dr. C. Gooch of Hamilton, who has a farm near Dundas, $1,000.

O.O. Flashy Ann 2nd, bought for $850 for the Etnyre Inc. Ranch, Oregon, Ill.

Miss Monarch Domino, 10th, $850, to E. S. Downie, Wawanesa, Man.

O.O. Sister 3rd, $650, to B. A. O'Brien, Kincora Farms, Meach Lake, Que.—O.O. Emily, $590, John Beatty, Rembey, Alta.

O.O. Flashy Ann, $800, Hagan Bros., Caledonia, Ont.—O.O. Caroline 2nd, $650, T. J. Scott, Ninga, Alta.

O.O. Leone 2nd, $500, R. O'Riordan, Madoc.—O.O. Judith 2nd, $600, W. J. White, Claremont.—O.O. Elaine Girl, $500, Edmund Reavie, Flinton, Ont.

O.O. Ruby Gem 2nd, $450, Henry Wheeler, Hillsburg, Ont.—N.O. Lady P. Dominion (polled) $475, Mrs. M. Long, Cresco, Pa.—N.O. Lady AA (polled) $850, W. D. Crawford Frost, Nanon, Alta.

O.O. Joan 4th, $75, A. Bowen, Valentia, Ont.—O.O. Jarvis Lass 2nd, $460, A. Bowen.—O.O. Jarvis Lass 3rd, $475, A. G. Foster, Cameron, Man.

O.O. Rose Tints, $725, Kincona Farms, Meach Lake, Que.—O.O. Rexana, $500, Harold Hawthorne, Forest Falls, Ont.—O.O. Nancy 3rd, $460, Mrs. M. Long, Cresco, Pa., later bought by Coy O'Neil.

O.O. Elaine 2nd, $675, J. M. Collins, Darlingford, Man.—O.O. Irene 2nd, $400, Charles Dalton, Uxbridge.—O.O. Miss Mixer 2nd, $525, Chas. Dalton.—O.O. Sylvia 2nd, $550, Earl Harrison, Queensville, Ont.—O.O. Hazel 3rd, $900, Warren Smith, Olds, Alta.

O.O. Caroline 3rd, $500, J. R. Nokes, Manilla, Ont.; O.O. Super Star 2nd, $500, E. Harrison.—O.O. Sister 4th, $550, R. G. Foster, Carman, Man. Twenty-five of the females were in calf.

Among visiting breeders were: Wayne Purdy, manager of the Jenson Hereford Farms, one of the biggest in Michigan, and his brother Dick Purdy, manager of Crapo H.F., the oldest Hereford herd on the continent.

Another was Allen Rush, manager of Highpoint Farms, Michigan, owned by Edward Fisher of the automobile body family.

Birth Briefs

LONDON, Nov. 15—(CP)—The arrival of Britain's new Prince to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip ousted Princess Margaret as second in succession to the throne. She moved to third place, followed by the King's brother, the Duke of Gloucester, as fourth.

No extra financial provision will be made for the child until he becomes 18. Princess Elizabeth now receives £40,000 ($160,000) annually and Prince Philip £10,000 ($40,000) from state funds.

The birth crowded most other news from Britain's morning newspapers, but the Communist Daily Worker did not give it a single line. The Daily Graphic dropped all its advertising and devoted six of its eight pages to the birth.

The beautiful Church of St. Mary Magdalene in Sandringham, the King's favorite country estate, probably will be the scene of the christening. The Royal Family usually spends Christmas at Sandringham. Elizabeth and Philip are expected to go there in mid-December for the Yule season. The Archbishop of Canterbury is expected to officiate at the christening, aided by the Archbishop of York.

In Buckingham Palace, the baby had a more elegant birthplace than either his mother or father. Elizabeth was born in her maternal grandfather's private home in London's Mayfair district. Philip was born in a private establishment on the Island of Corfu.

60 Witnesses To Testify In Water Case

WINDSOR, Nov. 15 — (CP) — Sixty witnesses from many Ontario points have been lined up for the first Canadian hearings of a Canada-United States investigation into pollution of border waters, to be held here November 17-20.

The investigation is being conducted by the International Joint Commission, which has jurisdiction over boundary waters, on a joint reference from the two governments. It opened in 1946.

Waters under investigation in the current series of hearings are the St. Claair River, Lake St. Clair and the Detroit River. Later sessions at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., will deal with St. Mary's River from Lake Superior to Lake Huron.

The Windsor hearings, which will be preceded by a two-day meeting at Detroit to-day and to-morrow, will take evidence concerning industrial and other wastes disposed of in the waters under investigation, and the measures taken in various localities to prevent pollution.

At the end of the inquiry, the Commission is to make recommendations aimed at maintaining the purity of the border waters. Under the treaty covering them, no boundary water may be polluted on either side to the "injury of health or property" on the other side.

Similar Investigation

Several years ago the Commission made a similar investigation that resulted in purification measures being taken. The new inquiry has resulted from the enlarged industrializiation of localities in the border area.

A nine-man board of technical advisers has been set up to aid the Commission, with members representing the Canadian and US Fderal Governments, the province of Ontario and the State of Michigan.

Ontario representatives on the board are Dr. A. E. Berry, Toronto, director of the Sanitary Engineering Division of the Ontario Health Department, and A. V. DeLaporte, Toronto, chemist in charge, Sanitary Engineering Division.

Witnesses to be heard in the Windsor sessions include spokesmen from Sarnia, Chatham, Wallaceburg, Windsor, Walkerville, Amherstburg, Tilbury, Toronto, Fort William, Port Dover, and several smaller communities.

Says Government Housing Being Co-ordinated; Don't Plan Subsidies Yet

St. Laurent Says No More Homes Built If Ottawa Aided Cost; May Impose Controls At Later Date

OTTAWA, Nov. 16—(CP).—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Monday the point had not yet come in housing construction where Government subsidies were needed to sustain it. So far, he told a press conference, lack of money was not holding back building. All possible manpower and material was going into it. In fact, the Defence Department had not been able to spend all the money allotted to it for married quarters.

Mr. St. Laurent was first asked what his views were on subsidized low-rental housing. He said it depended on what the term meant. If it came to the point where lack of money was an impediment to construction he would be prepared to consider the question.

Some people thought if the government would pay a share of building costs, more homes would be built. He didn't agree.

There might come a time when government funds would be the answer, but that time had not come. The high costs so far were not retarding construction.

All government housing was being co-ordinated, including defence building, and this agency would determine where and how its construction should go forward in fairness to all. It might be that controls could dictate the building of two $6,500 homes instead of one $13,000 home but there had been no decision that any controls of that kind were planned.

There might be something to be said for preventing the well-to-do from getting new houses but the situation now was that all possible construction was going forward. Every home was being filled and each one meant one less looking for a home.

All Going Well With Princess Relatives Visit

LONDON, Nov. 16—(AP)—All was reported well today with Princess Elizabeth and her new son as relatives gathered to peek at the two-day-old Prince who may be Britain's next king.

Buckingham Palace spread this good news in the third bulletin issued by Royal physicians since the infant's birth Sunday night: "Princess Elizabeth has had a good night and is making excellent progress," said the report issued at 11:15 a.m. (6:15 a.m. EST). The infant Prince continues to do well."

The Princess was permitted to have her baby with her for a short while Monday.

There was no indication how soon she would be up. Elizabeth always has enjoyed exceptionally good health and some sources believe her stay in bed will not be prolonged.

As for the yet-unnamed baby, doctors' opinions were not needed to persuade those who saw him that he was a "model" prince.

The youngest caller at the Palace Monday was six-year-old Prince William of Gloucester who trooped in with his mother, the Duchess of Gloucester. He bore a gift of red roses and letter he had written to his 22-year-old cousin, Elizabeth. William was a page at the royal wedding last year.

At the other extreme was 81-year-old Queen Mother Mary, who spent two hours at the Palace. A great-grandmother for the first time, she was the first visitor after Sunday night's momentous announcement.

Strike Blockades Fleet 'Queens'

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP).—The queens of the British and American passenger fleets were dockbound today as a wage strike blockade of east-coast shipping grew tighter.

The United States Lines' SS America, pride of the United States merchant marine, was held in port here instead of sailing today for Europe. Hundreds of prospective passengers were stranded in hotels.

Tomorrow's scheduled sailing of the Cunard White Star Liner Queen Elizabeth from Southampton was cancelled. The world's biggest passenger ship, booked with 2,000 persons bound for New York, was to have docked at Halifax.

Postponement of the Queen Elizabeth's sailing was announced Monday night, shortly after Longshoremen at Halifax decided not to handle any more ships diverted to their port because of the Longshoremen's strike along the United States seaboard between Portland, Me., and Hampton Roads, Va.

Canadian affiliates of the striking International Longshoremen's Association (AFL) said the same decision would affect the ports of Montreal and Saint John, N.B.

Auctioneer Taken To Newark For Trial

BUFFALO, N.Y., Nov. 16 (AP) —Harold A. Brand, 59, Atlantic City, N.J., auctioneer arrested recently in Niagara Falls, Ont., was taken to Newark, N.J., today for trial on charges of violating the United States National Bankruptcy and Stolen Property Acts.

He had been held in the Erie County jail in lieu of $25,000 bond since his arrest Nov. 4 in Niagara Falls. He waived extradition.

Brand disappeared last Jan. 26. Soon after, his auction house was declared bankrupt with liabilities totalling about $150,000.

He was arrested by Niagara Falls police on a charge of false registration at a hotel. They reported he had registered as Henry A. Bond, Longport, N.J., and had failed to pay a $60 hotel bill.

Did Russia Order Strikes? France Wants To Know

PARIS, Nov. 16—(AP).—Did Russia give the order for the costly strikes in France this autumn? The French parliament reconvenes today and that is one of the first questions it wants answered.

Before the National Assembly, parliament's Lower House is a motion for a debate on the government's charges that Russia did push the button for the strikes.

Premier Henri Queille and Interior Minister Jules Moch have said that the Soviet Union, acting through the Communist International Information Bureau, ordered the strikes in an attempt to wreck the European recovery program.

The parliament's upper house, the Council of the Republic, will take a back seat to the National Assembly for a few days at least.

Get Largest Number

Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Rightist party obtained the largest number of seats in the council in recent elections.

Only after the Assembly begins passing legislation over to the council can the De Gaullists begin to show their strength. By law they cannot veto the Assembly's Bills, but by repudiating them can force the Assembly to vote again on them. Readoption by the Assembly requires an absolute majority.

Because of the great number of parties in the National Assembly, it is difficult for the government to win an absolute majority.

Lindsay Plant Averts Strike

LINDSAY, Nov. 16 (Staff). — Strike at the Knitters Ltd. plant at Lindsay was averted at the deadline set by the union Monday when the company agreed to its demands for bonus and piecerate increases. The agreement, which was ratified by the workers at a meeting Monday night, includes a 4-cent-an hour cost of living bonus, retroactive to September 1. An increased scale of piecework rates, up to 25 per cent is made retroactive to March 1.

About 65 persons employed in the plant are affected. The agreement had been first suggested in September by a coalition board of the Provincial Department of Labor. When the company did not comply, the union set a deadline of 2 p.m. Monday, threatening to strike if the conditions were not met.

Negotiations for the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO-CCL) were Walter Miner, president of the Lindsay local, and Edward Plunney, assistant director of the Canadian union. Manager J. G. Sabourin represented the company.

Security Curtain Drawn Over Conference With Eire

PARIS, Nov. 16 (CP) — The Eire delegation today clamped a rigid security curtain over talks with representatives of Britain, Canada, Australia and New Zealand on the future of Eire in the Commonwealth.

Emerging from a two-hour parley, Foreign Minister Sean MacBride of Eire told reporters: "We're not talking—that's all."

The talks will continue this afternoon and will finish then because some of the Eire delegation must return home tomorrow.

Australia's Dr. Herbert Evatt chairman fo the U.N. Assembly for this session, was host at this morning's meeting.

Britain was represented by Lord Chancellor Jowitt; Canada by L. B. Pearson, Minister for External Affairs; New Zealand by Premier Peter Fraser; and Australia by Evatt and J. A. Beasley, High Commissioner in London.

The subject under [illegible] the exact status of Eireann citizens resident in the British Commonwealth after Eire has severed her last link with the British Crown by the repeal of the External Relations Act, expected tomorrow.

MacBride said Monday that Eire's secession was almost an accomplished fact.

It was learned here that the meeting would go through the findings of the law officers of the Crown on the consequences of Eire leaving the Commonwealth.

What these detailed findings were was not made known, but it was made clear that they covered:

1. People born in Eire and now working in Britain and enjoying British status would become aliens, with all the consequences involved.

2. Eire would automatically lose her preferential position inside the Commonwealth with regards to trade.

U.N. Orders Armistice In Palestine

Russia And Ukraine Abstain From Vote; Effective Immediately

PARIS, Nov. 16 — (CP). — The United Nations Security Council to-day ordered Arabs and Jews to establish an immediate armistice in Palestine.

The Council's order said an armistice would "facilitate the transition from the present truce to a permanent peace in Palestine."

The Council voted on the resolution in sections. Russia and the Soviet Ukraine abstained.

Previously, the Council rejected a Russian proposal calling for the immediate establishment of a formal peace.

Submitted by Canada

The resolution adopted was submitted by Canada.

Under the Council order, Arabs and Jews should negotiate directly or through the acting mediator:

"(A) The delineation of permanent armistice demarcation lines beyond which the armed forces of the respective parties shall not move;

"(B) Such withdrawal and reduction of their armed forces as will ensure the maintenance of the armistice during the transition to permanent peace in Palestine."

Prior to the vote, Aubrey S. Eban, Israeli representative at the United Nations, said that the Canadian resolution supports the position of the Israeli government.

Wants Authority

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, the Canadian delegate, said Dr. Ralph Bunche, acting UN mediator for the Holy Land, would be authorized to enforce the demilitarized zones proposed in the resolution.

McNaughton said the acting mediator had that authority. He added that the Canadian resolution in its preamble stated that the operative provisions would be "without prejudice to the actions of the acting mediator regarding implementation of the Security Council resolution of Nov. 4."

As the Nov. 4 resolution contained the concept of demilitarized zones, said McNaughton, this method for the "further development of the truce and the prevention of fighting is a method which remains open to the acting mediator."

"The acting mediator must not be deprived of any mechanism or authority which has been given him by the Security Council to restore peace in Palestine," McNaughton said.

McNaughton said the resolution demands that "an armistice shall be established." The same resolution explicitly stated that such an armistice would be established by direct or indirect negotiations.

Drew Challenges Howe To Debate

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—(CP).—George Drew, National Progressive Conservative leader, said Monday night he would challenge Trade Minister Howe to meet him on "the public platform" and debate Ontario's Hydro shortage.

He was commenting on Mr. Howe's speech in London, Ont., Saturday in which Federal Trade and Commerce Minister said the power shortage was a "man-made calamity" and the man responsible for it "is the present leader of the Progressive Conservative party at Ottawa, Mr. George Drew."

In a prepared statement Mr. Drew said Mr. Howe's speech was a "low and unprincipled attempt to play dirty politics with a situation which affects every worker, every home and every producer in Ontario."

He said he would meet Mr. Howe "anywhere . . . in Ontario where a radio hookup can carry our words to the people of every part of the province. In that way they will learn what the facts really are and how to judge his reckless effort to sabotage the fine spirit of co-operation which had been shown everywhere since the lowest water levels on record in Ontario and Quebec created the serious and unavoidable shortage of electricity."

LOUIS ST. LAURENT, Canada's second French-speaking Premier, was sworn in as Canada's Prime Minister Monday afternoon. Immediately following he held a press conference.

Evacuate China U.S. Warning To Nationals

NANKING, Nov. 16— (AP). — The Chinese government claimed a major victory on the Suchow front tonight to climax a confused day which still left the final outcome of the battle for the approach to Nanking in doubt.

Pro-government newspapers splashed their buildings with red posters and exploded firecrackers to call attention to placards announcing the Communists had been routed northeast of Suchow and were withdrawing northeastward.

That news, circulated by the Defence Ministry's official military news agency, was in direct contrast to the generally accepted reports from other sources that the government control of the whole Suchow area was tottering.

The United States Embassy warned some 7,000 Americans to get out of China now or risk "hazardous conditions."

More than 100 British and other foreigners are expected to join Americans this week-end when a second evacuation ship leaves Nanking.

The government's return to the regular rationing of rice has considerably eased the food problem.

United States Embassy dependents are being evacuated immediately. The Embassy said the majority would go to Manila to await "clarification" of the Chinese situation.

'Little Six' Compromise Not In Draft Stage Yet

PARIS, Nov. 16 — (CP) — The latest compromise proposals of the "Little Six" countries in an effort to break the Berlin deadlock are tentative and informal and have not reached the stage of approval or disapproval by the six countries involved, it was learned today.

The proposals drawn up by the "Little Six" members of the United Nations Security Council, including Canada, are so tentative that no formal draft has been prepared.

Informed sources said it would be "irresponsible" to describe the proposals as a plan drafted in concert by all the so-called neutrals on the Security Council. These countries are Canada, Argentine, Belgium, China, Colombia and Syria.

It is understood that Foreign Minister Juan Bramuglia of the Argentine submitted the proposals personally Monday night at a Little Six meeting with understanding that the other five countries would think them over and report later whether they approve or disapprove.

The tentative plan was said to provide for:

1. Lifting of all travel restrictions on motor roads in Berlin—but not on the railways or canals—within 48 hours after receipt of the communications to the governments involved.

2. Lifting of the railway and canal restrictions by stages alone with negotiations on the currency issue which are to begin as soon as the highway blockade is lifted.

3. Travel restrictions are to be lifted entirely and the currency problem is to be settled simultaneously Dec 20.

Russia Must Lift Blockade Before Negotiations; Doesn't Plan Stalin Visit

Soviet Government Insists On Discussing Whole Question Of Germany In Any Talks With West On Berlin

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 16—(AP).—President Truman said flatly today the United States will not resume four-power negotiations on Germany until Russia lifts its Berlin blockade. At the same time, he told a press conference that he will review the entire international situation with State Secretary Marshall at the White House Nov. 22.

Truman made it clear that:

1. He has no plans for a meeting with Stalin. He said he will not leave Washington for such a conference, but that his invitation to Stalin to visit Washington still stands.

2. He has no plans to send an emissary to Moscow to talk with Stalin.

Russia Stands Pat

LONDON, Nov. 16—(CP).—The Russian government declared today it still insists on taking up the whole question of Germany on any negotiations with the West on the Berlin crisis.

The Soviet position was stated in a reply to suggestions by two United Nations officials, Secretary-General Trygve Lie and Assembly president H. V. Evatt, that the Big Four end the Berlin crisis in the interests of world peace.

Moscow radio said the reply was delivered to the United Nations in Paris by the Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, Andrei Vishinsky.

"The Soviet government has directed me (Vishinsky) to transmit to you its following reply to your letter of Nov. 12.

"The Soviet government thanks you for endeavoring to straighten out existing differences."

Already Sent Note

The Soviet government had already on Oct. 3, sent a note to the United States of America, Great Britain and France in which it proposed to recognize the directive agreed upon by the supreme commanders in Berlin on Aug. 30, an agreement between the USSR, USA, Great Britain, and France for the settlement of the Berlin question.

"At the same time the Soviet government proposed the convention of the Council of Foreign Minister to discuss the position in Berlin and the question of Germany as a whole in accordance with the Potsdam decisions.

"The Soviet government still remains on the same mind.

"The Soviet government shares your opinion that the solution of the Berlin question will have a definite influence in the cause of the settlement of other questions such as Germany, Austria and Japan.

"The Soviet government also shares your opinion about the importance of personal contacts and mutual trusts between the leaders of the states in the cause of the improvement of relations."

Store, Garage Razed By Fire At French River

FRENCH RIVER, Nov. 16 — (AP) — A general store and garage in this resort town, both owned by Hindle Brothers, were completely destroyed by fire this morning. Estimate of the damage was not immediately available, but is expected to run into thousands of dollars. No one was injured.

The fire broke out in the store about 9:30 a.m. At last reports, the two buildings were still burning, but the flames were sufficiently under control to prevent spreading to adjacent buildings.

A gasoline tank and pump between the store and garage, did not explode. Water was continuously poured on these to prevent a blast that would have rocked the community.

Three cars were in the garage when the fire broke out. These were rolled out of the building to safety. All garage equipment was lost.

Included in the loss were living quarters, attached to the store. All personal effects of five persons living in the rear of the store were said to be a total loss.

The garage and store were bought just a little over a month ago by Hindle Brothers from Gordon McLeod, of Parry Sound.

The fire-razed structures are close to the French River bungalo camps, but a favorable wind aided firefighters in preventing the flaze from spreading beyond the store and garage.

MargarineRuling Delayed Again

OTTAWA, Nov. 16 (CP)—The Supreme Court margarine decision has been delayed again.

Expected this week, the judgment on the validity of parliament's ban on the butter substituts has been deferred by a continuing heavy roll of court cases.

Court sources say the judgment now may be brought down next week but even this new date is tentative.

The Supreme Court heard argument on the constitutionality of the prohibition early in October. The legislation prohibits the importation manufacture and sale of margarine in Canada. It adopted 67 years ago.

Find Flying Fortress Passengers Unhurt

MANILA, Nov. 16—(AP).—The United States Air Force announced today a Flying Fortress which had been missing on a flight from New Guinea to the Philippines had been located.

None of the 12 persons aboard was severely hurt, the Air Force said.

The B-17 was sighted first by a Philippine Airlines commercial transport on the shore of Little Alibijaban Island, just north of the east coast of Bondoc Peninsula in Southern Luzon and at the approximate location given by an SOS picked up earlier today.

The plane which sighted the survivors reported the Flying Fortress had been ditched in 10 feet of water just off the island.

The Air Force announced meanwhile in Tokyo that it had abandoned search for a B-29 Superfortress which has been missing since Nov. 6, with 12 men aboard.

Toronto Urges Ottawa Name Power Manager

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—(CP).—The Toronto City Council, seeking an increased Hydro quota for Toronto, wants the Federal government to appoint a power controller for all Ontario to ensure fair distribution of shrunken supplies of electricity.

The council made its request after a six-hour discussion on Hydro problems Monday night. Mayor Hiram E. McCallum contended that Toronto, as a supply centre for many other communities, deserved special consideration in its power allotment.

The Toronto council discussion came at the end of the day on which Ontario's capital and largest city standardized its three-a-day week-day cutoffs so that the power is interrupted in all sections simultaneously.

The downtown area served by the Hydro's "network system" still is exempt from cutoffs due to technical difficulties in arranging the breaks. But it was announced Monday night that power cuts will start in that area, too, in 10 or 12 days.

Mayor McCallum said he felt Provincial Hydro engineers should have made provision for possible shortages by constructing steam generating plants for use throughout the province.

"Our industry in Toronto feeds a number of other industries throughout the country," he said.

AT QUEEN'S PARK in Toronto, 25-pounder howitzers fired a 21-gun salute in honor of the new royal prince born to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip on Sunday. Salutes of 21 guns were fired throughout the far-flung British Commonwealth and Empire.

THE POWER SCORE

Peterborough power use at the week-end was: 218,000 kwh Saturday and 140,000 Sunday. Those two days do not count much in Hydro reckoning so it appears. What counts is the use of power Monday to Friday inclusive. So, another week begins today. And this caution applies to everybody, save electricity and let us all keep out of the candle and coal oil market.

He spoke on the thousands of underprivileged children in the world and the extent to which Lion clubs were helping to relieve their plight.

Speaking of intolerance in the world today, he told of a happening in a nearby city. Two European men from the same small village, and working side by side each day at the same job, have not spoken to each other in five years. The cause is that one is a Protestant and the other is a Catholic.

He met Melvin Jones, "who first conceived Lionism." Senator Cleghorn, a high ranking Lion, and several Chinese in Madison Square Garden who believed in many Confucius sayings.

French-Speaking Prime Minister Takes Office

OTTAWA, Nov. 16 —(CP)—A new political dynasty took root in Canada today.

The Dominion had its second French-speaking prime minister in Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, and it had two new ministers bringing a blend of youth and experience to the cabinet.

It had witnessed the end of an unparalled epoch in the public life of the commonwealth — the retirement of William Lyon Mackenzie King, worn with more than 21 years in office and the guiding of his country through war and its aftermath.

Quietly and unobstrusively, Mr. King bowed out Monday, handing over office to the 66-year-old Quebec lawyer whom he had hand-picked as his successor years ago and who was elected Liberal leader at the party's national convention in August.

The slender, effervescent Mr. St. Laurent promptly injected new blood into the cabinet with the entry of Stuart Garson, 49, former Manitoba premier, as justice minister and R. H. Winter, Commons member for Queens-Lunenburg, as minister of reconstruction and supply.

Youngest Member

At 38, with little more than three years of politics behind him, the towering new reconstruction minister became the cabinet's youngest member. He was quickly handed one of its toughest—and most thankless—jobs by being put in charge of all federal housing activities.

Both the appointments had been in the making foor months. Mr. Garson quit his premiership at the federal government's request to take over the justice portfolio from Mr. St. Laurent himself. Mr. Winters, who has been transport parliamentary assistant, fills the Nova Scotia portfolio vacant since Rt. Hon. J. L. Ilsley resigned as justice minister in July.

A good-sized shuffle — almost tantamount to the creation of a new portfolio — was involved in Mr. Winters' entry. He took the name of the reconstruction portfolio and some of its functions from Trade Minister Howe, but he also was given the Dominion Government travel bureau from the trade department itself, and the National Film Board from the revenue department.

In addition, he was placed over the government's "rainy day" program of public works.

Real Drama

But despite the new lineup of the cabinet and even the accession of the new leader, the real drama of the day, unspectacular as it was, revolved around the plump little man who was bowing off the centre of the stage.

A lonely man to the finish, his only companions were his private secretary and his cherished Irish terrier, Pat III, as he drove to Government House in a wet snowfall to offer his formal resignation to the governor-general after 21 years, five months and five days of office.

Mr. St. Laurent was sworn in at 3.55 p.m. EST.

Mr. King stayed Prime Minister until that moment, almost exactly five hours after he first had left home with his resignation.

Mr. King told newspaper men he was "very happy" about leaving office and would not hold a portfolio in Mr. Laurent's Cabinet.

He said he plans to "stay at home for a while and see my friends" and will sit in the Commons at the next session of parliament. He is member for Glengarry.

Has Housing Program

Prime Minister St. Laurent said, Mr. Winters would have charge, not only of civilian homebuilding, out of the armed services' $20,000,000 housing program.

Another task of Mr. Winters, he said, would be to stimulate the tourist industry through use of the gravel bureau and the film board.

In administering the film board, Mr. Winters will become its chairman, succeeding Revenue Minister McCann. Mr. McCann will become vice-chairman in succession to Defence Minister Claxton.

The Prime Minister said the name of Mr. Winters' department might be changed later. Also it would be stripped of agencies whose functions were coming to an end.

These would include Canadian Arsenals and Polymer Corporation which produces synthetic rubber. The two agencies likely will be placed under the control of the Trade Department.

Royal Winter Fair Opens For 20th Time

TORONTO, Nov 16 — (CP)— The Royal Winter Fair starts today amid predictions by officials that the 1948 edition of the world's biggest agricultural exposition will be bigger and better than ever. It runs until Nov. 24.

One feature to be seen this year for the first time since the founding of the Fair in 1922 is the diesel power lighting system which will illuminate it during Toronto's three day hydro cutoffs The emergency lighting will take over every time hydro officials pull the switches.

For the first time since the wart a French army cavalry team is here to compete in the Royal Horse Show. An army jumping team also come from Mexico to enter the lists against Canadian champions.

This year's show promises to be more international than last year's and is expected to compare favorably in that respect with pre-war fairs. The Netherlands, for example, sent a 15-ton display of choice fruit and vegetables including grapes and celery.

Keen competition is expected in Canadian grain exhibits and in livestock classes. Only the best of the animals entered will appear this season, in the Royal Show ring.

Officials say that in other categories, such as poultry, pets, roots vegetables, fruit and flowers, entries are well up to standard.

the heads of all missions in Nanking to discuss measures for the safety of diplomatic personnel and possibility of China's moving its capital.

Rival claims beclouded what was happening at Suchow, guardian base 200 miles north of Nanking.

Reds Claim Victory

The Communist radio asserted Red troops had "completely isolated" Suchow and that they had taken Suhsien, 50 miles south. The government's version was that it still held Suhsien and, in fact, the Communists were withdrawing from the Northern Suchow front.

Pro-government sources were silent on the outcome of fighting on the East, West, and South sides of the battle.

Shanghai dispatches reported continued efforts by Gen. Huang Potao's mechanized army to break through the Red lines to the isolated Seventh Army Corps at Nienchuang, 35 miles east of Suchow. Shanghai newspapers on Monday reported Huang had turned the Red tide, but to-day they referred to his "counter attacks."

The Communist campaigns in the Nehol and Hopeh Provinces gave evidence or a co-ordinated drive to seize the remaining government held areas of North China, including the prize cities of Peiping and Tientsin.

Three United States Navy landing ships arrived at Tientsin, 85 miles south-east of Peiping, to carry evacuees to Tsingtao, United States naval base for homeward passage from there and from Shanghai.

Hunters Use A Box Score To Trap Phonies

COBOURG, Nov. 16—(ENS).—The first box score on record here for a deer hunt has been drawn up by a group of main street hunters after their recent hunt. The boys are honest as to their accomplishments and if the idea gains prominence, it will cut the ground from beneath a lot of lads who come back with tall stories about the deer they encountered.

Underneath the elaborate box score is an explanation of the symbols. For instance, D.D. is dead deer; M x 100, shot at and missed with distance recorded; S.N.S., seen but not shot at; J.R., jammed rifle (special with automatics); D.S., dud shell, must be verified by retaining the shell and producing for inspection; X, gun on shoulder and walking away from deer at time; L, lost, with or without compass. The symbol which appeared most of all was "O," meaning nothing at all.

The line-up was Christie Leonard, Eddie Cowan, Joe Fardella, Freddy Kerr, Harry Carter, Kirk and Bruce Fitsgibbon, Fred Wilson and Oliver Johns. Reading from left to right for each hunter it was a string of zeros, with the exception of Fred Wilson, who saw four, shot at same and missed all. Oliver Johns shot at one and missed. Final score—no runs, no hits, five errors. Summary, no cock-and-bull stories.

U of T School of Social Work Selects Peterboro' For Study

Representantive of the smaller cities of the province, and because "it has made a good contribution to the economic and cultural life of the Dominion." Peterborough has been chosen for a unit of study by the School of Social Work of the University of Toronto. Sixteen members of the school's staff and interested others, will make a "field trip" to the city this Thursday to Saturday to study its community problems and how they are met. Next spring, a group of students of the school will come here to observe first hand.

Social work, as taught at the Varsity faculty, is concerned with people, their needs and the services for these needs in the community. Because of its size, the city of Toronto has been judged by the school's heads to be too large for observation study. For this reason, a smaller city—Peterborough—within reach of Toronto, "and yet far enough away not to have been influenced by the metropolitan spread of the city" has been selected.

Of interest to residents are the reasons the School of Social Work had for selecting this city:

"Peterborough is well known and representative of the smaller cities of Ontario. Its development reflects the transition of Ontario from an agricultural to an industrial area. Good information is available about its historical background and its current problems."

"It has displayed civic interest and vigor in meeting its community needs and problems; it has active service clubs, a city plan, a family court, a recreation commission, and is forward-looking with respect to other services. It has made a good contribution to the economic and cultural life of the Dominion; it has given a favorable response to the initial proposal for this study project."

In planning the project, first contact was made through James Dutton, chairman of the City Planning Board of Peterborough, who offered his assistance in the study. Material and further contacts by which the subjects in which the researchers were interested were supplied by him.

13 Faculty Members

With the 13 faculty members on the field trip this week will be the following:

Dr. Eugene Faludi, President of Town Planning Consultants, Ltd., who has directed the city plan for Peterborough; Allan Armstrong, Executive Secretary of Community Planning Association of Canada, Ottawa; Miss Bessie Touzel, Secretary of the Community Organization Division, Canadian Welfare Council, Ottawa; E. C. Cross, Director of the Community Programs Branch, Ontario Department of Education; John Blow, Executive Secretary, Community Welfare Council of Ontario.

It was pointed out by sponsors of the plan that the program—which will include special group meetings for study of separate sections of the work—is open to all interested members of the general public.

On Thursday afternoon, the group will meet for general session to gain background for their study of Peterborough. From material supplied locally and assembled along the specialized lines, they will be told about the history of this community, its position today, the prospect for tomorrow, with details of the city plan and planning.

Thursday evening will be devoted to group sessions, which will consist of a description of basic services in the community—their responsibilities, program, personnel and financing.

City Clerk E. A. Outram will preside as chairman of the group studying industry, government and public welfare. The discussion will include representatives of industry, Chamber of Commerce, trade unions, Dominion, Provincial and municipal governments and the city planning board.

Dr. Kelly to Preside

Health Services will be the subject of the debate of another group, under the chairmanship of Dr. R. A. Kelly, Peterborough Medical Officer of Health. Public and private aspects of this subject will be discussed, with mention of the Board of Health, public health nurses, industrial hygiene, hospitals, clinics, mental health services and local physicians.

A third group, under K. S. Wightman, Superintendent of Peterborough Schools, will study education and educational services. Public, separate, normal, guidance teachers, attendance officers, special class teachers and school nurses are included in the discussion.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, who is also head of the Family Court here, will preside over a session dealing with services for families and children. The agenda includes: family allowance, city welfare department, Children's Aid Society, family welfare society, St. Vincent de Paul Society, family court and mothers' allowances.

W. B. Gordon, chairman of the Peterborough Recreation Commission, will be chairman of the fifth group, concerned with recreation and adult education. Their study will include: Recreation Commission, parks and playgrounds, service clubs, YMCA, YWCA, community centres, Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, Catholic Youth Organization.

During their three-day stay, the field tour members will be billeted with residents of the city.

On Friday, free discussion of the issues emerging from the previous evening's study groups will be held. Time will be allowed for personal exploration and inquiries. Church groups will be hosts in the evening for small supper meetings and round table discussions.

On Saturday morning, the final session will hear reports from the group meetings, implications of the findings and general conclusions of those findings as they might effect the community.

Vagrant Abusive Is Fined $10

John Howard of Bridgenorth was fined $10 and $2.50 costs on his guilty plea to a charge of vagrancy in police court today. Inspector James F. Reid told the court that Howard had refused to given any information to inquiries of police on George St. Monday night and that he had been "very abusive" in his language on the street and at the police station.

"You should know that you are required to supply police with information when it is requested," Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, told the accused.

Fined $10 and $2.50 costs each for being drunk in public were Ernest Redmond, RR 8, Peterborough and William McMurray, RR 4, Lakefield.

Charles Rupert of Havelock was fined $10 and $2.50 costs for having liquor in a place other than a residence.

Vernon Dunford of Young's Point paid a fine of $5 and $2.50 costs for driving with improper lights.

Pension Bylaw To Be Passed Soon

COBOURG, Nov. 16.—(ENS).—The pension bylaw for town employees is expected to be passed before the close of the year. Given two readings, it has been sent to the Municipal Board for approval and should be ready, says Mayor J. S. Smith, for its third and last reading and will be effective January 1, 1949. Twenty-six different plans, including those submitted by insurance companies, were considered and council decided that the government annuity plan was most suitable.

Eligible is each present permanent employee who has not passed his 60th birthday, on the effective date of the plan. The employee must have worked for one year. For those entering the employ of the town after that date of the plan, he must become a member on the first day of January following the first year of employment, there having been continuous service and the employee having reached his 21st year. In the event of a death of a member before his retirement and before the annuity is due, an amount equal to his total contributions and those of employer, plus interest, goes to his beneficiary. If not employed at the time of his death, an amount equal to his employer and his contributions, plus interest, will go to his beneficiary.

Delayed By Strike

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Nov. 16—(CP)—Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, former Canadian high commissioner to the United Kingdom, was among 2,200 passengers whose departure aboard the Queen Elizabeth was delayed today by the longshoremen's strike in the United States, three boat trains scheduled to leave London today for Southampton were cancelled.

Cobourg Stays Within Quota

COBOURG, Nov. 16.—(ENS).—The 5.30 to 6.00 p.m. cut was not necessary last night as the town kept within its new quota of 28,000 kwh. As a result of negotiations last week between the HEPC and Mayor Joseph Smith, the CGE was placed on a separate quota and the consumption of that plant was accordingly not added to the rest of the town. However, there was a reduction in the quota from 30,200 to the new quota.

Under the new regulations announced Monday by the Utilities Commission, no store window lighting will be permitted after 6.00 p.m. from Monday until Friday, inclusive. There is to be, if necessary to meet the daily quota, a power cut-off from 5.30 p.m. until 6.00 p.m. all over town from Monday until Friday, inclusive.

It is pointed out that if the power is not shut off by 5:30 p.m. there will be no interruption in power on that particular dat. Cut-offs on the various feeder during the week will be from 9.00 a.m. until 10.30 p.m.; 2.00 p.m. until 4.00 p.m. If necessary to meet the quota, there will be an additional cut-off from 7.00 until 8.00 p.m.

Due to the uncertainty in regard to the 5.30 to 6.00 cut-off, local merchants will be open on Wednesday morning. For the past few weeks, in order to save power, merchants have been closed on Wednesday morning due to the fact that there is a morning shut-off from 9.00 until 10.30 in the business section.

Dr. McLure At Hankow

TORONTO, Nov. 16—(CP).—Mrs. Robert B. McLure, wife of a well-known United Church doctor in China, said Monday her husband is at Hankow, within 100 miles of the Communist advance in China. Mrs. McLure said there were several Canadian airmen at Hankow training Nationailst pilots. She named "Moose" Fumerton of Edmonton, an airman named Turnbull from St. Thomas, and a third she identified only as George Stewart.

Shotgun Blast Hits Boy, 14, In Shoulder

LINDSAY, Nov. 16.—Jack Martin, 14-year-old Lindsay boy, had the whole blast of a 20-guage shotgun pass through his left shoulder Saturday morning. He is now in Ross Memorial Hospital, where doctors say he is progressing favorably. He is seriously injured with his shoulder blade shattered.

The accident happened about four miles west of Lindsay in the township of Ops, when he and two of his friends, Stanley and Thomas Tozios, 14 and 15 respectively, were hunting. According to police report, they had stopped to rest. All guns were propped against an old log and when getting up from resting Jack took hold of his gun and it discharged, the blast going through his shoulder.

Both boys helped him to the nearest farmhouse which belongs to Alan Lang, who called Dr. J. C. Arnold.

Dr. Arnold rushed the boy to the Ross Memorial Hospital.

Presbyterian Traditions

Rev. A. E. Miller, Field Secretary for the Budget and Stewardship committee of the Presbyterian church, was the guest speaker on Monday night to the St. Paul's Men's Association. Mr. Millar took as his subject "Presbyterian Traditions." Introduced by James Dutton, Mr. Millar told of many of the old traditions of th Presbyterian church such as a six hour sermon with an intermission of half an hour after the first three hours; how in the early days only a very small number in the congregation took communion, for the communion table was fenced and the communicant was questioned by both the minister and elders; how William Lyon Mackenzie described an early communion in Stamford church near Niagara Falls, where hundreds gathered, many of them coming more than 100 miles, but in all those only 60 were permitted to take communion; and how the elders played a most important part in the life of the congregation and also the minister.

"In those days," the speaker said, "the church had discipline and enforced it. We have gone a long way from that today and I believe we are just beginning to realize how far we are removed from the traditions of our fathers."

"But the Presbyterian church is regaining what it lost 25 years ago. We are now producing a full Presbyterian community and we are again becoming the church of the people in which all have a voice and in which all do their share."

James Anderson, Jr., the president presided and G. Wilson Craw thanked the speaker.

Asks Inquiry Into Power

TORONTO, Nov. 16—(CP).—Norman O. Hipel, president of the Ontario Liberal Association, demanedd in an address Monday night that a Royal Commission on Hydro be set up immediately.

In a radio speech at 10.30 p.m. the former Ontario cabinet minister saaid the Commssion should be given full authority to hold public hearings, "to disclose all facts and within a stated time, bring in a full report, with recommendations for the future."

Mr. Hipel served as Minister of Labor, Lands and Forests Minister and Provincial Secretary in the Liberal government between 1934 and 1943.

He charged the current Hydro-Electric power shortage "is not due solely to low water levels." The Progressive Conservative government of George Drew had failed to implement arrangements made between the previous Liberal administration and the Province of Quebec for the development of Hydro power on the Upper St. Lawrence river, he said.

In 1801 the Morris family came to Canada from Scotland, William the eldest son, was appointed Receiver-General in 1844 and two years later President of the Executive Council. His brother James also became Receiver-General and was afterwards appointed Postmaster General. William's son Alexander, brilliant lawyer, writer and speaker, became famous in his own right by his appointment as Chief Justice and later Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba and the North-West Territories. Certainly a remarkable family record of distinguished Canadian statesmen.

Great Families Create Great Nations

EARLY in the 17th Century, Calvert, head of the famous Calvert family, distinguished English statesman and Secretary of State to King James I, founded pioneer New World colonies in Newfoundland and Maryland.

Calvert's descendants introduced a form of government which prescribed that the laws should be established and administered by the settlers themselves and that there should be no aristocracy. Thus the Calvert family sowed the fertile seed of democracy in the New World.

The family is the corner-stone upon which great nations are built. Let each of us strive to promote within the great Canadian family the same concepts of freedom and tolerance pioneered by the Calvert family, over three hundred years ago.

The Calvert family inaugurate the first system of democratic government in the New World.

High Wages

The cost of living index is high. By the end of September (the latest month for which statistics are available) it was 159.6. That is 59.6 points higher than the average for the years 1935-39. We may well be alarmed by the high cost of living but most Canadians need not be too mournful when they consider the size of their weekly pay envelopes and the fact that their pay is regular. We have been studying some figures in a pamphlet recently issued by the Department of Labour on wage rates in Canada for the year 1947. Though graphs and figures do not tell all the truth, these figures should brighten the gloom about the cost of living index, which in itself does not tell the whole truth about the high cost of living.

• • •

For instance, the index of the wage rate in industry across Canada during the last year was 183.0; that is, 83 points above the average for the years 1935-39. That compares favourably with the cost of living index which at the end of last year was 48.3 points above the average for the years 1935-39, or even with the index which is now 59.6 points higher than in those pre-war years. The average hourly wage for unskilled factory labour (male) was 73 cents in 1947.

• • •

The rates of pay in Peterborough were relatively high. For instance, unskilled factory labour here received an average of 81 cents an hour. Only Windsor, Welland, Thorold, Sault St. Marie, St. Catharines, Niagara Falls, Fort William and three British Columbian centres paid a higher average rate. The average pay in Peterborough for bricklayers ($1.35 an hour) and carpenters ($1.00) was the same as for Ontario generally. The Department of Labour's report does not provide a summary of wage rates for skilled workers. However when we read that cooks in British Columbian logging camps had an average daily wage of $9.94 (in addition to lodging and board), that cooks in Eastern Canadian logging camps had a rate of pay of $5.45, that platers in the electrical industry averaged $1.21 an hour, it is not difficult to believe that the index of the wage rate—183.0—is speaking as much truth as figures can.

An Answer To An Answer

Elsewhere on this page we publish a letter from "Music Lover", who does not like the report which appeared in this paper of a concert given in Peterborough by the Leslie Bell Singers.

We are glad that there are people in Peterborough who feel strongly enough about artistic matters to enter into controversy about them. But we feel that "Music Lover" does not fully understand the nature of newspaper criticism. Our critic writes freely about concerts; we have faith in his knowledge and taste and offer his criticisms as those of a man whom we consider competent to speak. We do not delude ourself that he speaks either the first or the last word on any musical subject. We would not, for instance, assert that he spoke for 1200 people, which is what "Music Lover" claims for himself. We feel only that his judgement approximates to that of many Peterborough people who are most anxious to establish and maintain high musical standards in this city.

The Leslie Bell Singers are a professional group, justly praised for their technical accomplishment; but they have been criticised before for their programs, and no doubt they will be again. When they sing on the radio they are presenting a free entertainment of the most popular sort; when they sing at a concert for which admission is charged they submit themselves to a more demanding type of criticism.

In conclusion we suggest that it is "Music Lover", and not our critic, who has worked himself into a lather; only in such a condition could he delude himself that he speaks for 1200 people. He speaks, like our critic, for himself alone. Unlike our critic, he speaks anonymously.

Misconduct Of Ontario Government Official

Ontario had in England until recently an official by the name of Leonard Beauchamp, a Canadian aged 56. He was assistant manager of immigration in Ontario House, London. Two weeks ago Beauchamp was tried by an English court for a breach of British law, was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $6,000 (1,500 pounds) or serve nine months in prison.

His offence was not monstrous but was nevertheless grave, and degrading to Canadian reputation because he committed it through making use of his official position. He illegally sent to Canada large sums of money on behalf of English people migrating to Canada. British financial regulations forbid citizens to take out of the country more than limited sums. Beauchamp sent the money over for them, representing it as his own savings. It is not reported whether he acted merely out of friendship.

It was a dishonest and dishonourable act for an Ontario government official. He abused his position and Canada's good name. Officers serving in Britain during the war who cashed cheques against which they had no funds in the bank were considered to have so dishonoured their country and uniform that they were cashiered and sent home in disgrace. We have two comments to make on the Beauchamp case. The first is that ex-Premier Drew certainly picked a lemon when he chose Beauchamp as assistant manager of his immigration scheme. The second is that we hope that Beauchamp has been discharged from the service of the Ontario Government and that he remains discharged.

Improving Canadian Speech

The Halifax Herald complains that "we are raising up a race of mumblers", and suggests that some attempt be made to teach good speech in Canadian schools. We think that there is merit in the idea, though we do not know where the teachers of good speech would come from. Nobody wants us to turn into elocutionists, and we fear that is what would happen if the Ontario College of Education were to attack this problem with its characteristic ruthless disregard for nuance.

Nor would we be happy to see a drive to rob Canadian speech of its characteristic qualities. We would be very happy, of course, if the people of Ontario would stop saying "surrp" and "sturrp" when they mean syrup and stirrup; we are even so heretical as to wish that they would make some distinction between "ant" and "aunt". We have occasionally had fond dreams of an Ontario which would call Sciurus vulgaris a squirrel and not "skwurrl". But we feel that these illiteracies and barbarisms could be corrected without turning us all into pseudo-Bostonians.

The truth of the matter, we feel, is that Canadians do not listen attentively to what they, or anybody else, says. They regard words as they regard food — as necessities, and not as things in which any pleasure can be taken. They mumble because, if they spoke clearly and pleasantly, their business associates might take them for untrustworthy fellows, given to strange and voluptuous pleasures.

But Canada is growing up, and the cult of illiteracy is going out of fashion. There has even been some criticism, of late, of the sloppy speech of our politicians, and this is a good sign. The day is coming, we predict, when it will no longer be the socially accepted thing to talk like a mentally-retarded corner-boy with a sore throat.

Have You Heard Of Hitler?

During the war an English newspaper found a middle-aged woman living in London who confessed that she had never heard of Hitler. This seems incredible, but we know from experience how indifferent many people are to what goes on in the world around them. Consider the number of Peterborough people, for instance, who do not appear to have heard about the Hydro shortage.

A night or two ago we drove through the West end of the city, and were astonished by the number of verandah lights which were burning, and by the number of brightly-lit living rooms which could be seen from the street and which did not seem to be in use. Last night in the South end we observed the same thing. Men from the North end and from Ashburnham tell us that lights burn brightly, and uselessly, there.

Whatever we may think about the causes of the power shortage, it is a reality, and if we do not save all the light we can it will be worse.

A letter we received recently bore the Post Office cancellation slogan: "Eat Properly For Good Health". Now we are wondering which Week cooked up that slogan—National Cat Week, National Health Week, or Education Week?

Added Work For Mother

By F. R. D.

NOTES FROM NASSAU:

AS a writer of what some of my more untutored critic refer to as "drip", it stands to reason I'm an excellent judge of the assorted bilge published in almost any medium. As a parent I flatter myself I have some small insight into what children of various ages can do. I also think I have a pretty fair idea of what will interest and intrigue the minds of the young. The above pats on the back have been brought about by an article which caught my eye a short time ago. I started to read it, and was so fascinated by the fantastic suggestions it made for games and amusements for the young, I perused it to the bitter end.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE whole thing was a mad dream of a writer named Laura Holmes MacDonald. Should this effort of mine ever come to her attention I hope it is the cause of her waking in the night gibbering and screaming. Such a fate would be just retribution on behalf of any addle-pated mothers who might have followed her suggestions, to their sorrow. The journal paying good money for Laura's journey into fantasy was the New York Herald-Tribune. It was titled "Creating Christmas Gifts". The drop-head read, "Give Them the Right Tools and a Little Help, and Your Children Will Find Great Delight in Making Holiday Wrapping Paper and Simple Toys to Go In It."

✧ ✧ ✧

I SHALL quote some of the suggestions put forth in the article. If you are fool enough to follow any of them please remember I warned you. Don't try to shift any blame on me, when, having entrusted little Percy, aged 5 years, with a sharp saw, he comes running to you with the childish question:

"Mummy, what will I do with these?"

He is proudly displaying the four fingers of his left hand, neatly sawn of just where they join the palm.

✧ ✧ ✧

PARAGRAPH five of "Creating Christmas Gifts" reads as follows:

"Making wooden toys is a fascinating occupation for children of all ages. Even sawing a straight line will keep the little five-year-olds interested and busy; and when they find they can follow a line which eventually turns into an elephant or a camel, their enthusiasm knows no bounds".

The saw, it is pointed out in the next stanza, is a coping saw. I don't know whether you've ever tried to follow a design with one of these. If you haven't allow me to tell you no five-year-old child, no matter how precocious, can do it. Only years of practice and an extensive vocabulary fits one to tamper with a coping saw. In these days of housing shortages and lumber scarcities there isn't enough wood to stand the waste a five-year-old would stack up before completing a cut-out of a camel or elephant.

ANOTHER point the writer of the article forgot, either because she is an Unclaimed Blessing and childless, or just out of plain spite, is that the leg of a $1,500 Steinway piano, or a $500 dining table, makes much more attractive sawing than a piece of board, no matter what design is drawn on it.

Another of the brain storms Laura H. puts down on paper is how the kiddies can make decorative papers. Marbleized is the one intriguing my fancy. I quote:

"Buy a few tubes of oil paint. Thin a little of two or three colours with oil, in separate dishes, until the paint is fairly thin. Next fill a large, rectangular pan with water. Float these oil colours over the surface of the water to get the swirling effects we sometimes see on oily water. It may be necessary to stir the water slightly or blow on it. Now lay a piece of paper on the surface of the water. The swirling designs will be deposited upon it."

CAN you imagine a five-year-old, or even a ten-year-old going through that rigmarole? Of course, if you are redecorating your house and don't care what happens, you might try the little ones out marbleizing paper. Having a vivid imagination and some experience with children, I can conjure up a mental picture of what would happen if you gave them tubes of oil paint and a pan of water, no matter what shape. Confinement to crayons and lead pencils permits them to express latent artistic ability by executing Salvador Dali-ish murals on the walls. The mind reels at thoughts of oil paints, baby fingers, and what they could accomplish.

The Christmas gift article concluded with instructions on how to make a scrap book. It is obvious that mother makes the book. Asking anyone to believe a child could cope with oilcloth covers, and cambric pages with pinked edges, is going too far. The juvenile department gets its hand in when cutting out time comes.

LA MACDONALD suggests cutting out pictures from magazines. I've noticed that children, at least until they reach the age of eight or nine, are strictly on the square. A head, leg, or other salient portion of the picture is sacrificed to the straight line principle. When it comes to pasting these odd looking bits of paper on the cambric pages I shudder to think of the chaos.

Let your mind dwell for a moment on a child, a bowl of paste, some pieces of paper, and something on which they are supposed to be pasted. It would be the work of weeks to get the droppings off the floor, walls, ceiling, table and carpets, not to mention the child's clothes and the many crannies of the infant body beautiful a youngster can find to cram with foreign matter.

Laura Holmes MacDonald opens her article with what I presume is meant to be a childish question, "What can I do now, Mommy?" After reading her article, filled with suggestions for extra work for mother in making toys, marbleized paper and scrapbooks, plus the cleaning up after the revels, I wonder what the opening line has to do with the balance of the text. I have no intention of risking the total unseating of my reason by encouraging children to make gifts.

"THE SKY IS FALLING . . . !"

Modern Trend In Art Education

(By GERTRUDE L. COX)

ART education in Ontario owes its beginning to the efforts of Egerton Ryerson. During the period from 1850 to 1880 the program of studies stressed a rigid semi-geometrical type of work called Linear Drawing. From 1880 to 1920 drawing became art. However, the art taught was largely a technical training and did not meet the needs of a child at school or as an ordinary citizen. The work of Arthur Lismer, Educational Supervisor of the Art Gallery of Toronto, pointed the way to a new development in Art Education and was felt in the 1937 Program of Studies. Mr. Lismer oorganized classes for children attending Toronto schools. The old form of technical art was abandoned and a new program was developed around the needs and capacities of children. Mr. Lismer believed that all human beings are creative beings and that opportunities should be provided so that this creativeness may be exercised. No longer was the art program for children to be presented for the purpose of training "artists". Classroom work should not be compared with adult output. In brief, the development of the child rather than the art produced had become the most important outcome of Art Education.

In 1944 the Department of Education realized the necessity for the revision of the Art Program. C. D. Gaitskell, M.A., D.Paed., was appointed Provincial Supervisor of Art and authorized to make a preliminary survey of the art work being done in three selected inspectorates. The purpose of this survey was to ascertain the general nature of the art program; what type of motivation was being employed; whether or not skills and good taste were being developed in the child; if he were being treated as an individual with provision being made for freedom of thought and, if he as an individual were being related to his social group. An inventory of Art equipment and supplies was taken and the question of the suitability of classrooms for the efficient teaching of Art was considered.

The results of the survey showed the existing program to be almost entirely unsatisfactory.

Dr. Gaitskell's next task was to improvise devices to assist art teachers to relate art to general education. Beginning in October, 1944, bulletins entitled "Aids for Teachers in the use of Art and Crafts in General Education" were issued. In some cities craft workshops for teachers were organized. Travelling exhibitions of children's art and craft work circulated. But by far the most forceful and far-reaching means of spreading the new trend in Art Education became available in 1945, with the reopening of the Departmental summer courses.

The new Art and Crafts Course under the direction of Dr. Gaitskell, contained three innovations; first, craft was given full recognition as an integral part of an art course; second, the core teaching staff was composed of teachers whose primary interest was general education; the remainder of the staff, being made up of occasional lecturers who were specialists in particular fields; third, the administrational technique of the "teachers' workshop" was used as a basis for the organization of the course.

ARRANGEMENTS were made to use Danforth Technical School, in Toronto, and it has since become the location of the most flourishing Art and Crafts Course in Canada. Craftsmen skilled in many arts give unsparingly of their skill and knowledge. Embraced by the workshops are such crafts as weaving, wood-carving, silver jewellery-making and other metalcrafts, coloured lino and silk-screen printing, modelling, textile designing and printing, montage, collage, and mobile sculpture, paper sculpture and stagecraft. Recognized painters conduct classes in painting and drawing, with the purpose of developing better taste in teachers through a basic knowledge of the elements of design. Lecturers of the highest calibre form a connecting link between the craft workshops and the classrooms.

The enrolment of the 1945 Course was 144. The whole-hearted endorsement of the course by these student-teachers proved such excellent advertising that the enrolment increased to 346, in 1946; and, to over 600, in 1948.

The changes in the art program have been motivated by the high ideal of developing children into worthy citizens. This is the function of Art Education today.

Letter To The Editor

ANSWER TO MUSICAL CRITIC

Sir: In Saturday's edition of your paper you published a write-up of one T. J. Allen regarding the concert given by the Leslie Bell Singers.

The article starts out fine but gets quite sour as it progresses, and as a result has turned a lot of people, who were at the concert, sour against this so called critic.

He says "The first part of the programme and the three Newfoundland songs of the second part were, in the ear of this listener, the whole programme. The rest were show pieces—"

Speaking for the rest of the 1,200 or so people who were there, I venture to state that while these pieces were good there were many pieces in the last half of the concert that the audience enjoyed equally as well, if not better . . and what is this man's ear compared to 1,200 others?

He also comes across with this gem: "The three Newfoundland songs raise questions. Dr. Bell has been in Newfoundland collecting folk songs. Will his work result in a valid collection like "Romancero du Canada" by Marius Barbeau, or are the Newfoundland songs less indigenous than the French-Canadian, and merely late derivations? The three on the programme suggests the latter".

Now how in the world did this bit of prittle-prattle get into the article, unless it was put in there to get extra money for the article (I believe these items are paid for by the inch). No one gives a hoot what the outcome is, but if this critic is concerned about it I suggest he go to Quebec and find out.

He also says: "It disturbs me to have to say of such an excellent choir and of so accomplished a musician as Dr. Bell, that I found the second half of the programme unmusical, even annoying. To have tricks, negro spirituals which are not suited to Canadian women, and gaudy arrangements of American flim-flam, was desecration. Why could Dr. Bell not use his choir as Brahms used his 'Hamburg ladies' choir? Perhaps because Brahms did not pander to radio audiences".

So it disturbs him . . isn't that just too bad. He must have had a headache when he got up in the morning and still had it when he wrote that article. I think the women in the audience gave the lie to this statement by their enthusiastic reception and applause of these negro spirituals, flim-flam, and trick singing.

Were this choir to sing the music T. J. Allen wanted, and sing it to suit him, they would be just another small town choir with no money and no place to go.

Having been in choirs, choruses, minstrel shows, etc., nearly all my life, I marvel at the fact that these girls can sing the whole programme from memory without looking at one note or word, and do it perfectly without going off key, and without a note of music.

Try it with a group of local singers . . . take away the music and the accompaniment, and ten to one they get wrecked before they get halfway thru' the piece.

It looks like a big full time job for these girls, yet I understand it is only part time work which makes it all the more amazing.

This choir recently sang with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra in Massey Hall (you've got to be good to get this spot) and the Toronto papers, contrary to Mr. T. J. Allen, had nothing but praise for the choir.

This slasher of musicals also protests vehemently (dear, dear, what a lather this boy is getting into) against a man of Mr. Gledhill's calibre being used as a fill in at the organ.

I venture to state that Mr. Gledhill was quite satisfied to assist in the programme in any way he could, and it's quite likely he would not give a penny for the opinion of this Mr. T. J. Allen.

The next time this choir comes to town (if it does) I suggest Mr. T. J. Allen stay at home and play the kind of music he likes to hear, the way he wants it performed, and let someone who enjoys this type of music, have his seat (which were hard to get) at the concert.

MUSIC LOVER.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

There was a man of the Pharisees, named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews: the same came to Jesus by night, and said unto him, Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher come from God: for no man can do these miracles that thou doest, except God be with him.

Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God. Nicodemus saith unto him, How can a man be born when he is old? can he enter the second time into his mother's womb, and be born?

Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God. That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit. Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born again. The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth: so is every one that is born of the Spirit. Nicodemus answered and said unto him, How can these things be?

Jesus answered and said unto him, Art thou a master of Israel, and knowest not these things? Verily, verily, I say unto thee, we speak that we do know, and testify that we have seen; and ye receive not our witness.

If I have told you earthly things, and ye believe not, how shall ye believe, if I tell you of heavenly things?. (John 3: 1-12.)

Unconsidered Trifles

As the train emerged from the tunnel the girl said: "'Erbert, you shouldn't have kissed me like that, with all those people around, even if it was in the dark."

"I didn't kiss you," said the boy, looking angrily around the compartment. "I only wish I knew who it was—I'd teach him!"

"'Erbert," sighed the girl, "you couldn't teach 'im anything."

✧ ✧ ✧

The motorist was charged with driving his car while in a state of intoxication, and a police witness was giving evidence.

"When I came upon the scene, your worship," he said, "I found accused engaged in a heated argument with the Minister of Transport about the condition of the road."

"Well," commented the magistrate, "that proves nothing, does it?"

"No," admitted the witness, "only, you see, the Minister of Transport wasn't there."

✧ ✧ ✧

Dunninger, who likes to be known as "the master mentalist" called on Blackstone, who doesn't mind being known as a plain magician. When Dunninger arrived, he found the magician ransacking his bedroom for a white tie.

"You're the great mind reader," Blackstone finally exploded. "Suppose you tell me where I put that tie."

Dunninger concentrated.

"It's in that box," he said.

Blackstone hurriedly went through the box, found the tie which he held up scornfully. "You're a fine mind reader," he said. "It's black."

Dunninger shrugged.

"If you're any kind of magician," he answered, "you can change it into a white one."

Channel Island Of Alderney Takes Crack At Modern Life

ST. ANNE, Alderney, Channel Islands, Nov. 16—(Reuters)—The lonely Channel Island of Alderney, where there is no income tax and most children finish their schooling at the age of 11, is about to be brought within the orbit of modern civilization and its accompanying responsibilities.

For hundreds of years this bale-swept outpost of Great Britain, only nine miles from the coast of France and 60 from the English mainland, has enjoyed complete freedom from income tax liability as part of tis virtual autonomy.

The advance of social services by-passed Alderney while its people basked in their tax immunity, shared by the residents of the Scilly Isles, off the extreme southwest tip of Britain.

Want Social Services

Now, all that is to be changed. The 1,400 islanders of Alderney have decided to barter their tax immunity for a share in the social services of neighboring Guernsey Island.

From Jan. 1, Guernsey will become responsible for public services in Alderney, including police, education, maintenance of the island's airfield, upkeep of roads, maintenance of water and sewerage systems, and other social and health services.

In return for this share of modern amenities, Alderney will pay the same income tax, duties and water tax as Guernsey.

During the war ,the Germans used the island as a concentration camp for Soviet slave labor.

Its inhabitants, except for one family, were evacuated to the mainland. Only about half of the pre-war population came back after the war.

They found a scene of desolation and destruction. The last of Hitler's occupation troops had ravished the island, burning furniture and wrecking houses.

Will Speak English

Now the English language will replace Norman French as the official language in Parliament and in all legal documents.

All adult men and women who have lived on the island for a year will be able to stand for election to the Royal Court. The existing disqualifications for Roman Catholics, who have hitherto been debarred from standing for election by reason of the nature of the oath to be sworn on assuming office, will be removed.

It remains to be seen whether the new Alderney will retain an ancient law — still in active operation — which forbids all work on the Sabbath, apart from milking cows.

Replay of the sudden-death ORFU intermediate semi-final grid game between Orillia Bombers and Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts will be at 1.30 in Nicholls Oval tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon. They fought to a 16-all tie in Orillia on Saturday, and the Ontario body ordered the joust staged in Peterborough the middle of this week. Winner hits into provincial finals against London Falcons. The game here should be a real slugging match between two husky, experienced and well-matched clubs, and both will likely bring goodly followings along. Haven't seen the Ghosts go this year, but when they held Orillia to a tie in Orillia, we'd be inclined to pick them here on the morrow.

* * * * * *

Junior PCI-ers, who meet Port Colborne in COSSA finals here Saturday, have compiled an impressive record so far this semester. They've scored 300 points in 10 games—yeah, average of 30 every game!—and had but 53 scored against them, a little more than five a fixture. But the Ports are undefeated this season, too. They edged out a close win o'er PCVS in Toronto last year, so the locals will be out to avenge that and take the title. The sudden-death playoff is at two bells in the Oval, and the PCVS seniors are also in finals against Burlington that day in Hamilton.

A Change Of Scenery?

This item from St. Catharines: "Next year, we are told, the peninsular boys travel east on new COSSA rulings. In all the past years, Kingston, Oshawa, Peterborough, Belleville and other eastern schools have been ordered to Varsity back campus for the provincial finals. Commencing in 1949, the all-Ontario games will be alternated and, since Oshawa is the central point, most likely it will be the venue of the first such transfer to that terrtain. If Tricolors are listenings, better start on that now."

And a clipping from Belleville: "While the hockey representatives of the Liftlock village, whether senior 'B' or intermediate 'A', were not exactly the white-haired boys while battling with our stalwarts, they were to Belleville hockey fans what Bunny Dunlop is to the wrestling faithful. They hated to see him win but they flocked in droves to see him perform, just in case he was beaten. The Petes were and still are one of the best, if not the best, hockey drawing cards here. To prove that, their battle with a Toronto club here last March drew the biggest gate of the season. The best of luck to them—when they're not playing our Redmen, to date known as the Lost Tribe."

Petes Getting Backing

Peterborough Hockey Club—the Petes—is being backed this OHA season by Donald McGillis, Sr. He has turned over a cheque to the team for equipment, and his name will appear on the players' sweaters. Faced with the problem of purchasing a lot of new equipment, and with funds pretty low—you know it takes money to travel to Belleville and Lindsay for practices before the season starts — the Petes were sort of up against it till Mr. McGillis stepped into the picture. He has also helped the Panthers Football Club financially, too, and the puckists are quite happy about the whole setup.

* * * * * *

Another open practice for the Petes in Lindsay tomorrow e'en, bunch leaving from the bus station at 5.15. The club will operate an OHA intermediate "B" team, too, out of Omemee—probably known as the Omemee-Petes' Combines. Thus, some of the players unable to make the senior "B" squad this season will be kept for intermediate "B" play, and Omemee folks will see good hockey again. A sound idea and it's time the Petes got really serious about developing youngsters as the best veterans in the world are bound to slow up sometime. Couple of players we didn't mention the other night, who are coming out again with the Petes, are Ron Horton and Jerry Creighton.

Tossing 'Em In Hoops

YMCA House Basketball League re-organizes at seven p.m. tomorrow in the gym, and interested players should attend. Walt Ward and Joe Stewart represented the Lakeshore Cage Loop at the annual OABA convention in Niagara Falls over the week-end and say there are only a few minor changes in the new rule book—which is out now. But there are a couple of changes in the minor age limits. Midgets must now be under 16 by Jan. 1 of the playing season, and bantams are to be under 14 by Jan. 1. Formerly it was 17 and 15 respectively by Oct. 1. The Lakeshore League will have a meeting in Port Hope on Dec. 12 when all entries must be in, as they'll be drawing up the schedule at that time. Meantime, the Marines' "A" and "B" teams keep drilling. Girl cagers will likely go again this Friday at the YWCA.

GRAG-BAG: Legion has an open puck workout in Lindsay tonight, leaving the hall at 6.15....Some fans already are wanting the Petes and Legionnaires to stage the opener in the Civic Arena, either in group play or as an exhibition....Quinte hockey circuit opens tonight....Whip Watson and Ben Morgan headline the three-bout pro mat card tomorrow night at the Brock....Trojan AC open meeting (and movies) is Wednesday at eight p.m. in the Sally Ann hall on Chamberlain St.....East City bantam ball champs received the Jaycees' trophy last evening at a dinner....No playoffs this year betwixt Toronto and district high school grid victors....Johnny Edwards of Queen's and Harry McBrien of Toronto will handle the Orillia-Cobourg playoff here tomorrow....Ab Guerin had top three of 852 and George MacDonald leading single of 332 yester eve in the YM men's bowling league....Donald Ross succeeds the late Pete Campbell as prexy of the Toronto Leafs....And the desk is cleared again.

Watson, Morgan, Hansen, O'Donnell, Flanagan, Henning At Brock Tomorrow

One of the greatest bouts of the year is expected in the Brock Arena ring tomorrow night when Whipper Billy Watson meets Big Ben Morgan. Morgan gained a decision over the popular Whipper two weeks ago but Billy is sure he can reverse that point tomorrow. "And I intend to make him like it" said Watson last night when discussing his chances against the big bearded grappler from Look-out Mountain, Tennessee. Morgan has eked out two or three lucky wins lately but he will need a lot more than luck to win from Watson if the champ's present mood belies his actions. It should be a red-hot scrap.

Pat Flanagan

Lee Henning

Mat fans will be glad that Sliding Billy Hansen is back for this card. Sliding Billy is a terrific wrestler but he will need all his clever stuff against big Sandy O'Donnell in the semi-final. Pat Flanagan, who beat Myron Cox in a thriller here last week will go against Larrupin' Lee Henning to start off the big night.

CALGARY'S STAMPEDERS are just one big grin from ear to ear as they huddle around Captain Paul Rowe (50) and quarterback Keith Spaith (48) in their dressing room following their victory over Saskatchewan Roughriders which gave them the western championship. They now meet either Hamilton or Ottawa for the Dominion title. Rowe is holding the NJ (Piffles) Taylor memorial trophy, emblematic of western supremacy. Spaith is clutching the Jeff Nicklin memorial trophy which he won as the most valuable player in the west.

Artists On Top By Two Points

Artists maintained their two-point margin over Commercials in the YMCA Men's Five-Pin League defeating Jay Bees 4-2 while Commercials were downing Quakers by the same margin. In the other contests B'nai B'rith defeated Aberdeens 4-2 and Tip Tops clipped Canada Packers 4-2.

For the second consecutive week Ab Guerin has taken down top honors for high three, turning in a smacking 852. Other good triple scores were: Ray Bennett 762, George MacDonald 721, Bill Saunders 707 and Jack Ferguson 703.

George MacDonald, new addition to the Jay Bees, had high single with a neat 332. Guerin was the only other bowler to beat 300 with a 321 score.

Artists had high team score of 3187 and Tip Tops high single game of 1189.

Stamps Flash Good Ball Form

CALGARY, Nov. 16 — (CP).—Calgary Stampeders flashed some of their best football form of the season on Monday night as they rolled through a rugged practice session for the November 27 Dominion championship final in Toronto.

The snap and precision displayed by the newly-crowned Western grid champions brought grins of delight from a small turnout of gridiron faithful, who braved a cool wind to watch the 2½-hour workout.

Coach Les Lear, who will fly to Ottawa Thursday night to scout next Saturday's Eastern final between Ottawa Rough Riders and Hamilton Tigers, spent a major portion of the practice session on blocking assignment drills.

Veteran full-back Paul Rowe, leading scorer in the Western Conference this season, stole a big share of the sideline applause with bone-crushing plunges that carried him for long gains.

Harwood Rink Started

HARWOOD, Nov. 16 (ENS).—On Monday morning the contractor began the erection of a community hall in Memorial Park, Harwood. The material, except cement, has been on hand in the park for two or three months.

With the help on hand it is expected to have the hall completed in a few weeks. The Park Committee is making plans to stage an opening of the hall and community dance as soon as it is completed. The men of the village have done considerable work on this project, getting ou logs and having the lumber sawed. Much volunteer work has already been done by the citizens, as well as raising the funds over a period of years for erection of the building.

Tigers Sweep 8 Out of 12 Places On All-Star Team

TORONTO, Nov. 16 (CP). — Hamilton Tigers today wrote another proud page in their long and brilliant football history by sweeping eight of the 12 places on the Ontario Rugby Football Union's all-star team.

Seldom before has the mythical squad, selected for The Canadian Press by football writers and coaches in the four Union cities, been dominated to such a degree by the Tigers, under playing-coach Frank Filchock, in winning the league title with an undefeated streak of 11 games.

The four other places on the dream team went to players of Toronto Beaches Indians whom the Tigers whipped in two straight games in a best-of-three title playoff series. Neither Sarnia Imperials nor Windsor Rockets, the other two clubs, won a spot on the team.

The vote was weighted to give equal balloting strength to each Union city.

The team:
Flying Wing—Gerry Walsh, Hamilton.
Half—Jack Harper, Hamilton.
Half—Jack Stewart, Hamilton.
Half (secondary defence) — Doug Pyzer, Toronto.
Quarter—Frank Filchock, Hamilton.
Snap—Jake Gaudaur, Hamilton.
Inside—Don McKenzie, Toronto.
Inside—Eddie Remigic, Hamilton.
Middle—Pat Santucci, Hamilton.
Middle—Lorne Parkin, Toronto.
Outside—Verne Picard, Toronto.
Outside — Danny Difrancisco, Hamilton.

Unanimous Choice

The brilliant playing of Filchock, former professional star with Washington Redskins and New York Giants whose passing and coaching has been the sensation of the ORFU, was recognized by the selectors, who made him the only unanimous choice.

The weakness of the backfield is the absence of a top-notch kitcker but in every other department it excels.

In front of the power-laden backfield is a hard-charging, heavy wingline that has Eddie Remigis of the Tigers and Don (Shanty) McKenzie of the Beaches as its bulwark from their inside positions.

The snapback spot was won by big Jake Gaudaur, former Toronto Argonaut and Montreal Alouette star. Lorne Parkin, Beaches' 213 - pound football - playing policeman and 205-pound Pat Santucci, a placement-kicking expert with the Tigers, were chosen for the middle wing positions.

To flank these two at the outside spots the experts chose hard-tackling Verne Pickard of the Beaches and Danny Difrancisco, of the Tigers, another bone-cruching tackler and deadly pass receiver.

ROSS NEW PREXY

Donald G. Ross Monday night was elected president of the Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League. Ross, former president from 1937 to 1939, was chosen to fill the shoes of the late Peter Camepbll, who died a few weeks ago.

Curling News

By Herb Martin

With the news of the sudden death of Fred Hickey, at Rice Lake on Saturday, a deep gloom was cash over the Curling Club. The late Mr. Hickey was one of the younger members of the club, and was rapidly advancing in the sport he had chosen for his winter pastime. He was popular with all the curlers and will be greatly missed. He was to have played vice for C. Giroux's rink Monday evening in the opening schedule game of the season. The sympathy of the entire membership of the Curling Club is extended to his wife and the members of the family.

This schedule runs right through till January 5, and we will have plenty of time to look the boys over and see who might be the possible winner of each group. Off-hand it looks as if each group will be hard-fought.

There was a nice turn-out of mixed rinks on Saturday night. They played two 5-end games, and afterwards light refreshments were served.

The afternoon bonspiel was not so well attended. Maybe too early in the season.

In memory of the late Fred Hickey the curlers bowed their heads in a minute's silence prior to their games last evening.

One hundred and fifty-two curlers, ladies and gents, commenced the 1948-49 schedule season yesterday afternoon and evening. There were many of last year's curlers on hand as well as many new ones. They all seemed to be doing pretty well and when you consider that many were on the ice for the first time this season, the curling was well above the average.

Tonight Group No. 3 plays at 7 o'clock and Group No. 4 at 9 o'clock.

Badminton Club Too Strong For Belleville

The Belleville Badminton Club took a bad beating at the Market Hall Saturday evening, when the Peterborough Club took 22 of the 24 matches played.

In the ladies' doubles, the local club won all six tilts, five of them in two straight and one going to three games. The six men's doubles also went to Peterborough, two of the matches going to three games. Belleville's top men's team put up quite a battle before going down. The first game went to points.

The Belleville club won two mixed doubles matches, all the rest going against them. It is expected the local club will visit Belleville before Christmas.

After the game a lunch was served by the local club and some friendly matches were played.

On November 27 the Peterborough players will visit the strong Bowmanville club.

JOE HAS OPERATION

Joe DiMaggio, New York Yankee outfield star, had a bone spur removed from his right heel in a half-hour operation Monday at Baltimore's Johns Hopkins Hospital. It was DiMaggio's third operation at Johns Hopkins in two years. Prior to the 1947 season he had to have plastic surgery to heal an operation for a bone spur removed from his other heel. He was back at the end of the season for bone chips in his throwing arm.

Week-Long 'Spiel To Open Curling Rink

LINDSAY, Nov. 16.—Arrangements are complete for the official opening of the new artificial ice plant at the Lindsay Curling Club with the first annual one-week bonspiel, Nov. 29 to Dec. 3.

Sixty-four rinks will compete from curling clubs in Ontario. Trophies have been donated to the club for the two primary events.

The club last season completed the erection of a $25,000 club house and also took into its membership the Ladies' Curling Club.

The club, which has a history running back three-quarters of a century, has a membership of over 350 including the junior curlers in the Collegiate Institute.

Warwick Still Leads Pack Sandford, Carveth Next

MONTREAL, Nov. 16—(CP).—Joe Carveth, a veteran winger who failed to hit his best stride last season after being traded to Montreal by Boston, found the range last week to pick up four goals and an assist in three games and move into a third-place tie in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Official statistics released today show Grant Warwick, Boston Bruins' mighty mite, still leading the pack with 14 points, two more than linemate Eddie Sandford. Deadlocked with Carveth with 11 points are Chicago's Doug Bentley and Billy Reay of Montreal.

Carveth has been an important factor in Canadiens' climb to second place in the loop standing. Playing right wing on a line with Norm Dussault and Reay, the former Detroit and Boston winger has helped the unit become the Habitants' most potent attacking trio.

Five players are tied for goal-getting honors. Warwick, Sandford, Carveth, Harry Watson of Toronto and Detroit's Ted Lindsay each have sniped six counters.

Reay has taken over leadership of the assists column with nine, while Warwick is next best with eight.

Elmer Lach of Canadiens, last year's scoring champion, hasn't been hitting the target too often so far this campaign, but he does lead in one department—penalties—with 30 minutes.

Harry Lumley retained top spot among the netminders with a goals-against average of 1.54 in 11 games. Bill Durnan of Montreal is next with a 1.65 percentage and also leads in shutouts with three.

Marlies Down Stratford 5-3

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Marlboros moved out of cellar place in the Ontario Hockey Association senior race on Monday night—for the first time this season.

Marlies picked up their fourth win last night when they downed Stratford Indians 5-3. The loss put Indians in the cellar-spot.

Scotty Mair with two, and Bill Johnson, Chuck Blair, and Jonny McCormick were Toronto's marksmen. Mickey Roth, Bill Walsh and Johnny Messmer counted for Stratford.

Toronto drove into a 1-0 lead late in the first period when he beat Bobby Bindernagel on a close in shot.

McCormick put Marlies up 2-0 early in the second frame on a pass from Timgren, but seconds later Bill Walsh answered for the Indians on a lone rush. Johnson put Toronto ahead, but Stratford fought back with two quick goals to tie up the game.

Goals by Mair and Blair in the third period clinched the game.

Only one game is scheduled in the OHA to-night. St. Michael's College Majors clash with Galt Rockets in the jupnior circuit.

A SUDDEN-DEATH GAME at Ottawa on Saturday will decide the eastern football team to meet Calgary Stampeders for the Dominion title Nov. 27. The semi-finals were reached Saturday when Ottawa Rough Riders romped to victory in the Big Four over Montreal Alouettes at Ottawa and Hamilton Tigers clinched the ORFU title by defeating Toronto Beaches at Hamilton. Top photo shows Jerry Welsh, rangy Hamilton backfielder, wading through mud-spattered, unidentified Toronto players as Hamilton ended their season undefeated. In the bottom photo Ches McCance (50) of Montreal looks a bit befuddled in the heat of the Ottawa dressing room after he and the Montreal Alouettes lost to the Rough Riders. Coach Wally Masters smilingly shakes his hand while Jake Dunlap looks over his shoulder. At right are Tony Golab (72), star of the series and Don Loney (77).

Two Rider Men Won't Make Hamilton Game

OTTAWA, Nov. 16 — (CP) — Two Ottawa Rough Riders players won't be in the lineup when the Big Four champions meet Hamilton Tigers Saturday.

Coach Wally Masters say Lally Lalonde and Pete Findlay, both outside wingers, were hurt badly enough in the smashing battle against Montreal Alouettes last Saturday to be kept out of the Eastern Canada final.

Lalonde has a knee injury and a possible shoulder separation. Findlay suffered a broken left hand in last Saturday's match.

For the other players, Masters is planning to ease up training.

"This team has come through a hard, rough schedule in the last two weeks and they're going to get as much rest as possible," he said Monday night.

The Riders gathered at Lansdowne Park for a round-table discussion of plays they're working out against playing-coach Frank Filchock's Tigers.

The training will end Friday evening with a chalk talk and a light run to top off preparations against the Hamilton team.

Filchock will bring the Tigers into Ottawa Friday afternoon. About 1,500 Tigers' fans are expected for the Saturday sudden-death skirmish for the right to meet Calgary Stampeders in the Grey Cup classic.

Hurst Disqualified In Third Round

TORONTO, Nov. 16 — (CP) — Montreal's Harry Hurst, giving away 15½ pounds to Pete Zaduk of Guelph, was automatically disqualified Monday night in the third round of their 10-round main bout when his manager tossed the towel into the ring.

Hurst had just been knocked down for the second time in the round when his manager, Maurice Foreman, threw in the towel at 2:55 and climbed into the ring after it.

A meagre Maple Leaf Gardens crowd howled its disapproval as Referee Bobby Lawrence disqualified Hurst.

Secretary Fred Steel of the Ontario Athletic Commission said Hurst's share of the purse would automatically be held up pending an investigation.

Find Robinson Diappointing

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16 — (AP) — Ray (Sugar) Robinson didn't look Monday night like the man Joe Louis recently called "pound for pound, the greatest fighting machine in the ring today."

The Harlem dandy won a unanimous 10-round non-title decision over undersized Bobby Lee of Baltimore but many in the crowd of 4,792 cried "draw" at the fight's end.

The welterweight champion, weighing in at 154, obviously was far from the devastating fighting man who won the title two years ago from Tommy Bell.

The squat 148-pound Baltimore fighter battered the champion about the body with sharp rights and lefts.

Robinson began to find the tiring Lee with viscious body punches in the fight and finally in the ninth round floored his stubborn opponent with a bolo punch for a count of nine. Lee kept his distance in round 10.

"I tried for a knockout," said Sugar Ray after the fight, "but I was afraid to hit high for fear of breaking my hands on his head. He bore in low and I had to use bolo punches

"Anyway, it's having your hand raised at the end that counts."

Phone Service Hastings For 48 Years

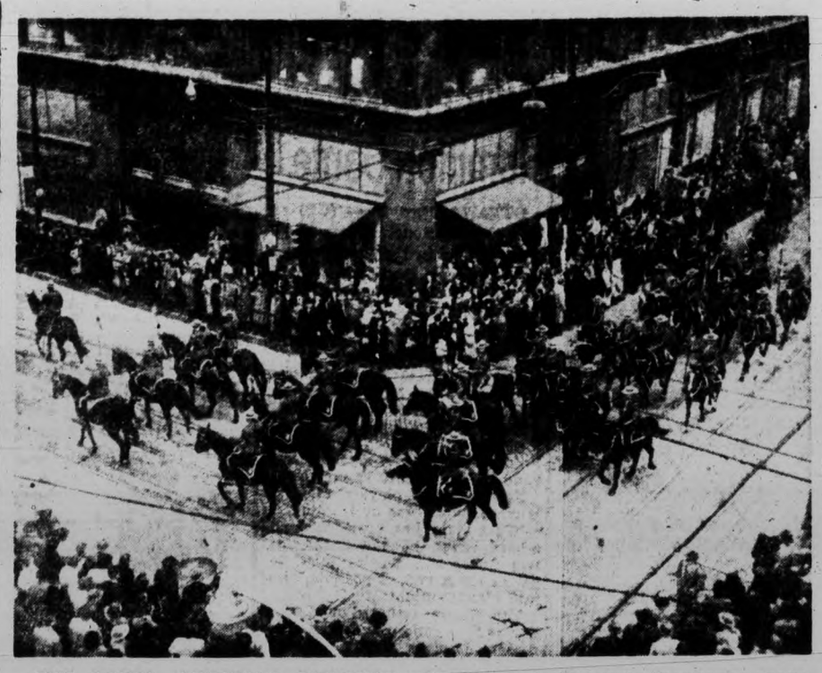
HASTINGS, Nov. 16—(ENS)—Hastings telephone history dates back to 1900 when the North American Telegraph Company opened an exchange in the village with Joseph Dilworth manager. The telephone had been invented 26 years earlier at Brantford Ontario by Dr. Alexander Graham Bell.

At first, of course, it was considered little more than an impractical toy that would never be able to take its place in the world of affairs. But by the "Gay Nineties" this opinion had changed, for scientists and engineers were constantly inventing new methods and devices for improving oral transmission.

Accordingly, by 1900, it was possible to talk without difficulty over a distance of several hundred miles.

Taken Over By Bell Co.

Shortly after the Bell Telephone Company of Canada purchased in 1910 the North American Telegraph Company. Timothy A. Coughlan, a druggist who died in 1943, was placed in charge of the company's local affairs.



His grandfather had been the first reeve, and the grandson's keen interest in the community was revealed in the number of offices in which he served.

He managed not only the affairs of the Bell Company in Hastings but was also the first secretary treasurer of the Hastings Hydro-Electric Commission. He served as chairman of the Hastings Separate School Board, as a member of the village council, and as a director of the Trent Waterways Association. Through his long association with the telephone industry he became a member of the Telephone Pioneers of America.

Initially, the first exchange served only a few subscribers, all of whom were listed in the December 1900 issue of the directory which contained the name of virtually every telephone subscriber in Ontario at that time. The names of the earliest Hastings subscribers recall establishments and persons prominent in the life of the community nearly a half century ago, they are: Clarendon House Hotel; Coughlan House, Hotel; Fowlds W, Flour mill; Fowlds, F.W. office and residence; Fowlds W. M. and son elevator; Grand Trunk Railway Station; Logan, James, Livery; and Walsh J. and Co., tannery.

To-day there are more than 250 telephones in Hastings.

The work on the new improved, common battery, exchange, which is replacing the present "magneto" exchange is almost completed. It will reduce the number of rings heard on a party line and will do away with the present hand crank.

Fired For Detaining Mayor Constable Gets Job Back

By STUART UNDERHILL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Because British public opinion can still make itself felt, Philip Watson, young Brighton policeman, is back pounding the beat.

Watson, a probationer of Scottish origin who took his job seriously, was dimissed at the request of F. G. Didden, Mayor of the adjacent town of Hove, who didn't like the way the young constable stopped him while he was driving to the Brighton races last August.

Watson's story was simple. Didden was travelling in the wrong direction on a one-way street. It was no use for him to say he was the Mayor of Hove. Watson knew his regulations. He insisted that Didden go with him to the police station.

Didden complained to the Chief Constable of Brighton, who promptly dismissed the constable. It didn't matter that Watson had a fine record as a regular army soldier and had won two commendations in 17 months as a probationer. He was told he was through with the force and there was no appeal.

Policeman's Lot

The Watsons hadn't counted on public opinion or on Constable Brighton branch of the Police Ted Higham, secretary of the Federation. Encouraged by the wiespread sympahty for Watson Higham waded into the fray with letters of protest to the proper authorities.

In council meetings and other gatherings the case was thrashed out a score of time, until at last it landed on the doorstep of the Home Office, which controls the country's police forces.

Happy Ending

By this time everyone in the United Kingdom knew about the case of the dismissed constable and there was no question where public sympathy lay. A cheer went up when the Home Office ordered Watson reinstated.

"People say I'm dour," said Watson. "I can't help it. It's just the way I'm made.

"I am going to do my best now to get on in the force for the sake of my wife and coming baby."

Introduced by Mrs. W. Watson, the speaker outlined missionary work in Bolivia from the early days.

In 1905 religious liberty was granted to Bolivia. Eighty-five per cent. of the population were illiterate when Mr. and Mrs. Haddow went to Bolivia. Now there is co-education. The Haddows built a school in 1925 and a Bible college in 1941. The gospel is being translated into the languages.

Ethel Barrymore Says Movies In Good Shape

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 16 (AP).—None other than Ethel Barrymore speaks out against those who claim the movie business is not in good shape.

"The picture industry is as good as ever," she says, pooh-poohing the pessimists. "They are always mumbling about something."

Interviewing a Barrymore is a hazardous chore at best, but I gave it a whirl and tossed some questions at her on the "Great Sinner" set.

What about the theatre?

"The theatre is not dead. They have been saying it was dead for four or five thousand years. It's just propaganda."

Is money for plays harder to get?

"Let's say money is harder to get for anything. I hear they've even had trouble getting it for pictures."

Still There

What has happened to the great personalities of the theatre?

"They're still there. Always have been. There are just as many exciting personalities in the theatre as ever."

What about television?

"Millions of dollars say it will be great. I don't like it now, except for the games. When I can't get out to the football games, I like to catch them on my set."

How long has she been in the theatre?

She swung around to her makeup table. "That's all in the Encyclopedia Britannica: read it yourself," she suggested.

Capsule Review

"Joan of Arc" (RKO) is a beautiful and touching film treatment of France's savior. All the color and pageantry are there, plus much action and drama. The film sometimes leans to talkativeness, but this is offset by an inspired job by Ingrid Bergman, a joy to watch. The big supporting cast is fine, especially Joe F rrer.

Believe Relief Planned For Shipbuilding Industry

OTTAWA, Nov. 16 — (CP) — Well-informed quarters believe the government soon will come up with some relief for Canada's hard-pressed shipbuilding industry.

The Canadian Maritime Commission, it is learned, had a glum picture placed before it at a recent meeting with its National Advisory Committee, and spokesmen for builders were insistent that the government do something to shore up this failing business.

At present, the industrialists pointed out, there is no business in sight for the industry beyond next year—perhaps beyond the first half of the year. The big post-war backlog of orders has pretty well dwindled away.

Belief in the industry is that the Dominion will probably come to its help with a system of accelerated depreciation on ships built for Canadian operators. This would make it easier for the operators to buy vessels, as they couyd divert part of their revenue from taxes toward paying off the cost of ships.

Steel

An announcement of plans to greatly expand Canadian iron and steel production is expected to come around the end of the year or—at the latest — early in the next session of Parliament.

Government sources say the plans are still being worked out in discussions between members of the steel industry and the government, but there has been no clear picture of cost involved. Some sources have suggested that it might, over a period, amount to $100,000,000.

"There is no point in increasing your capacity to produce basic iron or steel," a government source iron or steel," a government source declared, "unless you increase the capacity of the plant to handle it. There are not many plants in Canada which can do anything with an ingot of pig-iron."

Out Of Control

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 16—(AP— A United States air force fighter plane with a dead pilot in the cockpit roared out of control on a runway Sunday until a policeman blasted its tires with a riot gun. The pilot, killed in a ground collision with another plane, was Capt. Phillip Bonner, 28.

Lakefield Rink Sold For $3,800

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 16—(ENS)—A. Simpson, 183 Montclair Ave., Toronto, was winner of the Fraser car drawn for at Memorial Hall on Monday night. The rink committee held open house with bingo and games, in an effort to swell the funds for the new rinks.

Reeve W. C. Grant introduced Reeve Jerry Mahoney of Douro who made the draw.

The old rink was sold Monday afternoon. The public auction of the big structure resulted in its sale to the Lakefield Boat Co., Ltd., for $3,800. The rink, which is being replaced by the new Lakefield and District Memorial Arena now being built, will be used by the company for plant expansion.

The sale agreement included the clause by which the Lakefield Curling Club will have the use of the curling section of the rink for this coming curling season.

Howard Miles of Peterborough, a former Lakefield boy, who was auctioneer, held the sale free of charge.

The evening's entertainment drew a packed hall, both upstairs and down.

KAWARTHA FILM POPULAR

National Film Board has asked the council for additional copies of Peterborough's widely circulated technicolor film "Call of the Kawarthas." The Board's letter was referred last night to the industrial and tourist committee.

Jaycees Plan To Conduct Get-Out-Vote Campaign

To ensure maximum public participation in the city election the Junior Chamber of Commerce will again conduct a Get-Out-To-Vote campaign. This announcement was made on Monday night by President Les Reid at the regular meeting of Jaycees held at the Empress Hotel. The president also stated that the Junior Chamber would support the proposed by-law to raise an additional $1,500,000 for the completion of the new Civic Hospital.

He said that it would be a disgrace to Peterborough if the hospital were left uncompleted.

Members of the East City Bantam baseball team, City League champions, were guests at the dinner. Later they were presented with a trophy by Claude Hewitt.

Present were Larry Cunningham, Murray Byrne, Clare Ferguson, Don Ash, Jack McCarthy, Ross Withers, Paul Spencer, Ken Pammett, Don Clapper, Art Galley, Don Scriver and Frank McGillen. Coach Russ Scriver and Manager Ray Pammett sat at the head table.

Douglas Delaney introduced five Lindsay guests who will be the nucleus of a Junior Chamber soon to be formed in that town. They were Jerry Connelly, Robert Gibson, Grant Baldwin, Vernon Hunt and Ray Hall.

Three new members were introduced to the members—Robert McElroy, Harold Louden and George Stone.

George Cheatle of the Canadian Nashua Paper Co. addressed the meeting on the subject "Another Peterborough Industry."

He gave a brief history of the company from its founding in 1919. The number of employees had jumped from 50 in 1925 to between 150 and 160 today.

"Today," he said, "there are not half a dozen better-equipped or laid out plants in Canada.

Mr. Cheatle described the processing of the logs that went into making paper, the making of wax paper, and the glue and ink.

Later he showed a film which stressed the value of packing merchandise properly.

He was introduced by Les Reid and thanked by Roy Irwin.

Other guests of the evening were Bernard Morin, George Stone, Toronto; Ed Browne, Don Clark, Leslie Burnley, Doug McPhail, Gord Patterson, Bill Roche and Clare Grady.

Former Reeve Of Lakefield A. B. Burrows Will Accept Nomination For City Council

A former reeve of Lakefield and member of the county council two years, Arthur B. Burrows has decided to accept nomination in the aldermanic elections.

"I have been thinking of it for some weeks since friends suggested to me that I ought to consider being a candidate," Mr. Burrows said. He is a subdistrict administrator of the Department of Veterans Affairs, and to offer himself for municipal service he had to obtain departmental permission from the Minister, Hon. M. F. Gregg, V.C.

He was assistant manager of the unemployment insurance commission's office in Peterborough prior to 1945 when he was transferred to the DVA work in an office then opened in the hospital on Monaghan Road.

In the First World War he enlisted in the 93rd Battalion of Peterborough, was transferred overseas to the 16th Battery, was wounded April 1, 1918, and received the Military Medal. His son, F.O. Bernard Burrows of the RCAF was killed in an air raid on Munster, Germany, in the Second World War. He was pilot of a Halifax bomber.

Arthur Burrows has been long interested in civic, church, Canadian Legion, sports and other activities. He had never been a councillor, but was elected directly to the Lakefield reeveship, with experience as trustee of the High School and Public School for six years. He was secretary of library board and secretary-treasurer of the board of trade; president of the Canadian Legion three years; secretary of the curling club, and athletic association and superintendent of the United Church Sunday School.

Mr. Burrows was president of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir ten years, president of the Workers' Educational Association credit union four years, director of the Ontario credit union league, and was actively identified with various other groups.

At present is a member of the official board of George St. United Church, vice-president of the Civil Servants district council, members of the Peterborough Men's Sketch Club, chairman of the music committee of George St. Church.

Mr. Burrows has been on the executive of the Boy Scouts Association, president of the W.E.A. two years, chairman of the relief committee in Lakefield two years, second vice-president of the Canadian Legion, Peterborough branch two years and was chairman of its finance committee.

Lake Tragedy Survivors Reported Well

The two survivors of the freezing three-and-a-half hour struggle in Rice Lake on Saturday are both reported to be "progressing favorably." Brenton Dawson of Millbrook, whose experience numbed him with cold to the shoulder, is still in bed at his home and sulpha drugs are being given to help fight the chill he received. There are no further complications.

Miss Mary Seeney, who was unconscious because of the experience, is also still under medical attention at the Civic Hospital, where she is a nurse. She is being kept in bed and precautions taken that the thorough wetting does not develop into more serious difficulty.

Body No Recovered

Twenty-five employees of the CGE Company manning 11 boats continued dragging operations all day Monday seeking the body of Fred Hickey, 41-year-old draftsman who drowned on Saturday. The men report difficulty because of the rough water and they reported back to the plant at seven o'clock last night saying the body had not been found.

At noon, a company truck took hot dinners to the dragging crews, and this is being done again today.

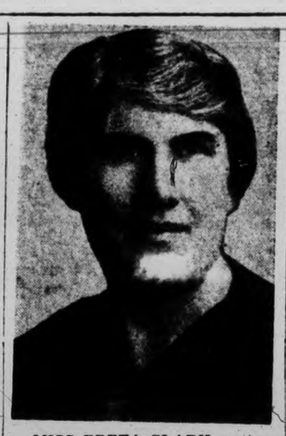
Seventeen men were detailed for dragging operations today, and if the body is not recovered by tonight, this will be reduced to three boats on Wednesday.

Provincial Constable Kellogg of Hastings plans to check the shoreline from Hastings to the scene of the tragedy today. He will cover both sides of the lake and river.

Trust Favors $11,000 Grant For Bandstand

City Trust Commission informed the council last night that they are in favor of the transfer from their surplus of $11,000 to pay for the concrete bandstand at Nicholls Oval.

Their letter from T. A. Mackay, secretary, announced that they are not appearing before the Ontario Municipal Board at 2 p.m., Nov. 19, in Toronto.



Aldermen Sands, Swanston and Dodds were appointed to represent the council who have made the application for this money in the name of the City Trust who had previously expressed assent.

This committee was also authorized to interview the Department of Highways regarding provision for diversion of heavy traffic from the Charlotte St. entrance to the city.

In view of the fact that a letter from City Planning Board was broadcast Monday night it may be published that the council is considering the extension westerly of Cottesmore Ave. to No. 28 Highway. The Board has asked that the council name some official to get options on the land required for this extension.

This proposed purchase signifies intention to switch traffic over the Cottesmore St. knoll, across High St. and Monaghan Road, and, as previously suggested, along Albert St. to Park St. and into the congestion of traffic at Alparka.

The Examiner reported some weeks ago that the first plan of the council and the Department was to encourage the diversion of traffic to the Lansdowne St. cut-off, Highway 7A. Barrier to this change is the existing trap at the junction of 7A and ... the hilltop.

MISS GRETA CLARK, native of Omemee, is with the Anglican Church missions at Shanghai, working with the university students. This port is not in any immediate danger from the Communist armies, a church official reported today.

Omemee Girl At Shanghai Not In Danger

Miss Greta Clark, Omemee-born Anglican missionary now at Shanghai is not in any immediate danger according to Canon L. A. Dixon, foreign missionary secretary for the Church of England in Canada.

Miss Clark sent a letter to Mrs. Howard Clark, Chemong Rd., two weeks ago, telling of her work among the university students at Shanghai. She was transferred to this point last Dec. 15 when trouble developed in the interior of China. While Miss Clark explains in her letter that conditions are steadily getting worse, she gives no hint that the four women missionaries in the area may be ordered home.

Howard Clark, and Milton Clark, both of Smith township, are brothers of Miss Greta Clark.

T. J. Carley Speaks To Sales-Ad Club

T. J. Carley, KC, spoke on the subject of municipal administration, powers and duties of councils and other phases and departments of civic management and service, as guest of the Sales and Ad Club Monday night, preceding the council's broadcast.

"Our way of life depends on the functioning of our local bodies," Mr. Carley said. They should be strong and vital, qualities which were bound to be imparted by the lively and intelligent interest of the municipal electors.

Since the depression, Mr. Carley said, there was a trend to give the Ontario Municipal Board enlarged supervisory powers especially over the financial commitments of municipalities.

BELOW QUOTA

Peterborough is off on the right power foot for another week, 190,000 kilowatt-hours Monday, and the quota for the day was 229,700. That bright count for the first day of the week was not helped by various floor lamps that were seen burning here and there at 3 p.m.

Sales and Ad Club Hosts To Mayor, Aldermen; Council Meeting Broadcast

By-law No. 4737, a routine authority designating polling places for the municipal elections Monday, Dec. 6, should bear some notation of its variance from custom. It was the first by-law passed by the council Monday night in the Kawartha Room of the Empress Hotel, and in that priority it is the first by-law known to have received its three readings beyond the walls of the City Hall.

The list of polling places set out in the by-law was not even read. That has been the practice of councils for years. They generally leave to the city clerk the responsibility of selecting voting places with an eye to the convenience of the people. It may be mentioned in committee, or the clerk may recommend certain changes of location to the mayor and some of the members of the council.

This bit of business is only a commonplace in the municipal administration. The bylaw introduced by Ald. Dick Raine received the same summary acceptance. It was taken as read. However, it assumes singularity in the difference of the location of the place in which it was passed as compared with the 4,736 bylaws which have preceded. Possibly in years gone by some other council did meet somewhere outside the municipal headquarters, but there is no memory of any exception.

Something New

So, the Peterborough Sales and Ad Club have conferred on it a touch of distinction, in passing, and probably in the records.

City Council members were dinner guests of the club Monday night, and the first three-quarters of an hour of the meeting was broadcast over CHEX. The business was without any contentious issue. Even the communications were light. Mayor Ovens presided, and all the members were present except Ald. Max Swanston, who is somewhere in the north country with the deer hunters.

The immediate effect to the members of the Sales and Ad Club was an object lesson in council procedure, and CHEX carried most of the meeting to citizens of the air audience, most of whom were listening to the conduct of their municipal business for the first time.

The opening period of the council's agenda is allotted to the hearing of deputations. That phase was accepted by members of the host club to submit questions.

Ken Hanbidge enquired about the council's present agreement with Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation for the erection of houses for rent, when they will be ready for occupation, and to whom they are available.

Houses Ready in January

Ald. Gordon Armstrong, chairman of the special housing committee, answered this agreement relates to the Housing Corporation's contract with the Reynolds Construction Company who are actually doing the work. The undertaking is for 226 houses on property provided by the city. Of that number 136 are in construction, 125 have foundations complete, 50 to 60 of the houses are farther advanced and 45 have roofs.

Between 15 and 20 are nearer completion than the others," Ald. Armstrong said. "Delivery of 24 was expected in December, but delays have occurred, and the first house will not be available until early in January. We expect there will be 12 ready in the first two weeks of that month, and another 12 before the end of it. We are expecting completion at the rate of five or six a week after that. They will be rented in the same way as all the other Wartime Houses, through the local office of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, Hunter St."

Errol Wilson asked for information about the Civic Hospital bylaw authorizing the borrowing of $1,500,000 for its completion. "We realize that the hospital is necessary, but how do you arrive at the figures?"

Ald. Dick Raine, chairman of the special hospital committee, replied that he welcomes this question for the opportunity it afforded of explaining the bylaw to the radio audience.

"The council and the Board of Governors of the hospital have been burning midnight oil on this matter for the last month or more," said Ald. Raine. "If the hospital was not a necessity in the community we would certainly not be asking the people for the money to finish it. The additional money is needed because of the increased costs of building, and also because we obtained permission of the Ontario Department of Health to go ahead with the entire project as it was originally planned and approved.

We are receiving in government grants $230,000 from the Ontario Department of Health and $230,000 from the Federal Government.

Middlesex Group Takes Bull Trophy

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—(CP). — A Middlesex County team won Monday's intercounty livestock judging competitions for junior farmers at the Royal Winter Fair. The Middlesex group carried off the Jeffrey Bull Memorial Trophy as champion judges of heavy horses, beef cattle, dairy cattle, sheep and swine.

Team members were: Albert Lawson, Douglas McLean and Ronald White.

The Robert Graham Memorial Trophy for the contestant under 26 making the highest marks in judging two classes of heavy horses and two classes of light horses went to E. A. Starr of Guelph.

Blood Test Evidence

COOKSVILLE, Nov. 16—(CP). — Magistrate Kenneth Langdon Monday overruled a decision of the Supreme Court of Alberta and ruled that a blood test taken without warning to the person concerned was admissible as evidence. The test showed that John Coward of suburban New Toronto, charged with dangerous driving following an accident in which Peter Herd of nearby Lakeview was killed, had 1.4 parts of alcohol per 1,000 units in his system—equivalent to seven ounces of liquor. The charge against Coward was dismissed and the Crown withdrew a second charge of careless driving.

St. Paul's Church, Bethany Observes 72nd Anniversary

By MRS. ROSS CARR

BETHANY, Nov. 16 (ENS). — St. Paul's Anglican congregation, Bethany, observed on Sunday a special Thanksgiving service and the 72nd anniversary of the building of the church. The service was conducted by the rector, Rev. T. S. Gault, and a special feature was the dedication of two brass collection plate, in loving memory of the late Charles and Catharine Reynolds, presented by their daughter, Mrs. May Buller of Brantford. Mr. Charles Reynolds, who was the local undertaker, was choir leader in the church for many years and was the first appointed sidesman. Other members of his family living in the village are Mr. Fred Reynolds, Miss Emma Reynolds and Mrs. Clara Armstrong.

Although it is 72 years since the church was built, services were held earlier in the Temperance Hall and Orange Hall, under the direction of the Rev. John Vicars of the early church known as the United Church of England and Ireland. He lived at the home of Jonathan Bryans and for entertainment and helping church funds he conducted "Penny Reading," where local talent provided the program.

Seventy-five years ago in April, 1873, the first official Vestry meeting was held in the Orange Hall, and those in attendance were Rev. John Vicars, Dr. C. H. Brereton, William Graham, A. Morris, S. Vance, Isaac Preston, Ahaziah Morris, and George Reynolds. At this meeting Isaac Preston was appointed Lay Delegate to the Synod and George Reynolds and Ahaziah Morris as Wardens.

Name Building Committee

Three years later, in 1876, a public meeting was held in the Orange Hall for the purpose of forming a building committee. Those present were the Rev. H. F. Burgess, William Graham, George Reynolds, Porter Preston, A. Morris, Robert Kennedy, Richard Touchburn, Jeffery Graham, Jonathan Bryans, Johnston Morton and George Sisson. The committee appointed were Rev. Burgess, George Reynolds, William Ward, Jeffrey Graham, George Sisson, Robert Kennedy and A. Morris, J.P.

The land was donated by William Davis Sr. (whose son, also William Davis, still resides in Bethany and is now in his 94th year). Much of the work of building was done free gratis and mention is made of the brick and stone for the new church being drawn by some of the same committee, also John Smith, A. Griffin, J. Bigelow, William Ward, J. Murphy, J. Wilson, A. Preston, J. Lee, William Lucas, C. Winslow, Rogert Boggs, Richard Johnston, I. Lamb and J. Scott. Mr. James McCullough was engaged as the mason, and Thomas Lee, the carpenter. All of the aforementioned men have long since died, but many of their descendents still live in the community.

On May 24, 1876, an impressive ceremony was held for the laying of the cornerstone of St. Paul's Church. This act was performed by the Most Worshipful, the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Canada, J. K. Kerr of Toronto, assisted by a large number of members of the Masonic Order from Port Hope, Lindsay, Peterborough and Millbrook. He used a magnificent silver trowel which was inscribed and presented to him later as a memento by Rev. H. F. Burgess. The cornerstone contains copies of many local newspapers as well as The Globe and The Daily Mail, pieces of money from one penny, 5c, 10c, 25c and 25 cent shin plaster or script.

Opening Services

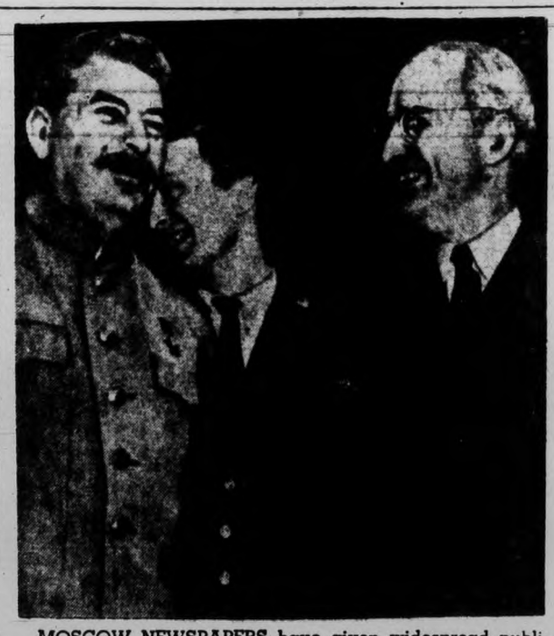
On November 12, 1876, the opening service was conducted by the Rector, Rev. H. F. Burgess. The sermon was given by Rev. Dean William Allen of Millbrook. The church edifice is purely Gothic, with nave and chancel, tower and spire; the latter from the ground to the vane being 75 feet in height. The length of the building including the chancel is about 75 feet, and the breadth 38 feet. The style is early English, biult of brick and pieced with double lancets on both sides, triplets in the East and west ends, surmounted with circulars in the gables and all of stained glass. The nave and chancel are open roofed, purlines, corbels, rafters and beams exposed and the woodwork throughout was left in the natural condition and oiled. The seating capacity including the choir is for about 250 persons, but at the opening service approximately 400 people were accommodated. The tower of the church was made six bricks thick. In it a large bell was placed in 1908. This bell, of B Flat tone, was shipped from Toy, U.S.A., and bought by the pound. The first time it was used, Robert Morton tolled it for the funeral service of the late Rev. Burgess' son, Clifford.

On April 14, 1879, at the Easter Monday Vestry meeting a motion was made appointing Mr. Charles Reynolds and Mr. William White as first sidesmen. Twenty-one years later, in 1897, the last payment of the debt upo nthe church was paid off.

Many improvements have been added since those early days. At first the church was lighted by coal oil lamps. In 1922 these were replaced by Coleman lanterns. Later, these fixtures were sold to St. Mary's Church and replaced by electricity in July, 1930. The first heating equipment was two huge box stoves, one at the front and the other at the back. There were long lines of stove pipes running the length of the building. These were replaced by a furnace in 1925. To increase the grandeur of the church, the original triplet windows at the west have been replaced by three memorial windows given by the Girls' Guild in 1930, who also donated the carpet and altar hanging. A second memorial window was dedicated in memory of the late J. J. Preston, and the baptismal font was in memory of Rev. H. F. Burgess.

Provding a Rectory

In the beginning there was no special rectory. Later Rev. H. F. Burgess built a home next to the church, which Mr. Robert Morton now owns. Some time after that the house in which Mr. Harold Sanderson lives was bought and used as a rectory until the present one was built directly opposite the church in 1920.



There are very few in the village who actually recall the building of the church. Some, who are in their seventies vaguely remember something about it. However on Glengarry Ave. in the village there are three elderly people who have very vivid recollections of the services held on the opening day. There is Mr. William Davis, who was mentioned above as being in his 94th year; Mrs. Ricard Johnston, 86 years of age, who is the daughter of the earlier mentioned Robert Kennedy on the building committee, and who followed Miss Addie Preston as organist in the church; and Miss Lottie Reynolds, also well up in the eighties, who is a daughter of the George Reynolds who did much towards helping with the building. Miss Annie Sisson, who lives on Wilson Street, also remembers the opening services.

It is interesting to note thata many of those names mentioned who helped in the building of the church were really not Anglican by faith . . . many of them were Presbyterians and Methodists, but all were anxious to help in any project for the good of the village. And perhaps they builded better than they knew, for many have gone from this village to take their place in the world, the better for the influence of the church of their childhood.

Following Mr. Burgess as rector have been the Rev. A. Davis, Rev. H. Alywin, Rev. J. A. Poston, Rev. H. Caplan, Rev. A. T. Weir, Rev. George Fierheller, Rev. A. R. Holden, Rev. J. J. E. Mason, and the present, Rev. T. S. Gault.

An anniversary is something more than a group of people celebrating the possession of a church building. It is the sharing of a Christian experience which is close and personal. To measure up to the great inheritance of the past is a challenge to secure the future by ministering to the men and women, boys and girls of our day.

"Were a star quenched on high, for ages would its light
Still travelling downward from the sky, shine on the world its light.
So, when a good man dies, for years beyond our ken,
The good he leaves behind him shines on the paths of men."

MOSCOW NEWSPAPERS have given widespread publication to a Tass dispatch which reports that President Truman might go to Russia for a personal conference with Premier Stalin. The two men are pictured above during a meeting in Potsdam, Germany, in 1945. Standing between them is a Russian interpreter. Assistant White House Press Secretary Eben Ayers denied that the President would go overseas to meet Stalin, but said he would gladly meet him in the United States.

Investigate Refusal

OTTAWA, Nov. 16—(CP). — The Labor Department announced Monday night it was investigating the refusal of Halifax and Montreal longshoremen to work ships diverted there in future from strike-bound United States ports. While longshoremen come under the new Federal labor code which bars strikes except after certain procedure has been followed, a departmental official said the status of the current dispute was not known here.

90 Jr. Farmers Compete At Winter Fair

TORONTO, Nov. 16 — (CP) Ninety farm boys and girls from nine Provinces competed Monday in annual national contests for boys' and girls' farm clubs. The tests were held in connection with the Royal Winter Fair, which opens today.

Quebec teams won the dairy cattle, poultry and clothing projects. Ontario representatives led in beef cattle and swine classes. Manitoba teams placed first in grain and food and British Columbia in potatoes.

Two-member teams of boys—with some girls as well—cast an appraising eye over a line-up of grain, potatoes, poultry, beef and dairy cattle, and swine. Watched by older experts their task was to pick winners from some of the best farm entries at the Fair.

And at the Ontario College of Education here young farmerettes matched their prowess in cooking and making clothes.

For the 37 girls and 53 boys' is all between the ages of 16 and 21, Monday was the culmination of a year of local and Provincial activity in boys' and girls' club work. Each team is a Provincial winner in its class— here they sought Dominion honors against the best from other Provinces.

Group members will enjoy themselves for the rest of the week, with a scheduled two-day tour of the Toronto area, a visit to Niagara Falls and Hamilton on Thursday and a trip to Ottawa Friday.

Pay 52 Million For Privilege Of Making Bets

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP).—The 4,514,277 race-goers who bet $333,028,308 at New York' tracks this year had to pay $52,338,505.90 for that privilege. The latter figure is the 15-per-cent "take" plus breakage.

The 196-day season, longest in New York's turf history, ended Monday at Jamaica and, in keeping with the general trend around the country, both wagering and attendance dipped from last year.

The 37-day Empire of Jamaica meeting closed out the long 1948 session Monday when 29,766 fans saw Sidney S. Schupper's filly, Miss Disco, score a photo triumph over Buzfuz and First Flight in the New Rochelle handicap—good for a $15.60 payoff.

Ted Atkinson, formerly of Toronto, again was the star of the jockey ranks here. He rode his 257th winner of the year and the 1,900th of his career Monday when Sorisky captured the third dash. Hedley Woodhouse, by scoring a double, tied Ted at 36 winners each for the Empire meeting.

However, Atkinson, who now plans to rest until Florida's Hialeah meeting, was undisputed leader of the Belmont fall, Jamaica, Aqueduct spring and fall, Saratoga-at-Jamaica and Saratoga-at-Home meetings. Eddie Arcaro was top man at Belmont's spring session.

COLLEGE CUT-UPS — Students from Dartmouth College, Mass., startled Montrealers Saturday by parading in pyjamas. Here they are seen receiving encouragement from Montreal co-eds. To perform the initiation feats the U.S. students travelled from Dartmouth to Montreal by jeep, returning Sunday to be in time for classes Monday morning.

President Conn Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs Monday night recalled right-winger Taylor from Pittsburgh Hornets and sent Les Costello down to Pittsburgh.

Smythe said at Toronto Costello was being sent down for more experience because "too many of our regulars are playing below expectations to allow us to carry two inexperienced players at the same time."

The team already is carrying Fleming Mackell, a recent graduate of junior ranks.

Taylor turned professional in 1947 after starring with Winnipeg Monarchs in 1946 when they won the Memorial Cup.

W. D. (Bill) Taylor has resigned as secretary-treasurer of the Royal Canadian Golf Association and will be succeeded by W. T. (Bill) Hamilton of Toronto, RCGA president F. N. Robertson said Monday night at Toronto.

Robertson said the 39-year-old advertising man gave up his post because of pressure of business but would remain on the Association's board of governors to which he was elected last summer. Hamilton takes up the job on a full-time basis and will have the assistance of E. Harold Banks who remains assistant secretary.

The final round of playoffs is due in Toronto this week to pick the six badminton players who will represent Canada in the Thomas Cup competition against a team from India. The event will be played in Toronto the first week in December. Regarded as contenders for the Canadian team are Dick Burch and Gordon Simpson of Montreal, Ted Pollock and Jack Muir of Toronto, Roy Smith of Woodstock, Johnny Samis and Darryl Thompson of Vancouver, Al Williams of Calgary and Ken Forsythe of Winnipeg.

Canadian featherweight champion Jean Richards of Montreal pounded out a unanimous 10-round decision over Dominion bantamweight title-holder Fernando Gagnon of Quebec in a non-title bout Monday night. Richard scaled 125, Gagnon 122.

A $10,200 bid for a 14-year-old Bull Dogmary V mare topped the first two sessions yesterday of the fall thoroughbred sales of Keeneland, N.Y.

The mare, Woof, was consigned by Mrs. Emil Denemark of Chicago and was purchased by Mereworth Farm of Lexington, N.Y.

A total of 149 head were sold at the two sales for $211,050. At the morning sales of mares, horses and weanlings, 84 head sold for $132,350, an average of $1,576.

Murdo McKay of the lagging Buffalo Bisons this week took over top honors in American Hockey League scoring race with 32 points, it was announced at New York. He has 12 goals and 20 assists. The Fort William centre ousted Carl Liscombe of Providence Reds, a familiar figure at the top for many years. Liscombe is in second place with 26 points and Sid Smith of Pittsburg Hornets in third place with 25. Veteran Pete Leswick of Cleveland Barons and Paul Gladu of the pace-settingk St. Louis Flyers each had 13 goals to lead in that department. McKay's 20 assists led in play-making.

Billy Conn of Pittsburg., former world heavyweight title challenger, hit the comeback trail Monday night at Macon, Ga., with a teachnical knockout over Mike O'Dowd of New York in 1:30 of the ninth round. The bout was scheduled for 10 rounds. Conn floored O'Dowd three times in the eighth and again in the ninth.

Rolfe Intends To Place Accent On Youth

DETROIT, Nov. 16 —(AP) — Red Rolfe whipped into his new job of manager of Detroit Tigers today as eagerly as if he was going after a hot one at third.

The former New York Yankees' third-base star, more recently head of the Tiger farm system, quickly set up a policy.

"We're going to have a hustling ball club or know the reason why," he said.

Rolfe, who has never managed a pro ball team, was the surprise choice of the Tiger front office as successor to the dismissed Steve O'Neill.

Owner Walter O. Briggs, sr., together with son Walter O., jr., and General Manager Bill Evans, named Rolfe Monday as the "unanimous choice."

Rolfe said he was going to "put the accent on youth." The Tigers had "started to run down."

"But it's not a bad ball club," the ex-Yankee said. "If we can strengthen two or three spots, we'll be up there in the pennant fight."

Rolfe himself said the Detroit pitching strength has been 'grossly exaggerated.

He said, however, that he would build his mound staff around Hal Newhouser, Verg Trucks, Ted Gray, Art Houtteman, and Freddie Hutchinson.

As to club "hustle", it wasn't surprising to hear Rolfe mention it.

UNPOPULAR THEN TOO?

Spinach was first used in England about 1500 and at that time was called "spinage."

MISS ELSA GRIGORS of Latvia, Left, former matron in DP hospitals in Germany, and Miss Agnese Raniste of Estonia, Right, former nurse in similar institutions, will be nursing assistants at the Peterborough Civic Hospital for one year, and may then become registered nurses in this province. They commenced the term of orientation and observation Monday, and will attend the regular classes of instruction at the hospital, directed by Miss A. L. Thomson, principal of the school of nursing.

Nurses Deplore Communism Say "Curtain" in Germany Hides Any War Preparation

Two graduate nurses from Displaced Persons camps in Germany are becoming acquainted with routine at the Peterborough Civic Hospital Monday. They are Elsa Grigors of Latvia and Miss Agnese Raniste of Estonia. Both have been accepted for one year's service as nursing assistants and with recommendation they will become Registered Nurses of Ontario and share the professional standing of graduates in this province.

The girls arrived in Peterborough Friday evening from Montreal, and feel it is an ideal location. They had requested positions in Ontario as they have friends in Toronto. Both have been parted from their homes and families since 1944. Miss Grigors has no word of her mother and sisters in three years. A letter from Miss Raniste's mother in Russian-controlled Estonia told her not to think of coming home for "it would not be well for her." Through the medium of a nurse in Denmark she will continue sending infrequent letters to her home, using another name.

It is some satisfaction to Miss Raniste that her family is alive but she knows they are in a very wretched state under Communist rule and there is absolutely nothing she can do for them. Before leaving Europe there was a constant threat of being taken back herself as Russia is always trying to grab more people for slave work. DP's of Russian nationality are calling themselves Ukranians so they cannot be forced to return.

An iron curtain in Germany between Russian and Allied occupied territories has prevented the girls forming any opinion about Russian plans for another war. They do not believe British and American authorities have knowledge of what is going on behind this line either. "Certainly every preparation of the Allies is for peace," they observed.

Health of DP's is in a continual decline the nurses state with authority as both have done Public Health nursing in the camps. Miss Grigors estimated there are 13,000 still in Germany, each camp accommodating several thousand. "Entire families, including the grandparents, are living in one room and use it for sleeping and eating as well," she said. "DP's with children usually provide meals for themselves since the common dining room of a camp serves food that only grown-ups can eat. The poor rations they are allowed weekly would about equal the quantity of nourishing food served to us at one dinner here". She believes the German people are fairly well fed now as they are mostly able to buy what they want since the new currency system was established. Before that everything was very bad and only the black market offered desirable food or clothing. Parcels from Canada are "wonderful" help to DP's but do not come often.

Miss Grigors has been matron in charge of DP hospitals and her curriculum compares exactly with that followed by Miss A.L. Thomson at the Civic Hospital. Both nurses graduated from hospitals founded by the American Red Cross Society which operated on the finest nursing system known. Valuable contributions to nursing knowledge are expected from the newcomers as they in turn absorb new methods and learn the use of new equpiment.

After graduating in October, 1936, Miss Grigors nursed in Latvia for three years. "Coming of the Russians in 1940 changed everything for us" she says. "They had no respect for our profession, or indeed for any degree of education or culture. We were forced to learn politics of the Communist party and I found it very difficult for I had no interest. Their leaders were posted in each ward to watch us closely." By the Russian system anyone can be a nurse and a shoemaker can become a doctor with several years' training.

Both girls were treated as professional women by the Germans, and while they do not have any love for them, they say the German standard of living is similar to their own and ours. "The Russians have no feeling for the arts and would crush everything of that nature," Miss Grigors said. This attitude has come from the Communist teaching and the young people of that country know nothing else she eplained.

Only kindness has been offered by the Canadian people the nurses have met in 10 days here, "much more than we expected" they say. They like the appearance of Canadian girls and are thrilled with the prospect of having clothes like theirs, especially shoes. Stylish dresses are available in Germany now but the quality is very poor they state. They look forward to attending the cinema and think it is wonderful to have free time for pleasure of their choice.

Mrs. S. Malsch, president, received, assisted by Mrs. W. G. Gunn, vice-president. Mrs. S. Redout and Mrs. S. Hayman were in charge of the membership table in the Junior school. Mrs. C. A. Garside and Mrs. J. Fausett were in the Senior school. Mrs. P. D. Howden, health convener, displayed a large collection of literature and pamphlets that attracted considerable attention.

Graduate Nurses Complete Refresher Course

A refresher course for graduate nurses of Peterborough and surrounding district, including Lindsay, Belleville, Cobourg and Port Hope, was completed Monday evening. The course was sponsored by Chater C, District 6 of the Registered Nurses Association and held in residence classrooms at St. Joseph's and Civic Hospital. It is the first course held since the war and was under convenership of Miss Mary Pickens. It is expected they will be held annually in future owing to the great interest shown in the course with an average attendance of 110 nurses.

First lecture was given by Dr. R. K. Magee who talked on surgery. Demonstrations in nursing care by Miss M. Robson, Miss K. Snider and Miss M. Nesbitt followed. The second lecture consisted of a talk on "New methods in the treatment of fractures" by Dr. Donald Whyte. The nursing care of Orthopedic patients was then demonstrated by Miss M. Pickens and "Care of the patient on a Stryker Frame" by Miss E. Fenwick.

Speaker at the third and final lecture was Dr. J. Wishard on "Newer methods of anaesthesia" Demonstrations in nursing care following anaesthesia and the care of the patient post-operatively were given by Sister Agnes and Miss Barnett.

"Dogpatch Night" Good Fun At 20 Plus Club

Patched denims, glamorous ensembles from flour sacks, ragged and tattered blouses, odd socks and shoes were the styles adopted by more than 100 young people Saturday evening. They were bound for 20 Plus Club's "Dogpatch Night" at the YWCA where the scene was colorful and hilaricus. Sadie Hawkins' tactics were adopted and boys who were dragged back by their hair wondered just which is the weaker sex. General entertainment of games, dances and novelties followed the habits of "Dogpatchers" with Alf. Quinby as master of ceremonies.

Prizes for the best costumes went to the "Wolf Gal," impersonated by Miss Betty Piercy, and to "Hairless Joe," revealed as Bob King.

Spot prizes and gifts for competitions were won by Misses Hilda Northey and Sonia Bissett, and Messrs. Graham Donaldson and Al Smalley.

In spite of the interest shown the Shmoo's eggs that were given to everyone have failed to hatch

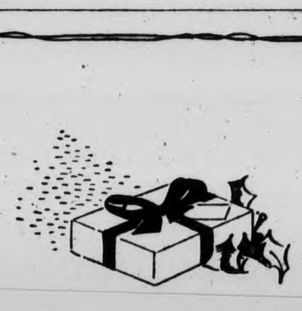
THE NEWEST MINK COLLAR—This petable little Victorian mantle of wild mink has the most surprising collar for such a midget-short model, and it does a fine fashion trick, as photographed, or pushed up in a face framing, modish high collar. And by midgets, we don't mean the wearer, for six feet of handsome woman would look just dandy wearing it.

Informality Asked In Dress At Reception to Governor

The visit of Their Excellencies, Viscount and Viscountess Alexander of Tunis, is a much anticipated event of Thursday, November 25. The City Council has mailed invitations to those in Peterborough who will attend the civic dinner and reception given that evening.

In dressing for the occasion guests may be guided by the fact Their Excellencies have requested "informality." It is learned from the lady-in-waiting to be present, Miss Anstice Gibbs, that the Viscountess will wear either an evening dress or dinner dress. Capt. J. Chichester-Clark, aide to the Viscount, says the Governor-General will be wearing a tuxedo and black tie.

Ladies can wear the most becoming gown they have, whether it be styled for evening or dinner wear, and if they add gloves they may be any color they choose. For the gentlemen, a tuxedo or dark business suit will be correct, but do not wear an evening suit.



Etiquette on "being formally presented" states a curtsy is required. However, it is not definitely known if this procedure will take place. Instructions will be given by the aide-de-camp to the first lady entering, and those following may be guided by her action. Since the receiving time will be only a half hour, it will probably be kept informal to allow as many as possible to be presented.

Good Man Hard To Find New York Divorcee Discovers

BY SAUL PETT

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 —(AP)— Dorothy Lawlor, the "wife for sale," is still no sale.

In the five months since she came into the public eye by advertising for a husband with $10,000, the ledgers of the shapely blonde divorcee shows: letters, 3,000; wrong steers, 100; near misses 20; paid night club appearances, seven; all-expense-paid trips to interview prospects, two; husbands, none.

Whether it's the inflationary price or diminishing demand and increased supply, the 28-year-old Mrs. Lawlor isn't sure. But she notes that a "good man is hard to find; the woods are full of phonies—kibitzers, cranks, comedians and guys just interested in a good time, not marriage".

A Colorado rancher wrote he was worth $100,000 but later he couldn't dig up Dorothy's fare; an Ohio machine-shop owner asked twice for pictures which do "not conceal your lovely attributes" and told her to write him care of his barber shop.

An Eglishman vacationing in Southern France casually invited her to "take a ship and come over here if you can afford it"; a "muscatel drinker" in Arizona apologized for having written that he was a wealthy rancher owner—he was really only a window washer, but surely, he said, Dorothy would like the Arizona air.

The two most definite offers resulted in trips for Mrs. Lawlor. One proposal from a Miami night club owner took her down there for two weeks until, she says, she discovered he was only interested in the publicity.

After that, she accepted a cabled invitation to visit a Dominican banker in Ciudad Trujillo but it turned out, she says, he was twice her age and had daughters who were her contemporaries.

"He was really very nice," Dorothy explains. "But he said he had thought I was much older," One man, after two letters, suddenly discovered his religion would frown on marriage with a divorce. Another remembered he was still married.

Hope For Film Contract

"That about the way it went," Mrs. Lawlor says. "Out of all the public, I was beginning to hope for Tommy Manville or a Hollywood contract, maybe. I like dramatics, you see. But I never came close to either.

"What gave me the idea? I was sitting in that chair, cold broke, no job. I suddenly thought this was the way to provide for my two young children and my parents. So I got a lot of publicity, so I got a few night club dates at $500 a week, so I'm broke again. The money was used for doctor bills and other old debts.

"But I'm not too discouraged. There's an attorney in New York who says there's a man in the Philippines and another in France who are interested in me. Maybe I'll be travelling to interview them soon I may not get married but I'll see the world."

After her fruitless trips to Miami and Ciudad Trujillo a theatrical agent got her night club dates in Pittsburgh, Detroit, Buffalo and private clubs in West Virginia.

HOPE SON STILL ALIVE

TORONTO, Nov. 16 — (CP). — Hope that her only son may still be alive somewhere in the wilderness of Newfoundland was expressed Monday by Mrs. Lucy E. Forsyth. She said her son, Maj. Henry Forsyth, a Canadian Army ballistics expert, was one of six men aboard a United States B-25 bomber missing since Nov. 5 on a flight from Washington to Stephenville, Nfld. He was a graduate of Royal Military College, Kingston.

DOROTHY DIX

Intelligent Girl Makes Suitable Life Companion

DEAR MISS DIX: I married a girl who is not only very pretty but highly intelligent. She has an excellent sense of humor. She knows how to manage money and to make a good home. She is kind and sympathetic and an interesting talker. She flatters me, babies me, encourages me and gives me faith to start anything.

Dorothy Dix

So I would say to any man contemplating marriage to look for brains as the first requisite in a wife. Don't let a smart gal with a college background frighten you away. And pick out for a wife a girl who has a nimble tongue and who is entertaining and amusing. Marriage is quite a stretch, anyway and it seems longer if you have to spend it with a dumb cluck.

LUCKY ME

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: A Daniel! A second Daniel come to Judgment! For rare as hen's teeth are the men who are wise enough to pick out a wife by what is inside of her head instead of what is on the outside. Apparently a Phi Beta Kappa key isn't the one that unlocks the masculine heart, for a pretty little nincompoop with naturally curly hair and soulful eyes can marry all around a college graduate with half a dozen degrees.

Tragic Sight

Why men who are so astute that you couldn't possibly take them in on a horse trade or sell them a gold brick will tie themselves up for life with a girl just because she has a pretty face and babbles baby-talk, nobody knows. But they do, and there is no more tragic sight than that of a brilliant and successful man dragging around a wife who is still mentally a child, and not a bright on at that.

Nor does the average man take into consideration what sort of a life companion a girl will make. If she is a good-looker and a classy dresser and a nimble dancer and has a reportoire of lovey-dovery speeches, it is enough. He falls for it, and never finds out until it is too late that his wife's whole vocabulary consists of "gimme" and complaints.

We don't think of boredom being a first aid to divorce or that it is at the root of most of the domestic squabbles that break up homes and half-orphan little children, but it is. So it behooves men to use good judgment when they pick out their wives.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: What can I do to make my parents let me do what other girls do? Here's a list of the forbidden things: I can't go out with boys. I can't have boys come to our house. I can't have boys telephone me. I can't be out after dark, or after 6:30 p. m. I can't go to church services, school dances, school games after dark, not even when there are 20 girls with me. I can't go to school with my girl friends because my parents don't like them.

I have tried to persuade my mother and father to let me have a little of the liberty that other girls have, but they won't listen to me. Please, Miss Dix, help me with this problem. I am so unhappy that sometime I feel like running away.

ANSWER: I wish I could say something that would make your parents realize that they are doing a foolish as well as an unkind thing in depriving you of the innocent pleasures that belong to your time of life. But mothers and fathers are hard to change because ti is so set in their ways and so certain they are always right, and because it is so difficult for parents to ever realize that their children are no longer babies but that they grow up and have rights that their fathers and mothers should respect.

In these times, when custom and general usage have speeded up all of life, children are maturing far earlier than they used to do in their parents' time. A girl of 15 today is older than her mother was at 18. She has seen more of the world. She is better educated. She knows more of the temptations and dangers that confront girls of her age, and she is better fitted to take care of herself. And a mother makes a grievous mistake if she doesn't cooperate with her teen-age daughter, and give her a lot of the personal liberty she craves.

DEAD MISS DIX: My wife is always endeavoring to bring her mother back to live with us. We have treid this six times in the ten years and it never has worked out. I just can't get along with my mother-in-law, yet my wife insists on her living with us although she sees her every day. I pay my mother-in-law's rent and am glad to do it, but I don't want her in my home.

I have come to the conclusion that it would be best for my wife to go back to her mother if she is so determined to be with her all the time, because the situation has become so depressing that it is affecting my work. Do you think I am right?

ANSWER: Inasmuch as you are providing your mother-in-law with a comfortable home elsewhere, I can see no justification for your wife inflicting her mother on you. My opinion is that when in-laws cannot agree, the only decent thing for them to do is to part and go their separate ways in peace.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, November 17

The indications are for a day of frustration, postponement or perhaps stagnation or congestions, in which it may take positive determination to overcome all static or difficult situations. With well-organized effort and attention to detail and system, some lasting security or firm foundation could be laid for future progress. The physical health should be a matter for wise consideration.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a trying period in which static, congested, blocked or frustrated situations could be depressing and disappointing, although the determined and concentrated marshalling of assets and experience could possibly turn the tide toward lasting security and firm groundwork for development. Serious thinking, sound techniques, with detail and system shrewdly taken into account, assure stable and enduring progress. In all obstacles, fortitude and courage may turn disaster into discipline. Build on futures.

A child born on this day, while patient, slow going and prone to procrastination, may eventually progress by plodding effort.

Mackenzie King Era Tagged From 1919-1948

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—(CP). — The years 1919 to 1948 will be known to future historians of Canada as "The Mackenzie King Era," Prime Minister St. Laurent predicted Monday.

A reporter asked Mr. St. Laurent at a press conference after he was sworn in as prime minister if he had anything to say about the leader he had succeeded.

"I haven't prepared anything and I don't want to be controversial," the new prime minister replied. "To us Liberals it appears that Canadian history since Confederation falls into three fairly equal periods."

The first period ran from 1867 to 1891 and was dominated by the country's first prime minister, Sir John A. Macdonald, a Conservative. The second was the period from then until 1919 and, although he was not in office during the full period, was dominated by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. St. Laurent said.

"To us Liberals it seems that the period from 1919 to the present time will be looked on by historians of the future as the Mackenzie King era. It is remarkable not only because of its length, but because of the achievements."

He enumerated the achievements of the "Mackenzie King era" as the developments in commonwealth relations which took place in the 1920's, the country's emergence from depression, the war policies and post-war developments.

"None of us feel we have any reason to blush for the war job that was done under Mr. King," he said. "Early in the war they used to say he was a peacetime prime minister, but wasn't a war leader. Later in the war, we didn't hear that so much."

He was found guilty last week on the charge of stabbing Lawrence (Jack) Ault, 37-year-old semi-paralyzed civil servant in a rooming-house quarrel.

A NEW ENGLISH "wonder drug" figured in the birth of the baby Prince of Edinburgh over the week-end. Known as "Trilene," the drug is an inhalant to ease mothers in childbirth. At left, Miss Jean Hobson, of London, demonstrates how simply it works. The drug is contained in a glass phial within a metal tube. A spring releases the anodyne, which is soaked up in cotton. Princess Margaret, shown in one of her latest pictures, becomes third in succession to the throne, being placed in that order by birth of a son to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

Farmer Finds Wife, Sons Shot

WILSON, N Y., Nov. 16.—(AP) Farmer Herman F. Gainshaw crawled through a window of his locked and dark home Monday night and found his wife and two baby sons shot to death.

The bodies of Mrs. Mary Ganshaw, 23, and the boys, Peter, 1, and Richard, 2, were on the living room floor. Nearby lay a shotgun and a long note that State Police said indicated the mother had been depressed.

Coroner Mabel Carmer withheld death certificates pending investigation.

State Police said the shooting apparently took place late in the afternoon, while Ganshaw was milking at the nearby home of his parents. The Ganshaw farm is five miles south of this Niagara County community.

According to the troopers, Ganshaw said he came home to find tehdoor barred and all the windows but one locked.

Contents of the note were not disclosed. The corner would not say early today to whom it was addressed.

MAJOR-GEN. G. W. E. J. ERSKINE, who has been appointed general officer commanding British troops, Egypt and Mediterranean command, with the temporary rank of lieut.-general. Gen. The appointments will take effect in the new year.

Study Problems Of New Premier

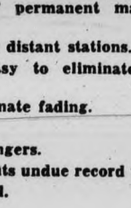
OTTAWA, Nov 16 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent Monday discussed informally with reporters some of the problems facing his new government ranging from freight rates to negotiations with Newfoundland.

In response to questions at a press conference about Dominion-Provincial relations he said:

"I would like to see Dominion-Provincial relations dealt with on their merits and not as a sort of handle for election issues."

Freight rates would also have to be "dealt with on their merits," he said. "No one expected common carriers to operate at less than "fair cost." A commission was being appointed to study the impact of the cost on the national economy.

Mr. St. Laurent declined to be drawn into controversial statements in connection with charges that George Drew Progressive Coservative leader is partially responsible for Ontario's power shortage.



"I don't think this is the occasion for controvesrial statements," he replied. "I think Mr Drew, like the rest of us, regrets there isn't more power at present. There may be times when it would be appropriate to discuss where the responsibility rests but it would not be here."

PARTNER CAN BID AGAIN

ONE OF THE most important rule changes introduced by the new Laws, which took effect everywhere on October 1, is that applying to an insufficient bid. If the offender corrects it by a minimum sufficient bid of the same denomination, there is no penalty and his partner may participate again in the auction. The offender is also permitted to pass instead of making the bid sufficient. If he does that, or bids anything different from a minimum legal amount in his originally named denomination, his partner must pass throughout the balance of the auction.

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	2 ♣	Pass	1 NT

At that stage West called attention to the fact that South's bid was insufficient. What happened thereafter was typical of the action in many social games. Not knowing the Law, South corrected his bid by changing it to 2-No Trumps. West made a very funny double of that. North, not realizing that the new Laws permitted him to bid again after that particular correction and thinking he had to pass, did pass.

South, believing that he could not bid again—whereas he could after the double had kept it open for him to have another chance—passed.

Now for the funniest part of all. West led the spade 6, which was won by the 7. Having no fears now, because he expected all outstanding high cards to be with West, South led back the spade K, which West won. The latter led the diamond 6, the Q being topped by the A and East shifted to the heart J. Now South felt himself slipping, but when the Q and A of that suit won, it was blocked. West then tried a club switch in the forlorn hope that East had the A. But South did and ran the rest of the tricks to make an extra.

What is the moral of this deal, reported by Arthur W. Graef of New York—who, of all things, is a lawyer, a good one? It is this: learn the new Laws, whether you are a lawyer or not.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

After West opened this tournament deal with 1-Spade and East bid 3-Spades, South injected 4-Diamonds. What should follow that interruption?

A NEW JOB

MONTREAL — Russell Durocher, living with his wife and five children in a tent since their eviction from an army barracks in September, found double trouble when he lost his job. But Monday he was offered a new one—demolishing barracks huts described as uninhabitable.

"It made me sick," he said, but he took the job anyway.

Sales And Ad Club

$150,00 from the county of Peterborough; $600,000 from the city of Peterborough; $50,000 from the Utilities Commission; $300,000 from the City Trust Commission; $240,000 from the Nicholls Trust, amounting to $1,800,000. And we are hoping to get $200,000 for our old hospital building." Estimated final cost is $3,600,000.

Ald. Raine said the need of the additional money was essential, "and if you don't go to the polls and vote for it, we will be in a very awkward position. As to the future, it has been estimated that Ontario will require 15,500 extra beds in the next five years, and 5,000 for the succeeding five years. The Blue Cross membership is now 1,300,000, and it is now open to individuals to take advantage of this hospitalization plan. The population of Ontario is increasing 100,000 a year, and Peterborough will get its share of that number.

Fears Indifference.

The complete report of the estimates of the cost of financing the hospital have been published, Ald. Raine said. The committee wished the people to be fully informed.

"The only thing we may be up against is indifference. It is all right to say that you are in favor of the hospital being comoleted, but you must go to the polls and vote."

Replying to Clayton Ruth about eligibility of voters on money by-laws, Ald. Adam Sands said that only the owners of property assess for at least $400 could vote on money questions.

If a man and his wife owned property valued at $400, neither was entitled to vote on a money bylaw. If their property, jointly owned, was assessed for $810, both could vote. A person owning property in more than one ward was entitled to vote once in each ward in which his property was assessed at more than $400. Companies owning property had the right to delegate one person to vote for them. They are required to inform the city clerk, ten days before the day of elections, the name of their appointees.

"As the hospital bylaw is so important to this community, I hope that all the members of the Sales and Ad Club and also our radio audience will vote for it."

Eric Westbye enquired about the progress of the council's plans for the sewage disposal plant. That information was published only a few days ago. Ald. Hurrell Dodds, chairman of the Board of Works, replied for the council. Plans prepared by Gore & Storrie, Toronto, in 1946, were accepted in principle by the council. Estimated cost of the work then was $275,000, and has now soared to $750,000, "and at no time were able to get a firm bid."

The council has now authorized Gore & Storrie to call for tenders on a substantial part of the project, revising the present plant and dewatering the sewage sludge so that its solids may be carted away and used on farms. This part of the work is one-third of the completed plant.

"When this part is finished," Ald. Dodds said "it will not be obnoxious even to those living near the plant."

Mr. H. B. Cowan said the Sales and Advertising Club was interested in the work of the council for the administration and betterment of the city. He asked for suggestions as to how the public could be impressed with their duty of voting.

Ald. Hugh Waddell, chairman of the council's executive committee, said one of the best ways was in the enthusiastic and practical support of service organizations such as the Sales and Ad Club representing a large block of ratepayers.

Mr. Cowan said the club was also interested in any suggestion in obtaining capable candidates for civic offices.

"If our club is able to co-operate in any way," Mr. Cowan said, "and we feel that with the sales and advertising experience which you now see assembled we would be able to do a good job, we will be guided by the desire to have all candidates at least equal the high standards and capabilities of those who in the past have volunteered their services.

We, as a club, would be unable to sponsor or work for any one candidate, but would be willing to work for all and for the most good for the most people of this city."

Mayor Ovens thanked the Club for the expression of interest and goodwill by Mr. Cowan, and later conveyed to the members and the council's vote of appreciation for the dinner event and CHEX broadcast.

Fred A. Sisson Dies In Sleep

The sudden death of Frederick A. Sisson was a severe shock and deep loss to the whole community. Mr. Sisson retired Saturday evening in perfect health. At 3 a.m. Sunday he quietly passed away in his sleep.

Mr. and Mrs. Sisson moved from Montreal six months ago to take up residence in his boyhood home at Cavan, formerly owned by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Sisson.

While in Montreal he was employed in the CPR offices, retiring on pension in May of this year. He was an ardent worker in the United Church, the Sunday school and in the youth movement.

A funeral service was held Sunday evening at his home with Rev. McQuade of United Church, assisted by Rev. McLean of St. Thomas Anglican Church, Millbrook. The remains were taken by CPR Monday, 11.45 a.m., to Montreal funeral home where a service will be conducted on Wednesday, 2.30 p.m., by his former minister. Burial will be in Montreal cemetery.

Glengarrians Parade To St. Luke's Church

"The fellowship of the Christian church is greater than the fellowship of the regimental association," said the Rev. Walter J. Gilling, addressing about 100 members of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders' Association on Sunday. The occasion was the annual Remembrance Day service of the Association, held at St. Luke's Anglican Church.

Mr. Gilling said there was a great need for the returned serviceman to take an active part in the fellowship of the church.

If the veterans' aspect for tradition and discipline meant as much as it should, he said that more of their number would be helping in youth work such as the Wolf Cubs and similar groups.

He paid tribute to the spirit of fellowship that prevails in the regimental associations but said that church work was even more important.

Lessons were read by Col. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, MC, former commanding officer of the regiment, and Major A. Hamilton. The Highlanders led by the Peterborough Pipe Band marched from the Armories to St. Luke's.

At the conclusion of the service Pipe Major Robert Webdale played The Lament.

Music and choir were under the the direction of the Rev. A. F. Dowdell.

Alex Kay To Address City Horticulturalists

Alex C. Kay will be the speaker at the meeting of the Horticultural Society Monday, Nov. 22, in the YWCA. He is so well known in the Peterborough district that any further reference to his engagement should be to say that his talks are invariably interesting.

Horticultural Society has a number of copies on hand of "The Modern Family Garden Book." W. C. Wilks says the are valuable especially to those who have moved into new homes and have problems of gardens and lawns. This book would make an ideal Christmas present for anybody interesting in flowers and gardens. His telephone is 7788.

Exploded Gun Cotton Near Gandhi

NEW DELHI, Nov. 16.—(AP).—Madan Lal, one of the defendants in the Gandhi murder trial, told the court today he exploded gun cotton near Mohandas K. Gandhi's prayer ground Jan. 20, 10 days before the slaying.

The 23-year-old Punjab refugee declared his intention was "only to make sufficient noise to attract Gandhi's attention to the miserable plight of the refugees."

Madan Lal is the fourth defendant to plead so far. M. V. Godse has admitted he fired the fatal shot, but denied anyone conspired with him. Two others, N. B. Apte and V. R. Karkare have pleaded innocent.

Revision of Tax System Promised By Kennedy

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 16 — (CP) —Premier Thomas L. Kennedy on Monday night promised Ontario taxpayers complete revision of the Provisional tax system and assured Canadians that his government will seek to weld wealthy Ontario into a uniting link joining Eastern and Western Canada.

He urged hearers at the Kiwanis Club farmers' night to take an active nterest in other parts of Canada, and be prepared to help the relatively weaker Maritime Provinces and the West.

He looked forward to increasing strength and prosperity in the Dominion, and suggested that her new northern mines might spark industry here" just as the Minnesta coal mines were the basis of United States industry."

The speech made before some 350 Elgin County farmers and 100 St. Thomas Kiwanians, was his first statement of policy since he assumed the premiership.

Premier Kennedy also strongly advocated completion of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Mr. Kennedy said the tax structure had built up gradually and not always in the best way. Revision was long overdue.

The Government has formed a commitee to find a better system of taxation. The committee, which representation from municipalities, rural areas and the Provincial Government, would formulate a better system of taxation in which the people will have a fair share of the dollar, which would then come to the right place, said Premier Kennedy.

As an instance, he said, succession duties claimed by both the Province and Federal Government, were unsatsifactory.

"The tax question has gone all out of proportion to what was intended," said the Premier. "We hope to get it back through the work of our committee.

A larger share of the taxes should be returned to the municipalities, he said.

Citizens' Responsibilities Theme of Y.P.U. Service

HAVELOCK, Nov. 16—(ENS) —"Citizenship and Its Responsibilities" was the subject of Miss Joyce Agnew in giving a report Sunday at Havelock United church of a recent convention of the Young People's Union of the Bay of Quinte Conference. The members of the local YPU were in cahrge of the service.

"Let us not overlook the responsibilities of citizenship," Miss Agnew said, "for our rights and freedom have been purchased for us at great cost over the centuries, by those who have gone before us, and they have been preserved in our time at great sacrifice.

"If we fail to discharge the responsibilities of citizens we weaken our democratic way of life." She divided citizens into three classes: those determined to get more than they give; those who keep rules but are careful to do no more than their share, and those who do more than the rules require or in Biblical terms are willing "to go the second mile."

In speaking on the liquor question, Miss Agnew said: "Take a firm stand on it and do not retreat. Remember we are our brother's keeper and although drink may have no influence on ourselves personally, we shall not be held guiltless if we allow it to be placed so conveniently as to lead to the temptation and downfall of our weaker brother man and sister woman."

She touched on the problem of the trashy literature of today with its emphasis on crude realism, sensualism, and the material things of life. Along with this may be considered moving pictures.

Miss Helen Anderson, president of the YPU, conducted the service. The Scripture was read by Philip Chevalier and Miss Helen Hayes announced the hymns The offertory was taken by Miss Marie Cosgrove, Miss Barbara Gerow, Gerald Melville and William Cosgrove. A vocal solo was sung by Misses Joyce Agnew, Beulah Chase, Edith Thompson and Marie Vanderburgh. An anthem was sung by the senior choir.

Ancient Treaties On Display In London Office

By JAMES McCOOK

LONDON, Nov. 16 (CP).—Four faded pink ribbons fastened with red seals bind to the Commonwealth the wide acres of Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, and the Hudson Bay regions.

They are examined daily by a procession of visitors in the Records Office in London, where famous treaties have been placed on display.

Under the Treaty of Utrecht, 1713, representatives of Britain and France accepted arrangements of vital concern to Canada. France acknowledge the Protestant succession to the British throne, Britain recognized Philip of Anjou as King of Spain, and Newfoundland, Nova Scotia and the territory around Hudson Bay was ceded to Britain forever.

The spidery writing in Latin spreads over 124 pages in the Treaty of Utrecht. The aged document recalls French raids on the British fur trade outposts on Hunson Bay, skirmishes along the Atlantic coast, Indian wars, ambushes and forays.

The negotiators who pressed their seals on to the treaty document ribbons were John, Bishop of Bristol, Keeper of the Privy Seal, and the Earl of Stafford for Britain, and the Maquis d'Huxelles and Sieur de Mesnager for France.

Also on display, in an adjoining room, is a more recent document of Canadian interest — a book containing the names of 250,000 Ontario school children who signed a message to King George V when he recovered from illness in 1930.

And nearby are copies of the tragic documents of "Guy" Fawks, who attempted to blow up the Houses of Parliament in 1605.

I suppose you'd call me a "Life Insurance Career Man"

"SOME years after I started work I discovered that I liked being about and meeting people. One day a friend of mine said "Why not sell Life Insurance?"

"I decided to do so, and by good luck applied to the Confederation Life Association. They gave me a stiff course of training but I stuck at it.

"From the start I have enjoyed helping people to budget and plan their insurance estates. I have already seen the wives and children of some of my policyholders benefit from the father's foresight.

"I'm glad I joined the Confederation Life Family and I recommend any man to do so who is ambitious and wants to make a better than average income."

18 Hydro Men Injured In Explosion

Say Dynamite Buried Day Before Set Off By Drilling

PORTAGE DU FORT, Que., Nov. 17 (CP)—Seven Hydro construction workers today are in hospital, recovering from injuries suffered when a thundering dynamite explosion shook this quiet farming district 60 miles northwest of Ottawa.

The men, all of the Ottawa valley, were part of 18 injured when tons of rock showered nearby Limerick Island on the Ottawa river Tuesday. Forty other men on the mile-long island escaped injury.

In Renfrew hospital, 15 miles southwest of here, are: Dominick Lajinski, 19, Whitney; Peter Borutski, 30, Killaloe, and James Rockburn, 46, Ottawa. All are suffering from head injuries.

In Shawville, Que., hospital, 15 miles east of here, are: Kenneth McCagg, 42, Shawville, back injuries and facial lacerations; James Cuthbertson, 24, Shawville, facial and body lacerations; Gaston Blouin, 22, Quyon, Que., head injuries.

Workers, drilling into the rock, discovered two cases of dynamite —about 100 pounds—at one spot 24 inches below the surface of the rock. The dynamite had been placed there the previous day, and had been thought exploded.

Not Quite Sure

Early reports were that the drilling touched off the explosion but McCagg said:

"The powder gang put in a light charge of two sticks to enlarge the hole. We backed up a piece and then touched it off. That is all I know."

From other witnesses came reports that huge pieces of rock—some weighing 500 pounds—were hurled a distance of 600 yards by the explosion. The "deep rumbling roar" of the explosion was heard 30 miles away at Quyon, Que.

Among those who escaped injury as the rock shower began was the unidentified driver of a truck near the scene of the drilling. The truck was flattened. The operator of the drill was knocked unconscious.

HISTORIC MOMENT — Canada's new prime minister, Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, left, shakes hands with retiring prime minister Mackenzie King at Government House yesterday. Viscount Alexander, centre, accepted the resignation of Mr. King and then heard Mr. St. Laurent take a solemn oath as the first French-speaking prime minister since Sir Wilfred Laurier.

Rosebrugh Acts For Distributors

TORONTO, Nov. 17. — Carl Rosebrugh, chartered accountant of Brantford, has been named by the Ontario Milk Distributors as their representative on the board of arbitration which is to determine the price to be paid to the milk producers.

Failure of the distributors and the producers to agree on a price has led to the matter going to arbitration.

Mr. Rosebrugh will meet with Roy Lick, nominee of the producers, to discuss the appointment of a chairman. If they can't agree within five days, the Ontario Milk Control Board will name the chairman, who in all likelihood will be a county court judge.

Well-informed circles believe a new contract can be drawn up which will not upset the present retail price of milk In Toronto, this is 18 cents a quart.

Transformer Blows Have 4-Hour Blackout

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 17.—(CP). —Blowing of a transformer near the Canada Packers plant shortly before 3 a.m. today forced a complete blackout in the city until 7.30 a.m. This transformer is on the main feeder line going into the Reid St. sub-station. The cause is unknown but it is believed the high wind which has prevailed since early Tuesday may have caused a short circuit. The blowing of the transformer was heard for many blocks in that section of the city.

Many of the industries in the city are working on a staggered shift at night. They were forced to send their employees home after the blowout. Power was restored shortly after 7.30 a.m. after workmen had labored all night.

Walter Ferguson Bus Owner Dies At Age 42

Walter Stewart Ferguson, owner of the Ferguson Coach Lines died at noon today at his home 120 Hunter St. East. He had been in ill-health for some time, but his death was quite unexpected.

The late Mr. Ferguson was born in Temperanceville, north-west of Toronto, a son of Rev. J. S. Ferguson, and Lottie Hetherington. He was educated at Baltimore, and lived also at Carleton Place and Pickering. For some years he operated a bus line from Pickering and shortly after coming to Peterborough obtained the franchise to operate a bus line from Peterborough to Bancroft. This venture was a success, and is still in operation.

An active and popular member of the Lions Club, he was also an ardent horse fancier, owning several hackneys and ponies, which he kept for show purposes. His animals won ribbons at many shows in Eastern and Central Ontario.

He was 42 years of age, and survived by his wife, formerly Stella Margaret Milligan, two daughters and two sons, Doreen 17, Carole 14, Stewart 13 and Jack 7. He is also survived by his parents, and by a brother and sister, Charles of Windsor and Dorothy, Toronto. He was a member of the Corinthian Lodge, A.F and A.M. 101.

The funeral will be on Friday Nov. 19 from the family residence 120 Hunter St. East, at two in the afternoon. Rev. A. M. Partridge of Mark St. United Church will conduct the service. The body will be at the family residence after 11 a.m. on Thursday.

Seeking To Divert Water From Canal For Power

TORONTO, Nov. 17—(CP).—Diversion of water from the Welland Ship Canal may be tried in an effort to ease Ontario's electric power woes. Robert Saunders, Ontario Hydro chairman, is in Washington for talks with United States officials concerning the diversion proposal. It is believed that diverting the canal water into the turbines of the Decew Falls power plant near St. Catharines would produce 1,250,000 kilowatt hours of additional power for Ontario.

Word of the diversion plan came on the heels of a Toronto City Council proposal that a power controller be appointed by the Federal Government to reallocate to clamoring industrial areas the Hydro supplies reduced by a dry summer and fall.

Civic officials and utilities heads in Hamilton and Kitchener Tuesday expressed opposition to the suggestion of appointing an Ontario power controller. Kitchener spokesman took issue with a Toronto contention that the provincial capital, as a manufacturing centre and supply point for other parts of Ontario, deserved an extra-generous allotment.

Suggest Weekly Quota

With Toronto undergoing three daily power cuts, industrialists here discussed the possibility of giving each plant an individual quota. Then, under an agreement similar to one already in use in Kitchener, when the quota is met, the plant will close down for the rest of the week.

But the need still remained for additional power and the Welland diversion appeared the most practical means of developing the extra energy.

The water would be diverted only during the winter, when power is scarce and the Welland Canal is not used for navigation. The flow would double production of the Decew Falls plant.

Utilities officials in Toronto considered the possibility of installing steam generating equipment to supplement power supplies. It was estimated that such equipment would cost $15,000,000 and an alternative proposal put forward was that individual industries might instal sufficient equipment to meet their own needs.

Plan To Review Wheat Contract

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (CP). —The question of an international wheat agreement is expected to get plenty of attention this week and next at the fourth conference of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

The matter is not on the conference agenda, but several delegates said to-day they are interested in reviving it, even if only for discussion.

The original agreement, designed to assure consumer countries of fixed wheat supplies and to guarantee set prices for producer countries, was pigeon-holed earlier this year when the United States Congress refused to satisfy it.

90,000 Red Casualties In Battle, Chiang Reports

NANKING, Nov. 17 (AP)—The government asserted today 90,000 casualties were inflicted on Reds routed east of Suchow, gateway to Nanking.

The official and pro-government reports buoyed the capital. But skeptics, mindful of other government claims at Tsinan, Chinhsien and Mukden just before they fell to the Reds, waited for more information.

These points, however, appeared true on the basis of information here:

1. The Chinese air force blunted Red Attacks across the open country east of Suchow, 200 miles northwest of the capital.

2. Gen. Huang Po-Tao's seventh army group, which was isolated east of Suchow, lost more than half of its full strength of four armies. It survived repeated attacks and still is in the field. Its ability to take and give punishment heartened other government units.

3. The executive Yuan ordered martial law extended to Tsingtao, site of the United States naval base in the western Pacific. The order goes now to President Chiang Kai-Shek for implementation. The action followed the application of martial law to Nanking, Shanghai and Suchow.

4. Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi's national armies from Hankow approached the Pukow-Suchow railroad from the west after a forced march of 180 miles.

Worried Chinese were told by the Chinese Central News Agency that the Communists had suffered on the Suchow front less than 200 miles from their capital "the most disastrous defeat ever received from the hands of government troops.'

The Communist radio gave a sharply different picture. It indicated Red troops were pushing east to clamp a pincers on government forces.

80 MPH Gale Lashes Ont. Centres

Western Section Hit Hardest By Storm; Trees Block Streets

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (CP) — A gale which reached 80 miles an hour in gusts took a vicious slap at Ontario Tuesday night and early today. Damage was heavy in some esections. At Bruce Mines a copper mining town 42 miles from Sault St. Marie, high winds drove a fire through the main business section, causing damage estimated at $500,000.

Western Ontario bore the brunt of the storm. Telegraph communications were snarled and hydro poles were blown down near Chatham, Windsor and Stratford to make the power shortage just a little worse.

The storm hustled northeast and weather forecasters said winds would die down by tonight. The gale then would be centred over eastern Hudson Bay.

The storm warnings were hoisted along the Great Lakes Tuesday were being lowered again late today. At least 12 vessels were delayed along the Welland Ship Canal at Port Colborne.

At Sault Ste. Marie, the United States ship canal reported gusts up to 80 miles an hour. All shipping was tied up in St. Mary's river.

One vessel, the Ralph H. Watson of the Pittsburgh Steamship Company of Cleveland, was in slight trouble for a time above the locks. It took two tugs to swing her stern around and get her tied up after she was struck by smashing waves.

Streets Blocked

At Chatham, city streets and county roads were littered with tree limbs. Corn cribs were toppled in rural areas and part of a brick building in the city was blown down.

Line crews were out early in a dozen centres to repair levelled power lines and snapped-off poles.

On the Toronto lakefront, the ketch Spindrift suffered damage when battering waves struck her steel hull. Thirteen persons were injured in 22 traffic accidents in the capital and a few of these were attributed to the heavy rainstorm.

At Windsor, signs were torn from their moorings but no injuries were reported. The rear temporary wall of a new bank buildings collapsed.

Trees Down

Trees went down like nine-pins in Stratford. A false fire alarm was turned in when a falling tree cut a wire and caused a short circuit.

At Hamilton, two children were pinned in their bed by a fallen beam when the wind took the roof off their house.

Fred Hand, the father, lifted the beam off the bed and his hands were cut. He, his wife and three children, were treated for minor injuries and shock.

Power was cut off in the Shelburne area when high tension wire and pole were chopped in two.

Moose Slayers Had No Permits

ROUYN, Que., Nov. 17 —(CP) —Dudley Gervais, game warden and fisheries overseer for several counties in this nortnwestern Quebec area said today that investigations are still continuing into what he described as "the wanton slaughter of 20 moose" in the Kipawa Lake area of Temiscamingue.

He said he was sure now that the animals were killed by tourists flying in from Ontario points without permits. He just returned from a week's visit to the area.

He added that he had made several convictions of men and boys hunting without permits and had made a seizure of a "sizeable" amount of beaver pelts from a fur buyer in North Temiscamingue.

He did nto disclose the name of the buyer, but said that this man had been purchasing pelts killed out of season by trappers and charges will be laid against him. The beaver season opens locally Dec. 1.

Ask Policy Clarified

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17— (CP). — Wellington Koo, Chinese Ambassador to the United States, said Tuesday he has asked on behalf of his government for a statement of American policy toward war-torn China. What the Nanking government would like, he said, is an expression of solidarity and support which would boost the morale of Chinese Nationalist troops and of hard-pressed Chinese citizens behind the civil war front lines.

Longshoremen Ready To Work Ships At Halifax

HALIFAX, Nov. 17 — (CP). — Longshoremen at this port will handle cargo of any ship which arrives here regardless of whether it has been diverted from strike-bound United States ports.

This clarifying statement was made today by J. J. Campbell, president of the Halifax Longshoremen's Association (AFL) after a period of ambiguous statements and misinterpretations of exactly what was the attitude of the 2,000 stevedores.

"Our executive has made a full study of our position in the light of charges made by our employers that our action in refusing to handle diverted ships was actually illegal," Mr. Campbell said. "We have exhaustively studied the terms of our agreement and must agree with our employers or else risk the consequences of hurting our unblemished record of never having violated an agreement."

"Our agreement makes no provision for interpretation of what is or isn't a diverted ship, in fact no such word as diverted appears in our contract. We are legally bound to handle all ships which pass Chebucto Head (at the entrance to Halifax harbor).

"And that's just what we're going to do," he added.

The Mauretania sailed for Southampton on schedule just after midnight with 400 passengers and mail but no cargo. The Aquitania arrived several hours afterward with 1,800 passengers from Britain.

Mauretania had been handled in accordance with the union's earlier policy, announced Monday, of refusing to "scab" American labor by loading cargo or baggage.

It was understood, however, that three other liners diverted here — Britannic, Oregon and Veendam— now would be given any service they required.

Meanwhile harbor officials were hoping that the Queens Elizabeth and Mary would come to Halifax.

Believe Sparks From Electric Transformer Started Fire In Night; Bank, Newspaper Offices Among Damaged

BRUCE MINES, Nov. 17—(CP).—An early morning fire today wiped out the main business section of this old copper mining town 42 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie Damage was estimated at upwards of $500,000. The fire broke out at 6.05 a.m. and two hours later half a dozen business places—including two stone buildings—were destroyed. All that remained standing were brick chimneys.

Buildings across the street were damaged by the roaring flames.

Cause of the fire was not definitely determined but it was believed to have been started by sparks from an electric transformer.

A night operator at the telephone office reported the sparks during the night.

The blaze wiped out a row of buildings which front on the main street—a section of the Sault-Sudbury highway — which skirts the shore of Lake Huron.

Buildings Destroyed

Destroyed were: A furniture store and undertaking establishmen owned by W. L. Miller, former Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature; W. B. Keetch's drug store; the telephone exchange; Mrs. Miller's dry goods store; Killins barber shop; E. White's hardware and general store.

The blaze caused heavy damage to a stationery store and weekly newspaper office of F. W. Rickaby who publishes weekly papers for several Algoma district communities. His store was damaged by fire just a few months ago. A general store owned by the Jackson estate, across the street from the main fire, was damaged The walls of the Royal Bank of Canada branch were scorched and windows blown out.

Mrs. Keetch reported that there were several loud explosions during the blaze.

Severe Blow

The fire, a severe blow to this community of some 700 persons, is the centre of a rich farming district, literally burned itself

"I walked right past my father at the railway station without even recognizing him," she said. "I knew my mother, though She has changed a great deal but I couldn't mstake her."

The parents and Mrs. Hagler's 25-year-old sister reported that they had been forcefully ejected from their little farm home in Yugoslavia before leaving for Canada.

Howe Offers To Debate Hydro Shortage

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—(CP) —Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, Canadian Trade Minister, offered to debate the Ontario Hydro shortage with George Drew in the Canadian House of Commons.

Drew, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, early this week challenged Howe to discuss the shortage on "the public platform."

Howe, here for talks with United States defence and munitions officials, said in an interview:

"As the challenged party, it is my privilege to name the time and the place of the debate.

"The place will be the floor of the House of Commons.

"The time will be any afternoon or evening that's suitable— providing the lights are on at the time."

Howe, busy in talks with officials here, was not available yesterday for comment.

His offer to debate the question in the Commons is dependent on Drew's success in contesting the by-election Dec. 20 at Carleton, Ont.—a Conservative seat since 1867.

The Carleton seat was vacated by Russell Boucher to give Drew a chance to enter the Federal political arena.

Drew resigned from the premiership of Ontario after his selection in September as national leader of the Progressive Conservative party.

Canada Wants US Army Orders

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—(CP). —Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe said today Canada is "interested" in obtaining United States orders for Canadian military equipment.

The Canadian Trade Minister, here for three days of conferences with United States defence and munitions officials, emphasized, however, that he is not "seeking" orders

He will confer this afternoon ith James Forrestal, United States Defence Secretary and with high-ranking officers of the United States National Security Resources Board.

He told The Canadian Press in an interview today that the "increasing demands" are "accelerated a little" by present world conditions.

"Both countries are stepping up their armament moderately," he said. "There was the normal cutback in armament production after the end of the war and now things are being stepped up again."

Western Allies Demand Berlin Left To UN Council

PARIS, Nov 17 — (AP) —Britain, the United States and France today told top United Nations officials formally they want the Berlin dispute with Russia left in the hands of the Security Council as a threat to peace.

This was the Western reply to the appeal by H. V Evatt, the assembly, president and Trygve Lie, the United Nations secretary-general, to the Four Big Powers to compose their differences for the good of world peace.

Russia already had replied. She insists, as before ,that the Berlin question is part of the All-German question and must be discussed by the Council of Foreign Ministers.

The stalemate was on again.

Britain said the Russian veto of a Berlin solution offered by the so-called "neutrals" of the Security Council stood in the way of progress toward a setlement. Canada is a member of the "neutral" group. That proposal had called for lifting of the blockade to be followed immediately by a Four-Power conference.

The United States said it would not negotiate the issue of Berlin under the threat implicit in Russian blockade.

The British reply to the appeal of H. V. Evatt, the assembly president, and Trygve Lie, the secretary-General, said the most hopeful approach to a Berlin solution would be to leave it to the Security Council.

The United States said it is ready to engage in talks with Russia as soon as the blockade is lifted.

State Secretary Marshall, in the formal American reply to the Evatt-Lie leter, said the United States had discussed the matter directly with Russia until it became apparent the Berlin blockade was established to gain political objectives to which Russia was not entitled.

Gets 8 Years In Pen On Forgery Charges

TORONTO, Nov 17—(CP) — Hugh McIntosh, 30 of Brandon, who pleaded guilty last week to 20 charges of forgery and false pretences, today was sentenced to eight years imprisonment.

Raymond Jackson of Montreal, also charged with McIntosh, received two years less a day determinte, and three months dedeterminate Judge James Parker said Jackson "was too young to appreciate what he was doing."

Police testified that the pair operated in London Ont., Orillia, Barrie, Bradford and Oshawa during May, June and July of this year and that they had obtained a total of $7,907.

Fierce Pacific Storm Takes Seven Lives, Sinks 3 Tugs; Believed Worst In 15 Years

Centres Of Port Alberni, Alberni Isolated When Rock Slides Halt Trains; Many Ships In Trouble Off BC Coast

VICTORIA, Nov. 17—(CP).—A battered North Pacific coast today prepared to repair ravages wrought by one of the worst storms in 15 years. The fierce gale which claimed seven lives, sank three tugs and isolated a community of 10,000 persons, appeared diminishing. Three Vancouver men were lost when the 80-foot tug St. Clair late Tuesday piled up on rocks near Port San Juan on the west coast of Vancouver Island

Dead are Chief Engineer Carl Jansen, Mate James Hudson and Levi Arnott, the cook. Six other members including Captain Stanley Bell, made shore in a lifeboat.

An unidentified woman drowned when she was lost overboard from the ferry Princess Victoria en route from Vancouver to Victoria.

Two Seattle men were missing and believed dead from a tug which sank in Puget Sound and the seventh victim was a seaman who died of a heart attack during a rescue operation off the mouth of the Columbia River.

Two Points Isolated

The twin centres of Port Alberni and Alberni were isolated until early today when an Esquimalt and Nanaimo railway train pulled in more than seven hours late.

The train was delayed by rocks on the track. The cities, however, still are without telephone and telegraph communication. The lone highway into the centres had been knocked out by a landslide earlier.

The winds, which reached 74 miles an hour for sustained periods and gusts of 84 miles an hour, were the highest here since December, 1934.

Trees were uprooted on Vancouver Island, ships were torn from their moorings and many vessels at sea reported they were in trouble.

A lightship off the northwestern tip of Washington lost its anchor and was forced to head for shelter, leaving the dangerous Cape Flattery area without a navigation aid.

VeteranMember Not Forgotten

Dinner portions identical with those served at the Empress Hotel were taken by a staff of the Utilities Commission to Mr. and Mrs. James Curran, Lake St., Tuesday evening.

It is a little reflection of the spirit of the Commission in retaining connection with its pensioners. Mr. Curran was superannuated in June 1940, but for the purpose of the newly formed Quarter Century Club he is still regarded as one of the Utilities family.

Mr. Curran joined the waterworks department in 1886 when it was a private enterprise. It is understood that his first cheque was signed by the late George W. Hatton, KC, Peterborough's Crown Attorney for years. When it was transferred to public ownership Mr. Curran was kept on the staff and remained with the Utilities until he completed 54 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Curran have grown old, but they were not forgotten by the Commission. The dinners taken to their home were exactly the same as those served at the Quarter Century Club inaugural. Today, Mrs. Curran received three roses, Commission's appreciation of the help which the wives of their employees give them. The wife of each married member of the Club received this morning these flowers of tribute.

Agricultural Parley To Open December 6

OTTAWA, Nov. 17. — (CP). — The annual three-day Dominion-Provincial Agricultural Conference, at which 1949 farm production targets will be plotted, will open here Dec. 6.

The Agriculture Department said that as in other years representatives of the Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture, as well as the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, will take part in the discussions.

The conference was started in the early war years as a means of getting the best out of Canadian farm production and has been continued since.

A. M. Shaw, chairman of the Agricultural Supplies Board and the conference chairman, said there is a new streamlined program being drawn up which will provide "even greater opportunity for thorough discussion." This year, delegates will be given reports on both 1948 production and 1949 prospects in advance of the conference. Formerly, they received such reports only after the conference had started.

Suggest Lash Used

MONTREAL, Nov. 17 (CP) — A suggestion that all convicted bank robbers receive the penalty of the lash was made by Mayor Camillien Houde Tuesday. He told members of the Kiwanis Club that "as an old bank manager of 13 years experience, I believe the lash should be imposed on bank robbers."

New Section South Of King Grows Rapidly

Peterborough's new business section now under construction from the theatre district south on George St., is progressing rapidly. Contractors are availing themselves of good weather to push all projects in the hope that all buidings can be sheathed in before snow flies.

Steel and masonry work on the Cherney block at King St. is well advanced, although officials say there has been a delay in making steel deliveries. They hope to have the roof on within two or three weeks so that interior work can be carried on through the cold weather.

The Paramount Theatre is near completion. Gallery seats have been installed and seat bolt holes are being bored today in the main floor of the auditorium. General color and lighting schemes are evident since scaffolding has been removed. A new feature called the crying room has been installed in this theatre; a room above the upper gallery with a full-length window where parent patrons may take children who are causing a disturbance. Wiring for projection equipment is being installed and most of the lighting units have been placed and tested. A large sign, said to extend 40 feet above the roof level, will soon be put in place over the canopy.

An extension to the Brewers' Warehouse, 40 by 60 feet, will be open in about one month. The wing will house the retail store facing Water St., with refrigeration and storage rooms in the rear. The present retail space will be used for storage and office.

Officials of the Hayward-Reilly Construction Co. were not in the city to tell of space already rented in their new building. Two ground floor stores facing George St., house a retail blanket shop and a modern photo studio operated by Garfield Thompson. Mr. Thompson expects to be able to start work in his basement dark room within a day or two.

All Groups Dipped On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Nov. 17.—(CP).—All groups dipped in brisk trading on the stock exchange here today. Golds led the downhill slide, touching the lowest figure on the exchange's index since 1943 for the fifth successive day. Industrials weakened towards midsession on narrow fractional losses. Base metals followed the easier trend in the golds.

Golds sagged from the opening bell in brisk action. Seniors were down with Dome Mines dipping to a new low at 13¾. Several juniors also touched new lows and losses ranged to 20 cents. Aunor was down to a new low at $2.95 and Preston, Pioneer, O'Brien, Nicolson, Malartic, Kirkland Lake and Giant Yellowknife weakened. Wright-Hargreaves sold off. 10 cents.

Papers, utilities and liquors were down in industrial grouping. Canadian Vickers rose in a firmer steels list. Foods strengthened slightly and Lake of Woods Milling sagged 3½ points.

Base metals weakened gradually following the golds in their decline. New Calumet was an exception, jumping eight cents.

Discuss Trans-Canada Highway In December

OTTAWA, Nov. 17 (CP)—Representatives of the Dominion and the provinces will gather around a table here Dec. 14 to see what can be done about building a hard-surfaced trans-Canada highway stretching from Atlantic to Pacific.

Resources Minister MacKinnon, who two weeks ago invited the provinces to come to the capital for a highway conference, announced Tuesday that all provinces have accepted and that the discussions will open Dec. 14.

He said he expected "100-percent attendance and co-operation" at the talks, expected to last several days.

The conference is expected to open with a general discussion of the problems of completing a coast-to-coast highway. Later, the delegates likely will appoint committees to deal with the technical aspects of the problems. The conference then likely would be adjourned to a later date.

A call was sent to the Sault for help but the fire department there decided against the 42-mile trip because of a high wind. With a velocity of 50 miles an hour, and sometimes sweeping up to an 80-mile pace in gusts, it helped to fan the flames.

Neighboring communities of Thessalon and Nesterville sent men to help. The McNamara Construction Company, which has a road contract nearby, sent 20 men and trucks along with other equipment.

Some of the destroyed buildings date back to the early days of the community which was a prosperous copper mining centre a century ago. At one time it was the largest community in Northern Ontario. Its mine closed down more than 20 years ago.

In its hey-day it was a boom centre. English interests built a railway—known for years as the "Nip and Tuck"—north to other mining prospects. The noted boxing authority—the Marquess of Queensberry—had an interest in the early development and spent some time here in a rambling frame house which now is the Town Hotel.

night Robert Saunders, Ontario Hydro chairman, has been given authority to seek United States approval to a greater diversion of waters from the Welland Ship Canal to boost Ontario's critical power supply.

A power expert said that if approval is granted, about another 100,000,000 kilowatt hours can be made available to Ontario during the next three months through the Decew Falls power plant near the canal.

All that is necessary, it was learned, was agreement by an exchange of notes between the two countries, allowing Canada to draw off the extra water. Mr Saunders was reported as being in Washington Tuesday to secure American approval

The Ontario Hydro chairman's trip to Washington was "facilitated" during the week-end when he met with Acting External Affairs Minister Claxton.

It was understood the Canadian-American agreement, if completed, will be only temporary in nature and extend over the winter months—between December and March — when Welland Canal navigation closes down.

At present, by wartime arrangement, Canada is allowed to divert 54,000 cubic feet of water per second from the canal. The Americans divert 32,000.

Two Men Escape As Car Sinks In Trent River

HASTINGS, Nov. 17—(Staff)—A 1946 car sank in the deep waters of the Trent River in the centre of the village early this morning. Its two occupants, Vernon McMillan of Hastings and Fred Ford, RR 3, Hastings, scrambled to safety before the car continued into the deeper section of the stream and submerged.

It was first noticed about 4:20 a.m. by Jack Radcliffe, who saw the vehicle slowly disappearing under water. He called Chief Constable L. Potten of Hastings. Not knowing whether there were any people in the car, the officer put in a fire alarm to get help quickly. Before any arrived, the car had sunk.

Just as the roof of the car disappeared, the two men presented themselves to the Chief. They told him that, driving down Hope St., they had been unable to make the turn on Front St. and the car had continued into the river. They jumped out and went to McMillan's house.

Chief Potten said charges would be laid.

Three Minor Charges

There were two minor liquor and one traffic charge before court today.

Roy Milligan, George St., was fined $10 and $2.50 costs for consuming liquor in a place other than a residence.

David Peters, 283 Armour Rd., was fined $10 and $2.50 costs for being in possession of liquor in a place other than a residence.

Arden Dracup, Lakefield, was fined $10 and $2.50 costs for driving without a licence.

TWO PETERBOROUGH MEN

Power cut-off in Ottawa has been extended 15 minutes and is from 9 a.m. until 10:15 a.m., beginning this morning. It is of interest to their Peterborough friends that this announcement on Tuesday followed a meeting of Stanley W. Canniff, general manager of the Ottawa Hydro Electric Commission, and W. Hamilton Munro, of the Ottawa Light, Heat and Power Company. They are both former Peterborough men.

Baltimore Men Bag Four Bears And Three Deer

COBOURG, Nov. 17.—(ENS).—Six hunters from Baltimore and one from Trent Bridge, bagged four bears and three deer on a week's hunt about thirty miles north of Havelock. The bears were unexpected and consisted of a mother and three cubs. It is considered unusual to find as large a bear family still living together by this time of year and it is the first time that this group of hunters has ever bagged a bear.

On the hunt were Del Clapperton, Doug May, Lyle Ball, Jack Ball, Don Ball, Hayden Buttars and Jack Staples of Baltimore, and George Brown of Trent Bridge. Responsible for the bears were Doug May, Lyle Ball, Del Clapperton and George Brown. The group were on their way in to camp late in the afternoon.

"One of the cubs was so close I almost stepped on it," Doug May told the Examiner yesterday. "I fired and pretty soon another cub came along and we all fired at it, bringing the total bag to two cubs. About 15 seconds afterward, the old girl, followed by the other cub, came into view and we all let go at the big bear. It took about six shots before she was a goner, although two of the first shots might have done the trick. Then the last cub came into the scene and we finished it off. We sure unloaded a lot of ammunition in a big hurry."

After the excitement of shooting the bears, the bagging of the deer was a humdrum affair. With the exception of George Brown, who belongs to the Campbellford Fish and Game Club, the hunters are all members of the Northumberland Fish and Game Association.

Report 17 New Cases

COBOURG, Nov. 17—(ENS)—Seventeen new cases of communicable disease were recorded for the week ending Nov. 13, it was reported by the Northumberland and Durham Counties Health Unit. Of these eleven were chickenpox cases in Cobourg, Port Hope, Percy Township, Cavan Township and Campbellford. Two cases of red measles and three of scarlet fever were recorded. One case of tuberculosis in Port Hope completed the list.

25 Posts Vacant In Mission Fields

Nearly $100 was pledged to the work of the Free Methodist Missions at a Man and Missions service held on Sunday at the Free Methodist Church of Peterborough.

This annual service is to stimulate the interest of the men of the congregation in the church's work in foreign lands.

William Dulmage, an elder, in a brief review of the work done in the mission fields during the past year, said that 80,000 patients had been treated in Free Methodist clinics and hospitals and 17,000 students given instruction in day and boarding schools.

He said that a new hospital was nearing completion in the Congo-Nile field, and preliminary work is being done on two hospitals in South Africa, and plans are being made for the re-opening of one in India. In addition an extensive building and improvement program involving churches, schools and mission residences is underway in several other fields.

During this period a total of 36 missionaries went to the various missionary posts throughout the world. He said that there are 25 vacancies existing this year.

The Rev. R. E. Dargan in his sermon spoke on the work of Free Methodist workers in Northern Ontario among the Indians.

Tug Sinks In Storm

SEATTLE, Nov. 17.—(AP).—A North Pacific storm sank one tugboat with two men aboard Tuesday and led to the death of a third seaman in a hazardous rubber-boat rescue. The other 10 crew members of the second tug were rescued from their sinking craft, the Neptune, about 17 miles out from the Columbia river mouth.

Young Couple Given Kitchen Shower

HASTINGS, Nov. 17—(ENS)—About 40 friends of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Tripp, Toronto (nee Shirley Martindale) gathered on Saturday night at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tripp, Front St., where the recently married couple are spending part of their honeymoon to honor them with a kitchen shower.

The gifts were placed on a table, gaily decorated with pink and white streamers and a special cake.

Dancing was enjoyed to the accompaniment of an orchestra made up of local talent. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Martindale, Toronto, were present.

On Sunday morning the bridal couple left on a motor trip for the remainder of their honeymoon.

Be sure, of course, you serve Fry's. The richer chocolate flavor of Fry's has made it everyone's favorite, young and old — Canada's favorite cocoa by 3 to 1 (according to a national survey).

Keep the famous yellow tin handy for all chocolate dishes too. Fry's extra flavor makes everything taste extra good!

Hastings School Delays Opening

Group Meeting

Group 3 of Trinity United WA met at the parsonage on Tuesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. G. Thompson, presided, with Mrs. R. R. Burnham leading in devotions. Mrs. Bert Preston read a very interesting article entitled "The Old Time Organ."

It was requested that the slate of nominating officers for the coming year be in by next regular meeting.

On behalf of those present, Mrs. G. Thompson thanked the hostess, Mrs. W. Cole, for the lovely lunch served.

Power Cut Off Delays Suppers

COBOURG, Nov. 17.—(ENS).—Cobourg exceeded its quota of 28,000 by 1,760 kwh yesterday and accordingly when it became apparent by late afternoon that the town was not going to keep within the quota, the switches were pulled from 5.30 until six p.m.

In the Chapel St. district a transformer went out of commission around four p.m. with the result that people who had turned on their electric stoves to get supper ready before 5.30, had to wait until the trouble was repaired around 6.30.

A Study Of Our Social Services

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week the staff of the School of Social Work at the University of Toronto will visit Peterborough to study our system of community services; in the spring the students of the School will come here for the same purpose. Peterborough is honoured by this visit and its implication that we have something to teach the experts in social service; we hasten to assure our readers that citizens will be welcome at the discussions and meetings which have been arranged for the visitors.

• • •

Peterborough is well suited to such a study. Our community has an advanced system of social service and communal health service; we have a City Master Plan, a family court, a recreation commission, and a group of active service clubs, and there are signs that the city is going ahead in every respect which could interest experts in community organization. Although we are not far from Toronto we are not so near that the shadow of Toronto falls across our threshold; we are a small community, yet not so small that our social services are severely limited. We have the problems which confront all small Canadian cities, and we have met them with local leadership and local money.

• • •

The meetings of the visitors with local authorities will all take place at the Normal School. We hope that a large number of citizens will take this opportunity to hear our city discussed and its services appraised by outside experts.

Hydra-Headed Busts

The Russian authorities in Berlin and other German points east are rubbing German noses in a mess of Hitler marble. The marble is from Nazi monuments like busts of Hitler and the balcony of the Reich Chancellory from which Hitler orated in his palmy days. The thrifty Russians are using it to erect their own monuments — memorials of their victory over the German dogs. The sore-nosed Germans must be wishing that the marble had been as perishable as Hitler.

Whatever busts of Stalin they erect in Berlin will have the appearance of Hydra heads. The Nazi versions—the tumbling forelock, the footling moustache—these have been cut down, only to reappear like the many heads of the snake, with a bigger moustache, a fuller face, and perhaps a pipe embossed with hammer and sickle. Though we do not expect much delicacy of sentiment from the Russians, we would have thought they would exhibit a little more political shrewdness in putting up war memorials in the same city and from the same stone that glorified Hitler. They are emphasizing in marble what the Germans must know in their hearts —the remarkable similiarity between National Socialism and Russian Communism. The Germans may still find means to get rid not only of the heads but the marble.

The New Prime Minister And His Cabinet

The Right Honourable Louis Stephen St. Laurent, K.C., M.P., became Canada's twelfth Prime Minister on Monday. He brings to the important office distinction of character, a brilliant mind and devotion to his native land which is as wide as the Dominion and as deep-rooted as his truly Canadian ancestry. In the months since his election as leader of the Liberal Party he has travelled through the country, and people of all provinces have come to appreciate his qualities. That he is not a narrow nationalist has been shown by the breadth of his firm views on international problems. He has retained in his government Mr. King's Cabinet Ministers—though undoubtedly he will make changes later—and has strengthened it by two new appointments.

The Honourable Stuart Garson, until the other day Premier of Manitoba, has been sworn in as Minister of Justice. Mr. Garson has held political office in Manitoba for 22 of his forty-nine years. He is an able executive, a popular politician and an expert in Dominion-Provincial relations. The other new member of the St. Laurent Cabinet is the Honourable Robert Winters who is now Minister of Reconstruction. Mr. Winters, a Nova Scotian, is 38 years old and though he has been in the House of Commons only since 1945 his ability has brought him first to the post of Parliamentary Assistant and now to the front bench. He is an engineer, a gamesplayer, a personable speaker and, as his career in the Canadian Army demonstrated, a good organizer. His first major task will be to set up the new housing plans which Mr. St. Laurent has announced.

The Prime Minister has a strong Cabinet and the new Administration is of a kind to inspire confidence both at home and abroad.

Children's, Not Parsons', Pleasure

The architect's drawing of the outdoor swimming pool which the Lions Club of Peterborough will erect appeared in this paper on Thursday. We studied it carefully and found it good. A well-proportioned building, a large open pool, six trees symmetrically arranged. All very pretty, placid and healthful. We did have some minor regrets, however.

The pool does not seem to be flanked by tea-tables and shade umbrellas and lounge chairs. There is no roof garden with a string quartet to waft sweet music down upon the bathers. Such baths are to be found in Holland, though they are usually situated in private club grounds, and this pool is being generously erected for the free use of the city's children. There is another type of pool which the Lions have not planned—a pool like "Parsons' Pleasure" in Oxford. There a part of the stream is surrounded by an opaque fence and gentlemen can swim and frolic without the encumbrance of bathing costumes. It is a highly-prized pool and perhaps some day Peterborough may have its own "Parsons' Pleasure". Meanwhile let us be thankful on behalf of the children for what the service club is providing.

Voting On Company Property

We call the attention of readers interested in city business to the notice which appeared in this paper yesterday, informing the management of all local companies that they may appoint a representative to vote on the $1,500,000 hospital bylaw. Most companies, we presume, are already familiar with this provision, but we think that it may be strange to a few voters.

The companies which operate factories and works in Peterborough are among the city's largest taxpayers; these taxes are paid directly by the corporations themselves, although the owners or principal stockholders of the companies are not residents of Peterborough. It is merely just, therefore, that these payers of large taxes should have some voice in the spending of the city's funds, and they are free to appoint a representative to cast a vote for them.

It is sometimes said that voting privileges should not be associated with the possession of property. When that property is the basis of taxation we cannot see any injustice in the arrangement; surely those who pay the taxes should be the ones to decide how the city funds should be spent? It is to prevent injustice that the provision for company voters is made.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Cats Will Be Cats" says a headline in the Brantford Expositor. Indeed, we already know a few cats who are cats.

We observe that a drunken driver in England has been barred from driving again for sixty years. A few sentences like that would meet the situation here.

We learn that there is an island in the Outer Hebrides called Pabbay, inhabited by only one man, a shepherd called Lachlan McLeod, who does not even possess a radio. If this lucky fellow would like to try his hand at editing a paper we would be glad to change places with him for a few months.

The Toronto morning paper has had a black startling streamer across its front page: "Drew Challenges Howe". Not quite a fair challenge, however, for unlike ordinary duelling challenges, Mr. Drew does not allow Mr. Howe to choose his weapon. He specifies a microphone.

The cookery columnist began her answer to a reader's request for some cake and cookie recipes by saying: "The following cookies were a favourite with our family last Christmas season so I will give them to you first". Pretty stale stuff, and carrying altogether too far the practice of palming off last year's Christmas gifts on other people.

CANADIAN CAUSERIE

Wanted– A New Word

By GEOFFREY VIVIEN

SOME words are too successful and, like human beings in the same circumstances, become vulgar. Such a word is "debunk". It was useful, once. It declared war on stuffed shirts, bombast, pomposity, exaggerated enthusiasms, false reputations and every other manifestation of the phoney. And it gave them all a good bouncing. Then, growing popular, it became insolent and abusive. By now I suppose it is pretty near dead.

✦ ✦ ✦

THIS is a pity, for it filled a need. It was a useful addition to the vocabulary of scepticism; and scepticism, or (to use a more general term that is not tied to philosophical or religious belief), the mocking spirit, is one of man's greatest weapons in the struggle against the abuse of power and privilege. So long as man keeps it sharp dictators will sleep badly o' nights.

✦ ✦ ✦

IN our Canadian literature the mocking spirit has not fared too well so far. It has not had much of a chance; our French-speaking compatriots have on the whole been too scared of Voltaire to learn from him; and we English have been too busy making money to entertain any other question but: "will it pay?" But now at last, I think, the season for a little quiet sceptical fun is upon us; and we have at least one person who has inherited the true Voltairean spirit. This is Professor Arthur Lower, whose history of Canada "From Colony to Nation" made a considerable stir on its publication last year. In it Professor Lower blows a lot of cold, fresh air into the stuffy room of conventional Canadian history-writing. To call this "debunking" is hopelessly crude. The make-up of Professor Lower might be described better as: one part Bunyan and his Mr. Valiant-for-Truth; one part Lytton Strachey and his delight in epigrammatic style; one part original historian with a personal reading of the facts; and the rest sheer devilry.

✦ ✦ ✦

UNDER the last classification, for example, one must put this aphorism on the Rebellion of 1837: "Militarily both sides behaved in the best traditions of comic opera." And this thrust, too, of the Winnipegger: "Montreal, like Toronto, is a kind of distant suburb of New York." (But if you carry that line too far you finish up with the Montreal poet Patrick Anderson's description of Canada as "America's attic".)

✦ ✦ ✦

THE choicest example of the Lower style is his summary of the war of 1812. This will probably become a classic of irony and compressed statement. In a dozen lines it demolishes the structure of patriotic pride which generations of jingoists have laboured to build up, lowers General Brock gently from his column (though with all due respect), and puts the whole matter on a foundation of reason and proportion. It is a good sign of Canada's intellectual maturity that we are ready to accept such iconoclasm with a smile. Of course we shall go on cherishing the legend; poor is the nation that has no heroic legends to cherish. (I often wonder how Australian history-teachers manage to make things interesting without any Red Indians and Damyankees to liven the tale.) But after this we will not let it get out of hand.

✦ ✦ ✦

THE habit of not being impressed by pretentiousness (another clumsy way of avoiding the horrid word "debunk"!) is well-rooted in most Eufopean countries, and expresses itself in different ways according to the genius of each people. I think the English style is nicely caught in the incident told of the literary critic Douglas Jerrold: seeing a pompous-looking stranger walking down Piccadilly, approacned him and asked "I beg your pardon, sir, but are you anyone in particular?" Christopher Hobhouse, whose guide to Oxford is the book to buy for a witty, erudite description of the University city, was another man of the same stamp. The war, alas, claimed him, but his friend Harold Nicholson has left a lively memorial of him. He relates how Hobhouse "when confronted with elderly or distinguished people, would not (or not always) flagrantly expose their ineptitude; he would listen quite patiently to their opinions; he would then lean back in his chair, close his eyes slowly and utter the one word "Gosh!"

✦ ✦ ✦

THE French tradition is dryer, like their best wines. A story that the Austrian poet Rilke tells against himself in one of his letters illustrates it well. It was Paris and spring. The young poet, full to bursting with Germanic enthusiasms, was holding forth in the studio of the great French sculptor Rodin. "How it releases one" he babbled, "the way one must collaborate with all the sap and exert oneself till one is tired! Don't you know that too?" To which Rodin, laconically: "Ah, je n'y jamais fait attention." ("I've never given it a thought.")

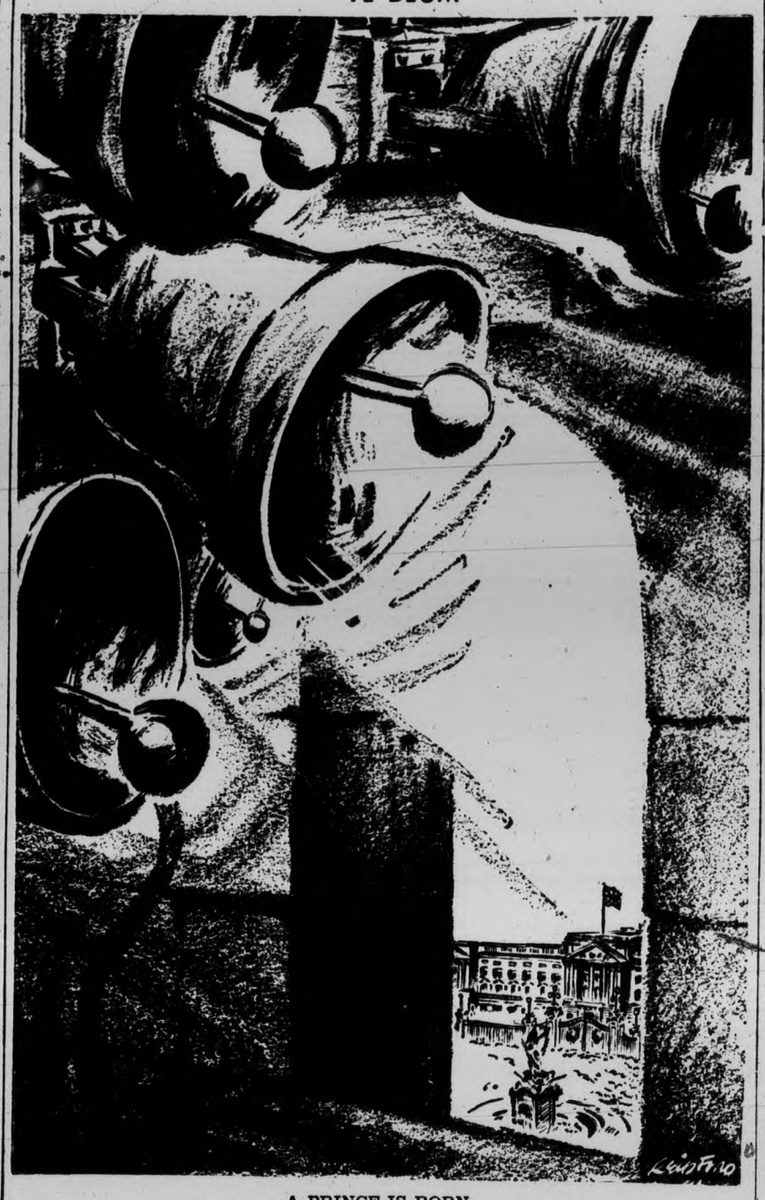
✦ ✦ ✦

IT'S a pity that the verb to "lower" already exists, for it would be a useful new coinage for the subtler forms of "debunking". And it would convey a tribute to a subtle Canadian mind. But I suppose it too would suffer the same fate as "debunk"; it would sink lower and— But that's enough. When one reaches the punning stage it's time to stop.

THE SPY

A case of theft was being tried and a wizen-faced little man, who was supposed to have seen all that had happened, was in the witness box. After taking the oath he turned and faced defending counsel.

"You say the fence is ten feet high," said the latter, "and that you were standing on the ground—not mounted on a ladder or a box or anything?"



"That's correct," replied the witness.

"Ah," went on defending counsel, a note of triumph in his voice, "then perhaps you can explain how you, a man little more than five feet in height, could see over a fence ten feet high and watch the action of the accused?"

The witness stared back defiantly.

"There's a hole in that fence," he replied.

A Plea For The Humanities

By G. L. WOODRUFF

FOR ages, and ages in the literal sense, educators have debated the problem of what to teach. Where should the emphasis be placed, on the Humanities, or languages, literature, logic and history? or the Sciences, mathematics and vocational training generally? One must readily admit that the issue in our day is dead, for no modern school would think of arranging a curriculum devoted entirely to one side or the other. If any trend is noticed today, it is in favour of the vocational side of education. In the last 25 years our manual training has become craft of all sorts. Our vocational schools have increased the scope of their training during the same period, and many more options for secondary school pupils are provided today. In the meantime, the importance of the Humanities has decreased steadily until now they have become perhaps of secondary importance. The continuation of such a trend would, in time, leave us with an educational system devoted entirely to fitting the child to earn a dollar. Surely our aims in edcuation are wider in scope than this!

No one could possibly deny that education, as one of its aims, should fit the child to take his place in this complex modern world of ours. With labour scarce and production still high, the pupils leaving our schools whether at Grade 8 level, through secondary school, or with a complete high school graduation are absorbed quickly into industry and business. Our great desire is to have our young people self-supporting and started on some pathway or other which will permit them to make their way in the world. No one would wish to deny to the prospective worker his right to some training at the expense of the state, nor to the prospective employer his right to a worker with some knowledge of his aptitude or skill. Our vocational training is admittedly useful and necessary. Even so, there is adequate reason for believing that industry itself does a better job of training its workers than our schools. With mass production methods and specialized training no school could possibly present the skills and techniques necessary in its curriculum. Further, many young people have no real knowledge of the type of life work which best suits them and only actual employment can solve their problem in this regard. Our vocational schools then, necessary as they are, our subjects of crafts and manual arts and industrial arts, necessary as they are, cannot completely prepare the child in school for earning his living.

There is, of course, more to life than earning money. Man needs today as never before to have a broad and humanistic understanding of life. He needs to learn to get along with his fellow men, not just in his own community but in other communities and other sections of his country. Vocational training can never provide us with an intelligent citizen body. Perhaps when man has learned to get along with those at home, he can better learn to get along with those abroad. Our young citizen needs to learn of the gains we have made and the errors we have committed, through an understanding of history. He needs to appreciate the ideas and ideals of the past in literature, and tolerate the inheritance of other peoples in social studies and language. We can never become one world by concentrating on baking cakes and wiring houses and pounding typewriters any more than we can get along easily today without such skills. Humanistic studies might even teach us the secret of world peace—in time.

MAN today has more leisure time than ever before. We spend good tax money teaching him what to do with his spare time, with our recreation commissions and our community endeavours. Who sits down to an evening of algebra, or chemistry, or agriculture? Man, in his leisure, turns to a hobby or reading, or the inevitable radio or movies. Are we satisfied with the taste shown by our young people in their choice of recreation? If not, to elevate that taste is essential, and it cannot be done over a lathe or a kitchen stove. Man needs time and the background and the will to contemplate, to consider the nature of the world he lives in, and to cultivate a love for beautiful things. We speak glibly and superficially of the value of culture, of music, of drama, of art, but few of our young folk have the opportunity of acquiring such culture. If our schools neglect to so enrich the lives of our future citizens, where else will they acquire such backgrounds? Once again, a broad humanistic education is necessary.

There is, perhaps, no greater problem facing our schools today than the necessity of striking some balance between the preparation of students for earning a livelihood and living a life. We need our specialization, we need just as certainly intelligent citizens. My plea, therefore, is for our educationalists to remember that they are teaching children and not subjects; that meeting with poetry and literature and, let's say it "culture", in youth will provide a reservoir of richness for later life, and that humanistic education will keep the young folk in our schools from a life of narrowness and intellectual stagnation.

Court Room Antics

(WINNIPEG FREE PRESS)

SIR Patrick Hastings, who conquered poverty to become a leading member of the English bar, has been recalling some of the celebrated counsel with whom he argued in court. One of these lawyers was Marshall Hall who, for all his greatness, was not above a few little tricks to impress a judge and jury. For example, he would pretend to be an expert on something about which he really knew very little. Sir Patrick tells this story to show how Marshall Hall once got into trouble by this exhibitionism:

"I once fought a case against him which related to pearls. Lady Mond had sent a valuable pearl necklace to a firm of jewellers to be cleaned, and alleged that owing to some neglect the pearls had been injured by excessive heat.

Marshall was for the defence, and he was, of course, an expert on pearls. He came into court surrounded by pearls, big pearls, little pearls, and all the appliances required for testing their value.

There were test tubes, microscopes, and scales, in fact, the only thing that appeared to be missing was a complete outfit of oysters to explain their early life.

Marshall's defence was that the pearls could not possibly be affected by heat, and he was prepared to give, and in fact gave, a great deal of personal evidence upon the subject.

We were in danger of being swamped by his enthusiasm, when a gentleman who was supposed to be helping me handed me two magnificent pearls in a handsome velvet case.

"This 'ere Marshall 'All seems to know all about pearls," he said. "Show 'im those two and ask 'im which of 'em has been burnt, and 'ow much of its value 'as gone."

Marshall was in his element. He took the pearls and examined them through his microscope; he bit them and smelt them and applied the appropriate tests, while the whole court awaited his decision with breathless interest. Finally he gave his expert opinion.

"My lord," he said, holding up the larger of the two, "this pearl has undoubtedly been affected by excessive heat."

"Never mind about that," shouted the fellow. "'Ow much of the value 'as been lost?"

Marshall pondered deeply "Without further examination it is difficult to express a decided opinion, but I should estimate the damage at about £500."

The gentleman leaped to his feet; for a moment I thought he was going to kiss me.

"Tell 'im they're duds," he said, in a voice that all could hear. "He can have 'em both for a bob."

Poor Marshall! The microscopes were swept onto the floor, and he swept out after them.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

The light of the body is the eye: if therefore thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light. But if thine eye be evil, thy whole body shall be full of darkness. (Matt. 6: 22, 23.)

✦ ✦ ✦

If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right-hand of God. Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth. For ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God....

Lie not one to another, seeing that ye have put off the old man with his deeds; and have put on the new man, which is renewed in knowledge after the image of him that created him. (Col. 3: 1-3, 9, 10.)

Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is (I John 3: 2.)

Letters to the Editor

IGNORANCE, PURE IGNORANCE

Sir: Everybody who reads, has heard of that famous newspaper editor Horace Greeley.

Once, in an editorial he had written, there appeared a misspelled word. A certain lady of his acquaintance took him to task about his mistake and wanted to know "Why"? His reply is a classic: "Ignorance, madam, pure ignorance".

Now, Mr. Editor, I think most of us, if we were honest enough to say so, could give the same excuse for making many of our mistakes.

Today there are a great number of people in Ontario making a great mistake. They are not trying to save electricity.

This age—nineteen hundred and now—is an age of co-operation. A man does not live to himself alone but must co-operate with his fellow men. If he can do anything to help his community in any way he is not only promoting his own happiness but the happiness of his neighbours. And only by so doing can he justify his existence.

Some places have "black-outs" for various lengths of time. Even "Toronto the Good" has a period of no light. Can you imagine the terrific howls of so-called righteous indignation rising to high heaven if anyone called these good people ignorant? Yet what other conclusion is to be drawn?

Each individual, saving his little bit multiplied by one or two hundred thousand would effect quite a saving — enough perhaps to keep industries from closing their doors. Enough perhaps to keep away the depression which some people think is "just around the corner". The present is a serious and critical time and demands serious and careful consideration.

In closing I wish to congratulate the people of Peterborough for not yet having one blackout. It shows they have a fine spirit of intelligent co-operation.

Yours truly,

C. J. DAVIS.

Lakefield.

Ford, Lupino Try Out Interviewing

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 17 (AP).—Film stars are the most interviewed people in the world. So I guess it was inevitable that a couple would break under the strain.

When Ida Lupino and Glenn Ford were approached on the "Bonanza" set, they broke into the open field and started interviewing each other — with the expert touch of the cliche born of long practice. Here's the results:

Ford: "What do you dislike about actors?"

Lupino: "When they behave like actors off the set."

Ford: "Me, too. And young actors who don't take their work seriously."

Lupino: "Right. It takes many years and hard work before you're an actor. You know, the two actors I've really enjoyed working with are you and Richard Widmark."

Ford: "I'm probably sticking my neck out, but the only two really fine actresses I've worked with are you and Bette Davis. This sounds like a mutual admiration society. Would you like to work for a woman director?"

Rather Work for Man

Lupino: "No, I'd rather work for a man. I like the directness of a man. Women are indirect creatures. What do you like most in women?"

Ford: "I don't know. I guess it's a sense of humor. What do you like most in a man?".

Lupino: "Tenderness. What irritates you most about women?"

Ford: "Nothing. They're wonderful."

Ford: "Should an actress love the actor in love scenes?"

Lupino: "Naturally — for the moment. After all, the actor becomes the character she is in love with. Do you like women to pick out your ties?"

Ford: "No. I like my pipe and shippers set out at home, but not my clothes. Do you like fans?"

Lupino: "Of course. They give me my bread and butter. What has shaken you recently?"

Ford: "It's Hollywood's attitude. If you drive an inexpensive car, you're accused of being cheap. If you ride in a limousine, you're 'putting on the dog.' You can't win."

WHEN THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO BLUES snapped the University of Western Ontario's winning streak at 27 games, they had to stop fleet Jack Parry (27) among other Mustang speedsters and Fraser Mustard (40) is the man who's heading him off in this play during the second quarter of the game played at Varsity Stadium, Toronto. Parry, the Western running ace, was injured in the first half of the contest, did not make an appearance in the second half, and is a doubtful starter next Saturday when the two teams fight it out for the intercollegiate crown. The Mustangs will be the underdogs, something of a new role for them.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Looking over the results of the PWSU annual meeting in Toronto, we notice where they defeated an amendment which would have increased the base distances from 55 to 60 feet and permit lead-offs. An amendment which carried allows men to coach on the bases in junior games. And there's talk of amalgamating with the OASA, though the reason at the moment is obscure. Dot Millar, who is prexy of the local lasses' loop, was elected treasurer of the Provincial Union. Her sister, Gladys Mortimer, is a former president of the PWSU. Champions this year are: Senior—Sinny-Lees of Toronto; intermediate "A"—Merry Macs of St. Catharines; intermediate "B"—Plymouths of Welland; and junior—DuVals of Toronto.

More girls are going in for athletics every season, and that is quite noticeable here. Largest number yet played tennis last summer, while the golf links and bowling greens were well populated. Not to mention the softball diamond. Badminton this season is getting a big play by the fair ones, while basketball, alley bowling and swimming have large feminine followings. Same will be true of skiing when snow blankets the hills a month or so hence. And some girls will be playing hockey, too. Wives, sisters and daughters are no longer content to be just spectators.

Good For What Ails

And athletics are good for girls, as well as the male sex. If taken in moderate doses. Too strenuous sports weren't made for the maidens, but healthy exercise is the right of all. The colleens lose none of their curves by bowling, playing tennis, badminton and such games. In fact the exercise gives them a healthy glow and that feeling of being in the well-known pink. Pastimes like figure skating and ornamental swimming bring out the natural grace belonging to girls, and surely curling and sweeping briskly is not foreign to womanly habits! Yes, girls, you continue to spectate, but go in for appropriate athletics yourselves, too.

Coaches Bev Goulding and Alex Londry respectively of the senior and junior PCVS grid squads are busy this week prepping their players for COSSA finals the end of the week. The big games of the year for these classy footballers. Senior PCI-ers clash with Burlington in Burlington at 2.30 on Saturday, while Port Colborne plays the junior PCVS pack at two Saturday aft in the Oval here. Both sudden-death games with titles riding on them. Some followers may make the trip to Burlington but the big majority will ring Nicholls Oval to see a wide-open junior battle.

Sweeping The Alleys

Three sweeps Monday and a couple of a 2-1 decisions in the Girls' Bowling League as they pounded the pins in lusty fashion. Towne Togs were back on the beam to lead in team totals with high cross of 3146 and top single effort of 1205, led by Aggie Anderson whose 749 was the best individual threesome of the night. D. Bearne of Merry Macs threw the leading single with a 293 chore, as blind score of 555 went to her teamate, B. Pogue. While the scores in this circuit are better than those of any other belle's loop, some of the other leagues are also getting good counts lately.

Ed Woodcock advises of a meeting at his home at 57 Aylmer St. tomorrow night at seven bells for southend bantams puckists. Anyone interested is asked to attend. Don't know what the setup is yet, perhaps a proposed entry in the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association when it re-organizes for the winter. And it should do so before too long so interested teams will know what's what. St. Peter's expect to be in there again, too, we hear. The PMHA-ers this winter won't have to travel to Lakefield for games but will find accommodation at the Civic Arena. You can lay to that, mes hearties, as Dick Ouimet—rink manager—happens to be PMHA prexy. Rink is nearing completion now.

Lindsay Will Be In

Lindsay will have an intermediate OHA team this semester—and the Petes-Omemee Combines may well be grouped with that club and some lakeshore entries of "B" calibre. A Scugog item says: "Bob Workman and Ken Western have been very active in trying to line up some valuable players to make the Lindsay entry a strong one. Stu Hicks and McTaggart of Little Britain, and Bill Hicks of Bobcaygeon, are much in earnest about making the new entry. With all the local players and a sprinkling from the district, the boys should line up a contender." Lindsay will also ice a junior squad, and their minor league starts play on Dec. 8. Coombs and Burns will be out with Legion.

A FEVERISH MOMENT in a recent New York Rangers-Chicago Black Hawks hockey game in Madison Square Garden, New York, as Chicago Goalie Henry dashed out of the net to snare the fast-flying puck in midair with his hand, while Chicago players Stewart and McCaig move in front of the temporarily unoccupied net just in case. The puck is nestling in Henry's big mitt over his head. It was a sizzling shot from the stick of Rangers' Dunc Fisher who avoided Chicago's Jim Conacher to draw a bead. The Rangers won the game 4-3. In picture, left to right, are Lund, Rangers; Stewart, Chicago; McCaig, Chicago; Henry, Chicago; Gadsby, Chicago; Raleigh, Rangers; Fisher, Rangers, and Conacher.

NHL Standings Get New Look?

By The Canandian Press

All six teams in the National Hockey League see action tonight as the three top teams meet in the three second division squads in games which may well give the standing a "new look."

The league-leading Detroit Red Wings entertain New York Rangers, Montreal Canadiens tangle with Black Hawks in Chicago and Boston Bruins meet Leafs in Toronto.

Only two points separate Canadiens and Bruins—tied for second place—from the flying Detroit squad. A loss for the Red Wings coupled with wins by Montreal and Boston would produce a three-way deadlock for top spot.

A shake-up in the arrangement of the three Boston teams may also result. The Maple Leafs have eight points; Rangers seven and the up and coming Black Hawks six.

Tuesday, Buddy O'Connor, New York's high-scoring centre, donned Ranger livery for the first time this year—but just for a practice. He is expected to make his first game appearance against Chicago in New York, Nov. 30.

It's rather difficult to cover all of the 14 games that are played each night, and it's doubly so when you are playing in a game yourself. This happened last night, but we did manage to peek at a few.

On Ice No. 1, Ross Downey and Jack Welsh battled it all the way, Downey winning two up. Their total score of 10 was the lowest for the night.

On Ice 5, H. White won out on the last end from G. Clark. It was a tie coming home.

Then, Roy Hutchinson, down one going home, counted two and finished one up on E. Northey.

C. Lawrence was three up on F. Stevenson and Bill Hamilton nosed out K. Hamley 10-8, and so it goes night after night.

Tonight Group No. 5 plays at 7 o'clock and Group No. 1 at 9 o'clock.

The ladies had their second game in the Gibson Trophy, on Tuesday afternoon, and while it is far too early for predictions, it looks as if their schedule is going to run close all the way.

Mrs. H. Dulmage and Mrs. G. Green are the only rinks, so far, with two wins.

Pittsburgh's Billy Conn nine years ago tonight gave a 15-round boxing lesson to Gus Lesnevich to retain his world's light-heavyweight title. It was Conn's second successful defence of the crown.

AT THE BROCK TONIGHT—Whipper Billy Watson will enter the Brock Arena ring tonight in a grim mood of determination to upset victorious Big Men Morgan. Watson has a loss to avenge against the bearded 300-pounder. He will be flying high and fast to offset the enormous weight advantage of the Tenessee Colossus.

In the semi-final Sliding Billy Hansen, one of the great mat favorites of this country, will test big, rowdy Sandy O'Donnell.

Pat Flanagan will open the evening's proceedings when he meets Larrupin' Lee Henning. It's an all-star show and the fans are requested to come early for choice seats. First of the fireworks starts at 8:45.

Rocket Centre Of Word Battle

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (CP) — The Rocket is replacing the Flying Saucer as the mystery provoking the most comment of the year.

The enigma: Why did Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens score 50 goals in the 1944-45 season and only 28 last year?

Manager Frank Boucher of New York Rangers says this is the answer: Richard sifted through war-weakened teams during the height of his scoring flare and now is baffled by rebuilt defences in the National Hockey League.

Oh yeah? hints Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara: "One of these nights the Rocket will resume his scoring ways and the incense burning will start all over again."

The latest Richard rumpus started when James A. Burchard of the New York World-Telegram paraphrased Boucher thus:

"It's ridiculous to compare him (Richard) in the same breath with Howie Morenz, Bill Cook, Aurel Joliat, Nels Stewart and other old stars who really earned their goals. Anybody can score against cream puffs. It's a little tougher against brick ice cream."

Sullivan Leads Scoring Race

TORONTO, Nov. 17.—(CP) Topping the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League scoring honors is "Red" Sulliv of the league-leading St. Catharines Teepees. Strengthening Canada's Future Olympic Teams Chief Topic At AAU Meeting In Montreal

MONTREAL, Nov. 17—(CP).—Canada's future in development of amateur sport, with particular attention to strengthening the Dominion's Olympic Games competition, may be decided in London, Ont., this week-end. The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada meets Nov. 18-20 and the Canadian Olympic Association, irking under its status of committee under the AAU, gathers the final day with its president, A. Sidney Dawes.

AAU President George C. Machum said today that business Thursday and Friday is expected to be routine. Saturday morning has been set aside for an open, full-dress discussion on what to do for sport generally and Olympic competition.

What divergencies of opinion may arise, and how sharp they may be, remain to be seen.

Machum, without disclosing any specific plans or recommendations he may have, said all sports-governing bodies have been invited to the meetings, particularly that of the final day, when opinions or submissions will be sought.

He expected no definite plan "will be finalized" because some representatives may want to report back to their executives. Any concrete result may not come until after a meeting in Ottawa on January 7-8 of sports-governing bodies with the Federal Government's National Council of Physical Fitness.

On the other hand, Dawes is definitely in favor of a Canadian Sports Congress, patterned after that in Sweden, and is of the opinion the COA should be controlled by all sports-governing bodies instead of being a committee of the AAU orf C.

Favors Patent

It is also known that the COA is not averse to applying for the latter's patent and a charter, with members of the newly incorporated COA being appointed by all sports-governing bodies. Appointment would be on a basis proportionate to the bodies' numerical participation in major and minor events of Olympic and British Empire Games.

Dawes said Sweden's success in sport stems from its Sports Congress, with 60 representatives from 25 sports-governing bodies and bolstered by $1,000,000 a year contribution from the Swedish Government. He is in favor of a Federal grant for all sports-governing bodies in Canada.

Machum did not think the Swedish plan feasible in Canada. He said it smacks too much of European regimentation and that "Canadians won't be told what to do."

He said it was reasonable to think the Canadian Government would do more for sport than it has in the past, but too great governmental participation would make sport "mechanical and without sentiment."

Financial Aid

He advocated financial aid not from the government but "from across Canada." All sports organizations and communities should get behind sport under competent leadership everywhere. The people of Canada, "from would ultimately come anyway," should make it their business to look after and encourage their athletes.

Machum said there should be "radical changes" in the C.O.A. set-up and the identical body should handle British Empire games, not two organizations with overlapping membership. At the same time, he said every sport in the Olympic and Empire games should be represented on the COA executive.

Dawes' plan of the AAU of C is that its principal aim should be to further track and field sports.

"These are administered by the various national amateur athletic unions of the various countries, and as the sports of track and field are so widely practised right from our childhood days up, and because they enter into so many other sports, the unions are generally the most important of the national sports-governing bodies."

"In Canada, however, our amateur athletic union also administers boxing, wrestling, weightlifting and gymnastics, which tend to divide their interest."

OHA To Finance Goderich Lawsuit Appeal

TORONTO, Nov. 17 —(CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association Tuesday night decided to finance an appeal by four officials of a Goderich hockey team who lost a $5,000 lawsuit over an accident in the Goderich arena.

The suit was brought by Murdoch MacDonald, a spectator who claimed he was injured when a balcony rail gave way during an OHA junior game of the 1946-47 season. He sued Ivan Lauzon and three associates who operated the hockey team. Judgment was found against them, as joint tenants, although they only rented the arena for a night at a time.

George Panter, O.H.A. president, announced Tuesday night that the association would absorb the cost of the appeal.

"The best appeal firm we could find will handle the case and we hope to learn a great deal from what transpires for future guidance of our clubs," he said.

"There was a great deal of criticism against the O.H.A. immediatley after the judgment. People said we should do this and that. At no time had we any other thought than to stand by our clubs. We never intend to sit idly by and allow one of our hockey teams to remain in such a predicament."

Harry Hurst, Montreal boxer, will receive his purse from his Toronto fight Monday night with Pete Zaduk of Toronto, formerly of Guelph, but the Ontario Athletic Commission plans disciplinary action against Hurst's manager, Maurice Foreman.

Hurst was automatically disqualified in the third round of a scheduled 10-rounder when Foreman threw in the towel and climbed into the ring after it.

Foreman's plea for jumping into the ring was that his boy had been injured by the first punch (one that floored him) and that Hurst came out of it by instinct and might have been seriously injured had the bout progressed further.

Conn Smythe was re-elected president and general manager of Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens at a meeting of the shareholders on Tuesday.

Also re-elected were: Vice-presidents Georg McCullagh and Murdoch; W. A. H. MacBrien, chairman of the board, and J. P. Bickell and E. W. Bickle as members of the committee.

There was only one change on the 21-man board of directors. Larkin Maloney replaced Alfred Rogers.

J. H. Ross, acting chairman of the national council on physical fitness, has started a Canada-wide tour to stimulate co-operation among national sporting organizations, council officials in Calgary said Tuesday.

Mr. Ross recently sent an invitation to all major sport organizations in Canada to send representatives to a sports meeting at Ottawa, Jan. 7. The meeting was called to give the organizations an opportunity to discuss problems associated with joint efforts and also to explore the possibility of further co-operation in promoting greater fitness through more participation in sports.

Heavyweight contender Lee Savold said in Halifax Tuesday that if he wins his next fight, against Bruce Woodcock in London, Dec. 6, "I'll be fighting Joe Louis in June." The 30-year-old Savold said he thought he could win both encounters.

His manager, Bill Daly, said: "Lee will beat Woodcock, alright. If by some chance he doesn't, we'll go in for the movie business."

Al Todd, 44-year-old former big league catcher and one-time player with Toronto of the International League, has been signed as manager of the Southern Association Memphis Chicks, Frank Longinotti, club vice-president, said Tuesday.

He succeeds Jack Onslow, who moved up to the American League to take over the Chicago White Sox.

James Honochick, umpire in the International Baseball League the last two years, has been sold to the American League.

Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International loop, said in New York yesterday that Honochick was the fourth umpire from his league to advance in the last two years.

CASH AND CHEQUES valued at between $5,000 and $6,000 were stolen from the safe of the Nuway Food Products Ltd., in Montreal, after burglars forced their way into the company's second story office by cutting a hole in a wall. Fred Kwiat, an employee, surveys the hole, connecting the office with the roof of an adjoining warehouse, while Victor Grant, another employee, looks at the damaged safe. Burglary was discovered by manager Saul Brookman. Police are investigating.

Rockets Whip St. Mike's In 8-1 Triumph

By The Canadian Press

Galt Rockets picked up their third win of the Junior Ontario Hockey Association series Tuesday night—after a six-game losing streak.

Rockets came out of an 18-penalty game with an 8-1 victory over the fifth-place Toronto St. Michael's College Majors in the only OHA game last night.

Pete Tkachuk, Broncho Horvath and Harold Hopper each notched two goals for Galt while Bob Newcombe and Bob Defelive garnered singletons. Fleet centreman, Don Rope tallied for the Irish.

Rope started the Irish off late in the first period on a pass from Ron Corcoran, but Hopper drove back for Galt minutes later to beat netminder Tom Shea on a close-in shot.

Rockets blasted in five goals before the mid-way mark of the second stanza. Horvath got his first goal early in the period, followed by counters by Tkachuk, Defelice and Newcombe, before he got his second.

Third period goals by Tkachuk and Hopper were mixed with 12 penalties—Galt drawing five.

The fourth-place Toronto Marlboros play host to the league-leading Hamilton Tigers in the Senior OHA division tonight. In another senior game, the cellar-ite Stratford Indians clash with Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen.

In the junior loop, the fourth-place Guelph Biltmores meet Stratford Kroehlers and Barrie Flyers clash with Windsor Spitfires.

Protection in force

Now in its 67th year, North American Life has more than half a billion dollars of life insurance and pension policies in force.

Each of the 170,000 policies which make up this large amount of protection represents an investment in future security by a family or an individual. Every policyowner may not fully comprehend the broad beneficial effect of $500,000,000 protection on the future welfare of our country. But each one knows that his own position is made more secure because he belongs to the large family of North American Life policyowners. Many thousands of families have already benefited from their North American Life policies which have become payable, for the Company has paid more than $150,000,000 in benefits since it was established in 1881.

North American Life is a Mutual Company, operated solely for the policyowners, and the large volume of protection in force is, we think an evidence of the good service and the competent advice given by the Company's sales representatives and employees. The Company welcomes the continued patronage of its policyowners and of prospective clients.

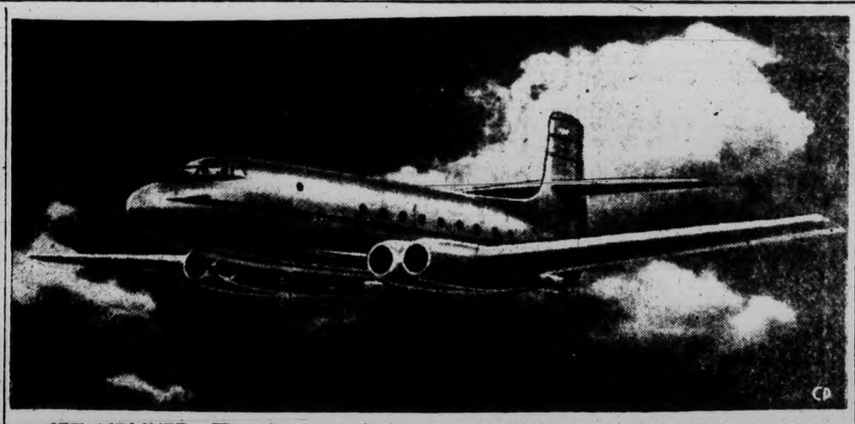
Father Chained 13-Year-Old Son

DETROIT, Nov. 17—(AP).—A father was held by police today because his 13-year-old son said he was "getting too big now" to be beaten and chained to his bed.



The boy, Carl Russo, told police his father had chained him to his bed and beaten him periodically since he was six years old.

The last occasion was Friday when he came home late from a movie, the boy said. When he was released Tuesday, he went to the police.

The father, Antonio Russo, a drug company packer, was held for arraignment. He has four other children.

Suggest Power Quotas For Each Plant

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (CP) — Local industrialists are discussing a Hydro-saving plan to give each plant an individual quota. When the quota is reached, the plant will close down for the rest of the week.

A similar scheme is already in operation at Kitchener, where industries are divided in five classes. Each class is told on which five days of the week it may operate and there are no daily power intetruptions.

D. A. Henry, plant manager at the Corning Glass Company in suburban Leaside, said his plant has entered into an agreement with local Hydro officials permitting the plant to operate 24 hours a day seven days a week, providing the plant makes a voluntary reduction equal to the amount of power which would be saved by daily cutoffs. So far the plant has not been required to close.

Twelve other Leaside firms have made a similar deal.

Plant managers say motors are sometimes made to do the work of two. Some equipment—such as fans—had unnecessarily powerful motors. Incandescent bulbs were replaced by more economical lighting. Employees were instructed to turn off motors and lights the moment they are no longer needed.

Czech Trumpeter B. Miloslavich In City Band

Blaze Miloslavich used to live in Prague, Czechoslovakia. For four years he was with the Czech Air Force, and he played first trumpet in the Prague Symphony Orchestra.

Mr. Miloslavich is now employed in Canada Packers plant, Peterborough. He is another of freedom-loving Czechs who preferred the air of Canada to the Communism of Tito.

Capt. W. H. Peryer, director of Peterborough Citizens Band, informed The Examiner that he was delighted last week when Blaze Miloslavich called at the band room and introduced himself.

"He can't speak English except a few words," Capt. Peryer said, "but he is eloquent in the universal language of music. He is a fine trumpeter, sat in with our trumpet section that evening, and was immediately accepted as one of our own. Otherwise he is known as a D.P. (displaced person)."

The former member of the Prague Symphony played with the band Sunday night at the Collegiate.

Mr. Winters is minister of reconstruction and Mr. Garson is minister of justice.

Conservatives Say By-Election May Be A Sign

By JAMES McCOOK

LONDON, Nov. 17—(CP).—If the Edmonton (England) by-election last week was a guide to the way the country will vote in 1950, the Conservatives can say they will form the new government.

Although the ruling Labor Party held the seat, its majority was reduced by 15,000 compared with the 1945 vote. The personality of the late E. F. M. Durbin, the former member, was credited with making the 1945 majority unusually large. He was looked on as a coming man in the government due to his popularity and organizing and speaking skill.

But even without Durbin, who died in a drowning accident, Labor hoped that its plurality would be nearer the 19,000 polled in 1945 than the 3,327 actually received.

The Liberal News Chronicle, often friendly to the government, said the vote showed that the "people in this country are tiring of convulsions."

"A period of good administration with some help to private enterprise is what most people would like to see," the newspaper added.

Interesting Sign Post

Lord Woolton, former Food Minister, said that if the Edmonton result were applied proportionately over the whole country, this would lower the Labor vote from 12,000,000 to 9,500,000 and raise the Conservatives and their allies from 10,000,000 to 16,000,000.

But—and Conservatives admit the importance of this qualification—the Edmonton by-election does not prove much. In by-elections since 1945, London constituencies, notably Epsom, North Croydon and Edmonton, have shown the most marked swing from Labor support.

Elsewhere in England and in Scotland the gains in the Conservative vote have been less pronounced. When all 45 by-elections are considered, the Conservatives say their vote has risen 38 per cent, over 1945 and the Socialist dropped 9.8 per cent.

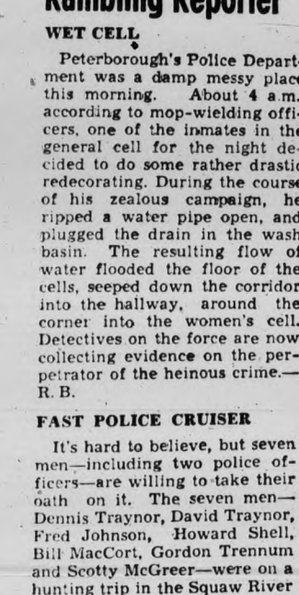
WET CELL



Peterborough's Police Department was a damp messy place this morning. About 4 a.m., according to mop-wielding officers, one of the inmates in the general cell for the night decided to do some rather drastic redecorating. During the course of his zealous campaign, he ripped a water pipe open, and plugged the drain in the wash basin. The resulting flow of water flooded the floor of the cells, seeped down the corridor into the hallway, around the corner into the women's cell. Detectives on the force are now collecting evidence on the perpetrator of the heinous crime.—R. B.

FAST POLICE CRUISER

It's hard to believe, but seven men—including two police officers—are willing to take their oath on it. The seven men—Dennis Traynor, David Traynor, Fred Johnson, Howard Shell, Bill MacCort, Gordon Trennum and Scotty McGreer—were on a hunting trip in the Squaw River region last week. They brought back the story of the season: Denny Traynor, a member of the Peterborough Police Department, outran a rabbit! That's their story, anyway. Two dogs with the party started chasing the bunny, but the fleet-footed constable got impatient with their efforts, so he began to pick 'em up and lay 'em down in short order. Caught the prey with his hands, the men insist. Other spoils of the shoot to the party were: Two bucks and three does.—RB.

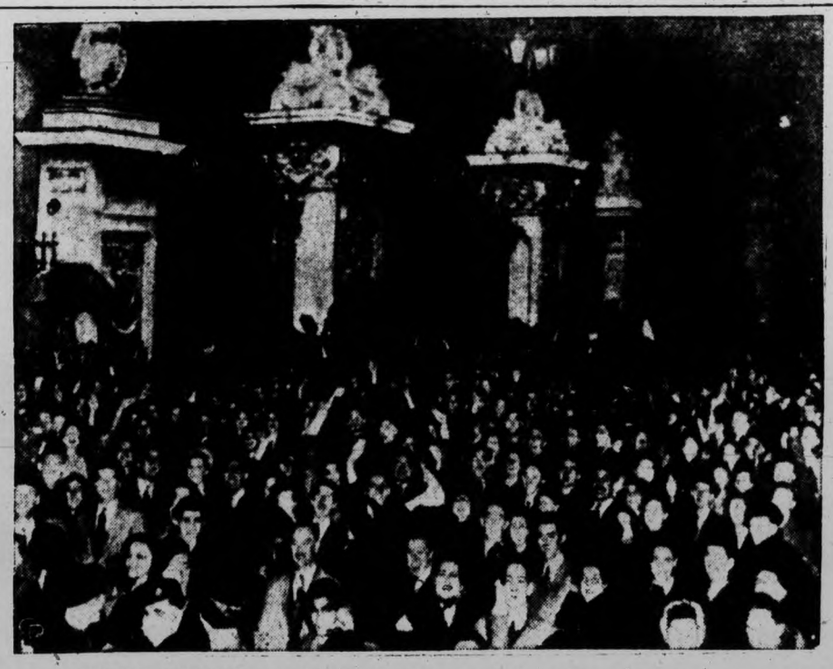
1948 Wheat Crop Higher Than Year Ago

OTTAWA, Nov. 17.—(CP). — Canada's wheat lands yielded 393,300,000 bushels of golden bread grain this year, an increase of 52,600,000 bushels over the 1947 harvest.

The bureau of statistics announced the 1948 yield Tuesday in its third and final estimate of Canadian crops. It compared with a 1947 harvest of 340,767,000 bushels and a 1946 production of 413,725,000.



The total included 367,329,000 bushels of spring wheat produced on the prairie provinces and 26,013,000 bushels of winter wheat, which comes mainly from Ontario.

The 1948 harvest of oats totalled 357,703,000 bushels against 278,670,000 last year, barley 154,643,000 bushels against 141,372,00, flaxseed 17,353,000 against 12,240,800 and rye 25,348,000 against 13,217,000. The rye total included 19,876,000 bushels of fall growth and 5,472,000 of spring production.

The estimated average yield of wheat on the prairie provinces this year was 15.8 bushels per authorized acre, with Manitoba averaging 23.8, Saskatchewan 13.3 and Alberta 18.4.

The area sown to fall wheat in Ontario this autumn was estimated at 748,000 acres, down 175,000 from last year. The condition at Oct. 31 was reported at 80 per cent of the long-time average yield per acre, compared with 97 per cent in 1947.

Fall rye sowings in Canada totalled 1,161,000 acres against 1,639,000 in 1947. Condition was placed at 56 per cent of the long-time average against 101 per cent last year.

Hunter Narrowly Misses Collision With Deer Bags Big Buck Six Feet Away Near Apsley

Most hunters have to scour the bush for several days before getting a chance for a shot at a deer; in fact some are unable even to catch a glimpse of one. Not so Earl Houston, an Otonabee farmer. The deer came to him.

Houston and four others were hunting at a favorite spot in the Apsley district. He had separated from his companions and was standing by a deer run when he noticed dogs chase a frightened doe across a clearing in the bush at an oblique angle to the run.

He then heard a noise nearby and was astounded to find that a big buck deer was pounding up the run, unaware of his presence, watching the wild-life drama ahead. The big animal was so close to him that Houston had to jump to avoid being run down.

But he didn't ponder long over this unusual situation. As soon as he jumped back he raised his gun and fired at the buck which was only six feet away by this time. The shot killed the animal, a 10-point buck weighing 163 pounds.

When they left on Sunday after a week's hunt, they were told by the game wardens that they were only the second group to get their quota up until that time in the Apsley region. Included in their bag were three spike horn bucks and a yearling doe.

Other members of this successful party were Harold Bennett, Otonabee; Percy Windram, Peterborough; Gerald Lowes, Otonabee, and Wesley Bell, of Smith.

This modern adaptation of the hoary "gold brick" trick is being unfolded by police as they hold the man who allegedly sold the bronze to a Montrealer for exactly $5,193.75 more than they are worth. Capt. George Rochon (left) and Lt. Lomer Malo display the wares of the "salesman" as a warning to other prospective buyers of gold at a bargain.

Need More Evidence In Corruption Case

LONDON, Nov. 17 — (AP) — Attorney-General Sir Hartley Shawcross told a special inquiry tribunal Monday night that investigators have not yet found enough evidence to prosecute alleged corruption in the government.

In a four-hour statement before the three-man board set up by the House of Commons to investigate charges that some officials took brides, Sir Hartley disclosed for the first time just what the allegations were.

The Attorney-General said the key figure in the charges was an alien named Sidney Stanley, alias Solomon Wulkan.

Sir Hartley said Stanley told friends he had paid £50 ($200) weekly to John W. Belcher, Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade, to relax trade regulations and quash a prosecution of a Football Pool Company.

The Attorney-General added that the statment could not be corroborated and that it was denied by "Mr. and Mrs. Belcher."

Judge Lashes Lawyer For Changing Clients

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (CP)—An Ontario Appeal Court Justice Monday rebuked a Toronto lawyer for acting against a former client.

Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson said Lawyer Victor E. Gray "acted unwisely in the ethical sense of the legal profession" by representing Mrs. Walter Kingsland in a suit for maintenance against her husband. He had previously acted for Kingsland.

But Mr. Justice Wilson said there were no grounds for giving Kingsland permission to appeal against an order issued Oct. 16 by Mr. Justice J. C. Genest who refused to grant an injunction to prevent Gray from representing Mrs. Kingsland.

The father erected a crude teepee from evergreens to shelter his family. He then set off alone by boat and paddled 29 miles to reach Fort Hope, Ont., where word of the fire was radioed to Fort William.

Pilot Harry Wright of Fort William took off on his rescue mission Sunday. Poor flying weather grounded his plane overnight at Atwood Lake. He made the return trip to Fort William Monday and the victim was met at the airport by an ambulance.

Ship Strike Talks Continue

SAN FRANCISO, Nov. 17 — (AP).—Peace talks continued in the west coast shipping strike today as the tie-up entered its 76th day.

Waterfront employees and Harry Bridges' CIO longshoremen scheduled another meeting after a "technical discussion" of the issues at their first night session Monday.

The unaffiliated marine firemen, another of the five unions involved, were to meet the shipowners today for further talks.

Also joining negotiations were the CIO Marine Cooks and Stewards. They asked improved wages and living conditions aboard ships and a 2½-year contract to end June 15, 1951.

In the longshore talks, negotiators Monday reported preliminary agreement on a nine-hour day, instead of a 10-hour longshoreman's day, and at least four hours' pay for any man reporting for work.

The union-controlled hiring hall, a primary issue in the strike, was under discussion Monday night. The longshoremen seek a 15-cent wage boost to $1.82 an hour.

How Ironized Yeast Tablets Build Up Your Blood and Vigor

So, if your healthy good looks and "pep" are waning—and this common blood condition's to blame, take Ironized Yeast Tablets. VOL. XCVII, No. 114 — WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1948

—Examiner Staff Photos

Quarter Century Club Is Organized By 27 Utilities Commission Employees

A Quarter-Century Club for employees of the Peterborough Utilities Commission was organized at their first annual dinner at the Empress Hotel Tuesday night. Harry G. Beatty was elected president, Ernest F. Reid vice-president, and Howard Clegg secretary-treasurer. The Commission presented each of the 27 charter members with a cheque for $25, and their wives are receiving at their homes today bouquets of three red roses. The club was sponsored by the Commission who provided the dinner meeting and entertainment. The detail of election of officers was left to the employees themselves.

Gordon S. Matthews, chairman of the Commission, expressed regret that membership lapel buttons ordered some months ago were not delivered on time. They will be distributed when received. He said the Commission appreciated the loyal co-operation of its staff, and particularly those who have qualified for Club membership by 25 years of service and those who likewise become eligible in the future.

On behalf of the Commission Mr. Matthews personally thanked each of the Quarter-Century members as he called them to the head table. The cheque envelopes were presented to them by Mrs. Macdonald, wife of Commissioner George A. Macdonald.

Mr. Matthews was chairman of the dinner, and on either side of him were the two other Commissioners, Mr. Macdonald and Mr. Fred Hills, and Mrs. Matthews, Mrs. Macdonald and Mrs. Hills and Mr. Ross L. Dobbin, Utilities manager.

Capable Men

Mr. Dobbin said it was a happy occasion to be present with the other members of the new Quarter-Century Club. "I have seen most of you come into the employ of the Commission, and I don't need to say that you have all been good and capable men. If there is any envy in me at all, it has been for your happiness with your wives and your families. I have watched you start with the Commission, and have seen you bring up families that have been a credit to you. That has been my pleasure.

We are all proud of the progress we have made in our work with the Commission. It doesn't change often, and I think that is evidence of the approbation of the citizens. We have a loyal company of employees. They have been working for the Commission as if it was for themselves, because you are stockholders in our utilities as much as the rest of the people of Peterborough who use them. The successful operation of our public utilities has been the result of the combined help of everybody on our staff."

Mr. Matthews said he hoped that at future dinners the club members would be accompanied by their wives because he felt certain they deserved a great deal of credit for the faithful and successful work of the men. He also thanked James Turnbull for the help he had given Mr. Dobbin in arranging the dinner details.

Musical Program

The pleasant atmosphere of the inaugural dinner was enhanced by the music of the Peterborough String Trio, Cecil Searles, violin, Tom Smith, cello, and Charles E. Allen, piano.

In the after dinner program, Mrs. James Goldie sang three soprano numbers in lovely tone and expression, "The Old Refrain" by Kreisler; "Morning" by Oley Speaks and "Lassie O'Mine" by Walt.

Don Landry sang three fine baritone selections: "Trade Winds", "Tell Me Not of a Lovely Lass" and "When the Sergeant Major is on Parade." Accompaniments were by Mr. Allen.

Miss Mignon Mayneord provided a delightful surprise in her art of whistling. She gave with striking fidelity and fluency of tone many bird figures which she said were not calls, and which she used in whistling the melody of three pieces, at times with bravura effect: "Chinese Lullaby", "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses" and "Cherabirabim." She was accompanied by Mrs. M. Hubbell.

The thanks of the new club's members to the commission for the splendid dinner and program was expressed by Mr. Harry Beatty.

The members present were, in alphabetic order of their names: Mr. Beatty, Clarence Cooke, Howard Clegg, James Cumming, Miss Cora F. Clark, S. B. Cummings, Hugh Cruikshank, R. L. Dobbin, Melville Dobson, Andrew Duthie, James H. Johnston, Daniel Kennedy, Miss E. M. Leahy, Duncan McKinnon, T. E. Park, E. F. Reid, B. S. Seabrook, W. J. Sharpe, A. W. Spencley, Fred Surety, J. C. Tremain. The other members are: Harry L. Beal, James Curran, Miss C. Detcher, Robert Fenn, W. J. Smith, G. W. Stenton. Some of the members are retired on pension, but the Commission wish to include them with the active staff.

ON LABOR'S SLATE as candidates for the City Council are Rev. E. C. Moore (right) rector of St. George's Anglican Church and John Beggs, president of the local union of the United Packinghouse Workers of America.

Labor Council Names Four Candidates

Four candidates for municipal office were on Tuesday night nominated by the Allied Labor Council. They are the Rev. E. C. Moore, of St. George's Anglican Church, Alfred Barber, president of the Allied Labor Council and president of Local 210 UPWA, John Beggs, president of Local 293 UPWA, and Eric May, storekeeper at CGE.

Two of these men do not belong to a union. They are Mr. Moore and Mr. May. However, Mr. May is a former unionist and now a salaried employee.

Perhaps the most unexpected candidate on the labor slate is Mr. Moore. He was approached by officers of the Council who asked him to run, and he asked for some time to think it over. During the meeting he telephoned to say he was willing to stand and he was pleased to accept the endorsation of the Council.

Possible Candidates

The committee which was appointed at the last Council meeting to bring in a list of possible candidates, suggested John Beggs, John G. Morton, Fred LeBar, Eric May, George Rowbottom, Orville Kidd, Alfred Barber, Arthur B. Burrows, and the Rev. E. C. Moore.

When President Barber announced that Mr. Moore was willing to be a candidate, he was immediately accepted as one of the four. A subsequent vote added the names of Messrs. Beggs, Barber and May.

Donald Drummond, presid Local 527 of the UE, bitterly denounced the proposed candidacy of John G. Morton. He claimed that Morton had tried to dissolve the Labor Council and form it into a CCL group which would automatically eliminate AFL unions.

"I speak for the Peterborough Lock workers," he said, "and they won't go along with a committee that would put Morton's name down. We in Local 527 have tried to get along with him but he won't get along with us. We can't support a slate with Morton's name included."

He also accused William Whibbs as being supporter of Mr. Morton.

Mr. Whibbs denied that Mr. Morton had anything to do with this motion of dissolution and claimed that the ex-president of Local 524 did not have an executive position at the time mentioned.

George James immediately denounced Mr. Drummond's statement saying "that man's outburst is a good example why our two candidates didn't get elected last year."

Donald Rosenburgh also criticized Mr. Drummond's statement claiming that it had nothing to do with the main consideration which was the election of labor candidates.

Before the meeting closed President Barber criticized Aldermen Dodds and Swanston for their opposition to the ward system in Peterborough.

"I think they're afraid of it," he said.

ALDERMAN H. DODDS

Dodds Decides To Run For Alderman

Ald. Hurrell Dodds, chairman of the Board of Works, announced this morning that he would be a candidate for re-election to the city council.

He is now completing four years as alderman. During that time he had been chairman of the property and parks committees and the Board of Works.

Ald. Dodds has been one of the most active supporters of the Civic Arena project. He argued that Peterborough should not remain in the humiliating position of leaving its youth without suitable accommodation for skating and hockey. From the outset he injected into the building campaign a decisiveness that brushed aside doubts, especially after visiting Cannington and interviewing the contractor, Hugh Wilson of the T. A. Wilson Lumber Company. The arena is virtually completed and will be ready for ice-making when the cold weather comes.

It will provide local facilities until the Memorial Centre is built.

Ald. Dodds took the former 57th Rangers band under his wing when it was discarded by the military authorities, contending that Peterborough should have a band and if necessary a Citizens' Band. It need only be observed that this band under Capt. W. H. Peryer gave its latest concert Sunday night.

Permanent improvements at Nicholls Park and Riverside Park and a desire for action toward the completion of the sewage disposal plant are other affairs of the council which Ald. Dodds has actively supported. They are part of the account of his aldermanic work.

"It has been suggested to me of late that I consider running for Mayor," Ald. Dodds said, "but I do not wish to oppose Ald. Max Swanston, senior member of the council, who has given eight years to its work, and has announced himself as a mayoralty candidate.

As Mayor Ovens previously announced that he was retiring at the end of his present term, Ald. Swanston is next in line of seniority and experience, and those are important matters.

I am not denying that I would like to be mayor of Peterborough if the citizens saw fit to elect me. However, I believe in what is known as fairplay, and I have no intention of opposing Ald. Swanston. Besides, it seems to me that it is in the interests of the ratepayers for me to wait a little longer before thinking of being a candidate for mayor. I mean it sincerely when I say that I think I am putting the interests of the city before my own hopes of some time being mayor. Meanwhile I would like to carry on in the work of the council. A lot of important matters have to be attended to in the next few years, and if I am re-elected alderman I will give the citizens my very best efforts."

Peterborough's police are asking for an additional dollar-a-day to their salaries. The brief of the force, presented to the Police Commission, will be discussed by that body and representatives of the force at a special meeting on Nov. 29. On Tuesday afternoon, a deputation from the force met with the Commission to speak regarding the written brief presented.

PC's Leo Murphy, Ernest Beatty and Dennis Traynor were the police representatives. The brief listed police salaries in cities of comparable size. It also detailed the earnings in several of the city's industrial plants, pointing out that those earnings were higher than police pay. Constable's salary, on an hourly basis, works out to 94 cents an hour, they said, less than that paid semi-skilled workers and even unskilled workers in some plants.

PC Murphy said that the brief was presented "with no chips on the shoulder." He said that, in view of comparative earnings and the increasing cost-of-living, the department members felt that an increase was deserved.

Judge Sheldon Smoke asked if the dollar-a-day request was the only definite suggestion offered. PC Murphy replied that the deputation was merely a committee and had no authority to enter into an agreement for the department. He said that any agreement would have to be ratified by the membership.

Court of Revision Upholds Right of City To Assess Employees on Gov't Property

Four Department of Transport employees living on Dominion Government property have had their appeal against paying city taxes rejected by the Court of Revision. John A. Harstone, chairman of the court, and Thomas Ephgrave decided against the Dominion Government and the four men who were appellants, while Fred Finnie, the third member of the court, upheld their appeal.

F. D. Kerr, KC, who represented the appellants, claimed that they were not tenants within the meaning of the Assessment Act, but servants of the Crown who would be forced to vacate the houses when their employment ended. He further claimed that the city was taxing the Crown, and, in effect, exacting a form of income tax.

In his judgment Mr. Harstone contended Section 38 of the Assessment Act "no longer exempts specifically a tenant occupying land in an official capacity."

The judgement continued describing the tenant "as an occupant and anyone in possession other than the owner. Accordingly a tenancy implying the existence of a lease or grant is not necessary, so long as rent or other valuable consideration is paid in respect of such land, to make the occupant assessable."

With respect to the sum of $5 a month which was deducted at source from the employees' envelopes the chairman said that although it was a nominal sum "the deduction from the occupant's salary constitutes payment."

Paid House Rent

This sum was entered in the books against the name of Alexander McIlvena, lockmaster, as "rent," and Treasury Department receipts attached to the account referred to it as "house rent."

At the hearing before the court Harold Lang, accountant, had said although entered in the books as "rent" the $5-deduction was actually applied toward "maintenance and upkeep" of the buildings and property.

Several legal precedents were quoted by the chairman in his findings including the case of the Township of Cochrane. He quoted from the judgment: "Taxation is a personal charge on the tenant and a lien upon his interest only. It is not imposed on the land itself. Hence it may be enforced by sale of the tenant's interests or by distress or recovery."

The chairman's judgment concluded: "I am of the opinion that the interest of the occupants in the land question is assessable and confirm the said assessment."

A controversy over whether or not the houses of the Trent Canal employees are taxable by the city has arisen almost every year, but up until 1948 they have always been unaffected.

It is not yet known whether the decision will be further appealed.

The employees affected are Alexander McIlvena, lockmaster, and Bruce Clarke, canalman, who were living in two houses on the east side of the road near the Litflock at the time the assessment was taken; also James P. Frances, canalman at the lower lock in East City and Eric Kimball, lockmaster at Lock 19, who occupied similar houses.

Wilfred F. Huycke, KC, city solicitor represented the city.

Norwood Man Convicted; First This Year

First conviction in the city and district in more than a year on a charge of keeping liquor for sale was registered in police court today. George Moreau of R.R. 1, Norwood, was sentenced to two months in jail by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC. Eight cases of beer and ale were confiscated and the accused's home was declared a public place within the meaning of the Liquor Control Act.

The crown's evidence included a statement signed by the accused on the night of the search of his premises and his subsequent arrest. The statement, which was written by Provincial Constable A. F. Grayling, read to the accused and signed by him, admitted "that I have been selling liquor . . . that I have been keeping liquor for sale in my home . . . the liquor found (by the officers) was being kept by me for sale . . ."

In his own defence, Moreau said that he did not read and write, could not understand what he had signed. He said he had been drinking the afternoon before his arrest and did not realize the statements which were in the writing.

PC Grayling testified that observation of the accused's home had resulted in the apprehension of several cars coming from that direction and all carrying beer. On a search warrant, he and Provincial Constable Arthur Kellog of Hastings had entered the Moreau home, had found 179 full pints of beer.

When the accused arrived at the house, the officer said he had carefully explained the charge pending, the warning had been given and the statement read over before the accused signed it.

Foster Homes For School-Age Boys Required

There are few foster homes for school-age boys Miss Rachael Young, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society reported on Tuesday at the monthly meeting of Board members.

She said that while there were many requests for boarding pre-school children—and particularly girls—foster parents for boys of this age group were few.

"People interested in children and in making a real and vital contribution to the welfare of children have here a very fine opportunity," she said. "We feel certain Peterborough does not lack such people but perhaps the need has been temporarily overlooked."

Five children were placed in boarding homes during October and two were returned to the shelter.

During the past month there were 498 visits made and 150 interviews. Three hundred and seventy-eight cases were known to the Society, 22 of these being reported.

Of those that were reported, 16 were family situations; one an investigation for Family Allowance; others for neighborhood quarrels, drinking, marital conflict, desertion, non-support, housing, and suspected physical neglect.

In one family a child had to be removed when one parent could not be located and the other appeared too intoxicated to be responsible for care. Of the remaining six, two were unmarried parent cases and four were children admitted for care.

One child was made a permanent ward, adoption being impossible as paternity could not be determined. Another child who is not adoptable because of a physical condition was made a temporary ward; later the mother hopes to assume responsibility. Adoption was requested for two other children who are at present with relatives.

Seven wards of the Society during the past few months have been placed on adoption probation—five of them remaining in the homes in which they have been boarding. Five other wards have been placed in foster homes at no charge.

Overcrowding

Miss Young said that at the moment the Shelter was overcrowded with 12 boys and one girl. One of the chief reasons for this, she said, was number of school boys that could not be placed in foster homes.

To replace one of the members of the staff who left earlier this year, Miss Clara Morris, a social worker, has been engaged. She is a graduate from the Toronto Sick Children's Hospital. This addition brings the staff up to a total strength of seven—five social workers and two on administrative work.

EN ROUTE TO LONDON, England, where they are to appear in a variety Command performance at the Palladium Theatre, these movie stars stopped briefly in Montreal recently. Left to right they are, Billy de Wolfe, Alan Ladd, Mrs. Ladd (formerly Sue Carol), Virginia Mayo, Michael O'Shea and Patricia Neal.

Toronto Skater Charms New Yorkers

By FRED KERNER

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 —(CP)— First-night audiences in New York city are traditionally "cold." But just such an audience did an about-face Tuesday night when they saw pretty Marilyn Ruth Take skate.

The 20-year-old charmer from Toronto made her first local professional figure-skating appearance and captivated a packed house at huge Madison Square Garden. Her flashing smile and rhythmic ice ability were featured in a colorful production number of the Ice Follies show which opened Tuesday.

A former Canadian senior champion in her chosen field and a member of Canada's winter Olympics team last year, Miss Take joined the ice show late this summer in California. Weeks of hard practice followed by try-out shows on the west coast and in Chicago were climaxed with her debut in "the big city."

Wearing an eye-catching gypsy costume, the brunette Canadian highlighted a full-cast production of a Mardi Gras celebration. The exacting patterns of a gypsy dance were woven into a breath-taking skating routine which brought rounds of applause from the audience.

But facing a critical audience was not as exacting as Olympic competition, Marilyn said afterward.

"Somehow I don't feel this is work," she confided. "Perhaps it's because I've worked hard for the last 11 years at constant practice, but the show is fun—not work."

October Water Pumpage Up 300,000 Gals. a Day

October pumpage at the waterworks was 126,131,000 gallons as compared with 116,950,000 a year ago. The increase averages 300,000 gallons a day. R. L. Dobbin, manager, reported to the Utilities Commission Tuesday that 53 new water services were laid during the month and three relaid. Two new hydrants were set.

On October 14, excavation was begun for the continuation of the 24-in. force main at the north end of the city. By the end of the month 1,776 feet of pipe were laid. The work this week crossed Langton St., and will be carried on until the frost comes.

During October, 1,100 feet of 6-in. main was laid on Rose Ave. from the end of the present main to Park St.; also 2,000 feet of 6-in. main on Wilson Ave., between Park St. and Monaghan Road. They are for a new group of 100 houses.

A short piece of 6-in. main, 183 feet in length, was laid on Chamberlain St. to connect with the existing main on High St.

Gas Department

Mr. Dobbin reported for the gas department: "We used 36,140 gals. of liquid propane at the plant during the month, and made 5,500,000 cu. ft. of gas. The new apparatus is working satisfactorily. There are some parts not yet complete, but these are promised for delivery this month. We are still getting some complaints from consumers about burners not operating correctly, but most consumers are well satisfied with the new gas."

The electric department's peak was 23,000 h.p. as compared with 22,700 in October last year. Kilowatt-hours used in 1948—6,800,000 as compared with 6,700,000 in October last year.

"During the month new circuits were completed to supply the dwellings in the Cadverley (Caddy and Beverley) subdivision in Ashburnham, and for the subdivision at the Locks Bridge. In the rural area, 17 new consumers were added." Other construction work: 101 three-wire services and nine two-wire; 36 flat rate water heaters were connected."

Guelph Pianist Scores Highest Festival Mark

GUELPH, Nov. 17 (CP)—Scoring the highest marks of any competitor to date, Ted Jewell, 16-year-old Guelph pianist, won top individual honors in Tuesday's events at the Guelph Kiwanis Club Music Festival. Jewell gained 86 points for his outstanding effort in the piano solo competition for contestants 16 years and under.

Brantford's melodic choir carried off the challenge shield in the ladies' choir class and Sacred Heart School of Guelph won the Gilbert MacIntyre challenge shield in the school chorus group. First award for choirs 17 years and under went to first Baptist Church of Guelph.

Competition on Tuesday was largely between Guelph and district contestants. Two Toronto girls, Barbara Strathdee and Norma Speers won first place for piano duet, four hands, one piano.

Brahmin Princess Dies In Toronto

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—(CP).—Born in one of the palaces of the Indian kings of Oudh and a Brahmin princess in her own right, Mrs. Millicent MacKinnon died today. She frequently travelled across Canada to address women's organizations on problems of India.

Her mother was a Rajput princess and her father a Scottish gentleman. Her grandfather on her mother's side was a native of India who commanded the king of Ouch's army during the mutiny of 1857 and later threw in his lot with the British.

Mrs. MacKinnon's husband died in England in 1909. Later she came to Toronto to live with her daughter, Mrs. Ernest Collyer.

Boys And Girls Take Interest In Civic Affairs

Mayor Ovens expressed in his radio broadcast Tuesday a fatherly satisfaction with the evidence of some active interest by boys and girls in the duties of the council, its authority and other aspects of civic affairs. Apparently it has been stimulated by the Sales and Ad Club.

"It is very gratifying to see our younger generation taking an interest in local affairs and inquiring about why we do certain things. While I am of the opinion that perhaps their teachers have prompted this interest, the students were neverteless keenly interested also.

I cannot stress too trongly the importance of better acquainting our citizens at this young age on the duties and obligations of our municipial, provincial and federal governments. If they obtain the basic principles in their early teens and broaden their knowledge as they grow older, they will then appreciate that tried and proven forms of government are best.

If any listening boys and girls would like to learn more about your city council and what we do, please do not hesitate to get in touch with any of the aldermen, members of the staff or myself, as we are always glad to see you and assist you in this study."

Mayor Ovens gratefully mentioned the radio broadcast of the council meeting Monday night.

"To the men and women who would like to offer their services and are hesitating on account of the amount of work involved and time required, the trend is toward a more normal demand, and not as councils of the past eight years have experienced. I am hoping that no future council will have to face as many problems and contend with as many complications as they have. This was largely due to wartime conditions and expansion of the city.

You will still have a good share of general routine matters to take care of and they will no doubt keep you interested at all times. My recommendation to you is not to hesitate in offering your services, and if successful in your first attempt try again."

US Being Prodded By Chiang To Make Policy Statement

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP) —Diplomatic authorities speculated today that the United States government soon may issue a pronouncement designed to boost the morale of China's anti-Communist forces.

President Truman and the state department have before them a plea from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek for a policy declaration reaffirming support of Chiang's Nationalist government.

State Undersecretary Robert A. Lovett scheduled a press conference for noon today but it was uncertain whether he would discuss this aspect of the China situation.

Most informed officials considered it more likely that any broad policy declaration would have to wait the review of international affairs which Truman and State Secretary Marshall will hold at the White House next Monday.

They also are expected to come to grips with the major issue of how far the United States can and should go in backing up its China policies with dollars, arms and civilian goods.

Policy Unclear

Chinese Ambassador Wellington Koo told a reporter late Tuesday that he had transmitted to the state department Chiang's desire for an American policy statement.

Koo said his government is at a loss to know what United States policy really is. Thus there was some tendency among officials here to regard Koo's comments as implying a belief that the United States is not now following a policy friendly to the Nanking government.

Authorities concerned over this point declared that any such implication is unjustified, since the United States actually is spending $400,000,000 for military and civilian aid to Nationalist China.

President Truman has issued two major statements on China policy during his administration—one in December, 1946, and another a year later. In substance, he declared his suport for the anti-Communist regime in China, although he was critical of certain shortcomings.

Norwood Men Hear Hon. Scott

NORWOOD, Nov. 17—(ENS)—The rain-making episode near Chapleau in June by forestry men was described by Hon. Harold R. Scott, Minister of Forests, to members of the Board of Trade on Monday evening.

He said that in Northern Ontario there are 400,000,000 square miles of forests, 500,000,000 feet of lumber and 1,500,000 tons of pulp. There are 20 special equipped planes for fire fighting and reforestation purposes, also 30 fire towers.

He mentioned the insect laboratories where seeds are treated with special insecticide fungicide and fertilizer. There is a biologist in each of the 21 districts studying forest problems.

Reeve W. E. Pakenham introduced the speaker, and S. S Breckon voiced the thanks of the members.

During the business session it was decided to hold a Christmas tree for the local children with the social welfare committee in charge of arrangements.

Frank Paterson asked the board to assist in contacting farmers to attend a four-day course in Norwood on Dec. 7, 8, 9 and 10.

A discussion on electricity ensued with a delegation appointed to interview the Belleville office. Those named were Rod Webb, G. A. Brethen, Dr. A. R Atkinson and Gordon Manley.

The next meeting will take place in January with the election of officers.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Nov. 17.—(CP).—Planes searching for a United States twin-engined bomber missing since Nov. 5 turned towards the Peckford Island area today after the lightkeeper there reported finding a piece of aircraft wreckage.

The wreckage was not definitely identified as that of the B-25, missing with six men aboard on a flight from Washington, D.C., to Argentia in southern Newfoundland.

Peckford Island is about 50 miles northeast of Gander airport and off Newfoundland's northeast coast.

Renfrew Men Take Top Barley Prizes

TORONTO, Nov. 17.—(CP). — Renfrew county farmers carried off first and second places in the Ontario competition of the national barley contest at the completion of judging at the Royal Winter Fair today.

Clayton Valliant of Forester's Falls, is the Ontario barley king and Murray Galbraith of Renfrew, was second. Both entered Montcalm certified barley in the contest, sponsored by the brewing and malting industries of Canada.

The five prize winners from Ontario will compete against Quebec winners for the eastern Canada barley crown in Toronto next February.

The following paced first in Ontario regional judging: Gerard J. Racine of Casselman in the counties of Dundas, Glengarry, Grenville, Prescott and Russel; G. E. Shepherd and Sons, Kingston, in Frontenac, Hastings, Prince Edward, Durham, Ontario and Victoria; Harry G. Businesses May Keep Their Own Generators

TOPONTO, Nov. 17.—(CP).—E. C. Roelofson, member of Toronto Board of Control, said Tuesday many Toronto businesses are becoming independent of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and will probably continue to use their own electric power generating facilities when the current shortage ends.

"As the shortage continues more and more industries which used to be large users of Hydro power are finding thir own sources," he told a meeting of Toronto Women's Electors' Association. "This means that when the shortage is eased, businesses with their own power-making equipment may use it rather than switch back. It may create an awkward situation."

"This is a serious encroachment upon one of our oldest and best established public utilities."

Only 2 Centres Stay Within Power Quota

TORONTO, Nov. 17—(CP).—Of nine Ontario municipalities for which figures are available, two remained within their power quota yesterday. Following are the figures in kilowatt hours:

Princess Elizabeth Has Excellent Night

LONDON, Nov. 17 — (AP). — Princess Elizabeth spent an excellent night and she and her son "continue to make good progress" her doctors reported to-day.

After visiting the Princess, who gave birth to a 7-pound 6-ounce Prince on Sunday night, physicians Sir William Gilliatt and Sir John Weir made a personal report to the Queen.

Court sources reported no additional bulletins were expected to-day.

Crown New World Wheat King In Crowded Program Of Judging

TORONTO, Nov. 17.—(CP).—A new world wheat king, S. J. Allsop, of Red Deer, Alta., stepped into the limelight on the opening day of the Royal Winter Fair Tuesday to take top honors in a crowded program of judging.

A capacity evening crowd of 8,500 persons was filing out of the opening night of the horse show as the news was announced that Allsop's 18 pounds of Reward hard red spring wheat had been judged best in the international competition.

R. C. Chambers of Fenwick, won the reserve championship with his entry of Junior No. 6 type of winter white wheat.

The audience watched Canada's military jumping team lose to a smooth-riding Olympic champion pair of Mexican horsemen after a prolonged contest among French, Mexican and Canadian teams.

The contest was repeated three times, with the barriers raised after the first jump, before Col. Humberto Marles and Capt. Raul Campero provided a near-faultless performance to edge out the Canadian duo of Sqdn. Ldr. Douglas Cleland and Lieut. W. R. Ballard.

Other Awards

Other horses and their riders came in for awards in Tuesday night's show. Maj.-Gen. Churchill Mann rode his Paddy, from Stonedene Stables, Toronto, to victory in the $1,500 Perry Stakes. Four big Clydesdales, owned by Zimmerman Bros. Ltd., of Tavistock, and driven by Ralph Otto, won the four-horse team contest. Sedgefield Star, a chestnut mare from Duffering Stock Farms, Toronto, won the three-gaited saddle horse competition.

Highlight of the afternoon horse show was the winning of the James Widgery memorial trophy by Limerick, a seven-year-old gelding jumper owned by E. H. Cudney of Winona.

A second king in the Royal's list of champions was named on Tuesday. A 19-year-old Ontario farmer, Eric Gallaugher, who grows potatoes near the village of Everett, in Simcoe county, was crowned Ontario potato king when his prize-winning exhibit was chosen over those of 32 of Ontario's potato growers.

Gallaugher's crop of 733 bushels to the acre was surpassed by the 742-bushel record of Gordon Bidwell, of North Simcoe, but Bidwell yielded first place on the strength of the cooking quality of Gallaugher's entry.

Harvester's Hope, owned by H. Ready of Desford, Alta., won honors as the best Shorthorn in the show. Reserve champion steer was Teddy, owned by Sylvia Easton, of Gormley.

Another Alberta farmer, E. F. Noad of Olds, won the Hereford championship with Macleod Prince, and F. W. Reicheld, of Jarvis, won the reserve prize with Jarvis Type.

TOUGH TIMES — The three little blondes, children of Russell Durocher, are shown (top) in their tent home out by the shore in Longueuil, near Montreal, where the family of seven has been living since Sept. 15, after federal authorities evicted seven families from Jacques Cartier Barracks. The three are, James, five, Vera, four, and Sadie, three. To top it all, Durocher has lost his job, which was held open for a time while he tried to get himself a home.

Newfoundland Union Session Almost Ended; Arrive At Agreement

OTTAWA, Nov. 17.—(CP). — Negotiations between Canada and Newfoundland on the colony's entry into Confederation may be completed today.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said Tuesday night the final meeting will be held today if a cabinet meeting "with a heavy agenda" permits federal ministers to get away in time.

Otherwise the discussions will be resumed Thursday and negotiations probably will be completed then.

After a three-hour huddle between Canadian and Newfoundland delegates Tuesday, Mr. St. Laurent said:

"We have made good progress and the negotiations are being brought to a conclusion."

Ready To Leave

So near were negotiation conclusions that three of the participants in the talks made tentative arrangements to leave for St. John's today. They are J. B. McEvoy and Philip Gruchty of the Newfoundland delegation and Charles Burchell, Canadian High Commissioner to the colony.

The largest barrier to agreement—the $6,000,000 gap between the island's necessary expenditures and its probable income as a province — was hurdled last week-end, it was learned.

The gap was closed to a great extent, sources said, by trimming the projected provincial budget. Concessions were made by both Canada and Newfoundland.

The session Tuesday — which appeared at first to be the final one—dealt mostly with constitutional and legal matters. Sources said a few monetary questions also were discussed but there was no indication as to what these might have entailed.

Report Many London Churches Still Bearing Scars Of Aerial War

By MICHAEL O'MARA

LONDON, Nov. 17 (CP).—"Kilroy was here" — and so were German bombers on the night of Dec. 29, 1940, smashing the life out of historic St. Giles, Cripplegate.

The walls of the fine Norman church, built around 1090, A.D., where Oliver Cromwell was married and John Milton was buried, now stands as a monument to the destruction of total war; and its grey stones bear countless chalk-scribbled vulgarities of revellers who have since passed by.

Twenty of the City of London's 47 parish churches were "seriously damaged by enemy action" in the recent war. Of these, St. Giles presents perhaps the greatest scene of desolation.

Near what once was the north wall of the ancient city are acres of unrebuilt bomb sites. Rank weeds cover still-uncleared heaps of chipped rubble.

Amid this ugliness stands St. Giles. Broken stones litter its tiny forecourt. Filthy garbage is scattered along a little alley behind its southwest wall. Broken glass saints peer sightlessly from its windows inwards into the gutted shell of the church and out into the gloom of a London November.

In Same Plight

Other city churches are in like plight. St. Mildred, Bread Street; St. Alban, Wood Street; Christ Church, Greyfriars; St. Stephen, Coleman Street, are all deserted.

Some are fighting back. St. Andrew-by-the-Wardrobe, for instance, although a Bishop of London's commission has recommended that its site be sold, is appealing for funds to rebuild and already is some way toward the £15,000 ($60,000) necessary.

Services still are carried on in unwrecked parts of St. Bride, Fleet Street; St. Dunstan-in-the-East; St. Lawrence Jewry and St. Michael Royal.

It is expected that at least 10 or 20 years will elapse before any of the badly-damaged churches are rebuilt; but meantime most of them have incorporated their parochial life with that of a neighboring church more fortunate in the bombing.

Perfection Expected

HASTINGS, Egnland —(CP)— A Hastings police court mission report says: "All that is asked of a probation officer is perfection."

NEW HEADSTONES—Wooden crosses which mark overseas graves of Canadian servicemen killed in the Second World War are being replaced by the Imperial Graves Commission with permanent headstones similar to those used for graves of First World War dead. These Canadian Army photos show, left, the crosses as they stand in the Canadian cemetery at Dieppe today and, right, a group of headstones at Beny-sur-Mer cemetery where replacement work is being carried out.

CCF Candidate Takes On Drew

OTTAWA, Nov. 16 (CP) — Eugene Forsey, CCF candidate in the Carleton by-election, today challenged Conservative leader Drew to defend his Hydro-Electric record at his nomination meeting on Saturday.

Mr. Forsey said in a written statement he understood the Conservative leader would be formally nominated then in the by-election. His statement was issued as a comment on Trade Minister Howe's charge last Saturday that Mr. Drew is responsible for Ontario's power shortage and the Conservative leader's reply Monday night.

"Mr. Drew's statement is liberally peppered with abuse, but singularly devoid of facts," Mr. Forsey said. "This is hardly a statesmanlike way of dealing with a great public question."

He said the people of Ontario were suffering severely from the power shortage and were entitled to expect that the Conservative leader would give "serious and reasoned answers to specific statements of fact."

Flying Photographer Dies In Plane Crash

GRAY, Me., Nov. 17—(AP)—A flying news photographer presumably was killed Monday while flying on his day off.

A light plane rented to Paul W. Libby, 46, crashed in Little Sebago lake. With Libby was a friend, Ned T. Marion, 38.

Police couldn't raise the craft, which sank in 30 feet of water.

Libby, who held a private pilot's license, had flown thousands of miles taking aerial pictures for the Gannett newspapers of Maine, by which he had been employed since 1929.

St. Thomas Airman Trains Chinese Pilots

BRANTFORD, Nov. 17 (CP).—Jack H. Turnbull of St. Thomas, a nephew of R. Turnbull of Brantford, has been identified as one of several airmen training Chinese Nationalist pilots at Hankow within 100 miles of the Communist advance in China.

Brantford relatives this weekend received word that Mr. and Mrs. Turnbull and their baby son born on Friday of last week, had been ordered to evacuate Hankow before conditions in the city became serious.

The Canadian airmen went to China last spring after being hired by the Nationalist Government to train pilots. He is a former member of the Royal Canadian Air Force. Other airmen from the Dominion reported to be at Hankow include "Moose" Fumerton, distinguished flyer with the RCAF, in the Second World War.

Mrs. Robert B. McClure, wife of a well-known missionary doctor in China, said Monday at Toronto that her husband is now at Hankow. She also reported the presence of Turnbull, Fumerton, and a George Stewart.

People in England Grateful to IODE For Food Parcels

In the past eight months, thousand of food parcels have been sent by the I.O.D.E. in Ontario to the Commonwealth Gift Centre, Ministry of Food, England. These parcels are received by persons most in need, through the W.V.S. and other distributing agencies appointed for the purpose. The W.V.S. writes in appreciation:

"During the winter months which are ahead, life is going to be very difficult indeed for everyone, owing to bad weather and the fact that shopping will be strenuous, and because of fuel shortage we shall none of us be very comfortable and we feel so sorry for the many poor people who have to struggle along through the long winter when everything is even more complicated than usual, and extra nourishing food is even more necessary than it is in the summer time. With continued thanks for all the tremendous kindness which you are showing to the people in this country."

In addition to the food parcels sent to the Food Ministry by bulk, more than a thousand names of individuals have been given out to chapters and to interested citizens and organizations in the Province, to whom personal food parcels are sent at regular intervals. There are still many names on our lists to be given out to those interested in sending food parcels. The letters received from recipients are indeed most gratifying. If a citizen or organization would prefer to send gifts of money to our Provincial I.O.D.E. Food Parcel Fund, the parcel or parcels can be sent direct in the the name of the donor.

The project of sending clothing overseas inaugurated in 1939 still continues and 350 cases of new and used clothing have been sent during the past eight months. This clothing is distributed by the W.V.S., the British Sailors' Society, the Sailors, Soldiers and Airmen's Families Association, the British Save the Children Fund, the British Red Cross and the Queen Elizabeth Hospital for Children, London, England. From a village near the Yugoslav border, two small children walked fifteen miles to deliver the following message to the Save the Children Fund representative from a grateful mother who received I.O.D.E. clothing.

"In the name of my child I want to thank you for the splendid clothes. In those bad times they are a great help to me in my difficulties. (Signed) Anna Grosilj."

Good used clothing is in demand, to include men's suits, overcoats, trousers, etc., women's warm dresses, suits, coats, etc., boys' suits, shorts, coats, sweaters; blankets and warm bedding. To augment the regular supply of these garments coming to Provincial I.O.D.E. Headquarters, Hamilton, from our chapters, each member has been asked to contribute one article of good used clothing in the month of November. From this special collection it is hoped to send a large shipment overseas before the winter season."

St. Luke's Annual Bazaar Successful Fall Event

Household novelties that may be new to many on the Christmas gift list were made up attractively by ladies of St. Luke's Anglican Church and offered at the bazaar Tuesday afternoon in the parish hall. One was an improvement on the very handy oven mitts that comes in one piece and will also protect the arm. Another, a pretty chintz holder attached to a substantial coat hanger which is meant to hold the ever-elusive gloves and scarves that take so much precious time to hunt. A circular knitting bag was designed with small pockets around the inside to hold needles, stitch holders and other gadgets, and it would also be very practical for sewers.

"White elephants" created a great deal of interest, especially among the youngsters, who were continually finding pieces of jewellry for themselves and dishes for mother at prices within their reach. In fact, heavy sales from this table had been made before the bazaar opened.

Mrs. R. G. Maniece, president of the WA, was general convener, and is well pleased with the financial returns. The event was splendidly supported by the congregation and was socially successful as well with the visitors being entertained at small tea tabes during the afternoon. During the evening hours of the sale, men of the church lent their efforts in a booth which sold hot dogs and coffee.

The Rev. Walter Gilling drew winning tickets on the draws at the close. The Chancel Guild, with Mrs. C. H. Hamilton as convener, offered a "crazy quilt" which was won by Mrs. R. H. Parsons, and a hamper of groceries that goes to Mrs. M Craig, Conger St. Mrs. Robert White was in charge of tickets on a Christmas cake and the winner of this is Miss Elizabeth Stewart. An afghan, donated by Mrs. H. Choate, for the Scout Auxiliary table, is being held over until a later date.

The bale to be sent shortly to the Rev. Horace Ashdown for his parishioners in Saskatchewan was on display and included many new articles of clothing as well as a plentiful supply of slightly used ones. Mrs. E. E. Lee was the convener in charge assisted by Mrs. S. Mason and Mrs. Lush.

Attendants at the W.A. table of home cooking were house plants and small pieces of china were also sold were Mrs. F. Legon, convener, Mrs. E. MacDonald, Mrs. G. White and Mrs. W. Wiltshire. The WA bazaar table displaying pillow cases, aprons, oil paintings, crochet work, stuffed dolls, etc., was attended by Mrs. H. P. Laing convener, and Mrs. R. Krant.

Workers in the "country store" sold everything from canned goods, fresh vegetables and fruit, candy, home baking to writing paper. Mrs. C. H. Hamilton, convener, was assisted by Mrs. Jack Lee, Mrs. Archie Hamilton, Mrs. F. Martin, Mrs. B. Purcell and Mrs. John Gemmell.

The Scout Auxiliary was selling needlework of the members, with Mrs. R. B. Harvey in charge assisted by Mrs. R. Tuck, Mrs. L. Lipsett and Mrs. A. McIlvena.

Convener of the "white elephant" table was Mrs. Walter Gilling, with Mrs. M. Burnham and Mrs. A. Leach assisting her with the sales. A wide selection of good books was also offered by this group.

November members of the Women's Church Year were serving tea from a dainty tea table with, pale green cloth and yellow candles flanking a centre bouquet of pink and yellow mums. Mrs. Harry Adams and Mrs. O. Earle filled the tea cups. Mrs. R. H. Parsons, convener, had arranged quartette tables where guests could be seated, each with a pretty luncheon cloth and centred with 'mums in bud vases. These were served by Mrs. John Turner, Mrs. Fraser Watson, Mrs. A. Nickels, Mrs. John Rogers, Mrs. Herbert Gale. Miss Pearl Mitchell, Miss Lillian Rogers and Mrs. D. Hay.

GRAY VELVET SAILOR—After all the frills, the fuss and the feathers, it is nice and refreshing, to see a pretty hat made even prettier by a crisp ribbon bow. There are many important details in this smart little hat chosen by Doris Day of the movies. First off, it is the advance guard of the simple sailor, due for promotion in the spring. Then it is of gray velvet to contrast with the silver striped ribbon bow. The crown band is swathed in net.

Capes Steal Show At Winter Fair Forecast of Spring

TORONTO, Nov. 17—(CP)—Capes are stealing the fashion spotlight at the International Wool Secretariat's Style Show at the Royal Winter Fair. And the fashion-wise say the cape may supply the third piece in the spring suit ensemble.

Novel cape drapings on suits, coats and dresses are featured in the show, designed to show the versatility of wool. At the opening Tuesday a ballet skit introduced woollen costumes fashioned in weights appropriate to all seasons.

But the capes stole the show. Some were long, some short, others just supplying back interest. A moderated version showed a cape draped into a collar-effect.

A slash of colored lining was added to the detachable cae, but more often the lining matched the skirt with a double-breasted jacket and outside cape in another shade of the same color.

Most interesting of the cape designs was a grey worsted gabardine suit which gave the effect of a wing-cape slung over the shoulders. Closer examination showed it to be a one-piece jacket with tailored front and a broad from a yoked-back. The cape could either be buttoned at the wrist to form arms or left swing into a graceful fold over the shoulder.

About half the coats shown still had the flared back, but in the fitted ones the princess line was a slim stem for the cape. Many coat capes extended to just below the elbow, while others flowed to the waist or beyond. A popular raspberry princess-lined coat held hip and neck interest with large black Persian Lamb patch pockets and a half-cape collar.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

No Sympathy for Wife Who Lets Man Make Her a Slave

DEAR MISS DIX: How much help has a wife a right to expect from her husband? I am the mother of two fine children, aged 2 and 4, and between holding down the wife and mother job and working in a factory I am kept going 18 hour a day, which exhausts me so that I am ready to collapse.

Dorothy Dix

Yet when I ask my husband to lend me a helping hand, he refuses. He says that this is now 1948 and that women are expected to work outside the home as well as in it. He also threatens to leave me and take the children with him if I give up my job in the factory. He only works three days a week and spends all the money he makes on himself, and I have to support the family. He says that's a wife's duty.

Don't you think he could help me a little with the cildren, anyway?

MRS. B. F.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Well, I'd say that the woman who not only fries the bacon but brings it home, and who spends 18 hours a day on the threadmill is entitled to expect her husband to give her a lift now and then. Even the slave-drivers do that, if for no other reason than because it is bad policy to work a useful animal to death.

Unsympathetic

Personally, I never have been able to get up much sympathy for the wives who let their husbands make slaves of them and who suffer themselves to be trampled on and kicked around as no selfrespecting dog would stand for. Yet we all know plenty of women whose husbands force them to bring home their pay envelopes unopened. Plenty of men who never do a lick of work after they get a wife to support them. Plenty of women who double on the wash tub and factory jobs while their husbands loaf in barrooms.

No woman need stand for this shameful state of affairs for, as the deadbeat husband of the woman who writes this letter says, "it is 1948" when women have rights which they can enforce by law, if it is necessary, and when no woman need work herself to death to support a lazy husband unless she enjoys doing it. Furthermore, no woman who has a no-account husband need worry about his taking her children away from her. The last thing that type of man wants to to be bothered with kids.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widow 25 years old, with a little girl of 4. My friends think that I should remarry and they always are trying to make a match for me. But I feel that a single man should marry a single girl and that a widow with a child should marry a widower with children. I think that I should find a man in my situation, one who would need me to give his child, or children, a good mother and him a good wife; and in return he would give my child a good father, and make us both a good living.

I think that first marriages are for love and second marriages for companionship which could turn into a love of its own, and that some day just to hear my child say Daddy again is going to make me love the man very much. What do you think?

MRS. RIGHT OR WRONG

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your idea seems very logical to me, and I think it would do much to secure the happiness of every marriage if the high contracting parties had a similar training for marriage. Certainly a widower with children would know far better how to get along with your children than a bachelor would, just as the widow with children would be much more apt to have a mother heart than a young and inexperienced girl.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Some 20 years ago my wife's brother died and my wife and I cheated her sister, the only other heir to the estate, out of some $40,000. The sister now is old and has very little money. She was kind to us when we had nothing, providing food for us and our five children.

Now my health is failing rapidly and I am becoming a nervous wreck worrying over the matter, for I am conscience-stricken unable to sleep at night. Can you advise me what to do in order to secure peace of mind?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The only way that you can possibly atone for your crime is by returning the money you stole. There can be no solace for you as long as you have a guilty conscience. The wrong you did to your wife's sister, who must be a simple-minded creature, will torment you day and night. For the wrong doer, purgatory starts even in this world. You don't have to wait to die to get your just deserts.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, November 18

This should prove to be an unusually intriguing and eventful day, probably arriving by virtue of the ideal, strange, unique and glamorous. There are subtle undercurrents, imbuing the affairs with a tone of the mysterious, inexplicable and challenging. While sordid or regulation business matters may thrive, it is likely that the purely personal may manifest in romance and curious experience in which the element of charm, magnetism and allure are paramount. Parties, social functions and cultural interests are bound to afford much pleasure and be subtly profitable.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a period of the exceptional and novel, in which affairs of an obvious and sordid flavor may not hold appeal. There are undertones of beauty, charm, glamor and glitter which could be put to good account in a thoroughly practical manner, as creative drives, ideals and skills are happily stimulated. Intuition, "hunches", unusual forces and faculties could develop in home or business in realistic and workable expression. Personal charm and magnetism could prudently be "turned on" to a justifiable denounement.

A child born on this day may possess much talent of an out-of-the-ordinary scope, with personality, glamor and subtlety of intriguing importance.

Warkworth News

The moderator, Rev. N. Reid of Colborne, presided over a meeting of the two congregations and a call was extended to Rev. Ritchie of Westboro to become their minister.

Members of the local branch of the Canadian Legion marched from the Legion hall to the town hall on Nov. 7 to band music supplied by Havelock Kiltie Band. A memorial service was held under the direction of Canon Spencer of Hastings assisted by Rev. H. G. Lester, BA, of St. Paul's United Church. Following the service in the town hall the members of the Legion and congregation marched to the war memorial where the names of those who died in both world wars were read by Arthur Meneilley. This was followed by the placing of wreaths by Arthur Wartman, township reeve, Bob Edgar, Robert Denham, Raymond Dudley and Richard Higman.

Small Garrison Halts Egyptian Army Attack

TORONTO, Nov. 17 — (CP) — Capt. Yaakov Weyland of the Israeli army Monday said his garrison of 200 men and women beat off an Egyptian army of 2,000 men equipped with tanks, cannon and aircraft when it attacked a crossroads settlement of Negva in the Negev desert.

He said the Egyptians killed only 14 Jews although they poured 30,000 shells into the settlement, almost demolishing it.

"We are ready to die for our cause," said Capt. Weyland, here on a fund-raising tour. "The Egyptians had no cause to fight for."

Rev. Horace Kaye Speaks At Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 17 (ENS)—"Many of the present day ministers are not preaching the gospel," said Rev. Horace Kaye. "They should preach only what is in the scriptures, and the congregation in order to get the most of the sermons, they should study their Bible thoroughly."

Mr. Kaye delivered two inspirational sermons at the anniversary services of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Sunday.

The church, which was beautifully decorated with flowers was filled to capacity for both services.

Miss Jean Clarke was soloist at the evening service, and sang "Give Thanks to God."

The choir sang several anthems with Mrs. T. Chaplin and Miss Clark taking the solos.

Mrs. Harold Hrude was at the organ.

TURNING THE PAGES OF "Canada Unlimited"

In 1617, Canada's first farmer, Louis Hebert, used a scythe to reap his harvest. Working by hand, he could barely provide enough grain to supply his own family.

The pioneer farmer and his sons, with their one horse, worked long and hard to grow enough food for their own use.

In 1852, farmer Daniel Massey made the first mower in Canada. Later Alanson Harris designed the reaper. Their combined efforts in 1891 helped develop the wheatland of the West.

The introduction, in 1910, of the combine, made it possible to reap and thresh 25 acres a day. Now, one man with modern equipment can cut and thresh 50 acres a day.

It is Canadian people and Canadian machines that prove . . . there's room to grow in Canada Unlimited.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

COMPARE THE TOTALS

EVEN if a player expects to devote most of his bridge time to rubbers, he can strengthen his game by playing a bit of duplicate. It will train him in estimating the advantages and disadvantages between doubling a sacrifice effort or going on with his own side's bidding, or in appraising the possible loss from sacrificing instead of letting the opponents play for a contract of their choice. In either case, he must compare the prospective totals. Duplicate enables him later to note how other people made out on the same hand, then recall his findings for application to similar situations in rubber bridge.

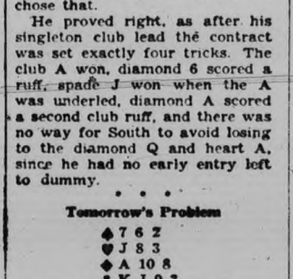
West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	4 ♦
4 ♥	5 ♦	Pass	Pass
Dbl

This was a fine example of expert competing in the World Master Pair Championship recently in Chicago. Waldemar Von Zedtwitz, head of the American Contract Bridge League, was in the West, opposite Charles J. Solomon, another top-ranker who is chairman of the League's tournament committee.



After South butted in with his 4-Diamonds as preparation for a possible sacrifice, Mr. Von Zedtwitz bid his second suit of hearts anyway as a possible slam signal, since he held the A. When North then made the sacrifice venture of 5-Diamonds, Mr. Solomon decided his partner would be in better position to decide whether to double or go on with the bidding, so made a forcing pass.

Mr. Von Zedtwitz then calculated that 4-Spades would be sure, possibly with an extra. If the latter, it would produce 150 for tricks plus 500 game bonus given in tournaments, or 650. Then careful study and estimating told him it should be possible to set the 5-Diamonds four tricks, worth 700 points doubled, so chose that.

He proved right, as after his singleton club lead the contract was set exactly four tricks. The club A won, diamond 6 scored a ruff, spade J won when the A was underled, diamond A scored a second club ruff, and there was no way for South to avoid losing to the diamond Q and heart A, since he had no early entry left to dummy.

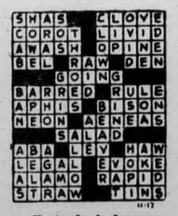
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

What play should South build for his 6-Hearts after the club A is followed by the diamond 2 lead?

ARTISTS' EXHIBIT

Beginning Saturday, Nov. 20, till Christmas, the Peterborough Group of Painters' annual exhibit will be displayed in the Public Library.

TO ORGANIZE HERE

A local branch of the United Emergency Fund for Britain organization will be formed here this week. An organization meeting is called for the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday at 7.30.

BIG COURT DOCKET

Police court is sitting this afternoon. It is the first time in several months that cases before magistrate's court here have been so heavy on one day that the second sitting of the day has been necessary.

NO TRACE OF BODY

C.G.E. employees searching for the body of 41-year-old Fred Hickey, draftsman, who was drowned Saturday afternoon reported no success on Tuesday night. This morning the lake was so rough it was impossible to continue dragging operations. Provincial Police Sgt. Price Morris said today arrangements have been made for shore patrols daily, in case the body is washed ashore.

TSK, TSK

A picture taken of the council meeting held Monday night in the Empress Hotel shows four flags spaced around the mayor's throne. Three of the flags are Union Jacks and Canadian Ensigns, but in the place of honor on the right side of the throne is the Stars and Stripes. A nice gesture of neighborliness, but is it proper?

PAGING SCHOOL GIRLS

High school girls have an annoying—and unsanitary habit of combing their hair while sitting in restaurants. One patron became so angered at a hair-combing episode in a restaurant equipped with booths, on Tuesday, that he got up and left. A few minutes later, the waiter arrived with a bowl of soup and looked in vain for the customer. Dept. of Health officials should circulate a folder telling these teen-agers that a hair in food is far from being sanitary—or appetizing.

Resisted Officer Is Fined $40

Russell Bowers, 159 Aylmer St., was fined $40 and $2.50 costs or a month in jail today when he pleaded guilty to resisting PC George Shaw in the performance of his duty. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry told the court that the accused had been found behind a city store about 7.30 Tuesday evening and had not given a satisfactory account of his actions. When the officer decided to take him to the station, he said that Bowers ran away and that it was 10 minutes before the accused could be subdued.

He was also fined $10 and $2.50 costs or 10 days concurrent on a charge of vagrancy, to which he also pleaded guilty.

Cant' Stay Sober

Ernest Redmond, RR 8, Peterborough, found guilty on Tuesday morning of being drunk in public, was back in custody four hours after paying the fine. Today he was charged as a second offender. The accused's request for a week's adjournment was refused and he was granted a week's remand on $100 bail.

In opposing the adjournment, Chief Constable John Thompson explained the recent date of the first conviction, added: "If he is let out on adjournment, he'll probably get drunk again this afternoon."

Fewer Shoes Made This Year

QUEBEC, Nov. 17 — (CP) — Fewer Canadian shoes are being made this year because of consumer resistance and heavy retailers' stocks, L. Paul Duchaine, president of the Shoe Manufacturers' Association of Canada, said here Tuesday.

He told the association's annual meeting that estimated production for 1948 will not exceed 31,000,000 pairs, a drop of 13 per cent. from 1947 figures and 28 per cent. below 1946.

First, he said, decontrol of leathers in 1947 enabled manufacturers to catch up with orders and second, a retail price increase created "a normal consumer resistance."

He estimated that 1949 production might go as high as 34,000,000 pairs.

The Quebec shoe manufacturer attributed the trend towards heavy shoes for men to the reaction from the lighter types made during the war. Style changes in women's shoes to go with the "new look" were a stimulus to production.

Rainfall Helped Ontario Farmers

TORONTO, Nov. 17 — (CP).— Rainfall in the last week or so has helped Ontario farmers, but in some sections more is needed.

The weekly report of th Ontario Department of Agriculture said to-day that in Peterborough County fall wheat grew considerably in the last two weeks, and most of it will go into the winter in good condition.

Mild weather helped Dundas County farmers clean up field work. But more rain is needed to improve the water supply. Some farmers are drawing water. Rains helped fill low wells in Glengarry. Unless more rain comes, Prescott and Russell face one of the worst winter situations in years. Rain was general in Algoma and the land is soft and wet.

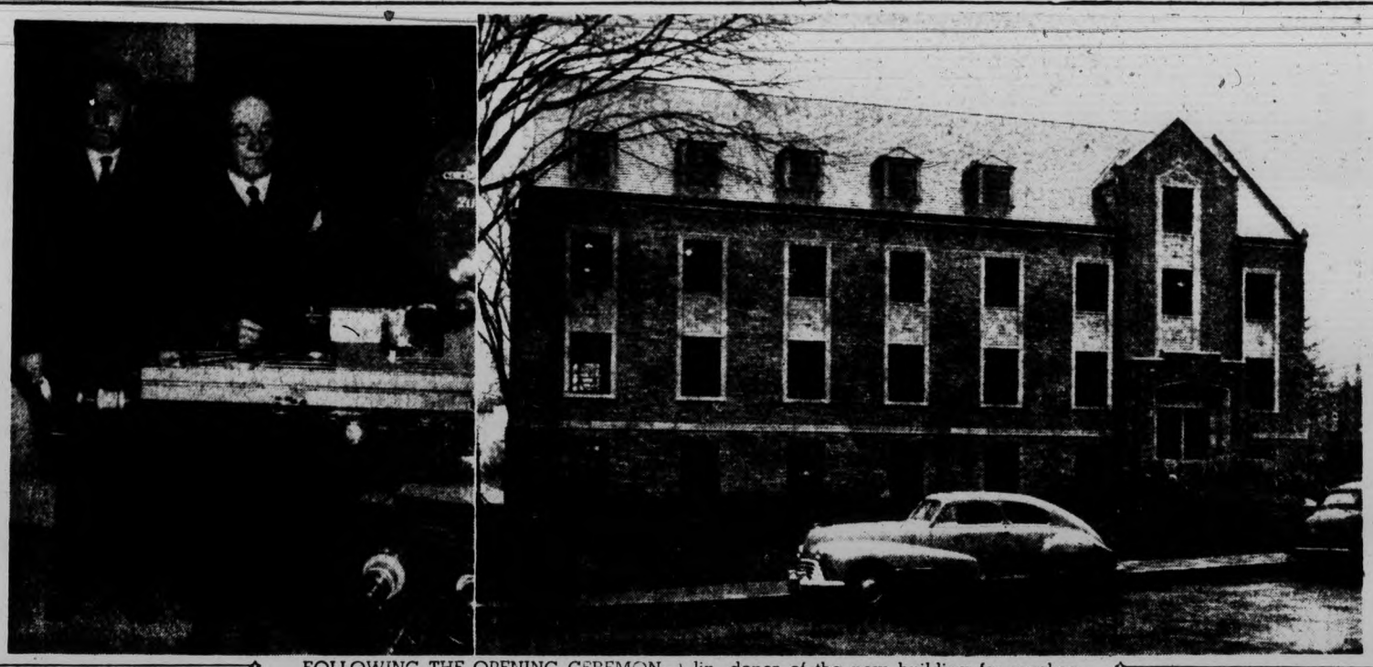
The report, made up of extracts from reports of district agricultural representatives, says there is a demand for dairy cattle in many sections. In Hastings dairy cattle prices are $15 to $25 higher. In Frontenac there is a keen demand for milch cows. There is also brisk demand in other Eastern counties and in Northern Ontario districts.

Corn picking and husking has been delayed in Lambton County by wet weather, but the sugar beet harvest is about completed.

Fall plowing is about finished in most sections.

Hunter Drops Dead In Bush Near Loring

LORING, Nov. 17—(CP)—A 64-year-old hunter dropped dead in the bush near Loring Monday afternoon.



He was W. E. Burke, of Preston, one of a party of seven hunters who were staying at Archie Rogerson's summer camp near Loring. The party had gathered together in the bush after completing their first run of the day and were considering whether to make another run, when Burke slumped to the ground without a word. His companions discovered that he had died immediately.

Detroit Worried About Pollution

DETROIT, Nov. 17 (CP)—The city of Detroit told an International Joint Commission Monday that it is concerned with the chemical pollution of Great Lakes waters by industrial firms.

The commission Tuesday moved into the final day of two-day hearings in Detroit on pollution of international boundary waters. It resumes the hearings in Windsor for about four days beginning Wednesday.

General Manager Lawrence G. Lenhardt of the City Water Commision, told the hearing that Detroit hopes to increase its investment in its $27,000,000 sewage plant "as soon as legal and legislative obstacles can be overcome."

He said the city is concerned over chemical pollution from Lake St. Clair industrial areas and added that Detroit wants industrial firms to treat their wastes to cut down the danger of water pollution.

General Motors Corporation told the conference that it spent $700,000 in the last two years treating waste materials that it empties into the Detroit sewage system.

Two Labrador Ducks, Believed Long Extinct Reported Shot In Pond Near Paris Ontario

BRANTFORD, Nov. 17 (CP). —If Lloyd Walker has what he thinks he has, it's one of the biggest wild life stories which had broken in some years.

While out duck shooting during the week-end Mr. Walker shot down two ducks, all white except a black ring around the neck.

He has an idea that they may be Labrador ducks which have been reported extinct for many years.

A check with the Webster International Dictionary revealed that the Labrador species was black and white in color and that it was at one time common on the New England coast. However, the dictionary pointed out, no specimens have been reported since 1878.

The Walker birds were bagged on a pond located half way between Paris and Galt.

Mr. Walker said at noon today a search would be made of an illustrated duck folder this afternoon to see if the Labrador species is listed. If it isn't, he will consult officials of the Brant Museum.

Saunders Very Optimistic Washington Ready To Allow Water Diversion

Canal Major Supply Source During Winter Will Ease Power Deficit; Plan Won't Cost Ontario Anything Extra

TORONTO, Nov. 18—(CP).—Robert Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission, said today he was "very optimistic" about a favorable reply from Washington on diverting water from the Welland Canal to ease the Ontario power shortage. He said he believed that by the time Welland Canal navigation closes about Dec. 15, Ontario will be diverting water from the canal and doubling the generating capacity of the Decew plant near St. Catharines.

Mr. Saunders has just returned from Washington where he asked permission to divert the American allotment of water.

By taking 2,500 cubic feet a second more water from the Welland Canal, about 1,250,000 kilowatt hours of 25-cycle power daily would be fed into the Ontario power system. This would not meet the 5,000,000 kilowatt hours daily deficit, but it would be a major supply source during the winter, Mr. Saunders said.

The plan wouldn't cost Ontario a cent for additional installations. Navigations wouldn't be affected since the extra water would be taken from December to March when the canal is closed.

A Secret Quarrel

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 — (AP).—A secret quarrel in the United States armed forces became public Wednesday and Defence Secretary James Forrestal said he will investigate the "leak." What got out was bitter criticism of the navy by Air Secretary Stuart Symington. He said that statements made by the navy before a Congressional committee were a "challenge of the ability of the Air Force to accomplish its primary mission." His statement was published in a number of newspapers Wednesday.

Nationalize Steel, Iron In England

Labor Government Wins Bitter Fight By 363-211 Vote

LONDON, Nov. 18.—(CP). — The House of Commons last night approved in principle the Labor government's bill to nationalize the major part of Britain's iron and steel industry.

Climaxing a bitter three-day debate, the Labor majority by a vote of 363 to 211 defeated a Conservative amendment to reject the measure and then gave second reading without further division.

Thus the Labor government virtually completed the public ownership program on which it was elected in the 1945 general election. The bill now goes to committee for possible amendments and it will return to the Commons for the third reading—a formality—before the House of Lords takes it up.

Even if the Conservative-dominated Lords reject the measure it will become law by 1950, completing the Labor promise to nationalize the fuel and power industries, transport services and iron and steel.

Anthony Eden, deputy Opposition leader, promised that iron and steel nationalization would be a major issue in the 1950 general election. "The Government's sole purpose is by means of this bill to bring free enterprise in this country to an end," Eden said.

Need A Change

Herbert Morrison, deputy prime minister, said that "we cannot go on for all time with the Conservative idea of economic empires with the state, subject to public supervision." It was better for the country to take the next logical step and take the industry over.

The Conservatives, led by Winston Churchill, Eden and other party stalwarts, had charged during the debate that the bill was unfair to shareholders and harmful to efficient industry in time of economic crisis.

Morrison discounted these charges by saying the bill would not disorganize industry but represented an act "of emancipation and a charter of advance for managements and technicians as well." He termed the measure necessary to Britain's military and economic security.

TIDAL PORTS—The famous Bay of Fundy tidal bore is a tourist attraction for the Maritimes but skippers of vessels which use the busy ports on Minas Basin in Nova Scotia would be quite happy if the attraction were missing. The 25-foot tides which surge up the Avon River to the ports of Windsor, Port Williams, Avonport, and Hantsport twice a day pose navigation problems for the sailors. Photo on left shows the British freighter Edda floating as a ship should beside the dock at Windsor, NS. The dark waterline on the pier indicates the tide has already started to recede. Photo on right shows the Edda resting on a hardwood grid, held upright against the pier by its lines, but high and dry as far as water is concerned. Through these "waterless harbors" flow large quantities of apples, fertilizer and lumber to foreign ports.

Plan To Keep Troops There Premier Says

Britain Requests UN Use Bernadotte Palestine Proposal

TEL AVIV, Nov. 18—(CP). — Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion told the Israeli State Council to night that Jewish troops will not withdraw to new lines in the Negev region of Southern Palestine.

"Additional troops brought to the Negev to help break through to outlying settlements were already withdrawn, but troops who were in the Negev before October 14 will continue to guard the Negev against aggression from Egypt and also to defend Jerusalem against Egyptian attack," he said.

The United Nations has called for withdrawal of troops to positions held before October 14, when the recent fighting in the Negev flared up.

Earlier the Israeli Army said a large number of Arab sheiks of the Negev Desert had asked that their people come under the authority and protection of Israel.

Want Bernadotte Plan

PARIS, Nov. 18—(AP).—Britain formally asked the United Nations today to apply the late Count Folke Bernadotte's plan to Palestine.

The British delegation submitted to the 58-member political committee a resolution folowing the lines of the slain mediator's final report. The resolution calls for a conciliation commission of three countries to supervise the division of Palestine between Arabs and Israelis.

The resolution suggested that the conciliation commission also take over, at the request of the Security Council, any or all functions of the acting mediator, Ralp J. Bunche, and the present United Nations Truce Commission.

The conciliation group also would appoint a technical bound-

Shipping Boom At Halifax Like Wartime

HALIFAX, Nov. 18—(CP). — The port of Halfiax was geared today for what may be its biggest job in peacetime history.

With eastern United States ports tied up by a longshoremen's strike, a queue of ocean liners and other vessels—headed by the Queen Elizabeth—is due in Halifax.

The 2,000 members of the Halifax Longshoremen's Association (AFL) — who staged a two-day slow-down in sympathy with the American strikers—went back to work Wednesday after examining their legal position.

The Queen Elizabeth is scheduled to arrive Nov. 24 and it is expected that the Queen Mary will sail from Southampton for Halifax next week. Harbor officials say a host of other passenger ships and freighters are expected and the boom may reach proportions exceeded only in wartime.

J. J. Campbell, association president, said his union is legally bound to handle all ships entering the harbor and "that's just what we're going to do."

With Christmas in the offing, waterfront workers were elated to find themselves wage-earners in what for Halifax is a premature shipping season rush.

Chiang Reports Suchow Victory, Reds Fleeing

NANKING, Nov. 18 (AP)—The government claimed complete victory in the Suchow battle today.

Gen. Chang Liu-Shih, official military spokesman, told his weekly press conference:

"The battle for Suchow can be considered as concluded. What the Communists do now is subject to conjecture."

Chang pictured the Red forces in flight. He said government troops and planes were mopping up an area extending 30 miles around Suchow.

The spokesman asserted 130,000 casualties were inflicted on the Reds as against 40,000 suffered by Nationalists.

Other government sources said the government won at least the opening phase of the Suchow battle against 300,000 veteran troops. This victory, they added, means Nanking is safe at least for a month or longer.

Draw Middle Line

Foreign observers placed the result of the fighting along the Suchow front somewhere between the government's official claim of complete victory and the Communists' continued insistence that they still hold the initiative.

It appears certain that Red generals Chen and Liu Po-Cheng—if they have not been defeated—have been forced to abandon the immediate conquest of Suchow and withdraw for regrouping.

The spokesman said incomplete statistics showed General Huang's Seventh Army group alone was credited with inflicting 63,000 Red casualties; Chiu and Li Mi's army groups 10,000; Chiu and Sun Yuan Liang's army groups 10,000 and 3,000 killed and wounded by the Chinese air force.

(Both sides often exaggerate casualty claims in China.)

1,250 Marines Sent To Aid Men At Tsingtao

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (CP) —The United States, bolstering its Marine force in China, left open to-day the question of whether "circumstances" might lead to armed conflict with Communist troops.

The Navy said 1,250 Marines will sail from Guam next Tuesday to reinforce the 3,600 man garrison at Tsingtao.

This force, said the Navy in adding details to a surprise announcement by Defence Secretary Forrestal, "will assist in the orderly evacuation of United States nationals through the port of Tsingtao."

Forrestal was asked by reporters whether the Marines will fight if the Communist armies attack Tsingtao. That, replied Forrestal, is a matter for the State Department to decide.

At the State Department, Press Officer Michael J. McDermott took this position:

"The answer is that it all depends on circumstances and there is no answer now. I don't know what the answer will be. I cannot pretend to say now what they will do in certain circumstances."

Circumstances Now

On the basis of information available here, the circumstances at this time are these:

1—Tsingtao, Yellow Sea port at the base of the Shantung Peninsula, is close to Communist-controlled areas—so close that the water supply for the city is within Communist held territory. Some experts believe the Communists can take the city any time they choose, without much opposition from Nationalist forces.

2—In the Shanghai-Nanking areas there are about 3,050 Americans. In other sections, including the evacuation port of Tsingtao, there are 1,574 others. These figures do not include the military people such as those on the American advisory missions to Chiang Kai-Shk's Nationalist Government.

3—The primary reason for the presence of the Marines in China is to protect American lives and property. It is to be assumed that if shooting between Marines and Communists should occur it would be in defence of these lives and the property they represent.

Move 2,000 Infantrymen To Dunkerque Strike Area

PARIS, Nov. 18—(AP).—Two thousand Morocco infantrymen moved into Dunkerque today and faced a like number of Communist-led dock strikers over barricades made of ship cargoes. No immediate action was reported.

The 25,000 dockers of France, overwhelmingly members of the Communist-controlled Confederation of Generale du Travail, have been called out on strike for Monday. Those at Dunkerque and at some other ports jumped the gun.

It originally was believed troops might try to take over the Dunkerque docks. Reports from the port said any such action would not come before tomorrow.

Commerce Minister Robert Lacoste told the Assembly fourfifths of the 335,000 coal miners had returned to work. The strike of the Communist-led unions was called seven weeks ago.

Troops are unloading ships at Bordeaux. At Dieppe, Calais, Le Havre and Cherbourg, 50,000 tons of coal are on the docks.

Bramuglia Leads Peace-Making

PARIS, Nov. 18 —(AP)—Western-power insistence that the Berlin deadlock must be settled within the United Nations Security Council has pushed Juan A Bramuglia of Argentina back into the role of leading "peace-maker."

Bramuglia, November president of the council, has been working behind the scenes on a new formula for resolving the Berlin dispute.

His hand strengthened by Wednesday's Western-power notes, Bramuglia conferred again with Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky. They talked for nearly an hour, and are reported to have discussed a new formula for ending the crisis.

Details of the plan were not disclosed, but it is believed to involve some form of gradual lifting of the Berlin blockade along with a similar process of instituting the Russian-zone mark as Berlin's currency.

The separate British, United States and French answers Wednesday to U.N. leaders Herbert V Evatt and Trygve Lie made lifting of the blockade a prerequisite to direct four-power negotiations.

HINT STOWAWAY RING

MONTREAL, Nov. 18.—(CP).—The possibility that an organized ring may be operating in Britain and the continent to help stowaways board ships bound for Canada was suggested today by a spokesman for Montreal shipping companies.

Conducts School For Robbers

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 18 —(AP)—A 50-year-old Springfield woman, described by police as a teacher of robbery techniques to three youths, is in jail on three charges in connection with their brief crime spree.

Police said Mrs. Florence Moomaw was arrested last night and charged with armed robbery, attempted robbery, and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The three youths, in signed statements, admitted one robbery and an attempted robbery. They also are in jail and are charged with robbery and an attempted armed robbery.

Mrs. Moomaw signed a statement relating her connection with the three youths. Police said Mrs. Moomaw's statement disclosed that two young girls who lived at her home—one 11 and one 14—had lured the three youths to her home. She instructed them in procedure in staging robberies, escapes and disposal of loot. She told them to rob women.

Try Radiant Heating On Detroit Highway

DETROIT, Nov. 18 — (CP) — Radiant heat will help keep two 500-foot sections of Eight Mile Road free of ice and snow this winter.

Heating grids have been installed experimentally in both concrete and bituminous surfaces by the State Highway Department. Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler said that Michigan, so far as he knew, was the first state to undertake such a project.

The grids, 98-foot sections of sidewalk reinforcing mesh, 18 inches wide are imbedded an inch and a half beneath the road surface, underlying the wheel tracks. Control by thermostats, they will be heated by electricity whenever the roadway temperature drops below freezing. Cost is $2,500.

Canada Plans Bigger Navy

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 — (CP). — Informed sources confirmed today that Canada plans to increase her naval strength.

One official source said some anti-submarine vessels would be added to the Royal Canadian Navy. He could not indicate whether they would be corvettes or frigates, used by Canada in her wartime anti-submarine campaign.

He was commenting on a Boston dispatch which quoted Rear Admiral E. R. Mainguy, flag officer, Canadian Atlantic Fleet, as saying the Navy will be expanded "because of the international situation."

Egypt Confiscates Cargo On U.S. Vessel

PORT SAID, Egypt, Nov. 18—(AP)—Egyptian authorities today began to unload the cargo of the American Victory ship Flying Trader. Authorities said they are confiscating the cargo because it was bound for Israel.

(The United States State Department in Washington said it is investigating the Egyptian action.)

The manifest of the 10,000-ton ship described the cargo as bound for Genoa, Italy. The Egyptians contended, however, that labels indicated the goods were destined for Tel Aviv.

Repair Crews Still Mopping Up

By The Canadian Press

Repair crews in many parts of Ontario still had a full day's work ahead of them today, mopping up after a sudden 50-mile-an-hour gale that slashed through the province Wednesday.

It snarled power and telegraph lines, ripped out trees, slowed down Great Lake shipping and damaged buildings.

Five people in Hamilton were injured when the roof was blown from their house and in Windsor the wall of a new building was knocked over by the wind.

A 60-foot tower of a salt well was blown over near Goderich and a tall steel chimney at St. Thomas was left tottering. Hamilton-Goderich telegraph lines were cut when another tree was blown over.

Power was cut off for three hours in Belleville early today as a result of the storm. Branches of trees were believed to have hit power lines, causing a short circuit of circuits leading to transformers.

500 Pilgrims Feared Drowned

PATNA, India, Nov. 19.—(Reuters).—Some 500 pilgrims were feared drowned today when a river steamer capsized on the sacred Ganges today while returning from Sonepur Fair, the year's biggest Hindu festival.

The pilgrims, jam-packed on the lower deck of the vessel, were believed trapped when it capsized.

Survivors said the vessel was approaching the landing stage here when the passengers rushed to one side. More than 100 cattle and some horses also were drowned.

The scene of the disaster was near the junction of the Ganges and the Gandak river. The junction is considered a spot of special sanctity to Hindus.

Wants To Build Planes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18. — (CP).—Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, Canadian Trade Minister, disclosed today that Canada is seeking permission to build two types of United States military aircraft. If the United States government grants the necessary rights, the planes will be built in Canadian factories for the RCAF, he said in an interview.

All Pals Together

Coalition Government Sworn In In Greece

ATHENS, Nov. 18 —(AP)—A new coalition government of Populists and Liberals was sworn in today to replace a similar cabinet combination which resigned six days ago under the fire of dissident Liberals.

The cabinet again is headed by 88-year-old Premier Themistokles Sophoulis, leader of the Liberals. Populist (Royalist) Leader Constantin Tsaldaris also retains the posts of deputy premier and foreign minister.

The Liberals took over the key position of minister of war, which formerly had been filled by Populist George Stratos. Constantine Rentis, former minister of public order, was given the job with a Populist undersecretary.

Spend More Than 2 Million Daily On Social Security

TORONTO, Nov. 18 (CP) — Canada is spending more than $2,000,000 a day on all government social security measures, Health Minister Martin said today.

Of this amount, the federal government is paying 80 per cent, the minister told a meeting of the University of Toronto Liveral Association.

"This is an impressive total," he added in a speech prepared for delivery. The measures—"of which the great majority are Liberal in origin—have been brought in at such a measured pace that Canada's economy has been steadily strengthened."

But in contrast with the Liberals, Mr. Martin claimed, the Progressive-Conservatives seem to regard social security platform promises as necessary concessions to the pressure of public opinion.

And the Socialists, for their part, "seem to regard the Social Security part as being more important than the whole pattern of our national economy."

"Their concern seems to be to spend before they have made sure they can make it."

Reach Highest Point

"Under Liberalism, we have come to the highest point of prosperity in our history," the minister told the association. "This is the system under which this country has become the third trading nation of the world with a level of living hardly surpassed by any country." Liberalism, he added, was still on the march.

"The age of Mackenzie King has now come to a close. It was a time of great prosperity . . . a time in which solid foundations were laid for the future.

"In the Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King," said Mr. Martin, "we recognize a great Canadian, but in the transition of Liberal leadership from King to St. Laurent, there is no loss of momentum. There is no unsettling of Canadian programs or of Canada's progress."

No Nobel Peace Prize

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 18 (AP) —The Norwegian Nobel prize committee announced today that no Nobel Peace Prize will be awarded this year. Two-thirds of the amount awarded for the prize from the will of Alfred B. Nobel, Swedish explosives magnate, will go into the Nobel Institute's "special fund," the committee said. The prize last year amounted to nearly $41,000.

17-Year-Old Girl Stays At Switchboard As Flames Sweep Through Business Section

BRUCE MINES, Nov. 18.—(CP).—A plucky 17-year-old girl stayed at her switchboard post despite leaping flames and smoke Wednesday during a gale-whipped fire which burned the heart out of this Algoma district town.

The girl, Catharine Robinson, spread the alarm until telephone cables were burned out. She then was rescued by two men.

Seven buildings were burned to the ground and four badly damaged during the two-hour blaze that caused damage estimated at more than $600,000. One store owner said he alone lost $50,000.

Three persons barely escaped from flaming buildings as the roaring blaze leaped from roof to roof. A change of wind saved a number of buildings.

Miss Robinson said the blaze was caused by a defective transformer which gave out sparks, setting fire to roofs.

With no regular fire department in the town, 42 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie, some 150 men leaped into action with pumps and hose.

France May Invoke Treaty To Change Policy In Ruhr

PARIS, Nov. 18 (AP) — An authoritative source said today France may invoke the British-French friendship treaty to force a change in British policy on the Ruhr.

Britain aroused the French early this month when she made a joint announcement with the United States that the German people would be allowed to decide the future ownership of the Rhur's basic industries and that the Germans would be given immediate limited control of those industries.

An official in touch with the French foreign office said the French government regards that action and a statement supporting it in the British House of Commons this week to be in conflict with the Dunkerque alliance.

He said the foreign-office experts are studying what to do next within the framework and spirit of the treaty to bring what he called the inconsistencies of Britain's policy to her attention.

France protested to both Britain and the United States immediately after their policy statement was issued. Her notes were delivered on the eve of the opening of six-power talks now in progress in London to write a statute for control of the Rhur.

The French informant charged the statement in the House of Commons by State Minister McNeill Monday backgrounding Britain's action on the Rhur "simply was not correct."

McNeil told the House it was inaccurate to say the six powers which were parties to last June's London pact on Western Germany "reserved" the Ruhr for future discussion.

An official source in Paris said the French and British government "know definitely the Ruhr was reserved for ministerial-level discussion."

Confirmation of the French position could not be obtained immediately from British officials here. McNeil was not available for comment.

De Gaulle Condemns Plan To Let German Trustees Control Industry In Ruhr

Says Hard To Harmonize Defence Interests Of Britain And France; Safety Of France Above Marshall Plan

PARIS, Nov. 18—(AP).—Gen. Charles de Gaulle declared Wednesday the Marshall Plan must not be allowed to displace "the essential interests of France." The war-time resistance leader, whose party has moved into a strategic position in the Upper House of Parliament, questioned the recent decision of the United States and British military governments to return control of Ruhr industries to German trustees.

He renewed his insistance that the defence of France must not be "centred in England," and declared that the Communist party should be outlawed if it is true, as the government charges, that the Cominform has been financing French strikes.

In an apparent reference to the plans undertaken by the western European alliance for co-ordination of their military defences, De Gaulle said it is hard to harmonize the defence interests of Britain and France.

"An organization for European defence centred in England is not a good organization," he said. "It is not acceptable to France. It is inconceivable that the defence of France should be assured by anyone other than the French themselves."

Paris Headquarters

Unofficial reports have said the defence headquarters for the five-nation Western European Alliance—France, Britain, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg—will be in Fontainebleau, southwest of Paris.

He made no mention of the projected North Atlantic military alliance which would link the United States and Canada with the Western European Union.

The general spoke at a press conference which was prompted by the success of his Rassemblement Du Peuple Francais in capturing more than 40 per cent of the council of the republic. The council has only an advisory capacity, but by refusing to approve national assembly measures can force the assembly to vote on them a second time when an absolute majority is needed to make them law. Considering the present division in the assembly these absolute majorities are hard to get.

De Gaulle, whose strategy is to force the assembly to dissolve itself, reiterated that it should quit and call new elections which he thinks would sweep him into power.

Grave Decision

De Gaulle said the British and American military governments' decision to turn Ruhr mines and steel mills over to German trustees was "the gravest decision made so far during the twentieth century," and added:

"England and America flatter themselves they can make something of the Reich to oppose against Russia. Perhaps they can. But perhaps not. Hitler had no difficulty reaching an accord with Russia when he wanted to dominate Europe and France. To which side will the new Reich turn? The question is disturbing."

Commenting on the wishes of the United States and Britain for the French to merge their occupation zone of Germany with the British and American zones, De Gaulle said "I am told that if we don't this might stop the operation of the Marshall Plan."

"And what then?" he demanded. "We have lived for centuries without the Marshall Plan. On the contrary, I have said everything good about it that I can think of. But above the Marshall Plan are the essential interests of France."

Failed To Give True Picture Council Meeting

"If it is another hundred years before the next broadcast of the council, it might be just as well for all hands," said one of the alderman today.

"Citizens who listened in tell me that it was too plainly staged, cut and dried, necessarily because of the radio timing, and most of those who heard it probably understand that it was not a true reflection of the average meeting of the council and the work that is done."

"I'm positive that it is a mistake. You don't do business that way whether it is private or public, and I'm sure that a radio at a committee meeting would make everybody self-conscious and make a mess of it."

"From what some people have told me, I think the idea was a mistake, because it was not a true picture of the business of the council and especially of the long and detailed discussion in committee where the most of the work is done."

Drew Declares Howe Refuses Debate Meeting

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (CP). — The CBC announced to-day it will not sel; George Drew, the National Leader of the Progressive Conservative Party any network time to discuss Ontario's power shortage.

TORONTO, Nov. 18 (CP)—A growing controversy between Trade Minister Howe and the man who may become opposition leader in the House of Commons took another turn last night.

He declared the federal minister had not accepted his challenge to a public debate on the reasons for the current crippling power scarcity.

In the statement, issued in reply to Mr. Howe's Washington offer yesterday to debate the issue on the floor of the Commons, Mr. Drew said Mr. Howe "knows that the power shortage in Ontario is not a subject for debate in the House of Commons."

"He knew that last Saturday when he joined forces with the socialists in an effort to make it a political issue in Carleton."

He said in an interview that as the challenged party it was his privilege "to name the time and place of the debate. He named the floor of the Commons, providing Mr. Drew was successful in Carleton.

But Mr. Drew said last night Mr. Howe "has made it clear that he will not meet me in debate... His completely inaccurate statements must be corrected effectively long before the House meets."

Industrials Easing Slowly On Exchange

TORONTO, Nov. 18 (CP). — Industrials eased slowly on Toronto Exchange to-day as the session progressed while golds continued firming from yesterday's declines. Base metals were also ahead and the quiet Western oils strengthened.

Papers led the downward trend in the industrial groupings as the trading slackened. International Paper, selling ex-dividend 2, dipped 2¼ at 59. Steel of Canada lost a point in a mixed steel list and refining oils weakened. Bell Telephone and CPR were down in utilities.

Junior golds moved slowly upwards, but weakness in the seniors tended to cut into early gains McIntyre sold down a point at a new low at 50 and Kerr Addison weakened fraction in the seniors. San Antonio, Central Patricia, Bralorne, Eldona, Giant Yellowknife, and Lake Shore strengthened.

Key base metals issues forged ahead. Smelters and Noranda were up ⅝ and Normetal, Reeves MacDonald and New Calumet firmed. International Nickel and Hudson Bay weakened.

Must Make More Butter Or Get Oleo Farmers Told

TORONTO, Nov. 18.—One effective way to keep oleomargarine out of Canada is to produce more butter, delegates to the annual meeting of the Ontario Cream Producers' Association were told Wednesday.

Erle Kitchen, secretary-manager of the Dairy Farmers of Canad, said the industry could produce all the butter needed, but William Newman, Victoria county, added there must be greater production or the farmers can hardly face up to the clamor for oleo.

Mr. Kitchen said it is still necessary to get across to the public all the facts concerning the subject so the people can judge the case on its merits.

Some people claim, he continued, that there has been a reaction to prices now charged for butter but this is not supported by what is actually taking place. Under rationing, the per capita consumption per year was 26½ pounds while today it is over 29 pounds.

This increase in consumption has as much to do with the current scarcity as has an easing off in production. While people are drinking 5 per cent. less milk, more of it is being diverted for manufacturing purposes.

The main reason for the butter scarcity in certain areas was that of distribution, Mr. Kitchen insisted, and this can be corrected by imports now being received from Denmark.

Challenges Statement

He challenged the statement that Canada could produce enough vegetable fats and oils for the manufacture of margarine. Most of these fats and oils would have to be imported from the United States.

Such imports would only aggravate the United States dollar shortage, he added. However, the most significant factor in the whole situation to his mind, Mr. Kitchen remarked, was the threat to the soil.

If the sale of margarine were permitted in Canada, dairymen would immediately start cutting down on the size of their herds. As livestock is the best soil conditioner there is, this would have a harmful effect on the soil which would be reflected in agricultural production generally.

Mr. Kitchen derided the suggestion that there is a dairy monopoly in Canada, and asked how an industry which takes in 400,000 farmers could be brought under the direction of any one group.

Nobody Rich

"Some say the farmers are growing rich," he remarked. "If that is so why can you buy farms today for the same price they brought 35 years ago? You can buy a 100-acre farm nowadays for less than what it costs to buy a house and lot in an urban centre.

"Our objective should be to produce enough for all our needs and at the same time guard against drowning ourselves in created surpluses," he declared.

The delegates, representing some 70,000 cream producers, went on record as favoring a higher basic price for their product, but that such price should be coupled with the national wage index so that it would be placed in the proper relation to the income of the wage-earner as a whole.

Mr. Newman warned the meeting that the whole country is sweeping against the farmer on the question of margarine and if it is legalized the price spread between it and butter would amount to 40 cents.

Winnipeg Gets Able Conductor From Maritimes

By GORDON PEPPER

HALIFAX, Nov. 18 (CP) —In the world of music, a loss for Halifax and the Maritimes is going to prove Winnipeg's gain.

Czech-born Walter Kaufmann —composer, conductor and teacher—is leaving here to take over as conductor of the newly-formed Winnipeg Symphony Orchestra.

"I'm leaving Halifax with a sad heart," the 41-year-old maestro said in an interview here. "But I feel that my taking this important post as conductor of one of Canada's four symphonic groups will aid the Dominion in her fight for proper recognition in the realm of serious orchestral music. If the move is good for Canada, I'm all for it."

Born in Carlsbad, Czechoslovakia, April 1, 1907, Walter Kaufmann studied at the University of Prague and later under Franz Schreker in Berlin. After graduating, Mr. Kaufmann began his career as director of a Continental opera group and later became director of music at All-India Radio in Bombay.

Through illness, he had to leave India and return to England and there again, after doing distinguished work with the BBC, he left for Canada and a post as head of the piano and theory department of the Halifax Conservatory of Music.

Internationally Known

As a composer, the dark-complexioned virtuoso received international acclaim for his "Strange Town at Night," and "Madrass Express." While in England he wrote the complete music score for two J. Arthur Rank productions, "Palestine," and "Sudan Dispute."

Mr. Kaufmann said the United States has more than 200 symphony orchestras while Canada has only four — in Vancouver, Winnipeg, Toronto and Montreal.

"To be director of one of these is indeed an important role in the country's musical development. Why you're like a conductor waving a baton over the entire country's musical progress. Canada has much room for growth."

Sir Ernest MacMillan, conductor of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, and Arthur Fiedler, conductor of the Boston Pops Orchestra, agree that Mr. Kaufman's move to Winnipeg is a promising development.

Mr. Fiedler hearing Mr. Kaufmann direct the orchestra playing some of his own work in Halifax for the CBC, remarked that it must have been a 25-piece orchestra for such a full-bodied presentation. He found out later — and had to see the music score before he would believe it — that Mr. Kaufman directed only a 12-piece ensemble that night.

Third Storm Threatens Coast Of B.C.

Say Winds Weaker Than Tuesday Blow; Ships Standing By

VICTORIA, Nov. 18 (CP)—A 40-mile-an-hour gale, reaching 60 in gusts, today was sweeping down the British Columbia coast and all north Pacific shipping had its hatches battened down in preparation.

It was unlikely that the new storm—the third in the last five days—would build up to the intensity of the earlier hurricane winds which took seven lives, sank three tugs, isolated communities, dashed rocks and debris on highways and railways, and snarled communication lines.

The weather bureau in Vancouver reported the gale, "not as serious as the earlier blows," would probably be all over by nightfall.

Heavy Rainfall

Unlike the earlier storm which reached a 15-year high of 74 miles an hour for a sustained wind, today's blow was accompanied by heavy rainfall and dropping temperatures.

Meanwhile victims of Tuesday's storm were returning to their home ports.

Three survivors of the wrecked tug St. Clair, which sank with the loss of three lives off San Juan on Vancouver Island, were due to arrive in Vancouver today.

The 10 survivors of the Seattle tug Neptune were taken into Astoria, Ore., Wednesday by the rescue cutter Balsalm. Another Seattle tug, which had been towing 3,000,000 feet of lumber from Alaska, put into Prince Rupert for rudder repairs.

Garson Accepts Lib. Nomination

SHOAL LAKE, Man., Nov. 18—(CP)—Justice Minister Garson Wednesday accepted the Liberal nomination as candidate in the Dec. 20 Marquette Federal by-election and pledged himself to "continue to seek a full-fledged Dominion-Provincial agreement."

In accepting the nomination, the former Manitoba premier made it apparent that his campaign to win the seat formerly held by J. A. Glen, former minister of mines and resources, would be keynoted by the Dominion-Provincial issue.

Mr. Garson criticized Premier Duplessis of Quebec and George Drew, former Ontario premier now leader of the Progressive Conservative party, with the statement:

"Because certain public men in these two wealthier provinces think as they do, they have refused to join with all the other provinces in signing an over-all agreement as proposed by the present Dominion Government."

It was learned Mr. Garson probably will be opposed only by a CCF representative in the by-election.

The CCF will hold its nominating convention Nov. 22.

Today's bulletin said Princess Elizabeth had passed a comfortable night and was doing well.

OSSIPEE, NH, Nov. 18—(AP). —The badly decomposed and apparently bludgeoned body of a young woman believed by police to be Ruth Eisenberg, missing Newark, NJ, nurse, was found last night in a shallow grave.

Police said clothing discovered near the body matched that worn by the attractive 22-year-old nurse when she left a Newtown, Conn., home July 20 for a five-day vacation in New Hampshire and Maine. She was employed at the Newton home as a child nurse.

aries commission to aid in outlining frontiers in Palestine "based on specific conclusions" of Count Bernadotte," and "subject to such adjustment as may promote agreement" between the Arabs and Jews.

The proposal was placed before the committee following a debate on the Palestine situation. British delegate Hector McNeil expressed hope the full General Assembly would support the Bernadotte plan.

The endorsement of the plan was the first in the committee by any major U.N. member.

The chief points of the Bernadotte report are the assignment of the Negev desert in the south to the Arabs, giving western Galilee to the Jews and placing Jerusalem under U.N. control.

The customary cut-offs on Wednesday occur in the business section, part of King St. and in the Chapel St. district, and are from 9.00 until 10.30 in the morning and from 2.00 until 3.30 in the afternoon. These hours have been familiar to the public for several weeks.

Yesterday morning, the Utilities office directed the cut-off to remain until 11.00 a.m. The extra half-hour had not been previously announced and enquiry at the Utilities office revealed that the additional half-hour was due to the decision this week of the retail merchants to remain open on Wednesday morning. The merchants had been closing on Wednesday mornings to save power but due to the possibility of 5.30 cut-offs the retailers decided to remain open until 12.00 noon.

The first 5.30 blackout took place on Tuesday night and it caught many people unprepared. A dairyman on the outskirts of the town was operating the milking machine when the power went off. Housewives preparing supper were caught with the meal half cooked when the current was shut off. General re-action of the public was that they were glad to co-operate but that they wanted some warning of what to expect.

"I think the Utilities office should have sent some warning through the mails, just the same as the way they send out the bills. Then so many of us would not have been so unprepared," commented one businessman to The Examiner.

High School Holds Open House

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 18 — (ENS)—In observance of Education Week open house was held at the High School on Wednesday afternoon. It was noted that the schools are attempting to develop complete individuals through a broad program of academic, cultural and creative studies. Teachers recognize the fact that this is a complex world and to meet its requirements character, personality, mind and body must be developed.

It was observed in the regular class rooms that the ability to think clearly, to make decisions and to speak and write concisely were being taught through the medium of mathematics, science, oral and written languages, and the social studies. Classes in general shop work and household science, frequently referred to as practical arts, were in session. These two modern branches of learning, aside from their practical value, are supposed to develop an individual's creative ability.

Demomracy in action was observed at the different student organizations and activities. Here students were putting into practice the fundamental principles of good citizenship and the ability to get along with other people. The program numbers of the literary society included: "Football Song", by a group of girls; a skit, "Here Comes the Bride"; two vocal numbers by Marion Wallace; and "Old Black Joe" and "Deep River", sung by a mixed group of senior students.

Power Shortage And The Carleton Election

The power shortage will be the chief issue in Mr. Drew's election campaign in Carleton. The C.C.F., his only opponents, have attacked him on this score, and Mr. Howe, on Saturday, declared that the shortage was man-made, and that the maker was Mr. Drew. As might have been expected, the Conservative press is now representing Mr. Drew as a saint and a martyr who is being blamed for exceptionally dry weather. In this connection we must say that it is queer that Ontario has produced such excellent crops this year if the drought was so extreme; some franker and more credible explanation would help Mr. Drew's cause.

• • •

The facts in the Hydro shortage are not all available, and we do not think that they ever will be, for many of them are under Mr. Drew's control, and he will obviously not disclose anything which might discredit him. The chiefs of Hydro are his appointees, and Dr. T. H. Hogg (who was dismissed by Mr. Drew and replaced by Mr. Saunders) is a Hydro pensioner and not free to tell his side of the story. Mr. Drew has implied that Dr. Hogg made a mess of his Hydro job and had to be dismissed as incompetent; this is certainly not the impression which engineers or men intimate with Hydro affairs received of Dr. Hogg. Mr. Drew's challenge to Mr. Howe to debate the Hydro question with him on a public platform is a striking gesture, but it is exactly like inviting Mr. Howe to play poker with Mr. Drew's marked cards. Only a commission with full power to investigate could fix the blame for the Hydro shortage, and we are sure that no commission will ever be appointed to do so.

• • •

Some interesting facts are public property, however. In February, 1943, Mr. Drew (who was then Opposition leader in the Legislature) told the House that "less power will be needed soon". Obviously he believed that, for although he came to power in August, 1943, construction at Des Joachims was not resumed until 1946, and then in a very limited way. Some other power developments were undertaken in that interval, but they were trifling compared with Des Joachims. It was only last Spring that Mr. Drew woke up to what was happening, and put the Des Joachims plan into full operation.

• • •

If Des Joachims were in operation now there would still be a power shortage, but it would not be nearly as grave as the one we now suffer. Mr. Drew cannot be blamed for this year's drought, but he can certainly be blamed for a delay of three years during which he either did not see, or ignored, an approaching boom in production which was plain to many industries and private persons.

Bustling Halifax

'It's an ill wind that profits nobody'. Haligonians are used to ill winds and their favourite grievance is that it is only the fierce ones of war which bring them prosperity. Now from the American seaboard south of Halifax comes a peacetime wind which is making the harbour, the quays and railway yards of Halifax bustle. The American longshoremen from Virginia to Maine are on strike and the shipping business of New York and Boston is going to Halifax. The Haligonians are hosts to the great ladies of Atlantic seafaring like the Elizabeth and the Mauretania and to a hundred ships of lesser quality.

The American longshoremen rejected their union's approval of a new wage agreement increasing hourly pay by ten cents—fifteen cents for overtime. The strikers want more—as much as fifty cents increase. They are getting under existing agreements merely $1.75 an hour and $2.62½ for overtime and Sunday work. The American strike began as a "wild-cat" strike but after a few days the longshoremen's union (A.F. of L.) officials decided to support it. Thereupon Halifax dockworkers began to think that they might be "scabbing" against their American brethren if they unloaded ships crowding into Halifax's harbour. Happily for Halifax, the passengers, the shiploads and their own purses, the Haligonian longshoremen have decided to live up to the terms of their agreement with shipping companies". So Halifax is thriving, smiling through the cold winds which are not blowing them ill. The longshoremen are showing good Scottish-Canadian sense.

Not All Education Is Schooling

Speaking at Stoney Creek on Monday the Minister of Education, Mr. Dana Porter, said something about backward students which we think should be given consideration during Education Week. These drones and nuisances of the classroom, said Mr. Porter, often have abilities which are not called upon in school, and which only blaze into glory in later life.

Most of us have seen this happen. The boy who spent his school days throwing spitballs, or loafing sometimes soars into prominence in an unexpected way. The girl who is a dunce at algebra and who thinks that Herodotus was the man who massacred the Innocents may develop the understanding heart which makes her a great woman in some field where book-learning is of secondary importance. We are sorry for the teachers who are stuck with these troublesome children. A teacher's job is to put pupils through the prescribed lessons; she has no time to deal with special cases. And it must also be said that these gifted pupils are usually indistinguishable from the ordinary loafers and no-goods of which each class has its share.

Schooling is not the whole of education. Unusual children must have time to dream and develop in their own way. Often they gain such time by neglect of their classroom work. They help to make teachers old before their time, but without such people we would be in a poor way.

The Royal Winter Fair

The Royal Winter Fair opened in Toronto on Tuesday. This is its twentieth session. There are many pleasant things we could say about the "Royal" but none more commendatory than that is is a real Fair. It is a good exhibition of cattle, horses, flowers, vegetables, grain; an annual resort of farmers from near and far, of horse-fanciers and of urban folk and manufacturers who recognize their kinship with the soil and its products.

Being a Toronto show it is more pretentious and urbane than homely Fall Fairs which dot the province in earlier months. It is named Royal and the Governor-General is lending his presence. Premier Kennedy opened the Fair. Sixteen American states are exhibiting. "Kings" of this and that are "crowned"—like the Wheat King from Red Deer, Alberta. There are military equestrian teams from various nations and R.C.M.P. (actually mounted) put on a musical ride. There is pomp and silk-hattery but also potatoes and Canadien cows. A good show.

Amends To The Mokriys

We are glad to see that some amends has been made to Russell Mokriys and his family, of Toronto. On August 26 Mr. Mokriys helped a policeman to catch a man who was suspected of shopbreaking; just when matters were settling down a couple of very young and inexperienced policemen appeared on the scene and proceeded to arrest Mr. Mokriys as a suspect in the same robbery! The Mokriys clan very rightly protested, and soon Russell and his father and mother and younger brother were all engaged in a fight with the police in which they were very roughly handled.

The Police Commission have apologized to the Mokriys family and the City Council of Toronto is paying them $500 as a salve to their wounded feelings. We feel that this is the right thing to do; to attempt to ignore the consequences of a foolish mistake would create an injustice to a well-disposed family.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A woman in London, England, telephoned her daughter in Galt, Ont., to tell her of the royal baby's arrival. No feeble dependence on the radio there!

The British Ministry of Food now decrees that a meat pie need contain no meat. The law catching up with popular usage again!

Cambridge University is making a survey to discover how the Scotch make love. Couples roamin' in the gloamin' will now be stalked by snoopers with thermometers, blood-pressure reckoners and kilt-penetrating fluoroscopes.

From The Critic's Notebook

WANDERING SCHOLAR by M. J. Bonn (Longmans, Green). Dr. Bonn has lived through many and varied years and this book is an autobiographical reflection of them. It is a personal history of the seventy-five years between Bismarck's Germany and Truman's America. It is a quiet account, though names of the great and neargreat whom the itinerant professor met give excitement to the pages.

"Wandering Scholar" is the testament of a liberal and if only for that reason, is important in an age when true liberalism is dimly heard through the cacophony created by machines, scientists, doctrinaire businessmen, scholars who are research specialists, rather than men of liberal education, Socialist and Conservative paternalists. The author, who is part economist, part political philosopher, part gentleman-adventurer outside academic halls, had opportunities which perhaps do not exist today. He is a product of an earlier Europe when to lose one's heart to Vienna was a good submission. Can university students of these days taste learning in several institutions during undergraduate days? Can they, as Dr. Bonn did at Heidelberg, choose whether or not they will attend lectures? Are there teachers of economics now like Iujo Brentano whom Bonn sought out at Frankfurt? "His mind was a harmonious blend of romantic temperament and classic intellect. He saw things in colours and could carve them in stone".

AS a professor Dr. Bonn did not wither his soul by scholarly research. He lived in the world and not in quibbling pedants' cloisters. "I tried to teach (my students) how to think, not merely what to know, and they usually resented it". The political observations throughout the book will most interest the general reader. The author's judgements are usually acute and accurate, always lively and informative.

He says of Lloyd George, whom he knew: "With all his faults, Lloyd George was Britain's great prime minister until the advent of Winston Churchill. Those who came after him were either unimaginative businessmen, like Bonar Law and the unfortunate Neville Chamberlain, or political crooners like MacDonald and Lord Baldwin. The former naively believed that the airs he warbled were really high-class music; the latter, being a very astute politician, produced them because the people like them." He writes of "the belated infection of the British mind by the Marxist measles, which was as severe as infantile diseases usually are when the patient is of mature age".

✧ ✧ ✧

OF the social changes in England he says: "In those days (Edwardian England) I discovered how meaningless are the definitions of democracy and aristocracy that have come down to us from Greek philosophers. They are far too vague to fit into daily life. Aristocracy, I learned, is a state of society in which a limited number of privileged people enjoy the advantages of an extremely effective domestic service. Democracy, on the other hand, is a condition of life in which nobody can afford these amenities, and in which one must console oneself with the proud feeling so tersely expressed by Daumier's swell who had to snine his own boots: 'One is never so well served as by onself'. Those aristocratic days have gone long ago. The spread of sanitary plumbing and of bathrooms has made their disappearance somewhat less painful than it otherwise might have been".

✧ ✧ ✧

OF the American equalitarian ranters against the British class distinctions: "It is much easier for a low-born Briton to become a highly respected member of the House of Lords than for the daughter of a highly respected Irish Roman Catholic family, that has lived in the United States for several generations and has given the adopted homeland very valuable service, to be accepted as a near equal—not, of course, as a member—by the Daughters of the American Revolution".

This is a wise book, food for thought as for pleasure. It is rather an expensive dish, however, at six dollars. T.J.A.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE BRITISH EMPIRE, edited by Hector Bolitho (Clarke, Irwin). The British Empire, Sir Stafford Cripps informs us, must be liquidated in the interests of Socialism; India and Ireland, lands never remarkable for domestic felicity, mean to show the British how they can govern themselves on republican principles. It looks as though the Empire would be in hot water for an indefinite period; it may take as long to die as did the empire of Rome; or it may blossom out into something greater than before, altered in form, but based upon the principles of decency and good law which made it great in its palmiest days. There is evil in all empires, but we venture to say that there was less evil, and more good in the empire of Britain than in any other that the world has seen. In this handsome book (we need say no more than that it is a Batsford publication) every part of the Empires emerges from it with great credit. Here is a Christmas gift for your friends who admire the Empire, and perhaps even more for those who do not.

✧ ✧ ✧

CHINATOWN FAMILY by Lin Yutang (Longman's Green & Co.) While this writer's name may be a recommendation to those who liked his former books, this one does not reach their standard. It is a gently pleasant story about a Chinese laundryman's family who came to America. The particular locale is New York's Chinatown in the immediate past. A mild humour and a smattering of simplified Chinese philosophy, characteristic of this writer, distinguish it only slightly from any other family story in which the successes are too quick and easy and the troubles all superficial ones. The writer did not suffer any brain strain over this book, and neither will the reader. H.T.K.

GOOD CHAUFFEUR

Harassed Parent: "I don't know what to do with that lad of mine. He is absolutely reckless of consequences, careless past belief, and doesn't seem to care a straw for any sort of authority." Flippant Uncle: "Don't hesitate, old man. Make a chauffeur of him!"

Cadet Training In Schools

(By CAPT. R. C. GRAVES)

THE object of Cadet Training is so to develop the mental, moral and physical education of boys and so to form their characters as to assist them to start well in life; to develop in them principles of leadership, patriotism and good citizenship and, through association, encourage them to train, in due course, with the Armed Forces of Canada and thus fit themselves to take their part in the defence of their country.

The syllabus of training that is outlined for Cadets embraces many subjects all aimed at the attainment of the above object. We will enumerate some of the subjects covered in Cadet Training that illustrate clearly the benefits that may be obtained while the cadet is still attending school.

The training programme undertaken by cadets embraces briefly, Drill, Rifle Practice, Signalling and Physical Training. The object of drill, or to give the subject its most common term "square bashing" is for the purpose of teaching cohesion in movement, esprit de corps and discipline. We feel sure that cohesion in movement and discipline are admirable qualities that would be most apparent when it came to clearing a building in the event of fire or other disaster.

Secondly, we mentioned Rifle Practice. Safety precautions are very strongly stressed as are the mechanics of marksmanship. The science of rifle shooting requires a high degree of concentration to weld together the basic principles of rifle shooting. The ability to concentrate, we suggest, will reflect favourably in the classroom where the cadet is faced with solving a mathematical problem. The stress laid on safety precautions should help to avoid some of the many frequent hunting accidents that are most common at this particular time of year. Finally, if a hunter is confident of his shooting ability, he will wait to see his target before firing and we trust, not fire at any thing that moves which seems to be a common practice with the unconfident shot.

The third subject mentioned was Signalling. Signalling demands a high degree of receptiveness. If the cadet is not receptive to signals by morse or radio, success is unobtainable. We venture to suggest that a boy who has developed a receptive sense would be better prepared to receive instruction in academic subjects.

We do not think it necessary to dwell at any length on Physical Training except to mention in passing that although all boys do not play football or other allied sports, they can build up a sound body and mind by participating in mass calisthenics which are included in the Physical Training programme.

✧ ✧ ✧

TO sum up, we feel that the training and activities indulged in by cadets develops a high standard of citizenship and at the same time provides necessary training which is of great value either in peace or in an emergency. Cadet Training is a contribution to preparedness and keeping Canada strong is the duty of every citizen.

Let us, then, adopt in this case the motto of that other great boys' organization, The Scouts, and—"Be Prepared".

Letters To The Editor

PRINCIPLE OF THE LORD'S DAY ACT

Sir: Our attention has been called to an editorial published in your paper recently, in which you discuss the Lord's Day Act and suggest that it "is obsolete in its present form".

We do not question in any way your right to express your opinion on this matter, and the right of any citizen to have his, or her, opinion on this question also. But we do suggest that your statement reveals a misconception of the contents of the present law, and its principle. Your last sentence, where you say "The Lord's Day Act once prevented the exploitation of labour; other laws now bear that burden", is not a true statement of the situation. There are no other labour laws that prevent the exploitation of labour with regard to its right to freedom from toil on Sundays. The Lord's Day Act of Canada is the one piece of legislation in this Dominion that safeguards this fundamental right of Canadian citizens. It is not within the legislative competence of a Provincial Legislature to enact legislation to accomplish that result, as the Privy Council of Great Britain has rendered its decision placing definitely upon the Federal Parliament the responsibility, under our Constitution, for legislation dealing with Sunday observance.

If the present Lord's Day Act were repealed tomorrow, and another law were drafted to protect the exploitation of labour as to Sunday toil, and retain Sunday as the national weekly day of rest, we are of the opinion that the elimination of unnecessary business and toil on that day would still have to be a fundamental factor in such legislation. That is the principle written into the present Lord's Day Act, and it is vital that we recognize the need for its retention. In this regard the Lord's Day Act of Canada is as up-to-date as when it passed the Canadian Parliament. The language in which it is written is as adaptable to present day conditions as in 1906, in spite of the changed conditions between 1906 and 1948. This reveals the farsightedness of those responsible for the drafting of the Bill, and the acceptance of the general principle by the members of both Houses of the Parliament of Canada at that time.

There is much freedom available within the provisions of this Act for personal and group recreation on a voluntary and non-commercial basis. It would not be possible to permit the business of sport and entertainment on Sundays without entering upon an increasing volume of Sunday toil. For instance, the amusement concessions at summer resorts are definitely a matter of profit making business, and these people should recognize that the six legal business days of the week are all they have any right to expect to use as such. Even with these mechanical amusement devices silenced on Sundays there are many opportunities for legitimate recreation open to those who visit these summer resorts over any week-end.

While the Lord's Day Act makes no attempt to demand the religious observance of Sunday, there should be no question of its opportunity for moral and spiritual culture, as well as physical relaxation. "The Sabbath was made for man"—the whole man, body, mind and spirit—and we do well to be vigilant against the inroads of commercialism and secularism.

Yours sincerely,
(REV.) GEO. G. WEBBER,
General Secretary, Lord's Day Alliance.

ARENA NOW OR NEVER

Sir: I am not a regular reader of your editorials but the heading in last night's issue entitled "Let's not be hasty about the Memorial Centre" struck me as being so incongruous that I had to read it through to see if my eyesight had completely failed me, or to find out what particular brand of sarcasm you were using to help revive interest in this fiasco. To my surprise I found that this was no such thing on your part, but that you were actually recommending to the Centre committee and City Council, that the project be shelved for another five years. That, in effect, it is not needed now that the secondary rink or Civic Arena is about completed, and that that makeshift structure with a seating capacity of 1,200 and addition standing room for 700 or 800, and with no artificial ice, is sufficient to fulfill the hockey wants of this city until such time as building costs permit the construction of the Memorial Centre as originally planned, which might be five years or ten or more.

Now this may be your opinion and in this democratic country every man is entitled to just that, but when you imply that the arrangement you suggest would be satisfactory to the majority of the subscribers to this fund, then I think that you are misinterpreting the wishes of the people worse than Gov. Dewey did in the recent presidential election.

What in your opinion constitutes a Memorial Centre and also why is a modern artificial ice arena not a suitable memorial to our glorious dead, in view of the fact that such buildings are being constructed and dedicated all over the country as such? Why would facilities for ping-pong, badminton and other games, of a little theatre for the production of amateur plays, make it a more suitable shrine? What's so ignoble about our national game of hockey? As for the pastime of skating I fail to see where a certain attractive young lady from Ottawa has brought any disgrace to her country.

I think an individual poll of subscribers to the Memorial Centre Fund would show that about 95 per cent., as a conservative estimate, donated their money for the purpose of fulfilling the long felt want of a modern artifical ice arena, to enable our youth to compete on equal terms with those of other cities, and as a matter of civic pride to keep pace with the rest of the country. So let's take the money subscribed for this purpose and if it is not sufficient, issue debentures for the balance and build a modern arena comparative with those of other cities our size, so that we can once again take our proper place in the world of sport, which was and could be again, at the top. Or failing this let's forget the whole affair and shelve the Memorial Centre project, not for five years but forever. Let's sit down and watch the rest of the world go by.

Sincerely yours,
V. R. CRAIG.

MORE CONTROL OF CHILDREN NEEDED

Sir: If any one wants proof of what little interest parents have in their children's activities outside their homes, just take a look at the building on Burnham's Pt., formerly used for a store-room and now the proposed Community Hall. The glass destruction there and also a broken window sash are a disgrace to boyhood. Why do not the cowardly culprits turn their glass-shattering complex on the windows of their parents' homes? Why does the Government not collect costs from boys' parents on Burnham's Pt.? The only way to make some parents aware of their darlings' misdeeds is to touch their pocketbooks. There's too much Government paternalism.

There is also the propensity to shatter street-light bulbs as well as neighbour's windows by boys with air rifles.

Parents—how about exercising some control over your children? Using the rod will improve your child's conduct, and make him a useful citizen.

"USE THE ROD".

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Esau hated Jacob because of the blessing wherewith his father blessed him: and Esau said in his heart, The days of mourning for my father are at hand; then will I slay my brother Jacob (Gen. 27: 41.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Then Jacob went on his journey, and came into the land of the people of the east. (Gen. 29: 1.)

And Jacob said; O God of my father Abraham, and God of my father Isaac, the Lord which saidst unto me, Return unto thy country, and to thy kindred, and I will deal well with thee . . . Deliver me, I pray thee, from the hand of my brother, from the hand of Esau: for I fear him, lest he will come and smite me, and the mother with the children. And Jacob was left alone; and there wrestled a man with him until the breaking of the day . . . And he said, Let me go, for the day breaketh. And he said, I will not let thee go, except thou bless me.

And he said unto him, What is thy name? And he said, Jacob. And he said, Thy name shall be called no more Jacob, but Israel: for as a prince hast thou power with God, and with men, and hast prevailed. And Jacob asked him, and said, Tell me, I pray thee, thy name. And he said, Wherefore is it that thou dost ask after my name? And he blessed him there. (Gen. 32: 9, 11, 24, 26-29.)

Prove all things; hold fast that which is good . . . And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. (I Thess. 5: 21, 23.)

LLOYD VIVIAN, right, 18-year-old Tanslet, Ont., youth and playing captain of the Burlington High School football team, has chalked up quite a record in sports with an artificial leg. When he was two, Lloyd was caught in a mower driven by his father and his left leg was amputated below the knee. This proved little handicap to Lloyd, currently playing his third year in senior football. In addition he plays hockey, can high jump four feet 11 inches, pole vault and swim like a fish. During the summer he works on his father's farm and catches for a softball team. With Lloyd is Douglas Heagle, one of his teammates. Peterborough Collegiate Seniors play Burlington in COSSA finals on Saturday.

Watson Beats Ben Morgan In Wild Main Mat Tussle

Excitement was high as Whipper Bill Watson got the deciding fall over Ben Morgan at the Brock Arena last night in the main mat bout. A huge crowd surged around the ring when Pat Flanagan interfered to aid the Whip, after Referee Bert Maxwell had reversed his call — first giving Morgan the fall—and ordered the redhot bout resumed.

Watson won in just five minutes when Morgan — who scales 322, some 90 pounds heavier than his opponent—was counted out of the ring. He had the Whip in grievous trouble with a tough "Boston crab" hold, and finally the referee awarded him the fall. But it was pointed out to Maxwell by the timer that Ben had used the ropes for leverage, so Bert reversed his call and ordered them to continue. Ben applied the grip again but a kick-off pushed him through the ropes. There, Flanagan clipped him and some fans interfered and Morgan didn't get back in time to beat the count. He climbed in and started again on the Whip, but Flanagan jumped in and smacked him again in a furious finish.

Too Solid

Morgan won the second fall in nine minutes when the Whip hit him with a flying tackle but bounced off the braced and huge bearded Tennesseean. The latter promptly flopped on him to pin the champ as the crowd booed. Whipper twice had him with his "unconscious Commando" grip—paralyzing each side of the neck—but Maxwell broke it up, claiming it was a choke hold. Whip protested strenuously and demonstrated on the angry referee. It was full of action all the way and the fans kept yelling as the faster Whip tried to battle his heavy, strong and rough opponent.

The first fall came in 22 minutes to the Whip with a slam, the "whip" hold and another ring-shaking slam. He had trouble even lifting the bearded mountain, though he was faster and smarter, but he fought a rough and powerful foe all the way. He got Ben out of the ring once and he boxed him neatly, but he also took plenty of punishment from the big fellow. Referee Bert Maxwell also had a tough time trying to pry them apart and he in turn warned each during the scrappy session. After the bout, Ben yelled for a rematch, offering to take both Whip and Pat on.

Slider Won

Sliding Billy Hansen, popular 226-pounder, won the semi-final from Myron Cox, at 228, in 16 minutes with two "bulldog headlocks." Cox replaced O'Donnell, who injured his back the day before, and grappled bare-foot. He proved a rough customer, and gavee hsi speedy and experienced opponent a good go of it for a time. But the Slider was too fast and smart for him and earned the win—despite trouble from eye rasps and rope work—getting Cox out of the ring twice and really showing class in a good bout which the fans liked.

In the prelim, Lee Henping, who bumps the beam at 248 pounds, and Pat Flanagan, scaling 223, battled to a 30-minute time limit draw. They staged a lot of mat work the first while and then Henping got in some rough stuff to bother his rival plenty. Pat came back to the crowd's approval with speed and fists and elbows to hammer Lee around. He also knocked the referee flying once with a tackle during the wild and woolly go. There wasn't too much ot choose between them, as Pat was fast and hot but Henning had an edge on weight and more ring experience—and illegal tactics—to hold his own throughout. The fans liked the tussle all the way.

Reds Humble Ramblers 6-0

By The Canadian Press.

Providence Reds, leaders of the Eastern Division of the American Hockey League, Wednesday night handed New Haven Ramblers their first white-washing in 108 games. The Ramblers, defeated 6-0, were striving to shatter the Reds' league record of 112 games without being blanked. It was the second straight shutout for Goalie Harvey Bennett.

St. Louis Flyers, leaders of the Western Division, increased their margin to there points with a 7-2 decision over Washington Lions.

Cleveland Barons tallied four times in the second period to whip Springfield Indians 4-2.

Hershey Bears trounced Philadelphia Rockets 5-3 while Buffalo Bisons tied the idle Pittsburg Hornets for second place in the Western Division by trimming Indianapolis Capitals 8-3.

Carl Liscombe led the Reds' attack with two goals and an assist. The balance of the scoring was divided between Jack Stoddard, Allan Stanley, Harvey Fraser, and Pete Kapusth.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Girls' Basketball League schedule resumes after a two-week layoff tomorrow evening at 8.15 in the YWCA gym. Nurses meet CGE in the opener, while Lock Co. and Bond's wind it up. Latter team was formerly known as Kawarthas. Nurses were senior champions last spring, while Electrics and Lock Co. colleens were finalists the past season. Plenty of keen cage action may be expected in this twin bill, as the players kept in condition with workouts during the layoff. Their first games two weeks ago indicated the competition would be close this semester. Complete schedule should be out shortly.

* * * * * *

There are various tricks and stunts in puck practices but a new one to us is mentioned in an AHL bulletin. It says: "When the Monarchs of the English National Hockey League are on the ice for a practice session in London, a number of barrels are in evidence, spread around the rink. The players use the kegs to sharpen their puck passing, the idea being to pass between the barrels while skating at a fast pace. The barrels are empty, not being filled with anything to quench the thirst, so no player attempts to hit one to put a hole in it." Jolly decent of them, what? Like in the States, hockey is building a big following in the British Isles.

PCI-ers And Ports

No doubt the junior COSSA final at two Saturday aft in the Oval between Port Colborne and Peterborough Collegiate will draw a huge crowd of school and adult grid fans. These same squads clashed a year ago in the COSSA final with the Ports pulling out a close win for the title. This may be the year for Coach Alex Londry's hustling lads to capture the championship. They've won 10 straight games and scored 300 points, so you know they play a wide-open brand of football. The Ports are undefeated, too, and it promises to be a swell finale to the 1948 sport here.

* * * * * *

Senior PCI-ers also go into the COSSA final against a strong Burlington squad, and it'll be played at 2.30 Saturday on the Burlington gridiron—instead of Hamilton as first announced. Coach Bev Goulding's gridders will be shooting for their third straight COSSA championship, having beaten Fort Erie in finals two years ago and St. Catharines in a hot windup last autumn. That's quite a record, particularly if they make it three tities in a row. There'll be no "Buttons and Bows" sung during this battle, but the bumps and bounces will be heard distinctly on the sidelines, we imagine.

* * * * * *

Ghosts Gallop In

Saw a good grid game at the Oval yester aft. Ghosts of Cobourg beat Orillia 6-0 to go into ORFU intermediate finals against London. That one will be in Cobourg this Saturday at two. Living up to their monicker, the Ghosts shaded through to block kicks and intercept passes—and they cashed in on the odd real opportunity. A good team, and they really drove for the one try which spelled the difference. Cooper was the main difference, as we saw it, because the Bombers battled all the way. An attempted placement was blocked and their kicking generally wasn't up to par, and their passes too far ahead of a receiver. The Ghosts earned this one and we hope they pick up the provincial marbles on Saturday.

* * * * * *

Men's basketball hits the spotlight here on Nov. 17 at the Collegiate at 8.15 when Frank Tyndall's strong Queen's cage crew plays Marines "A" club an exhibition. Coach Al Clark, aided by Joe Stewart, has the local basketeers in good shape, the team including: Joe and Al Stewart, Chum Gillespie, Gord Burns, Eddie Nicholls, Bill Edger, Warren Smith, Al Menzies and Doug McPherson. And some new chaps are coming out with the Marines this season, too, fellows like Doug Plunkett, Bill Trimm—with the Panthers' grid team—Bill Dadson of Bowmanville, and Alec McLaren of Smiths Falls, who played for Toronto Rose A.C. They get into action a week from this Saturday.

Ganged Up On Ben

The Whipper whipped Morgan—the mountain that walks with a beard—in the main mat go at the Brock last eve, but Flanagan and a few fans rate assists. A wild affair, and Morgan told us after: "I can beat that shrimp and Flanagan, too, and you can also throw in half a dozen spectators!" He's only 322 muscular pounds, and who are we to argue? When he calls the 231-pound Whip a shrimp, our 155 pounds must look like a tricycle beside a tank. It was a swell show and we hope they rematch the pair and no nonsense about a team match, as the champ is fast and tricky enough to hold his own even against such a powerful foe. And we liked the semi-final where Sliding Bill Hansen beat Myron Cox, as we rate Hansen right close to Watson. Fast and tricky, he's worth seeing. Flanagan and Henning went to a prelim draw. Big crowd liked the three bouts.

Use Phone Poles To Pick Horses

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 18.—(AP).—An elderly woman, one of the 11 persons at Bowie race track who had a ticket on a $2,842.80 daily double Wednesday offered this free tip on how to pick winning combinations:

Watch telephone poles.

After pocketing a cheque from the track and admonishing reporters not to use her name "because my husband wouldn't like it," she explained her luck this way:

"I was riding to the track on the train and wondering what to play in the daily double when, for some unknown reason, I looked out of the window and noticed the numbers 11 and 8 on one of the telephone poles.

"I just couldn't get those numbers out of my mind. When I reached the track, I walked to the sellers and asked for 11 and 8."

The No. 11 horse was Reighaway which won the first race and paid $35.80 for $2. No 8 was St. Elmo, Jr., winner of the second race at a price of $150.80 for $2.

Together, the combination paid the highest double of the year at a Maryland track.

Cobourg Ghosts Win, 6-0 Against Orillia

The Galloping Ghosts of Cobourg blanked Orillia Bombers 6-0 here yesterday to go into the ORFU intermediate final against the London Falcons. The final will be a sudden death game in Cobourg this Saturday. Yesterday's scrap was a replay of the 16-all tie joust in overtime between Cobourg and the Bombers in Orillia last week-end.

A few hundred frost-bitten fans viewed a tight tilt at the Oval. A cold west wind made kicking a problem, especially for the squad moving into it, and the Ghosts had a good edge in forward passing—both their own and on intercepted Orillia throws. The ground work was fairly even, with Cobourg again having a little edge. They kept play fairly well in Orillia territory, though each side had nine first downs.

Blocked Kick

Orillia threatened in the first quarter but an attempted placement was blocked. Cobourg got all the points in the second as they drove from midfield. Cooper threw two nice forwards to Quigley and Boyd, and then he—playing coach Bob Cooper — bucked over for a major, Brandwood kicking the convert. Orillia worked up again in the third with O'Brien, White, Dave Ross, Milligan and Street supplying the punch. But Cooper intercepted a forward to run 20 to Cobourg's 40-yard strip. Each side in turn threatened in the fourth as they battled it out on the ground and with hoofing exchanges. J Jamieson once intercepted a pass and later Orillia lost on downs on a fake kick and incomplete pass.

The Cobourg line worked well to halt plays and block kicks, and they cashed in on chances in a hard-fought fray. Cooper, Quigley, Connor, Jack Jamieson and Douglas caught the eye regularly with good work, as the whole team went well. White, Milligan, D. Ross and Bond were probably the pick of the losers. The latter all fought hard but didn't have the pay-off punch, and Cobourg had it once—which was the difference in the game. The teams.

Orillia— Flying wing, White; halves, Storey, Bond, D. Ross; quarter, Milligan; snap, Newark; insides, Cadwell, Boorer; middles, Brown, Gentile; outsides, Naismith, C. Cook; alternates, Russell, C. Clark, Leith, G. Ross, MacKenzie, Middleton, J. Cook, O'Brien, Street.

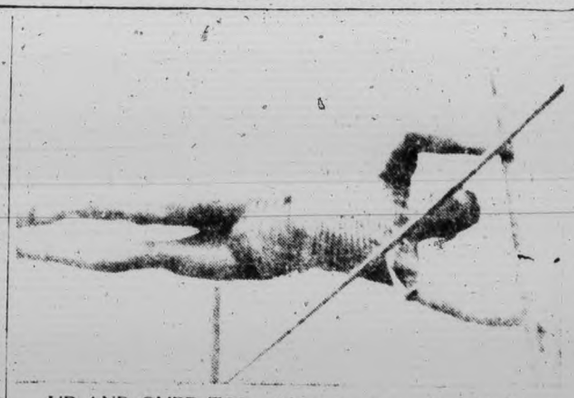
Cobourg—Flying wing, Quigley; halves, Connor, J. Jamieson, Currelly; quarter, Cooper; snap, Poynton; insides, E. Austin, Jarvis; middles, Brandwood, Holman; outsides, Ball, Douglas; alternates, Hoselton, Boyd, Smith, Irwin, Freeman, Butler, L. Austin, McGuire, W. Jamieson, Medhurst, Lees, Cann.

Referee, H. McBrien; umpire, J. Brunton; head linesman, J. Ferrier.

Tulsa Oilers Hand Dallas 5-3 Defeat

By The Associated Press

An average of an assist a game and a goal just about as often is keeping Tod Compeau on top in the United States Hockey League's scoring race.



Compeau picked up three assists Wednesday night to bring his season total to 16. That's the same number as the games he's played this year and with 11 goals gives him the league's top total of 27 points.

While Compeau was running up his scoring total last night his Dallas mates weren't so fortunate. Tulsa Oilers handed them a 5-3 defeat.

Dick Butler came through for the winners, scoring twice in the first period and coming through with his third goal in the final period.

Jack Giesebrecht sparked Houston to a 5-3 victory over Fort Worth in the league's only other game.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

The Intercounty Baseball League voted Wednesday to give the president — rather than the league executive—power to penalize any team or player for infraction of the league rules.

The league's annual meeting at Galt also voted to appoint a salaried non-voting secretary. The league secretary now receives an honorarium.

Keith Burgess, rookie wing of Omaha Knights of the United States Hockey League, entered a hospital Wednesday for an operation on his knee.

Team officials said Burgess had a growth on the knee as a result of an earlier injury. It has limited leg movement.

J. A. Broomfield of Galt and N. Bowes of Palmerston yesterday advanced into the final round of the Gore trophy event in Galt's early bird bonspiel.

Broomfield defeated W. R. Wheeler of Guelph 9-5 and Bowes swamped O. F. Hazelgrove of Wingham 17-2.

Bobby Jones, one-time emperor of golf, is reported in "good" condition at Atlanta's Emory University Hospital where he underwent an operation about three weeks ago.

Jones received an injury to the base of his neck, several years ago. The operation was to relieve pressure.

Jimmy Galbraith, former Montreal defenceman, signed Wednesday to play with Shawinigan Falls Cataracts of the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

A rugged rearguard, Galbraith was loaned to Dallas of the United States Hockey League earlier in the season. He played three games in that circuit before returning to Montreal of his own accord.

NHL Cellar Crowded Spot Leafs, Habs Take Beating

By The Canadian Press

It's crowded today in the National Hockey League basement with Toronto, Chicago and New York all unwilling tenants.

They moved in Wednesday night when Rangers tied Detroit 4-4, Boston beat Toronto 2-1 and Chicago upset Montreal 4-3.

Boston's win and Detroit's tie left Red Wings hanging precariously on to first place, one point ahead of Bruins who have two games in hand.

It was Grant Warwick night in Boston as Warwick got both Bruins goals to widen his lead in the league scoring. He now has 16 points for 10 games.

Rangers cut loose with a three-point barrage in the first four minutes of the second period to move ahead of Red Wings who fought back with two goals in the final frame.

Brawling Resumed

The brawling that started in Montreal between Canadiens and Black Hawks last week was resumed in Chicago Wednesday night, with Jim Conacher and Rip Riopelle featured in the main bout.

It was the fifth straight home win for Bruins. It came when Warwick batted the puck past Leaf goalie Turk Broda with four minutes left.

Harry Taylor, just up from the minors, set up a first-period goal for Max Bentley for Leafs only score.

Warwick got his second goal by deflecting in Milt Schmidt's long shot while Bill Barilko sat out his third penalty of the game.

Scores Twice

Right-winger Fernand Gauthier scored twice for the Red Wings with Jim Enio and George Gee connecting for the other two. For Rangers it was Tony Leswick, Edgar Laprade, Pentii Lund and Clint Albright.

Half of the 18 penalties thrown at Montreal and Chicago were called during the scoreless first period. Joe Carveth started the see-saw scoring battle with his second-period goal but Bill Mosienko tied it minutes later.

Hawks went ahead on the first Gaye Stewart's two goals, [illegible] again as Elmer Lach and Doug Harvey each went in for quick scores.

Trailing 3-2 at the start of the last period, Hawks tied it on Gus Bodnar's early goal and won on Stewart's second tally.

Maurice (the Rocket) Richard failed to hit the scoring column and skated off with a "no comment" when queried about remarks made by Coach Frank Boucher of New York Rangers. Boucher said in a New York interview that Richard couldn't be compared to old time hockey stars who "really earned their goals."

Joe Louis Thinks Bivins Tough

CLEVELAND, Nov. 18 (AP)—Heavyweight champion Joe Louis labels Jimmy Bivins the toughest opponent he has faced so far in his exhibition boxing tour.

"I don't know why he shouldn't be a contender if he gets serious about his training," Louis said in his dressing room Wednesday night after engaging in a six-round no-decision affair with the Cleveland negro.

"He threw two good right-hand punches and I knew I was hit, but they weren't hard enough to bother me," the champion added. "Anyone who fights him has to be very careful."

With both fighters using 12-ounce gloves instead of the regulation eight, Bivins opened a cut above Louis' left eye in the second round Joe received the wound originally Nov. 8 when he accidentally bumped heads with Johnny Shkor in an exhibition at Boston. The injury had not healed completely and the champion entered the ring with a small patch over it.

Bivins did most of the leading during the exhibition while Louis opened up only sporadically. He almost dropped Bivins with a right in the second when the two were in a neutral corner.

Sparks Flying As Athletic Group Meets

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 18.—(CP)— Delegates from various parts of Canada sat down today to what has been described as a three-day routine annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Association of Canada but the fuse for a first-class feud has already been lit.

The "routine" business to be discussed today and Friday covers various reports and resolutions, election of officers and decision on "outstanding-athlete" awards. The poor showing of Canada's athletes in the Olympic games at London this summer will be a major topic of the agenda.

The Canadian Olympic Association, headed by Sidney Dawes of Montreal, joins the gathering Saturday and it is here the fireworks are expected.

Sparks of the impending tangle flew last August when Dawes announced publicly that his organization, a committee set up by the A.A.U., should have its own charter, bylaws and officers. George C. Machum of Montreal, chairman of the A.A.U., replied Dawes was trying to "undermine" his organization and declared the Olympic official should resign.

"We look for a fight, but some delegates agree that the Olympic organization should be set apart from our Association," an A.A.U. delegate said before the opening meeting. "It should be interesting."

Award of the Norton H. Crowe trophy to the outstanding male athlete of the year, will be a highlight of the sessions.

Flying Dutchmen Battle Indians To A Tight 2-2 Overtime Tie

By The Canadian Press.

Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen came to within one point of overtaking the league-leading Hamilton Tigers Wednesday night as they battled to a 2-2 overtime tie against Stratford Indians in their senior Ontario Hockey Association game.

While the Dutchmen crowded Tigers 16 point total, the youthful Toronto Marlboros downed Hamilton 5-2 to pick up their fifth win in their last eight starts.

In other OHA games Wednesday night, Windsor Spitfire Juniors downed Barrie Flyers 5-3 to take sole possesion of second-place in the scoring race, while Guelph Biltmores went into a thirdplace tie by defeating Stratford Kroehlers 6-3. Guelph is tied with Barrie Flyers.

The Dutchmen, who have garnered seven wins and a tie in their 12 starts this season, had to overcome a 2-0 deficit in the third period.

Billy Flick scored for Stratford in the first stanza and George Blake counted for Indians in the second period.

Brings Them Even

Sparky Weiler and Don Bauer brought the Dutchmen even in the third frame when they each counted once within a minute of each other. Only one penalty was called, that in the first period to Weiler.

Toronto, trailing 2-0 at the end of the first period, poured in three goals in the second frame, and added two more in the last.

Brian Robinson counted for Hamilton early in the first period, when he beat Howie Harvey on a pass from Polly Miocinovich. Defenceman Carl Smelle added another for Hamilton with one minute left in the frame on Dillon Brady's rebound shot.

Ray Hannigan opened up the scoring for Marlies early in the second period when he lifted a shot over netminder Art Childs. Robertson got Toronto's second goal minutes later. Veteran defenceman Flash Hollett picked up his first goal of the season on a breakaway to give Marlboros a 3-2 margin.

Hannigan and Johnson each counted once for Toronto in the last period.

Guelph went one goal up in the first period with Lorne Ferguson scoring. Frank Bathgate put them ahead 2-0 minutes later before Roy Leckie answered for Stratford.

Bob Armstrong evened the count mid-way through the second period, but Ed Bolan put Guelph ahead. Bibber O'Hearn got the equalizer early in the third frame. Ron Plumb with two and Don Olberholtzer with a singleton clinched the game for Biltmores.

Pick Up Ninth

Windsor picked up their ninth season win in 10 starts. They took the lead early in the first period when Gerry Lavegene scored. Gerry Gordon drove back withtwo goals to give Barrie rie the lead.

Francis O'Grady, who paced Windsor with two goals, tied it up again, but Flyers came right back to take the edge when Sid McNabney scored before the end of the second period.

Lavergne, O'Grady and Doug McGinn each scored once in the final frame.

Has Identical Twins

JENKINS, Ky., Nov. 18. — Mrs. Dana Dixon gave birth to identical twins three days apart, a physician at city hospital said Wednesday. Mrs. Dixon and her sons were reported in excellent condition.

GIL STEPHENSON, left, and Bobby Jack Stuart, two army backs from West Point, who are on their way to better the ground-gaining records of Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis. The last two named, sometimes referred to as Mr. Inside-Mr. Outside, had gained a total of 1,662 yards during their record-breaking rampage. The total of the "S-Twins" might well extend that total, since army has one more game to play.

Riders' Coach Doesn't Expect Easy Victory

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 — (CP). — You would think with the betting odds 2-1 in favor of the Rough Riders, Coach Wally Masters would be all mellow with confidence that Riders will down the Hamilton Tigers easily in the Eastern Canada football final on Saturday. But he isn't. In a dressing-room rally, he told the Riders Wednesday night:

"This Tiger team is tough. We are going to have to go 60 minutes full out to stay in the ball game."

He then pulled the Riders out to the field to go through one of the hardest training grinds the Big Four champions had to sweat out this season.

The odds are in favor of the Riders all right, but Masters, with his eye to Frankie Filchock's abilities as playing coach points out some of the things the dopesters may have overlooked:

"No matter what any person tells you," he says, "these Hamilton players are sharp, well-drilled and well-coached."

He will go a little farther and predict the Bengals will put on one of their biggest passing displays of the season — and when it comes to passing with Filchock as the tosser, the Bengals already have shown their worth.

Lew Hayman, coach of the Montreal Alouettes, has said the Riders will win Saturday's tilt by at least two touchdowns. But Coach Masters starts figuring out the Bengals' passing display and then adds up some of the yardage gained by the Hamilton boys in recent games and wonders.

CHISOX CHIEF—Frank Lane, for the past two years president of the American association, tackles the job as general manager of the White Sox with his first task being to build a strong farm system. Lane ran Larry MacPhail's farm clubs during the latter's early regime with Yankees.

Cowboys Pack Bags For East

CALGARY, Nov. 18 — (CP.— Calgarys galloping cowboys packed their saddlebags to-day before heading eastward in quest of the Grey Cup and vengeance for a 37-year-old "slight.

The powerful Stampeders, the nwly-crownd football kings of Western Canada, leave by rail for Oakville, Ont., to-night. There they will set up training camp for the final week of the workouts before trying to hog-tie and brand either the Ottawa Rough Riders or Hamilton Tigers in the Dominion football final.

To old-time Calgary grid enthusiasts, selection of Toronto's Varsity Stadium as site of the November 27 fall grid classic is an omen auguring ill for the East's chances of retaining the coveted Grey Cup.

Just 37 years ago, another Calgary team—the Tigers— waited impatiently for a crack at Canada's top football award. They never got to it. To the horror of this footbills city, University of Toronto was declared Dominion football chainpions for 1911. The Canadian Rugby Union of that era had taken no action on a membership application from the Western body and the title remained in the East.

Mustangs Take 7 Out of 12 Places On All-Star Team

By WALLY IZSAK

TORONTO, Nov. 18 (CP). — University of Western Ontario Mustangs, who bucked their way through 27 games without a defeat before being tamed by Varsity last Saturday, captured seven of the 12 position on the 1948 Intercollegiate Rugby Football Union All-Star team.

Undisputed kings of the College gridiron range since 1939, the Mustangs placed three men less than last year on the dream team selected for The Canadian Press by football coaches and writers in the four Union cities. Ballotting is weighted to give equal voting strength to each Union city.

The team:

Flying Wing—Don McFarlane, Western.

Half—Jack Parry, Western.

Half—Bruce Cummings, Varsity.

Half (secondary). — Murray Hayes, McGill.

Quarter—Al Lenard, Queen's.

Snap—George Wearring, Western.

Inside—Bill Jarvie, Western.

Inside—Dave Copp and Ian Clark, Varsity (tied).

Middle—Fraser Mustard, Varsity.

Middle—Bill Ford, Western.

Outside—Fabe Curry, Western.

Outside—Bill Wardle, Western.

Parry, Cummings and Hayes were all unanimous choice, with each receiving the maximum 48 possible points. Lenard had 32 and McFarlane 21. All but Cummings had all-star ratings last year.

The choice of Don McFarlane and Jack Parry provides the team with two of the fastest men in Canada. Both were Olympic track entrants along with Don's brother, who dropped from the all-star squad from last year.

Rises Like Meteor

Toronto's sensational Bruce Cummings rose like a meteor to take over Bob's spot. Cummings is rated as almost on a par with Parry in passing, inferior in running but superior in kicking. He was second highest scorer in the league with 33 points, 11 behind Parry.

Lenard and Hayes are right at home in the classy company and can pass, kick and run with the best of them. Hayes is especially noted for his deadly defensive play and line smashing, while Lenard is just about the shrewdest play-caller in the circuit.

Varsity's Fraser Mustard received most support along the line with an almost-unanimous 36 points. The bruising 206-pound middle was Varsitys' top lineman all season. Rock-ribbed inside Bill Jarvie and six-foot-five ventre George Wearring, came next with 29 and 25 points respectively. Bill Ford of Western took the other inside spot with 18 points, while two rugged Blues — Dave Copp and Captain Ian Clark — tied for the remaining inside position with 18 points each.

Western's pass-snatching pair—Fabe Curry with 35 points and Bill Wardle with 29—took the outside berths. Both are around the six-foot mark and deadly tacklers.

Nothing Wasted In Quebec Pig Slaughtering

QUEBEC, Nov. 18.—(CP).—On Quebec's 135,000 farms this is the month of "les cochonailles" — pig slaughtering—and from Abitibi to Gaspe the familiar November pig-squealing chorus means good winter food for the generally large farm families of French Canada.

For children of rural Quebec, les cochonailles is a time of excitement with a whole ritual to watch from the time a stabbed pig is strung up by hind quarters to bleed until its scorched ears and shrivelled tail are crisp and ready to eat.

The Quebec pigs—like pigs in any other province — start to squeal the moment they are dragged from their pens. Until November and the killing season wanes one county's pigs can be heard in the next.

Blood caught in a pan when the pig is first strung up is poured into scrubbed tripe for blood pudding;

The pig's feet are served in a delicious "ragout" made with burned flour;

Upper legs, salted and cured, are served as ham;

Rib meat becomes salt pork for breakfast;

Simmered for hours, the head is used for head cheese, or served according to custom brought over from old France.

The Quebec housewife knows how to spice odds and ends of the pig and turn them into fine farm sausage. She also gets loin roasts and pork chops.

"Graisse de rotie" from roast fat makes an appetizing spread and a combination of fat and meat is cooked into chewy "cretons," eaten cold on bread between meals.

For Christmas and wedding parties, the pig provides fancy "galantines"—jellied meat dishes.

LIKE SOMETHING OUT OF THE GAS-LIT ERA, a coach made its appearance at the horse-and-buggy rank in Montreal recently. Montrealers, to whom horse-drawn vehicles are a familiar year-round sight, are doing a double-take when they see this ancient sample of the carriage makers' art. According to hackie Stanislas St. Aubin, the coach is nearly 100 years old. It is drawn by two black horses, "Prince" and "Doll," and makes three or four trips per day to the top of the mountain. Sixty-one-year-old St. Aubin, who has been driving horses around Montreal most of his life, said the buggy was built in Three Rivers, Que. The ornate side lamps, once lighted by candles, now hold bouquets of rather dilapidated artificial flowers. The four-passenger sedan's interior has tasseled curtain and black leather seats. The coachman's perch is above and outside and, to make the picture complete, a buggy whip holder is set on his right.

Palmer Rapids Man Wins Potato Crown At Royal

TORONTO, Nov. 18 — (CP).— Championships came thick and fast Wednesday at the Royal Winter Fair with the final judging of market steers, Ayrshires, Holsteins, potatoes, barley, oats, and other seeds.

Topping the list of livestock winners was the grand champion steer of the fair—Cannonball, a year old Aberdeen Angus steer owned by Loyd Mack of Rockwood, Ont. The winner was by the same sire as Lucky, which won last year's grand champion ship at the fair for the Rockwood farmer.

A Western steer owned by Ed Noad, of Olds, Alta., won the reserve grand championship, losing out to Cannonball in the final judging.

Three world championships in oats, barley and potatoes were awarded to two Westerners and one Ontario farmer. "World King" awards were initiated at the fair last year in wheat, barley and oats, and this year rye and potato crowns were added.

The two grain kings are Louis Robbins of Laura, Sask., who showed Hanchen barley, and John Boulton of Abee, Alta., with Larain oats. They join a third grain champion, John Ailson, who was crowned wheat king on Tuesday. Only one world award, in rye, has yet to be decided.

Potato King

Potato king was Arthur Budarick, of Ralmer Rapids, Ont., whose Katahdin potatoes won out over the netted Gem potatoes of Mrs. Grace Paul, of Newgate, B.C., who was named reserve world champion.

A capacity crowd of approximately 8,000 at the Horse Show last night saw Hauay, a Mexican gelding jumper ridden by Capt. Ruben Uriza of the Mexican military jumping team, win the second successive prize for his Olympic-champion team.

Grand championship Holstein and Ayrshire bulls were also named.

Top Holstein bull at the Fair was Chip of Nettie and Aaggie, a nine-year-old bull shown by Franjo Farms, of Hopkins, Minn. At 3,300 pounds, he was the biggest animal in the show. The massive bull reversed a defeat of last year's Fair to repeat his triumph won in 1946.

The Fair's grand champion Ayrshire bull was Smithson Ivanhoe, owned by J. H. Black, of Lachute, Que.

Reserve grand championship for Holstein bulls went to Sovereign Supreme, entered by J. M. Fraser of Streetsville, Ont.

Sir Burton's General, owned by Rupert McIntyre and Sons, of French, Ont., was chosen reserve grand champion Ayrshire bull and reserve senior champion.

Ten of the main seed championships were decided yesterday. They were: Corn, G. Tellier, St. Joachim, Ont.; clover, R. Bernard, Bourget, Ont.; grasses, MacMillan Bros., Dalkeith, Ont.; peas, J. H. Frisby, Markham, Ont., and O. Timmins, Pakenham, Ont.; alfalfa, Sam Horton, White Fox, Sask.; flax, Louis Wendell, Neudorf, Sask; rye, R. Wennerstrom, Camrose, Alta.; soybeans, R. Tuite, Woodslee, Ont., and beans, Angus D. McLean, Parkhill, Ont.

Choked To Death By Cord On Kimona

TORONTO, Nov. 18.—(CP). — Four-month-old Paula Kimmerly last night was choked to death accidentally by the cord of a dressing gown.

The child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kimmerly, left her in care of a baby sitter while they went to a movie. The baby sitter told police that when she went to look at the infant she found her blue in the face and with the cord wound tightly about her neck. Firemen worked over the baby with inhalators without success.

Coroner Dr. C. N. Mooney said death was due to accidental suffocation. The squirming of the infant caused the cord to twine around her neck.

Regiment Plans Muster Parade At Armories

An important night for the ranks of the 50th HAA Regiment RCA, Peterborough's Reserve Force unit is scheduled for tonight when the annual muster parade of all ranks will commence at 7:45 o'clock. Pay department officials from Eastern Ontario Area Headquarters will be in attendance.

Muster parade, which is an ancient army custom derived from the days when mercenaries were employed by barons on behalf of the King, is the parade which accounts for all personnel and those not present or accounted for do not receive their annual stipend. Such is the case in today's Canadian Army.

Tonight's parade will also see continuation of the rehearsals for the Honor Guard for the Governor-General's visit next week as well as continued recruiting. The regiment has inducted more than 60 recruits to date this season, and the recruiting stream is continuing at a steady pace.

Find 'Expert' On Murder Gets 20 Years For Robbery

NEW YORK, Nov 18.—(AP).— The author of a book titled "How to Commit Murder and Get Away With It" was sentenced to 20 years to life today—but for robbery.

Dapper Daniel Francis Ahearn, 45, shouted: "I thought Hitler was dead" after he was sentenced. Judge Owen W. Bohan imposed the sentence on Ahearn as a fourth offender.

The writer was convicted Oct. 27 of second degree robbery in connection with the beating of a 26-year-old department store buyer. Ahearn was accused of taking $2,900 in jewelry and $200 in cash fro...

Ahearn told the court: "I never assaulted or robbed any woman, but was kind to them. My trial was held in Nazi fashion. I feel that the court insulted itself in allowing a book to hang me."

"How to Commit Murder and Get Away With It" describes how to get away with everything up to and including murder. In 1934 Ahearn said he was still receiving royalties from the book, which had been published in seven languages.

6,000 Houses Built In Sept.

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 — (CP) — More than 6,000 new homes were completed in Canada during September.

The Bureau of Statistics Wednesday placed the number of new units at 6,667, bringing the total for the nine months ended Sept. 30 to 50,328. Starts were made on 10,651 units during September and the total number under construction at the month-end was 63,656.

Since April, starts have exceeded completions every month and the number of units under construction has increased by more than 21,000 from Jan. 1 to Sept. 30, distributed over all regions. The Prairies, with construction more than doubled in the nine months, showed the greatest increase.

The Bureau said it is expected larger numbers will be completed in the last three months of this year and that the total for 1948 will reach 80,000. In 1947 the number of completed dwelling units totalled 72,300, excluding conversions.

The Bureau estimate that 27 per cent of the units completed were for rental purposes, with the remained being owner-occupied.

Hamilton Unworried About Power Trouble

HAMILTON, Nov. 18—(CP)—In a province beset by dim-outs and power blackouts, the city of Hamilton stands out as an oasis of light.

Not a switch has been pulled, an industry interrupted, nor a home blacked out during Ontario's current electricity shortage. A survey showed Wednesday that thanks to conservation methods the city has stayed within its daily power quota.

Factors helping the situation are the high concentration of heavy industry, the fact almost every industry is working weekends or during non-critical weekday hours, an aggressive conservation program and the fact that the city's biggest industry (the Steel Company of Canada) generates its own power.

Ex-Service Men In New Zealand At Loggerheads

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z., Nov. 18 — (CP)—Rivalry between two ex-service men's organizations in New Zealand has reached a head over their attitude to men returning from occupation duty abroad.

The larger body is excluding men whose overseas service has all been post-war, but is offering them every assistance in forming their own association, while the smaller body is welcoming occupation troops as full members on the same basis as men who saw active service during the war.

Since the First World War the New Zealand Returned Services Association has been a powerful organization in New Zealand. Its constant fight for veterans' rights and its long experience in dealing with pensions and other matters have caused it to be closely consulted by the government on ex-service men's affairs.

Fear that it might continue to be administered and veterans of the First World War led to some prejudice against it when men began returning from the Second World War but that fear has not been borne out by experience. In any case many new veterans were glad to avail themselves of the association's help based on years of dealing with similar cases. Today the danger is if anything reversed as more than half the association's 121,000 members are men from the Second World War.

Divided on Conscription

However, a rival body formed entirely of men from the Second World War was formed under the title 2 NZEF Association (2nd New Zealand Expeditionary Force). It has pursued a vigorous and highly vocal policy, strongly criticizing the older body and its leaders on many matters. One fundamental difference is that while the Returned Services Association urges the introduction of post-war conscription for military service, the 2 NZEF Association opposed compulsory military training.

The 2 NZEF Association has a membership of only about 12,000, however, and its members would accession of several thousand men now returning with the withdrawal of New Zealand's occupation force from Japan, few of whom saw active service during the war. It has termed the exclusion of these men by the older body "a studied slight directed at men, who through no fault of their own, were too young to serve in combat."

The Returned Services Association has excluded them under its constitution which provides for membership only of men and women who were on active service overseas during hostilities. As a counter-move it has offered to pay the entire cost of the first annual convention if the occupation troops form their own organization.

"Splendid results with Gro-Pup"

"See what splendid results we obtain feeding Gro-Pup in our Kennels," writes Blanche B. Walters, of Ottawa. "Wherever these puppies of Champion Lili Pons of Huntley and Ch. Caldene Jericho are shown they are admired for their magnificent coats, good bones and general fitness."

WHY BREEDERS FEED GRO-PUP. Breeders know it is not safe to try to raise dogs on "table scraps." Dogs need a properly balanced diet that gives them everything they must have for strong bones, sound teeth, and a beautiful coat. That's why breeders feed Gro-Pup.

GRO-PUP IS A PROPERLY BALANCED DIET to keep dogs of all ages, sizes and breeds at their natural best. Not only do dogs like it but it contains every vitamin and mineral they are known to need.

—feed your dog as famous kennels do . . .

GRO-PUP SAVES YOU MONEY. It costs only 5¢ a day to feed a good-sized dog. It is all dry solid food. That is why Gro-Pup is so economical. A 2-lb. package actually contains as much solid food (dry weight) as your dog could get in five 1-lb. cans of ordinary dog food.

Feed your dog as famous kennels do. Buy him Gro-Pup. Your grocer has it in both cubes and meal form—for variety.

Three Churches Unite For Memorial Service

WESTWOOD, Nov. 18—(ENS)—A Remembrance Day service was held in Westwood Town Hall for Asphodel Township on Sunday afternoon following regular services in the three local churches. Rev. N. Cole of the United Church was the master of ceremonies and announced the program and offered prayer. Singing of hymns was led by Mr. Tomlinson of the Presbyterian Church, and he read a Scripture passage. An address was delivered by Mr. Richard of the Anglican Church.

Following the service, the procession moved to the Cenotaph, where the Province of Ontario wreath was placed by Mrs. Thomas Stevenson and the Women's Institute wreath by Mrs. Audrey Wood. The names of those who lost their lives in the First and Second World Wars were read by Mr. Tomlinson, and a moment of silence observed.

Some Stores Have Cut Power Costs In Half

The Utilities Commission is only mildly noting that its income is being clipped by all the campaign of power saving. In the commercial bracket some stores are down 60 per cent in their light bills. Quite a number of them have cut their power cost in two.

And there is nothing that can be done about it. Eventual effect of loss of revenue usually has to be reckoned with. So far the Commission has been reading the accounting figures which Howard Clegg places before them.

WE'RE NOT DRILLING any policemen—anyway, we don't have enough policemen to drill, is the general gist of Russian replies to western powers' questions on the reported great increase of Red-zone police power, and rumored "military drilling" of the police as militia. However, this photograph obtained at great personal risk by Allyn Baum, INP cameraman in Berlin, partly discredits the Russian disclaimers. The photograph, taken through a window of a blocked-off and remote area of the Russian sector of Berlin, shows Berlin police terminating a military drill with a march off to the auditorium (background), where they were lectured on the "blessings of the Russian occupation."

Village Needs $100 To Pay For Inhalator

Chief Allan H. Clark of the Lakefield fire department reports an outstanding liability of approximately $100 for the inhalator that was bought early in the summer.

It was bought to supply a need of life-saving equipment in cases of emergency and rescue work and was placed in the care of the fire department.

"It is a complete machine, arranged to serve two patients at once, and is for the use of the whole community," Chief Clark said. "It was turned over to the fire department as the only emergency agency in the village with trained operators available day and night."

John McKercher is treasurer of the fund. Chief Clark said the unpaid balance was only a small amount that was being overlooked. Citizens would probably be glad to contribute to the closing of the account in the spirit of helping in a community enterprise.

THIS GROUP OF 136 RUSSIAN men, women and children left Communist-dominated Sinkiang province in China in December, 1946, and has just arrived in Shanghai. As this photo was made, the arrivals were being fed by the International Refugee Organization. Members of the group showed great reluctance to talk and beyond saying they "did not like it," refused to state their reasons for leaving Sinkiang. However, most of the refugees had previously fled from the Soviet Union and settled in Sinkiang, but the spread of Communism engulfed them there, too, and they just moved again.

Mrs. John Stuart In Canada Eludes Newsmen

HALIFAX, Nov. 18—(CP)—Mrs. John Stuart, 57, hurrying from England to aid her son William, charged in Kitchener with public mischief, eluded reporters after her arrival here Wednesday on the veteran liner Aquitania.

Mrs. Stuart could not be found in her cabin and failed to answer calls over the Aquitania's public address system. A roommate said Mrs. Stuart told her she would leave Halifax on the first train available after she cleared customs. She was reported to have passed through customs shortly before noon Wednesday.

Railway officials said Mrs. Stuart probably left Halifax at 3:10 p.m. or 4:30 p.m. AST on a Montreal train.

A Canadian citizen, Mrs. Stuart is bound for Galt, where her husband lives. She had been visiting in England.

The public mischief charge was laid against her son in connection with the disappearance last Sept. 13 of Mrs. Emma Pohl, 37-year-old housewife. Mrs Pohl's decomposed body was found near Plattsville, Ont., Oct. 25. Mrs. Stuart told friends in London two weeks ago she had what she believed was "vital" evidence in the case.

Englishman Ashamed Of Town's Rudeness

BRADFORD, Yorkshire, England, Nov. 18 — (CP). — Fred Hyde, 63, is a polite man himself. He calls his boss "Sir," raises his hat to clergymen and womenfolk including his granddaughter.

So he was more than a little piqued when a visitor to his town told him the population was rude. But Hyde's one-man check on the town's manners disclosed that of every 100 men only 20 helped their wives or girl friends off the trams or gave up their seats to women, only 15 raised their hats to women, and only 40 helped their wives to carry shopping.

"And—I'm ashamed — some of the offenders were my friends," Hyde said.

Other things he noticed were men eating in restaurants with their hats on and large-scale queue-jumping by men.

On this he commented, however, that "men may be stronger, but women are more cunning."

Affects Jurymen

MONTREAL —(CP)—Because money isn't worth as much at it was a few years ago, absent jurymen were warned by Chief Justice O. S. Tyndale that they might be fined $20 instead of the usual $10.

EYES FOR TWO—According to blind George Cohen, 34, Montrealers don't realize that this German boxer is a seeing-eye dog. Ever since the Ladies Auxiliary of Mt. Sinai gave George the dog he has been having trouble. Bambi, who was born on March 5, 1947, has been faithful to her master as much as she can, but he still gets jostled, George says. People often stop to pet the animal during their walks.

Gallaugher beat out 32 leading potato growers for the trophy. His crop of 733 bushels to the acre was second best in yield and was adjudged the best on cooking quality.

May Halt Night Power Cuts

TORONTO, Nov. 18 — (CP) — Two cheering notes sounded for Hydro users in this power-short city of 700,000 today. Hydro consumers were told they may not have to pay the 83 cents minimum rate each month and also that there was a possiblity of halting night power cuts.

City council was told Wednesday by Bert Merson, vice-chairman of the Toronto Hydro Commission, that he has appealed to the Ontario Commission for permission to eliminate the minimum bill.

Wednesday night Mayor Hiram McCallum said he will urged the local commission to eliminate evening power blackouts next week because the downtown area then will start power cuts. The area previously was not cut because of technical difficulties.

Mr. Merson in the council session was replying to Alderman Allan Lamport who declared: "With these Hydro blackouts, restrictions and voluntary savings, many people aren't using that much power. It is not right that they should have to pay for something they aren't getting."

Mr. Merson said the Toronto Commission was ready to remove the minimum charge as soon as permission was received. He was unable to say how many consumers would be affected.

Fewer Debtors Jailed In U.K.

LONDON, Nov. 18—(CP) — Imprisonment for debt in Britain is not a thing of the past but it is steadily decreasing.

Last available figures—those for 1946— showed that 3,334 debtors were in prisons up and down the country at that time but comparisons with past figures disclose a drop of about 75 per cent in the number of imprisonments for debt over the last 35 years.

Justice authorities claim today that no one is sent to prison in Britain for inability to pay debts unless he is proven a wilful defaulter.

Commital to prison automatically after failure to comply with an order made by a court of summary jurisdiction no longer takes place. The debtor now has to come again before the court which hears any explanation he has to offer. This has greatly reduced the number sent to prison.

"The abolition of automatic committal does not apply to county courts, which deal with business debts but the commitals from county courts also have fallen considerably," says a report of of the Howard League for Penal Reform.

"They were mostly in respect of hire purchase debts and this hire system no longer functions as it did."

Most common cause of committal for debt is non-payment under order for wife maintenance. A total of 2,354 in prison in 1946 were there for non-support while those imprisoned for non-payment of income tax totalled only nine and defaulting ratepayers 144.

Rambling Reporter

HOW DRY HE WAS

The big (three meter spaces) brewery van was parked on Water St. Tuesday night. About 11:20, a citizen, ambling home after a happy evening, regarded the long house-like vehicle with bleery eyes. He politely knocked at one door, then the next. No answer. Patiently he explained the idea to the policeman who inquired about the queer performance. The imbiber thought maybe this was a new feature of the cocktail bar setup. Perhaps, he asked hopefully, the government was sending around portable bars to the smaller cities like Peterborough, to test public favor on the question? A splendid move, he thought.—RB.

PROMOTION DEPARTMENT

Police Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, ascended the ladder of judicial positions at a rapid rate today. A voluble and excited lady accused in a case began her story with the customary "Your Worship" to him. A few minutes later, he found himself being addressed a rank higher as evidence was punctuated with "Your Honor." Final step of distinction came only a moment later, when Magistrate Philp went right to the Supreme Court. This time it was "My Lord." Just for good measure, the witness bestowed a judgeship upon Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry with a deferential "Your honor."—RB.

WISHFUL HUNTER

Reporters get the darndest leads to stories but when one is all cut and dried the writing of facts is comparatively simple. Take the case of Babe Fontaine, restaurateur of the Press; he requested the photographer to be at his restaurant at precisely 5:30 p.m. to get a picture of a 200-pound, six-point buck that he was bringing in from west of the Oregon Trail on Wednesday afternoon. It would bear tag No. 92940. What could be easier than this? There was only one catch in the whole thing. Confident Babe was going out to shoot one between 4:30 and 5:30, he hoped. We are beginning to wonder whether it will be worthwhile to sit by the telephone all afternoon, just in case, or scrap the idea altogether.—N.

Jilted Lover Turns Into Public Nuisance

BIRMINGHAM, England, Nov. 18—(CP). — After his girl friend broke off their engagement because he worked on a night shift, Frank Ayres, 22, was said to have turned "bbitter towards all women."

He was jailed for 2 months on a charge of pestering telephone girls with indecent calls. Ayres offered in Police Court to apologize to each of the telephoned girls personally, but the magistrate would not agree.

46 Years "Hello Girl"

CYMMER, Glamorganshire, Wales (CP)—Believed to be Britain's oldest telephone operator, Mrs. Margaret Bale, 85, who has been on the job 46 years, has no intention of retiring. "There has never been one complaint against my work," she said with pride.

WHAT'S COOKIN'?—This is butchery as it shouldn't be done. Cleaver-wielding Lt. J. R. Pearson of St. Thomas, just couldn't make any headwayzy following the book of rules. In this Army photo, Capt. S. C. Way of Winnipeg grits his teeth and hangs on for dear life as Lt. Pearson administers the coup de grace. They are two of 13 officers who have been attending an eight-week course at Camp Borden to acquaint catering officers with the complete story of feeding the Canadian Army.

Better Catering In Army Is Aim of Canadian School

CAMP BORDEN, Ont., Nov. 18 (CP).—When commissioned officers serve Christmas dinner to the men under their command next month, it will merely be an old tradition. But when a group of officers takes over the menial chores of a cookhouse, it's news.

That's exactly what happened during one phase of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps' catering officers' course which has just concluded here.

Designed to give practical experience to catering officers in each of the five army commands, the eight-week course saw 13 officers, including four nursing sister dietitians from military hospials, and one staff sergeant, peeling potatoes and scrubbing floors.

The course had a minimum of lectures and a maximum of practical work under conditions familiar to any army cook. The recult, the army feels, will be better eating for the average Canadian soldier.

Highlight of the course came during one week when the student officers prepared, cooked and served all the meals for 200 other ranks from the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers school and the 23rd Brigade Company, RCASC, who are stationed at Camp Borden.

Officers Serve Meal

Clad in cookhouse whites, the officers found themselves dishing up steaming meals to long lines of hungry troops. Neither the officers nor the nurses escaped kitchen fatigues such as pot-washing and scrubbing floors.

Instructors for the course were the chief instructor from the RCASC School of Cookery, Capt. C. D. (Tex) Hazard; staff Capt. Jack Sinden and one officer and three enlisted men from the United States army who instructed in the latest methods and procedures of U.S. army cooking.

Maj. K. Hatk, who commanded the U.S. instructional team, was impressed with Canadian cookhouse methods.

"Your ideas and films on nutrition are the best I have ever run across," he commented, "and might well be used by the US army. Your meat-cutting, too, far excels that of ours . . . there is little waste in the methods used by Canadian army butchers."

Attending the course were: Lieut. C. L. Thurber, Halifax; Lieut. L. F. Jones, Halifax; Lieut. W. M. Therrien, Montreal; Lieut. A. E. Tilley, Ottawa; Lieut. J. R. W. Hider, London, Ont.; Capt. S. C Way, Winnipeg; Lieut. J. R. Pearson, St. Thomas, Ont.; Capt. R. W. Lockwood, Calgary; Capt. E. B. Robertson, Edmonton, and Staff Sgt. F. Dann, Vancouver.

The four dietitians and their army posts were Lieutenants (Nursing Sisters); Janet E. Keay, St. Andrew's-by-the-Sea, N.B.; Montreal Military Hospital; E. E. S. Wright, Port Hope, Ont., Toronto Hilitary Hospital; Marjorie Willcox, Calgary, Shilo Military Hospital, and Constance E. Pirie, St. Anne de Bellevue, Que., Calgary Military Hospital.

Rev. E. C. Moore Withdraws

Rev. E. C. Moore, rector of St. George's Anglican Church announced today he had bowed to the wishes of his parishioners and decided to withdraw his name from the list of candidates for the City Council.

Mr. Moore said several parishioners had asked him to withdraw in view of the great burden of parish work facing him this year. This work is increased with the establishing of St. Alban's Mission in the south end of the city.

"At the time I accepted, and it was on short notice, I was influenced by a strong desire to give public service, particularly in the cultural and educational development of our community, with special emphasis on the welfare of the young people. I deeply appreciate the honor paid me by people I have never met, and perhaps at a later date when the parish duties are less onerous, I will reconsider, but this year I am withdrawing my name.

500 Visits Made By VON Unit

Peterborough branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses made 500 visits during the month of October according to the report of nurse-in-charge, Mary Ross, at Board meeting held on Wednesday afternoon. President J. E. Girven was in the chair. Miss Ross told Board members that 76 new cases had been added during the month and 165 patients were under the care of the VON.

Nine student nurses observed 133 visits in the course of regular VON home calls. Each student is required to write a brief summary of her observations from what she had seen.

Both Mr. Girven and Miss Ross attended sessions of the 29th annual meeting of the Health League of Canada on Nov. 4, 5 and 6. Miss Ross told of the talk given by Dr. Wallace Graham, president of Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society on "Arithritis—the Great Crippler." An outline of work in Mental Hygiene in the Community was reported on by Mr. Girven.

A discussion by Board members, after listening to these talks, resulted in a committee being named for the purpose of drafting resolutions. It will be concerned with the development of facilities for treatment of district patients suffering from arthritis and for the establishment of more adequate mental health services.

The resignation of staff nurse (Mrs.) Marion Webster was accepted with regret. Mrs. Webster has accepted a post with the Ontario Hospital in Kingston.

Mr. Girven was appointed VON representative to the Peterborough branch of the Community Chest for the coming season.

Ald. Douglas Miller Accepts New Post

Ald. Gordon Armstrong informed The Examiner today that Ald. Douglas Miller was resigning from Canadian General Electric Company to join the Armstrong Lumber Company as outside salesman in this city and district. Transfer of engagement takes effect December 1.

Ald. Miller has already had a broad experience in one phase or other of the lumbering business. He is giving up an attractive position in the woodworking department of CGE. Prior to the war he was in charge of the planing mill and woodworking section of Peterborough Canoe Company. He has built seven or eight houses around town and supervised the work at Miller lacrosse bowl.

During the war Ald. Miller was with the RCAF. He has many friends in Peterborough and around the district who will wish him well in his joining up with the lumber company headed by Ald. Gordon Armstrong. It already has a branch office in Port Hope.

Want Water Service

Petition of A. E. Simmons and seven other property owners in the MacFarlane-Ludgate streets section of Ashburnham asked Utilities Commission for water service. This work has to be laid over until spring.

Commission planned to lay a 12-inch main across the river at Argyle St. to increase water pressure in Ashburnham, but it has to be postponed until the new year. In the meantime U.C. policy is not to extend the water service in Ashburnham until the main is projected. Besides, it was said that sewers have not been laid on the streets from which the petition has come.

Two Rescued Recovering; Still Seek Body

Principals in the uuusual rescue of two people at Rice Lake last Saturday afternoon, Clarence Mau, 58-year-old tourist from Buffalo, and Brenton Dawson, 22, Millbrook will be recommended for the Royal Life Saving Society medal and also for the Dow Award.

The rescue of Dawson and Miss Mary Seeney, student nurse, was effected by Mau, after Dawson had clung to an upturned boat for more than three hours holding the unconscious body of Fred Hickey, 41-year-old draftsman. Hickey lost his life and his body has not been recovered. Miss Seeney was pushed on top of the boat by Dawson and Hickey, and was unconscious when Mau arrived and rescued both her and Dawson.

Notice of the recommendations for recognition of the prompt work of Mau, and the courage of Dawson was made known today by Douglas Vaisey, executive secretary of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Vaisey said the Jaycees would compile all information in connection with the rescue and would file the data with the Royal Life Saving Society at Hamilton and the Dow Company at Montreal.

Will Investigate

"In cases like this any recognized body or individual may make the recommendation which is subject to investigation by the two agencies, before any award is made" Mr. Vaisey said.

He added that "the feat of Dawson in clinging to that boat in icy water, holding his pal above water after Hickey had collapsed, and his presence of mind in getting Miss Seeney on top of the boat is a rare example of bulldog courage and strength. How he kept from becoming numb from the cold is beyond me. Mr. Mau is a semi-invalid, and he braved the rough waters of the lake in his 16-foot skiff, pulled Miss Seeney into his boat, then helped Dawson out of the water. He had not complete use of his right arm, and showed courage and ingenuity in the rescue. It is highly regrettable that Mr. Hickey's body has not been recovered, but on the other hand I feel certain that if Mau had not heard the calls for help and answered them, it would have been a triple tragedy and not a single one."

A phone call to Millbrook today to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Dawson brought the good news that Brenton Dawson was making a good recovery. His cold is responding to treatment, but he is in a highly nervous condition as a result of the terrifying experience. At Civic Hospital Miss Seeney is reported well on the way to complete recovery.

Search for the body of Hickey is continuing by employees of the CGE Company who have been assigned the work by Company officials. They are taken to and from the lake in cars and their dinners are delivered to them. Rough water and the fact that exact location of the tragedy is not known, are hampering the work of the dragging crews.

Over Power Quota Two Days In Row

Peterborough has run two days over the power quota, not seriously, and in fact repeating the figures of last week.

The city's power total Wednesday was 230,000 kwh. against the quota of 229,700; that means only 300 kwh excess. Tuesday was 234,000 and Monday 190,000;: total 654,000; average for the three days 218,000 kwh.

Last Wednesday the local power use was 234,000 kwh, Tuesday 234,000 and Monday 190,000; age last week was 216,400 kwh.

MAURICE E. KETCHESON

M. E. Ketcheson Favors Ward System

Maurice E. Ketcheson, 378 Queen St., will be a candidate for city council. He has been advocating the return to the ward system, and he believes that he can get more attention for his cause by seeking election.

"I have given serious thought to the general and ward systems," Mr. Ketcheson said today, "and I will do what lies in my power to have the change made to the ward system. Until this is accomplished the council should furnish accommodation for a citizens meeting once or twice a month to express their views on matters directly affecting our city administration. With several representatives appointed from each ward they could draw up a program and present to the council the views and wishes of the citizens."

Mr. Ketcheson says: "Why have we got wards if we are not going to use them? Citizens who long ago laid the city out in wards must have assumed that Peterborough would be using the ward system. But we are not. When are we going to start?"

"If I am elected I will ask for an investigation as to why certain bylaws have been broken and demand more strict observance of the traffic laws."

I'd like a thorough investigation into why the Memorial Centre has not been built.

I would like to see some sort of a safety device half way between George and Aylmer Sts. for the use of pedestrians; also a depot where articles not being used by citizens may be left and given to old age pensioners or persons in need. I do not favor large building undertakings at certain figures and then be told later that several thousand more dollars are required to finish the job."

Mr. Ketcheson is widely known in the city, is always good humored in his projections of ideas, and is wrapped up in the ward system idea.

"A lot of people have come into Peterborough. Are you going to get them better acquainted with their own ward and its people rather than get to know the whole city? That is the way I see it. You stir up local interest. People know the neighborhood problems better than they know the problems of the whole city. I think it is the simplest form of what we know as representative government. Everybody will agree, I think, that it would not do any harm, and I feel it might do a lot of good."

Big Santa Claus Parade Starts At 10:30 Tuesday To Have 14 Huge Floats

Route of the Santa Claus parade to be held on the morning of Nov. 23 has been announced. It will begin and end at the Armouries after passing along the main streets in the downtown area. The parade, consisting of 14 floats depicting nursery-rhyme favorites, will start at 10.30 a.m. and will go along McDonnel St. to George St., and then south to King St., west on King to Aylmer St. and then north to Charlotte, east on Charlotte as far as George, north to Hunter and west to Aylmer St. and finally up Aylmer to the Armouries.

James Fraser, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said that arrangements have been made with the city police to ban car parking on the route until the parade is over.

By the time the parade has completed this winding course it is believed that every child in the Peterborough district will have had an opportunity to see it.

Public schools, Separate schools and County schools have agreed to excuse their pupils from classes at 10 a.m. The children will then have an opportunity to take up a favorite position on the route and see Santa Claus coming to town.

Marching beside the floats will be 100 secondary school students —75 from PCVS and 25 from St. Peter's—dressed in clown suits.

Both the CGE Pipe Band and the Peterborough Citizens' Band will march in the parade and provide the music.

Clifford Curtis, agricultural implement dealer, has offered the services of eight tractors to tow the floats which have no motor attached.

The parade is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, the Peterborough Business Men's Association and other businessmen.

LADY WITH A LANTERN

Toronto, the home of hydro, Sir Adam Beck, and public ownership, has dropped to a new low in popularity. No longer can women visit this great city, without fear. Spectators at the CPR station watched in amazement as a woman carrying an electric hand lantern boarded the CPR train for Toronto at Peterborough this week. Why the lantern? She didn't intend to get caught on Toronto's dimly lighted streets during the blackout—and she was just staying overnight.—McG.

Air Pollution Costs Britain Thousands Of Dollars Annually

LONDON, Nov. 18 (Reuters)—A cleaner, healthier, Britain under a smokeless sky is possible within 10 years if government and public co-operate with a scheme for smokeless zones.

This statement was made by Lt.-Col. A. J. Cousin, an official of the Smoke Abatement Society. With the assistance of 300 local authorities representing more than half the population, this society has been fighting a slow battle against smoke. The society says smoke costs Britain between $200,000 and $400,000 a year.

The society sees the gradual fulfilment of their dream in sight if Parliament pushes legislation for the introduction of central smokeless zones in all cities and towns.

Through the society's efforts the central square mile of Manchester is the country's first smokeless zone where 1,553 premises, including 137 factories, are prohibited from burning raw fuel. If smoke is seen emitting from any chimney, its owner is liable to a fine not exceeding £10 ($40) and a daily penalty for continuance of the nuisance.

In sharp contrast is the London district of Fulham. A continuous deluge of black, gritty dust pours down from the great chimneys of Fulham power station into the streets and houses below. It has done so ever since the war stopped the special machines which washed the smoke before it left the chimneys. It has sifted through 20,000 windows into food, carpets, curtains, making the housewife's life a misery.

Cripps Makes Concession

Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the Exchequer, at first refused Fulham's request for a grit-sifting plant because of the steel shortage, but recently he granted permission for the purchase of 1,200 tons of steel to build one after protest meetings by citizens.

The society not only desires to clean up London, where between 300 and 500 tons of smoke dirt falls each year, but also Edinburg, Glasgow, the Potteries area in Staffordshire, and Sheffield with a rain of grime amounting to 600 tons annually. The Scottish capital is in a valley and more often than not its famous castle is obscured by smoke.

Industry is not the only source of worry for the society. A great problem rests in the ordinary householder. Traditionally every Briton cherishes the open grate fire with its wasteful coal, cannot be induced to sit before an efficient smokeless fuel fire, and despises central heating.

Cousin said, "Before the fuel crisis of two winters ago we were considered a bunch of cranks, but since we pointed out at that time that 80,000 tons of coal a year—the output of 300 miners—could be saved if it were used efficiently, the government has been listening to us."

The society now estimates that 3,000,000 tons of coal are wasted in smoke every year and that damage to property is becoming astronomically high.

Herbert Morrison, lord president of the Council, estimated that atmospheric pollution costs Britain $250,000 a year.

FOR SIMPLE SORE THROAT YOU CAN'T BEAT BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE

UNLIKE MOST LARGE CITIES in Ontario, Hamilton has averted hydro cutoffs by an intensive power conservation program. Here a store is being checked to see that the light per square foot of store space does not exceed the restrictions. Measuring the floor space are Gordon Smith, hydro inspector, and J. S. Brunton, one of a group of commissionaires engaged in store patrols. D. A. Robbins (middle), managing secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, checks the figures. Work is under the direction of the Chamber.

Port Hope Seeks New Policeman

PORT HOPE, Nov. 18—Meeting in special session Monday night the town council put in writing the dismissal of Sergeant Bert Warren from the Port Hope police force, and passed a resolution to authorize the Police committee to advertise for a policeman.

Town Solicitor H. R. S. Ryan, who also is counsel for Sergeant Bert Warren, who is charged with the theft of gasoline from a local taxi company between September 1 and November 11, pointed out to members that constables of the local police force were hired by bylaw and therefore had to be fired by bylaw. He suggested that a bylaw to amend bylaw No. 1802, deleting the words, "Police Sergeant Albert H. Warren, January 1, 1947," be passed in open council.

Mr. Ryan further declared that the chief of police could suspend him, but no dismiss him, to which Mayor Jex replied, "The council verbally did dismiss him. The effect is the same."

Freight and passengers are now being diverted through Halifax where ships, originally scheduled for New York, are now discharging and taking on cargos.

Sickness Takes Lives Of 30 Mennonites In Paraguay

WINNIPEG, Nov. 18.—(CP).—Sickness was reported Wednesday to have killed more than 30 members of the Mennonite group of 1,700 which went from Western Canada to Paraguay last summer.

B. B. Dubienski, Winnipeg lawyer who acted as legal counsel for the Mennonites and who accompanied them on the trip to South America, said he had been told of the deaths in a letter from one of the band. The writer since had returned to Manitoba with other Mennonites.

Mr. Dubienski said the letter had said 30 children and several adults had died. All children among the emigrants had contracted dysentery from the change in water, Mr. Dubienski said, and this disease had been responsible for the deaths.

He said he knew of only three families that had returned to Manitoba because of dissatisfaction with their lot in Paraguay, where other Mennonites settled in 1926.

He identified the letter writer as Peter F. Heppner, now located at Altona, Man. Yesterday it was reported that two Mennonite families which had returned to Altona from Paraguay had claimed that more would follow because of extreme hardships and bickerings among the group.

Mr. Dubienski said yellow fever was a menace where the Mennonites had settled in Paraguay, but that conditions generally were good. He added that the Mennonites had decided to move to a new land because the elders felt too many of the young people were drifting away from the tenets of the sect. The Mennonites are descendants of Dutch families who fled centuries ago to Germany and then to Russia.

Young Seaman Let Out Of Jail

SARNIA, Nov. 18—(CP)—Eddie Rogozinski, 19-year-old Saskatoon seaman, was released from jail Wednesday by order of the secretary of state on the recommendation of Judge E. A. Shaunessy.

Rogozinski and five other members of the Canadian Seamen's Union (TLC), were sentenced here Aug. 17 on a charge of illegally boarding the Canada Steamship Lines vessel Lethbridge at nearby Point Edward. Rogozinski was sentenced to six months.

They were permitted a new trial on appeal and their sentences were confirmed Oct. 6. Judge Shaunessy, however, recommended that because of Rogozinski's youth, his sentence be remitted.

Rogozinski, Albert Jackson, Alex Black, Robert Schumacher and George MacDonald were wounded during the boarding by a shotgun blast allegedly fired by the ship's first mate. The boarding was led by Mike Hornack, CSU strike leader who was uninjured. He was sentenced to one year, the others to six months.

Controller Unlikely

OTTAWA, Nov. 18.—(CP).—Government sources said Wednesday it was "quite unlikely" that a Federal power controller would be appointed unless a joint application was made by the Ontario and Quebec governments. They were commenting on a suggestion by the Toronto city council, disturbed by the current Ontario power shortage, that a controller be appointed by the Dominion.

Walking Joe Arrives For Winter In Jail

WODSTOCK, Nov. 18.—(CP).—Oxford County residents had better get their coal ordered and their storm windows up, for Arnold (Walking Joe) Hall appeared in court today for his annual "hibernation" period in the county jail.

"Walking Joe," who lives in an old automobile body near Thamesford, has appeared in the county court here for many years just before the onslaught of winter. When he is ready to come in for winter lodgings, the police pick him up. Today he pleaded guilty to vagrancy and was fined $10 for five months by Magistrate R. G. Groom. He took the five months.

Crown Attorney Craig McKay noted with a smile that "Walking Joe" has been a very handy man around the jail in the winter.

Pays With His Life For Maid's Death

NORWICH, Norfolk, England, Nov. 18.—(AP).—Stanley Clark, 34, first murderer to be hanged in Britain since last Feb. 19, paid with his life today for killing a boarding-house chambermaid.

Clark, a pig dealer, pleaded guilty to stabbing Florence Bentley to death at Great Yarmouth.

Twenty-eight other condemned men have been reprieved since the House of Commons voted last April to suspend the death penalty for an experimental five-year period.

The no-hanging clause, part of the criminal justice bill, later was rejected by the House of Lords. The second chamber also refused to accept a compromise which would have established two degrees of murder, the first punishable by death.

Another murderer, Peter Griffiths, 22, is under sentence to be hanged tomorrow. He was convicted of the murder of the three-year-old June Devaney, who was snatched from a ward cot and battered to death on the grounds of a hospital at Blackburn.

To Leave Hospital

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP).—Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kasenkina will end a three-month stay in hospital Friday. The 53-year-old Russian school teacher has been at Roosevelt hospital since she leaped from a third-storey window of the Russian consulate Aug. 13. The hospital did not say where she would go.

Offer $1,000 Reward

PORT ARTHUR, Nov. 18.—(CP).—A. J. Linfoot, Lakehead general manager of Canada Steamship Lines, said Wednesday the company has paid a $1,000 reward offered for conviction of the man who attacked the crew of the freighter Martian here last July. He declined to confirm a report that the money was paid two Fort William members of the Canadian Lake Seamen's Union.

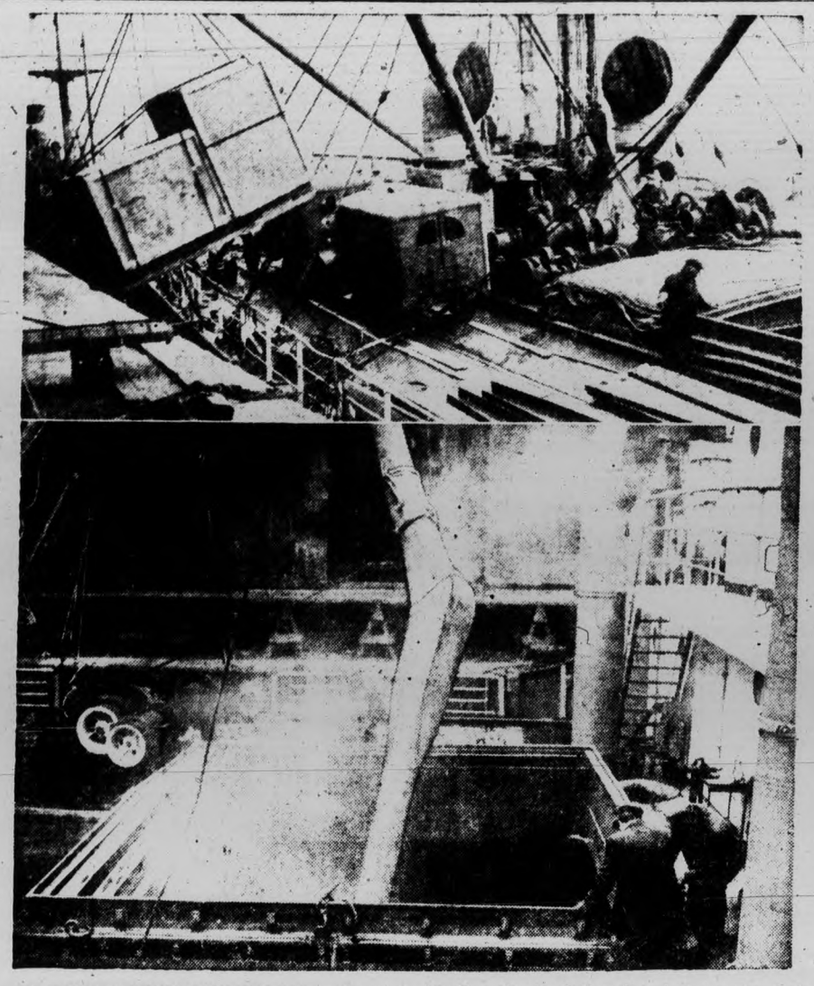
Vescio To Go To Gallows At Midnight

WINNIPEG, Nov. 18.—(CP).—Michael Angelo Vescio, 23, will mount the gallows at nearby Headingley jail some time after midnight tonight for the sex-murder of George Robert Smith more than two years ago.

Barring an unexpected last-minute reprieve, the Port Arthur youth will meet death for what police described at the time as one of "the most atrocious crimes ever committed on the North American continent . . . or elsewhere."

Vescio was convicted by an assize court jury of Smith's murder Nov. 24, 1947 with sentence to be hanged imposed by Chief Justice E. K. Williams of Court of King's Bench.



A second murder charge, in connection with the sex-slaying of another 13-year-old Winnipeg boy, Roy Ewan McGregor, Jan. 4, 1946, was not pressed.

McGregor's body was discovered in a coal bin in a south Winnipeg fuel yard, a bullet wound through the head. Police described the unknown slayer as a "sex-crazed killer" and said the boy was criminally assaulted. They also confirmed that at least four other youths were sexually mistreated within four months of the slaying.

Nine months later the story was repeated. On Sept. 18, 1946, George Robert Smith was accosted by a stranger while on his way home from a Boy Scout meeting. The next morning the boy's body was found in a back alley, shot through the head and stripped to the waist.

Brown Decides To Give Up Secretaryship

By JAMES McCOOK

LONDON, Nov. 18 (CP) — Other member of Parliament assist W. J. Brown's party title should not be "Independent" but "Very Independent."

The husky, witty, iron-willed member for Rugby has decided to quit as a parliamentary secretary of the Civil Service Clerical Association. He will remain an Independent member of parliament.

Brown's feuds with his organization over political matters became a matter of parliamentary interest last year. After disputes with association members he accused of unduly attempting to influence his work in parliament. Brown decided on a complaint to the Commons about their conduct.

Silent Member

The House awaited with interest the speech of one of its most humorous speakers. When the day came, Brown was mute. He had lost his voice due to a cold. He stood, his lips moved, no sound came and with a gesture of mock tragedy he handed his papers to another member who read his complaint.

The House Committee on Privileges after the inquiry said that the association's executive had considered in good faith that Brown's speeches and newspaper articles had affected the association interests but there was no intention to press him to change his views. The committee found there had been no breach of privilege.

But the 54-year-old Brown, who first sat as a Labor member and then changed to Independent in 1942, remained a controversial issue in the powerful association. At its 1948 conference it considered three suggestions — that Brown be dismissed, that Brown be pensioned off, that Brown be retained as long as he remained a member of parliament.

An English-speaking jury was chosen.

Several Crown witnesses testified Wednesday, including the victim's widow, and Dr. Firmin Monestime, who said that Baron's death was due to a severe fracture at the base of the skull. The case was adjourned until today when it is expected the defence case will open.

If Britain's View Had Prevailed Invasion Delayed—Eisenhower

By JOHN DAUPHINEE

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (CP). — Gen. Eisenhower, who commanded all the Western military forces in Western Europe, says that if Britain's view had prevailed the second-front invasion of France in 1944 might well have been delayed.

This is one of the many sidelights of the war in Eisenhower's book, "Crusade In Europe," which will be published Nov. 22.

The Supreme Commander says the British side accepted the necessity of invading France only with reluctance.

But while Eisenhower does not hesitate to point up difference that arose between the main Western Allies, his main theme is that his Anglo-American Supreme Headquarters worked marvellously well and that modern wars can be won only by absolute co-ordination among allies and their land, sea and air arms.

"Crusade in Europe" emphasizes throughout the determination of Eisenhower and Gen. George C. Marshall, then United States Chief of Staff and now Secretary of State, that the war should be fought with no other consideration but to end the fighting as soon as possible with the least possible loss of life.

Sough Political Ends

In contrast, Eisenhower contends that Winston Churchill sometimes tried to change military strategy to achieve post-war political advantages for the Western Allies even when (in Eisenhower's view) it might mean a longer war.

Churchill never directly advocated abandoning the Western Front but indicated that he thought it should be postponed to some unstated later date. However, Eisenhower says, Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, then Chief of the Imperial General Staff, did intimate his willingness to abandon the project in favor of a massive Mediterranean operation.

Eisenhower relates that the divergence of views on how the war should be fought continued to the end, with Churchill advocating an all-out drive on Berlin in the later stages of the war, at the expense of stopping other operations in Central Germany.

For a long time arguments have raged as to whether Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, now Field Marshal Viscount Alexander, Governor-General of Canada, or Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, now Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, was the better British general.

Alexander Better

In Eisenhower's eyes, Gen. Alexander was the better. He writes:

"I regarded Alexander as Britain's outstanding soldier in the field of strategy. He was, moreover, a friendly and agreeable type. Americans instinctively liked him."

On the role of the press in war, Eisenhower says:

"I believe that the proper attitude of the Commander toward representatives of the press was to regard them as quasi staff officers, to recognize their mission in the war, and to assist them in carrying it out. Normally, the only justifiable excuse for censorship is the necessity to withhold valuable information that the enemy could not otherwise obtain. During the war I personally violated this general rule by imposing temporary political censorship in North Africa, and by withholding advance notice of the eventual command arrangements in Normandy. Though by reasons on both occasions seemed valid to me, I never failed to regret what later proved to be a mistake."

Cockatoo's Language Shocks Air Audience

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 18. — (CP).— Melbourne radio audience got a mild shock and a laugh recently when Nelson, a nine-year-old talking cockatoo was interviewed on the air.

Nelson made his radio debut with a string of salty oaths and finished by telling the announcer to "get to hell out of the place."

Asked who taught him to swear so profoundly, Nelson shook his head and replied: "A——copper. Coppers are to blame.

(Nelson's owner, Chris Konn, said the bird had been taught to talk by a policeman).

Nelson was stolen from his home a few months ago, and when a man appeared in court charged with the offence, Nelson was brought in as an exhibit.

"Hello, Cocky," beamed the magistrate.

"Pull yer woolly head in, mug," snapped the cockatoo.

Fire Chief Warns Citizens About Gasoline

The present hydro power shortage has caused many people to use petroleum products for emergency lighting and cooking, and the Ontario fire marshal is concerned about the increased fire hazard.

To reduce this risk to a minimum local fire chiefs have been requested to strictly enforce the Gasoline Handling Act.

Gasoline and napthas used in lighting may only be sold or delivered in leak-proof metal cans, painted red, and the word "Gasoline" either written on an attached tag or printed on the can. Glass containers must not be used.

Dealers are reminded by the Department of Highways (which administers the Gasoline Handling Act) that if they fail to comply with these regulations their licences may be suspended.

Householders are warned against exposing either gasoline or lighting naphthas to any open flame or spark; and filling operations should not take place inside a building.

Fire Chief George Smith stated that five gallons is the maximum that may be stored above ground.

Service stations operators who use a gasoline motor to operate their pumps during power cut-offs are going to come under the surveillance of the fire department.

The fire marshal claims that if the gasoline motor is near the pump escaping fumes coming in contact with it might result in an explosion endangering people in the vicinity.

Chief Smith said that a motor-generator is permissible if it is placed at a safe distance from the pump.

He suggests that the operators buy a manual attachment from the manufacturer, thus eliminating the risk of fire altogether.

Nor can this problem of supply be avoided by previously filling a number of cans and other receptacles just before the power cut-off is made. Only five gallons are permitted to be kept on hand above ground.

Chief Smith says that service stations will be checked to see that they are not unnecessarily adding to the fire hazard.

MONTREAL POLICE DIRECTOR, Albert Langlois, MBS, left, presenting to Cons. Jean Paul Dupont, centre, and Cons. Albert Tremblay, traffic patrolmen, two cheques the Montreal Executive Committee voted them in recognition of their work in the capture of Noel Cloutier, alleged police killer, cornered in an alley after an 80-mile-an-hour automobile chase through Montreal streets. Director Langlois said it was "a small gift as a token of the city's appreciation rather than a fitting compensation for the work done."

Crosby Anxious Sons Attend College First

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLWOOD, Nov. 18 (AP). — Bing Crosby's kids may follow in their fabulous father's footsteps, but they'll have to finish college first.

Bing said his sons seem to be developing talent, although it's too early to tell if any of the lads will have a voice like their Pop's. Bing seems to approve of show business careers for them, but he wants them to get college educations.

Bing has had a pretty easy year. He vacationed the whole summer and just recently started his first 1948 film, "Top O' The Morning." He indicated his pace next year will be almost as leisurely.

"I'll probably make one picture in the Spring and another in the Fall," said Bing, who has averaged about three a year.

His next has been announced as a musical version of "Boardway Bill," the old Warner Baxter film. It apparently will mark the start of Bing's new contract, which he and Paramount have been discussing for a year. The crooner said the terms have just about been agreed upon.

Having lately heard some "Boo-Boo-Boo" Crosby records, I wondered if his style of singing hasn't changed with the times.

"Well," answered Bing, who is never one to stir up a controversy, "if my style has changed, it hasn't been intentional."

Bigamy Rife In Germany As Widows Remarry Fast

BY RUTH MAISTRE

BERLIN, Nov. 18 (AP)—Thousand of Germans live today in bigomy without knowing it.

This is what happens:

A woman has not seen her husband for several years. Maybe he was killed or captured. Perhaps he is held by the Russians. She has not heard from or about him. Enough time has gone by for her to presume the man is dead.

The wife goes to a tribunal, declares that her husband is dead and gets a judgment. This is where the trouble starts. Under the law, the judgment must be published in a daily paper. Once that is done and a month has gone by, the woman may marry again.

Seems simple, doesn't is? Judge Erich Schubart of a Berlin court says it isn't.

Too many people are unaware of the strict technicality of the published ell;A cmfwy cmfwy cm law. As a result they insert their advertisments in the only newspaper they know about. In villages it's usually a weekly That is not good enough. Moreover, many fail to wait the necessary month.

This wouldn't matter much except that many Germans lately have been showing up after they are supposed to be dead. Then the fat is in the fire.

Schubart illustrates with the story of a woman whose husband had been missing since October 1943. There was testimony of friends who had last seen him wounded on a battlefield. On the strength of this evidence the man was declared dead in July 1947. Papers shortage and a backlog of advertisements made it impossible to publish this fact before Dec. 1, 1947.

Husband Re-Appeared

Meanwhile, the widow, engaged to be remarried, decided Christmas Day would be a good day for the wedding. Everything went off fine. The registrar saw the death declaration and was satisfied. But four months later, the missing husband re-appeared from a prisoner of war camp. He went to a lawyer. The lawyer found that the second marriage took place a week before the legal deadline and his client had a clear suit for bigamy.

Schubart, who is writing a book on the subject, says many persons who have been declared dead in the last 10 years—there have been more than 50,000 in Germany—are coming back alive.

If these people find their spouses married within the boundaries of the law there is not much they can do except claim their property. The second marriage is valid unless the supposed widow herself wants to go back to her first husband. Her second marriage can be annulled, but she then may not marry anyone except her first husband.

Judge Schubart says that women whose husbands are prisoners in Russia or interned in Soviet camps in the Soviet zone of Germany are in for many years The Russians are opposed to circulating lists of prisoners and are chary of disclosing deaths.

The "unconfirmed" widows" have the toughest break of all. Those who are caught in bigamy are not punished because German judges are sympathetic with their dilemma. But there is nobody or nothing to help the woman who sits and waits.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: My hobby is collecting and trying out new recipes, but I have never come across "Citron Marmalade", although I have only tasted it once it is delicious.

I tried cooking it with sugar and it made the citron tough. Then I tried it again, this time boiling the fruit first, but that took all the flavour out of it, so now I do not know what to do. Please help me before the citron is off the market. Thank you for other good dishes. Mrs. W.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER:

Citron Marmalade

Two quarts diced pared citron (6 lbs.), 5¼ cups sugar, 4¼ cups water, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespon lemon rind grated, and 2 tablespoons diced crystallized ginger are optional. Cut the melon in quarters to prepare it, then pare, dice it, and remove all seeds. Cook the sugar and water together for 5 minutes; add the raw diced citron, and cook until tender and transarent. Add the lemon juice, rind and ginger and cook 20 minutes longer. Turn into sterile jars and seal. You may add a piece of stick cinnamon or cassia buns to the syrup while the citron is cooking if desired. The mixture of lemon, ginger and cinnamon is very pleasant with a product as bland as citron.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: We have far more cabbages this year than we can use before they spoil, and I would appreciate a recipe for making sauerkraut like you buy in tins. As I have a machine to can, using tins, I would be very glad to know any directions for canning sauerkraut. What you buy does not seem to be cooked, and I wondered if it were just packed in sterile cans and sealed. Hoping you will be able to help me.

Mrs. E. J. A.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Sauerkraut is raw cabbage fermented by the addition of salt and storing in wooden containers. The shredded and fermented cabbage, if it is to be canned, is given a quick heat-up in boiling brine, immediately filled into tins, sealed, and processed in boiling water (not under steam pressure). See details below.

Homemade Sauerkraut

Sifted sound fresh cabbages, preferably large ones, on a sauerkraut shredder, in 1-32-inch shreds; long paper thin shreds from large sound cabbages are desirable—the shred must be paper thin to facilitate fermentation. Weigh. To every 25 lbs. shredded cabbage you must use from one-half to three-quarters lb. salt. Spread the cabbage in a clean, waterproof wooden tub or barrel in about 1 inch layers, sprinkling a little salt over each layer, and having salt on top. Weight down with a cover that fits just inside top of tub or barrel, and weight this down with a clean heavy stone, to keep the cabbage submerged beneath the brine which forms in a short time. Store at 86 deg. Fahr. and fermentation will be complete in about 1 month—or, if temperature is constantly 86 deg. Fahr.—less time. It is now ready to eat if kept cool, or may be canned.

To can sauerkraut heat it in fresh brine in small quantities to heat it fast—that is make a brine of 2 quarts water and ½ cup salt, bring to boiling, add sauerkraut to just fill kettle, bring to boil, skim out kraut and fill cans ⅞ full without packing—just knock each can on table—fill to exactly ¼-inch from top of tin with additional brine, made same as heating brine, seam on can seaming machine. Process No. 2 tins (20-oz.) in boiling water for 20 minutes. Cool in cold water bath, and dry cans.

I hope this method is satisfactory for your purpose.

DOROTHY DIX

Girl Warned Not to Wed Suitor Who is Lazy Fellow

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am going with a fellow I like very much. The only thing wrong with him is that he will not work. His father has warned him time and again that if he doesn't get a job soon he will be put out of the house, but he gives no heed to the warning. I have tried to get him various jobs, but no soap. I have told him that I will quit going around with him, but he makes no effort to find work.

Dorothy Dix

I would hate to break up with him, but I may have to do it. Do you think I should do so, or should I continue trying to help him? I leave the matter in your hands.

PUZZLED

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Well, if you leave the matter in my hands, you will bow him out of the door and slam it behind him so quickly he will think the atomic bomb has struck him. For laziness is the most incurable of all vices. It isn't just a weakness that can possibly be cured. It is a fault that goes to the bone.

Lacks Self-Respect

Any able-bodied man who sits down on the do-nothing stool and lets other people work and support him, is lacking in every quality of self-respect and decency that makes a man a man. My earnest advice to you is to rid yourself of this deadbeat before your liking turns to loving. Don't be foolish enough to think that you can change him and that, when he is married and has a wife to support and children to take care of, he will be galvanized into action. He never will. He will just lie down and let you work your fingers to the bone to feed and clothe him and provide him with drink money.

No woman wishes a harder lot on herself than the one who marries one of these I. W. W.'s who was born so tired that he never can get rested.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am engaged to a sailor who says he loves me and wants to marry me sometime, but every time I start talking about the wedding he changes the subject; and when I try to make him name the day, he puts it off and says he doesn't want to be fenced in. So sometimes I think that maybe he won't make me a very good husband.

Now I have told him that he has got to marry me now, for I am not going to wait any longer. What should I do?

DESPIRITED

ANSWER: Surely you are not so dumb that you don't realize that your sailor's love talk is just so much malarkey and that it doesn't mean a thing in the world, and that he hasn't the slightest intention of ever marrying you. And that is your good luck, for a man who has to be forced into marriage make a husband who does not even treat his wife with common decency, and who makes her life miserable.

You are making a great mistake in not letting him go and looking out for some chap who will want you and think he is the luckiest man in the world in getting you for a wife.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I married at the age of 20. My wife and I lived very happily together until I went into the army. We have three little girls whom I am very fond. While I was in the army, I provided a very good income for the support of my wife and children; but when I returned home last year I found a stranger there, as many of us servicemen have, and I had to divorce my wife and place my children in an orphanage, where they seem very happy.

I now have met a nice girl with whom I have fallen in love and whom I would like to marry, but my ex-wife wants me to remarry her and build a home for her and the children. What would you advise? Must I call in the law to help me, or blow my ex-wife's brains out?

EX-SERVICEMAN

ANSWER: Whether you remarry your faithless ex-wife or not is, of course, something that you alone can decide. But, for heaven's sake, don't make a bad matter worse by murdering her, as so many grief-crazed husbands do when they find their wives have betrayed them.

You can't wash out the memory of the wrong your wife has done you in blood. And surely your poor little children have had enough misfortune in having such a mother to be entitled to have a father they can love and respect instead of one who is serving out a sentence for manslaughter.

One-Burner Dinner

Canned Cherries Jellied Bakery Cup Cakes Coffee

Directions:

Boil the shin beef for at least 4 hours at very low simmering point, adding 1 or 2 bay leaves, plenty of salt and pepper; add the vegetables about 40 minutes before serving time.

For the Baked Apple Special mix 3 tablespoons sugar with 1 teaspoon cornstarch and use this to fill centre when core is removed. Place on baking dish, pour around about 1 cup boiling water (for 4 apples) and bake in very hot oven until apples fluff out and crack at top. Cinnamon or nutmeg may be added.

Mix 1 can each lima beans and kernel corn and add 1 teaspoon each cornstarch and sugar mixed together. Cover with layer of raw sausage meat. Bake at 300 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. Fast and delicious.

When you add cabbage or sprouts to the liquid from boiling corned beef, be sure to cook without a lid on—the unpleasant odours and taste dissipate into the air, and can be smothered with an air wick.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, November 19

While there may be a disconcerting and menacing turn of events to block the wheels of progress, or to upset cherished plans and projects, yet there is nothing of such tenacious character that may not be dissolved or solved by an unshakable determination and honest work. Also any inclination to splurge, show off, extravagance in funds or conduct, should be curbed if loss and disappointment are to be side-stepped.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find a situation of upset plans and purposes, with need for sharp revision or new techniques or objectives. A sturdy resistance to any upheaval, supported by shrewd tactics and sound insight into underlying principles, could mend broken fences. Rash, impulsive or arrogant conduct could penalize sustained loss and regrets. Exaggeration, excesses and bombast in home or business could disrupt plans.

A child born on this day might be predisposed to extravagance, indulgence, turbulence and self-detriment, with loss and sorrow, although having many sterling qualities and sound principles to fall back on in a crisis.

"Confidentially I owe a lot of my oomph to Libby's"

The upsets which often accompany baby's first solid foods are caused by the fact that baby's immature digestive system cannot completely digest coarse fibres and the cellulose walls of food cells. Even the most careful straining does not break them down.

But Libby's patented homogenization process pulverizes them before the process of digestion begins so that baby's digestive juices can immediately act on the liberated nourishment.

As a result, baby can digest Libby's quickly and completely. He gets more nourishment than from the same amount of food which has been strained but not homogenized, and with less risk of digestive disturbance.

Lotta Dempsey Wins CWPC Memorial Award

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 — (CP) — Lotta Dempsey, Toronto magazine writer, today was announced winner of the Memorial award of the Canadian Women's Press Club.

Given annually for outstanding work by a Canadian woman writer, the award carries with it $100 and a gold medal. It was given this year for the best handling of a news event or public issue of significance.

Miss Dempsey's winning article "We the People versus the Sex Criminal," was published last January in Chatelaine magazine.

Dealing with the activities of sex perverts and their crimes involving young children, it was commended by the judges "as evidence of a rising intelligence in the Dominion that a woman's magazine should be able to deal with such a problem so frankly and efficiently."

Runner-up for the Memorial award was Eva-Lis Wuorio of Toronto, an assistant editor of Maclean's magazine, for her article, "They Can't Go Back," a sketch of the arrival of "DPs" to Canada, published in Maclean's.

St.George'sGuild Sales High With Many Added Features

Sumptuous plate lunches served by the Afternoon Guild of St. George's Anglican Church at their annual fall sale were just as good as they looked Wednesday afternoon. Business people who crowd the uptown eating places at the noon hour would have gladly paid several times the price they asked for such delicious food. Guests who came early just took afternoon tea, but all made a visit to the tea-cup reader's table to find out what those trickly little leaves foretold.

Quartette tables with dainty tea cloths were set in the church basement and attended by Mrs. G. Brooks, Mrs. J. Douglas, Mrs. R. Millen, Mrs. I. Harrison, Mrs. F. Edwards, Mrs. D. McIntosh, Mrs. E. McIlwain, Mrs A. Green, Mrs. C. Wilson and Mrs. T. Hawkins who was convener of the refreshments.

Mrs. F. Dorrell, president of the Guild, and Mrs. W. Firth have been in charge of the club cards and ordered goods that was distributed during the afternoon. The sales this year reached a total well over $1,000 and profits will go to the treasury. In addition there was a quantity of beautiful towels for sale by Mrs. W. Farr, embroidered pillow cases, some with crocheted edges, attended by Mrs. S. Parks, Jr., and attractive print aprons and fancywork in charge of Mrs. A. Hawarth.

Taffy apples, made up by Mrs. Leslie Moore, were very popular with younger residents in the vicinity and supplies disappeared fast. There was also home-made candy where Mrs. C. Blackburn was saleslady.

A bountiful supply of home-prepared cakes, pies, cookies, jellies, preserves and some canned goods was on hand for the opening hour but quickly dwindled as Mrs C. Robinson and Mrs E. Coke filled the custmer's requirements.

Mrs R. Pilling was in charge of a "name the doll" contest that proved popular. She had dressed dolls in knitted garments, a little boy in red suit and cap and a little girl in turquoise. The hidden names were opened at close of the tea, the former's being Harry with Mrs. Harry Hele, 753 Young St., the winner, and the latter's Pamela, the choice of Mrs. E. C. Moore.

Tickets on a woollen blanket were in charge of Mrs. J. Huxley and the winner of this was Mr. Don Faulkner, of Kinmount.

Receiving were the president and convener, Mrs. F. Dorrell, assisted by Mrs. E. C. Moore.

presidents of the various associations hand in suggestions so she may take constructive word to the Board meeting.

Mrs. E. W. K. Harris, guest speaker, gave general explanation of the schools. She said the Board of Education is a public gathering and everyone welcome to attend. "Our first important dealing with youth of the community is worthy of nothing but the best because we are dealing with the most precious thing in life—our children."

HOME AND SCHOOL COUNCIL

Mrs. A. W. Nelson, president, was in charge of the regular meeting of Home and School Council held in the YWCA Wednesday evening. She urged attendance during Education Week at open school and study of writings and broadcasts. She continued to say "By having Royal Canadian Mounted Police visit the schools we are taking a right step toward preventing juvenile delinquency. We might keep in mind education does not mean teaching people what they do not know. It means teaching them to behave. It is not teaching the youth shapes of the letters and tricks of numbers and then leaving them to turn their arithmetic to roguery and their literature to lust."

"It means, on the contrary, training them into perfect exercise and kingly countenance of painful, continual and difficult work to be done by kindness, watching, warning precepts and by praise, but above all by example. It is easy to begin well and so easy to get discouraged when efforts do not at once accomplish what we want. The difficulty is to get steadily on in spite of obstacles, small and great, until they all vanish in joy of success."

Mrs. E. Chambers, district chairman of the Ontario Federation, led an open discussion of suggestions for conventions and regional conferences. It is her wish to have

Noodle Making at Home Is Not Difficult Task

By MARY MOORE

Before I settle down to devoting this space every week to pre-Christmas baking plans, I want to tell my venturesome cooking audience my noodle-making experience.

Some of our readers with genuine skill in German cookery, will grin at my enthusiasm, for noodle-making is an old, old story to them; and splendid noodles can be bought in packages. However, it is less expensive to make them.

Many of you remember my references to my friend Garny. She is a third generation German-american, whose great-grandfather emigrated to United States to avoid the military training in Germany—which even in 1848 was compulsory.

Garny's Noodles

Beat 2 eggs in bowl (or use 4 yolks) and enough flour to make it into a stiff paste that may be rolled out without too much of a struggle. Add just enough yellow colouring to give them a bright creamy shade. Divide dough into halves. Roll out on well floured very large board (or table) until it is paper thin—the old German legend has it that noodles to be properly made must be rolled so thin that you can read the newspaper through them (on which they were rolled out!)

Keep the dough well sprinkled with flour for it must not stick to board or rolling pin. Roll up very tightly like a long slim jelly roll—then with very sharp knife cut it through as thinly as possible in 1-16 to 3-32 inch width slices. Unroll all these hundreds of little pinwheels and spread around on large platter or floured brown paper, to dry out.

What we did was boil them in the liquid left from boiling a shin of beef and served them with the beef which was cut into pieces for serving. Some may be done with boiled chicken. There are dozens of ways of using noodles, such as vegetable soup, beef soup, chicken soup; all of the dishes calling for macaroni or spaghetti; baked in a ring to serve around creamed chicken or veal or ham—but for this latter dish the noodles must first be parboiled.

We liked the whole process because the entire family "spelled" Garny in the rolling, and fine cutting and unrolling. It was as much fun as a popcorn bee.

The pay-off came last night when we had boiled shin beef flavoured with bay leaves (2), a little nutmeg and lots of salt and black pepper; noodles boiled in the beef liquid 20 minutes; broiled crumbed tomatoes (This arrangement was gorgeous—good enough to photograph for a colour advertisement — on my silver platter, with the pieces of boiled beef in the centre surrounded with the noodles; the side borders were the broiled, crumbed tomatoes; the end borders were pieces of boiled cauliflower garnished with chopped parsley.)

Dessert was apple tapioca with brown sugar hard sauce.

Doesnt it make you hungry? Try it once and you will add this new dish to your cooking repertory as I did.

DAGUERREOTYPE PORTRAIT—The lady is Bette Davis, and looking very handsome, too, in this period frock of shepherd check wool, complete with fringed and velvet-bound stole. The dickey is velvet, too, and we admire Miss Davis' strength of mind in not fastening a hair brooch or a coral breastplate onto it in place of the big Russian pin she chose, as too much quaintness makes a mess of a picture dress. The skirt is very wide and graceful, but it hangs in a straight line and is slim at the waistline; a white pique dickey is alternate choice.

Abbott Warns Canada Export More To U.S.

BOSTON, Nov. 18 — (CP). — Finance Minister Abbott said frankly today Canada is faced with the alternatives of raising her exports to or cutting her imports from the United States.

He told the governors' session of the New England Council the Dominion's exchange conservation program "has been singularly successful insofar as we ourselves have been able to go."

But, he added in a prepared address, "it would be misleading to exaggerate the significance of our improved position" in the dollar shortage.

To the extent improvement was due to more exports, it signified initial success of a long-term program. To the extent, however, that it was due to restriction of imports and ERP there was no lasting significance.

"We must make a great deal more headway in the expansionist part of our program before we can be confident that we are really out of the woods," he said.

"We can no longer afford to do business with the US on the basis of $2 of imports for every $1 of exports. We must achieve a much closer balance in our trade with this country."

Canada needed American help in enlarging her markets.

"Too often we find that the tariff structure of your country makes it difficult, often impossible, for our goods to flow into the US market. At times this is due to the nature of your customs administration rather than to the tariff itself, although generally your tariff is much more protective than ours."

Great Vitality of Church Shown At World Council

Formation of the World Council of Churches in Amsterdam this year compares "favorably with any world meeting of churches at any time in history," was the estimate of one of Canada's official delegates to that gathering. He is Rev. Dr. C. M. Nicholson, Principal of Pine Hill Divinity Hall, Halifax. He was guest speaker to a meeting of more than 600 persons in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Wednesday night. The talk was under the auspices of the Peterborough Ministerial Association.

"It was a world council in a way in which no other meeting could consider itself," he said. Representatives of 42 churches, from 150 national groupings, were at the council.

"Those at Amsterdam were impressed with the great vitality of the church.... we could see her world interests and the witness of her servants. We who were there can never be pessimistic about the future of the Church," said Dr. Nicholson.

He said that he was "much moved by the strength of the young churches—those developed by mission fields in such countries as India, Africa, China." He paid tribute to the missionaries whose labors had built these new branches of faith. Much of the spirit behind them, he said, was also due to the "ordinary men and women in all churches by whose missionary enthusiasm these new churches were made possible."

The World Council presented danger of a loss of our faith, he said.

"All at Amsterdam re-affirmed their faith in Jesus Christ as Saviour and God."

The Council, he said, does not infringe on the authority of any church: "It is not a sort of super-church." He defined the World Council of Churches as a "working organization of independent churches."

The problem facing the church, her leaders and her members today is: how can the Gospel be made effective for our generation and culture? Dr. Nicholson said that Amsterdam provided one of the answers:

"It was a challenge to the whole membership of all churches to bear witness to Christ in their various vocations." Enlarging on this, he said that all men and women are urged to "conduct their daily work as a pursuit in the sense of being servants of God."

To aid in that world-wide drive, he said that all should speak well of their church and endeavor to support it as much as possible.

"Invest some part of your life for the church—its dividends will be not only for yourself," he told his audience.

In conclusion, he said: "We should all strive every day to live in a way which will not dishonor the church that has nourished us. But, by our example, let us try to help others to believe in the church and in the Lord of the church."

Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's was in charge of the order of service at the meeting. Rev. Ivan C. Morgan of Murray St. Baptist church, president of the Ministerial Association, read the lesson. Prayers were offered by Archdeacon Balfour. Dr. Nicholson was introduced by Rev. Dr. Bruce Gordon of Trinity United. Mr. Boyd expressed the thanks of the audience for the address.

Hard Tack To Go?

LONDON (CP)—Ship's biscuits, the "hard tack" of the Royal Navy and merchant ships, are likely to be replaced in favor of canned bread. The Admiralty has been experimenting with tinned bread for use in submarines and small ships which have no bakeries.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

IT HINGES ON READING

EVERY ITEM deduced from your reading of the opponents' hands may be wrong except some one vital detail. But if that is correct, it is all you require to make your plan work in some situations. This is especially so in the case of certain fairly complex squeeze plays. It applies in most interesting fashion to some of the devastating double squeezes built by skillful declarers.

West followed his scoring of the club A with a switch to the diamond 2, and South went to work at his card reading. He decided that, if West had not held the club Q, he would have repeated the suit in order to help establish it for East—hence West had it.

South's thinking then followed orderly lines. With eleven tricks in sight and no club to lead for a finesse of the J, he had to build a squeeze. Suppose he played so as to have in dummy the diamond A-8 and club J when he led the last heart, also having in his own holding the spade J and diamond 3. In that case, if West be the only one able to guard against diamonds, he would be squeezed between diamonds and the club. If East be the only one able to safeguard both diamonds and spades, he could be squeezed. Even if both could guard diamonds, they would be sunk by a double squeeze in case East protected spades and West clubs.

So South put the diamond 10 on the 2, bringing out the Q and K. Then he raked in the club K, five more hearts and the spade A. So when the last heart was now led, his double squeeze worked. West had to keep the club Q to top the J, so discarded a diamond from the J-5. The club J was then tossed from dummy, and East was squeezed. If he threw away the spade K, the J would become good, so he picked a diamond from the 9-7. That enabled the diamond 3 to the A to drop both the J and 9 and make the 8 good for the final trick.

Alleged Painting Of Shakespeare Causes Uproar

LONDON, Nov. 18—(Reuters)—Playwright Clifford Bax has appealed for a respite from the flood of "pilgrims" and curiosity-seekers who have besieged his home since he claimed he found out how William Shakespeare really looked.

Every mail brings a shower of letters—many of them argumentative missives from people who believe that Sir Francis Bacon wrote the Shakespeare plays.

The picture of Shakespeare is the centre of a controversy between art experts and Shakespearean scholars.

Bax bought the painting for £80 ($320) from an Italian priest. On the back of the canvas is an elegant inscription in archaic Italian claiming that the portrait represents "the great English poet Gulielmo Scespirio," that it was painted by Franz Hals and given to the monastery of Santo Gregorio by the Earl of Nithsdale before he died in 1744.

Records Lost

Inquiries made at the monastery yielded no information, most of the records having disappeared.

Art experts have decided that the painter was not Franz Hals but belonged to the school of Van Dyke, contemporary with Shakespeare.

The portrait, about three feet by two, shows an old man with straggling silvery hair and the look of tormented genius on his face. He holds a goose quill poised above a manuscript.

The bone structure of the face and certain definite characteristics, such as a strangely uplifted nostril, are identical with the woodcut which forms the frontispiece to the first folio of Shakespeare's plays and is acknowledged as a genuine likeness of the poet as a young man.

Many Shakespearean scholars are convinced that the man in the painting is the famous Bard. Art experts will not commit themselves.

Suggest Buying Police Wagon For Prisoners

It may not be long before the Black Maria will be seen on the streets of Peterborough. The police department has never had one of these van-like vehicles to convey prisoners from the scene of the arrest to the police station. A suggestion of City Clerk A. E. Outram to the Police Commission on Tuesday was that the question of purchasing one be considered by the city. Information on the experience of other cities and the cost will be obtained and considered.

At present, the prisoners are transported in two police cars, which are standard type automobiles. Mr. Outram said that, from police experience here, this can make a messy looking car for any department. Bringing in drunks and the like sometimes makes it unpleasant for "normal" passengers using the cars after. Chief Constable John Thompson agreed.

It was also mention that the Black Maria removes the danger ruly prisoners. With his charges safely locked in the back of the to the police officer driving unwagon, the driver does not have to worry about an unexpected clout on the head or a scuffle. Mr. Outram mentioned an incident within the past week in which provincial police in the district had to cope with a belligerent prisoner in the back seat of a cruiser.

Busses Change Terminal Stop

George St. busses are again stopping on the near-side of Simcoe St. They returned to that practice today. South bound busses stop in front of Zeller's, and north bound in front of Dominion Bank. They do not cross Simcoe St. for the terminal stop.

The public is being advised today that the other busses will use the north side of Simcoe St., between Water and George St. They stop there and depart from that place. Their order of taking-off indicates also their order of lining-up on arrival—Jackson Park, Nicholls Park, Byersville, Monaghan Road south, Charlotte St. west.

Only the George St. buses stop on George St. That is a simple arrangement and is readily remembered.

Sending Candles To Help Toronto

All the grousing about power cut-offs throughout the province is an alien subject to Peterborough. People of Peterborough are actually sending candles to relatives and friends in Toronto, where the gloom is the deepest and where cooperation with the power authorities is a sentiment they apparently do not understand.

That is a brief preface to the fact that Peterborough ran over its power quota Tuesday, 234,000 kwh. The minimum allowed is 229,700. Average for the first two days was 212,000, leaving Peterborough still on the right side of the register.

These are dull days and the tendency will be to turn on lights in homes and offices, etc. Too much of that and the Hydro will step in and turn them off. The local daily average for last week was 216,400 kwh, Monday to Friday inclusive, as compared with 295,200 for the midweek of September. This figure has been steadily reduced. Two weeks ago it was 224,800, and last week was a new low.

Painter Forced To Quit With Bad Rheumatic Pain

Had To Give Up Work Says This Man. Joints Sore and Painful, Muscles of Leg Felt Tied In a Knot. Tells How Syntona Helped Him.

Mr. Carl Kett, 198 East avenue north, Hamilton, Ontario, is glad to pass his experience along to others, because he knows what it means to get relief from severe rheumatic pains that caused irritated nerves and many sleepless nights, as well as loss of earning power through his inability to work.

"During the past year I suffered with violent attacks of rheumatic pains," said Mr. Kett. "My joints were sore and my left leg got so painful and so swollen I couldn't stand on it. I had to quit work and stay in bed most of the time. The muscles of my leg would get into a knot as big as my fist and cause excruciating pain. I wasn't getting much rest and my nerves were pretty bad.

"A few weeks ago I read in the paper about another man who had suffered almost the same way and he told how Syntona had helped him. So I decided to get some and I'm certainly glad I did. In fact, the first bottle made a big difference in me. I kept on taking it and now the pains, soreness and swelling are gone. I can use my leg again and there is no sign of the old trouble. I am back at my trade as a painter and have been working steadily ever since."

MR. CARL KETT

Syntona acts on the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels. It is made from the pure liquid extracts of 12 of Nature's finest plants. It aids in eliminating excess acids and impurities from the system and promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)
